BRIEF MEMOIRS AND NOTICES OF PRINCE'S SUBSCRIBERS.

Compiled by Miss EMMA F. WARE, of Milton, Mass.

IN a list of the subscribers to "Prince's Chronology" (REGISTER, vol. vi., page 196), appears this item: "Middleton, Mr. Alexander, Merchant (for two.)."

Alexander Middleton, Jr., belonged to a family prominent for many generations in Aberdeenshire and Kincardineshire. His grandfather's grandfather, Robert Middleton, of Cauldhame ("Caddam"), was killed while sitting in his armchair in his own house by Montrose's soldiers. The son of Robert of Cauldhame, Rev. Alexander Middleton, D.D., graduated at King's College, Aberdeen, in 1630, and was made sub-principal of the college in 1641. He married in 1643 "contrary to the foundation of the college, for he was the first regent that entered into a marriage condition in this college." ("Sketches of Early Scotch History," Cosmo Innes, p. 304.) Removed by Cromwell, he was at the Restoration made Principal, and held the place until his resignation owing to old age and infirmities in 1684; he died two years later. "In his time the college flourished, as he caused good order to be kept therein." (Biscoe, Earls of Middleton, p. 123.) Principal Alexander's brother was the famous Maj.-Gen. John Middleton (created Earl of Middleton by Charles II.) who was so prominent on both sides in the troubles of the time, and is so often mentioned in the annals and histories of the period (Pepys's Diary, Burnet's History of His Own Time, etc.) His son Charles, second Earl, was one of James II.'s chief counsellors during his exile at St. Germain. (Biscoe, Earls of Middleton.)

Principal Alexander was succeeded by his son George Middleton, D.D., Dean of the Diocese of Aberdeen, who held the office of Principal until 1717, and died in 1726. Principal George's son, Alexander Middleton, Sr., was "Comptroller of Customs" at Aberdeen, and in 1705 married, Elspeth Burnet, of what family is not known. It was on the farm of A. Middleton, Sr., that the celebrated astronomer, James Ferguson, served as shepherd boy, and while watching his master's sheep studied the stars and made diagrams of the constellations, as described in his autobiography. When he was somewhat older, Ferguson drew many portraits of his neighbors (see Memoir), and in the possession of the descendants of Alexander Middleton in this country are still preserved portraits of A. Middleton, Sr., his wife, his two daughters, and his son A. Middleton, Jr., drawn by the astronomer. These portraits were probably made about 1733, and therefore just before A. Middleton, Jr., left Scotland, for his marriage to Ann Todd took place in Boston in November, 1735. He died in August, 1750, and his widow two years afterwards married David Fick, foreman in Mr. James Smith's sugar refinery in Brattle street. It is supposed to have been on account of this marriage that the surviving daughters were adopted by Mr. Smith and his wife (who was their mother's sister), and were brought up at Mr. Smith's place on Brush Hill, Milton. Of the five Middleton sisters, two (Helen and Diana) died unmarried; Prudence married Dr. Joseph Whipple, surgeon in Paul Revere's regiment, and left no descendants; Ann married Rufus Bent, of Milton, and was the mother, among other children, of Miss Ann Bent, well known to the last generation of Boston ladies (Teele's History of Milton, p. 536), and of Mrs. Charles Barnard, the mother of Rev. C. F. Barnard,* late of the Warren Street Chapel, James M. Barnard and George M. Barnard.

The eldest daughter, Mary, married James Lovell, son and assistant of Master John Lovell of the Boston Latin School. Though the Master was a Tory, his son was a "rebel," and during the siege of Boston kept his absent friends informed of the doings of the enemy within the town. A letter found in the pocket of Gen. Warren after the battle of Bunker Hill led to James Lovell's arrest and imprisonment in Boston jail for nine months until the Evacuation (diary of John Leach, REG., vol. 19, p. 255), when he was taken to Halifax (it is said in irons), in the same vessel which carried his father as a refugee. While in Halifax, James Lovell shared the prison of Ethan Allen. He was exchanged in November, 1776, for Gen. Skene, and on his return to his native town was sent to Congress by his grateful fellow-citizens. He was Chairman of the Committee of Foreign Affairs during the war, and on the return of peace filled the office of Collector of the Port until 1789, and of Naval Officer until his death in 1814. He had several sons who left descendants (one of whom, Joseph, was Surgeon General of the United States), and one daughter, Mary, who married Mark Pickard, an Englishman. Their only child, Mary Lovell Pickard, married Rev. Henry Ware, Jr., and died in 1849.

Master Lovell died in Halifax, but his youngest son Benjamin, II. C. 1774, settled in England, and became rector of Ash in Surrey. One of Master Lovell's daughters married in Boston a Hessian Baron. Another (or perhaps the same daughter), by her beauty so turned the head of the young ordnance officer, Col. Cleveland, that he neglected his duty of supplying suitable ammunition for the British guns, thereby perhaps rendering the victory at Bunker Hill less complete than it might otherwise have been.

HENRY ANDREWS OF TAUNTON AND THE CALVES PASTURE.

A critical contribution by ALMON D. HODGES, JR.

THIS article was written at the suggestion of Hon. Josiah H. Drummond, who published in the REGISTER of October, 1897 (vol. li., pp. 453-459), a paper on Henry Andrews, to which this may be considered supplementary. Many of the facts here stated were furnished by Mr. Drummond. The deeds which help to determine the location of the Calves Pasture, and which disclose the hitherto unknown history of Abigail, daughter of Henry Andrews, with other data, were contributed by Mr. Isaac W. Wilcox of Taunton.

- vi. MEHITABLE³ ANDREWS, b. prob. 1671 or thereabouts, Taunton [10]; d. ———; m. 1694, Dec. 20–30, Taunton, SAMUEL RICHMOND of Taunton [20], son of John and Abigail (Rogers) Richmond [17].

The Calves Pasture.

Henry¹ Andrews built the first meeting house in Taunton, receiving from the town in payment a parcel of land, conveyed by deed, dated 11 day 2 mo. 1647, recorded in Plymouth Colony Deeds, ii: 1: 57, in the Registry of Deeds at Plymouth, and thus described:

"A certaine pcell or necke of Land apptaining unto the Inhabitants of Taunton aforsaid called by the said Inhabitants theire calves pasture ... ly-ing and being bounded by the great River from the land of Richard Williams Inhabitant of Taunton heading It the said necke at the upper corner therof; and the land of Gorge hall, Inhabitant of Taunton heading It at the lower corner therof or neere unto It is graunted and sold by the Inhabitants of Taunton aforsaid unto him the aforsaid Henery Andrewes in Leiu of a meeting house build by him It is further promised by the Inhabitants aforsaid that this said pcell or necke of land shall not be Rated by the towne aforsaid ..."

This parcel of land is thus described, in "a Record of the Lands of Henry Andrews of Taunton," in Plymouth Colony Deeds, ii: 1: 59:—

"A farme of meddow and upland graunted by the towne att a place called by the Indians Squabbonansett [later Squawbetty or East Taunton] about the space of five miles up the great River [Taunton River] on the east side of the towne lying on the Square* which said Square is to begin att a certaine little brooke on the East side of the said ffarme; unto which said ffarme doth appertaine all the meddow lying on the said brooke; the length of the said Square to bee from the great River att the aforesaid brooke up to the antient Iland path and soe the line from thence Downe to the next little brooke† which boundeth it on the west side of the said ffarme. It containes by estimacon Two hundred acres bee it more or lesse."

In the will of Henry¹ Andrews [Plym. Col. Wills, i: 1: 116] and in his inventory [id. i: 1: 117] there is only one lot of land mentioned which could have been the Calves Pasture or Neck of Land. This (described in the inventory as "a certaine quantity of land called Squobinansett containing 200 acres," and in the will as "a certaine peece of land called the necke of land") was bequeathed "equally unto my daughter Sarah and to my daughter Abigaill." Sarah² Andrews married Jared Talbut in 1664, and Abigail² Andrews married Dea. John Wadsworth in 1667.

Apparently Philip King became the owner of at least one half of the Calves Pasture; for on July 20, 1683, Jared Talbut of Taunton and Sarah his wife sold to Philip King of Weymouth:—(a) a "Necke of land" in Taunton, 60 acres, bounded North by John Hall, Walter Deane and Nathaniel Williams, and "East, West and South by Taunton Great River, with a little Island belonging to said Necke; ye said Necke was formerly known by ye name of ye Calves Necke and this Necke is . . . forever to be and remaine free and clear from being rated by ye town of Taunton;" (b) a house with 40 acres of land bounded South by John Hall, West on the Great River till it comes to Pall Brooke, and then on said brook till it comes to Squobbity path, and then by said path till it comes to a plain [Neck Plain] and then bounded easterly by said plain. Also 8 acres of land bounded South by Pall Brooke, West by Taunton Great River, and so adjoining the aforesaid 40 acres. [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, i: 17].

What Abigail Andrews did with all of her share of the Calves Pasture has not been fully ascertained. But John Wadsworth of Duxbury and Abigail his wife, on July 21, 1684, sold Jared Talbut of Taunton all right, title and interest in a "Neck of land" in Taunton, bounded South and South East by Taunton Great River, West by John Hall, North and East by Walter Dean and Richard Williams; "said halfe Neck of land containing by estimation twenty acres." [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, iv: 52.]

Highways laid out in 1698:—a highway leading from pall brook through the land of Philip King, and so, as the way now leads, to the corner of Philip King's land, and from thence, on the eastward side of Philip King's land, unto the corner of widow Hall's land [Hannah, widow of John Hall], and from thence, as the way now leads, unto the lands of Squabinanset. [Taunton Proprietors' Records, ii: 450.]

In 1728 Morgan Cobb made a map of Taunton, which is now in the Massachusetts State Archives, and which shows (among other things) Taunton River, the Neck Plain, the highways then in existence, and "the situation of every pertickler house with the owners sir name." By the aid of the documents above cited, and with the help of this map, it is possible to locate the Calves Pasture with reasonable certainty. Its position, in all probability, was along the eastern bank of the great bend of Taunton River, as designated on the accompanying sketch, which is compiled from the latest (Walker's) atlas of Massachusetts and from Morgan Cobb's map. The natural features are copied from the modern atlas, which shows Pale Brook and the "little island" mentioned in the Talbut deed. The houses with their owners and the Neck Plain are from the ancient map. The roads are those shown by Morgan Cobb, but their locations are modified to conform to the more accurate surveys of to-day. The eastern boundary line of the "eight mile square" is taken from Mr. James E. Seaver's map in the History of Taunton. Finally the location has been verified, so far as this was possible, by a walk through the territory and conversation with present residents.

AUTHORITIES.

[1] Will of Henry Andrews, the elder, of Taunton, dated "March 13 Anno Dom 1652." Inventory taken "the tenth day of february Anno Dom. 1652." Both will and inventory "exhibited at the Court holden att Plym: aforesaid the first of June 1653." The apparent discrepancy of these dates disappears when they are read according to the common custom at Taunton and elsewhere, about this period, of beginning to date the new year on March first, instead of the legal twenty-fifth. The above will was dated March 13, 1651, O.S. or March 23, 1652, N.S.; and the inventory was taken Feb. 10, 1652, O.S. or Feb. 20, 1653, N.S. The will makes wife Mary sole executrix and residuary legatee, with use during life or widowhood of nearly all the real estate; gives to daughter Mary Hedges [Hodges, as abundantly proved], wife of William Hedges, a house and land, with reversionary interest to her son John Hedges, who is to have also a silver cup; to daughters Sarah and Abigail, 130 pounds money to be equally divided between them, and also "a certaine peece of land called the necke of land" in equal shares; to son Henry, the residue of the real estate, with his longest fowling piece, best suit of apparel and best coat; to Rev. Mr. Streete of Taunton, five pounds; and to Elizabeth Harvey, one of the poor of the church, a cow for her children. [Plym. Col. Wills, i: part 1: 116, 117.]

[2] Will of Mary Andrews of Taunton. "widdow of the age of flourty and three, made . . . Febrewary 14th 1653 And Testified by her unto the writer hereof Aprill the Seaventh 1654;" proved "the 15th of March 1654." To "my two little daughters Sarah Andrews and Abigaill Andrews," certain articles with reversionary interest "unto the first son that god gives unto my son Henry Andrews, but if the lord give him noe son . . . I then doe give unto his daughter Anne now living" a brass pot and a brass pan. To daughter Mary Hodgis and to son-in-law William Hodgis. Son Henry Andrews, residuary legatee. [Plym. Col. Wills, ii: 5.]

(a) Henry² Andrews was on a coroner's jury at Plymouth Court June 10, 1651 [Printed Plym. Col. Rec. ii: 175] and, therefore, was then of age, and so born before June 10, 1630. His mother was born in 1610 or January 1611 [her will]. With great probability his birth may be placed about 1629, when his mother was 19 years old, he being probably her first-born.

(b) Mary² Andrews had son John Hedges born in 1650 [Hodges Family, 71]. If, as assumed, she was born about 1631, at the then common interval of about two years after her brother, she had her first child at the quite usual age of about 19 years.

(c) Abigail² Andrews was born in 1646 or 1647, as shown by her age at death [5, b.]

(d) Sarah² Andrews, called (like Abigail) "little daughter" in her mother's will, was named before her sister in the wills of both her father and her mother, and was married three years before her sister. Hence it is assumed that she was two or three years older than Abigail, and thus born probably about 1643 to 1645.

(e) There is an interval of about a dozen years between the births of the 2d and the 3d child as thus calculated. If any children were born in this time they doubtless died young, not being mentioned in the wills. Henry may have come across the ocean in this period. Perhaps one wife died and he remarried.

[4] Jared Talbut married to Sarah Andrewes 1 April 1664 [Taunton Proprietors' Records in GEN. REG. xvii: 236]. 1664 Aug. 2. Att this Court an acquittance was shewen . . . wherby it appeered that the portion belonging to Sarah Andrews, the daughter of Mr. Henry Andrews of Taunton, deceased, is fully payd and satisfied; which said acquittance is signed with Jared Talbut. [Printed Plym. Col. Rec. iv: 70].

[5] (a) 1684 July 21. John Wadsworth of Duxbury, with free consent of Abigail his wife, for 45 pounds, sells to Jared Talbut of Taunton a certain Necke of land in Taunton, bounded on Taunton Great River on the South & South East, and Westerly on the land of John Hall, and North & North East on the lands of Walter Dean & on the lands of Richard Williams. The said halfe Necke of land containing by estimation about twenty acres. [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, iv: 52].

(b) Christopher¹ Wadsworth, Duxbury, married Grace Cole and had [besides other children] Dea. John² Wadsworth, who m. 1667 July 25, Abigail Andrews. John died May 15, 1700, aged about 62. Abigail died "about midnight betwixt ye 24th and 25 days of November. A.D. 1723, being about 76 years of age." [Winsor's Hist. of Duxbury, 328; Wadsworth Family, 33, 34, 202.]

[6] Henry² Andrews senior of Taunton & Mary his wife sell land to Thomas & Israel Deane, April 7, 1676. [Plym. Col. Deeds, v: 285.] Gov. Josiah Winslow, under date of May 23, 1676, writes to Thomas Hinkley that the Indians had killed Henry² Andrews and others at Taunton. [Baylies' Memoir of Plymouth Colony, v: 52. Drake's ed. 1866.]

[7] (a) Rev. Nicholas¹ Street had "a daughter Hannah who m. ——— Andrews." So wrote Rev. Stephen Dodd in 1825. [East-Haven Register, 153.] Mr. Dodd was pastor of the church at East-Haven, of which church Rev. Nicholas³ Street (Samuel², Nicholas¹) had formerly been pastor.

(b) Will of Rev. Nicholas¹ Street, dated April 14, 1674, mentions "my grandchild Hanna Andrews." [Hist. of Taunton, 182; Street Genealogy, 475.] The supposition, on p. 5 of the Street Genealogy, that this grandchild was Anna, daughter of Rev. Samuel² Street, is obviously inadmissible, since this Anna, born Aug. 17, 1665 [Street Gen., 8] could not have been married in 1674.

(c) Will of Mary Andrews, mother of Henry² Andrews, dated Feb. 14-24, 1653-4, mentions Anne, daughter of son Henry [2]. As Henry was born probably in 1629 [3], it is not probable that he married before 1652 (at the age of 23), and this daughter Anne (or Anna or Hannah) was doubtless his first child and born in 1653 or early in 1654.

[8] (a) That Henry² Andrews had a wife Mary, who survived him, is proved by various deeds, of which one is cited under [6].

(b) Will of Christopher¹ Wadsworth (whose son John² married Abigail² Andrews), dated July 31, 1677, names wife Grace and daughter Mary Andrews. Will of Grace Wadsworth, widow of Christopher¹, dated Jan. 13, 1687, names daughter Mary Andrews, widow [Wadsworth Family, 34].

[9] The Division of Lands at Taunton on Dec. 28, 1659 [Taunton Proprietors' Records, ii: 11], gives three heads in the family of Henry² Andrews,—presumably himself, his wife and one child. This child must have been Hannah⁸ Andrews, born about 1653 and living in 1674 [7, b, c.]. The wife is supposed to have been Henry's second wife and his second marriage is thought to have occurred in 1659, because probably the births of the five younger children [10] began in or about 1660, and continued at the then common interval of about two years; and the names of two of these children, Mary and Grace, are very suggestive of Mary Wadsworth and her mother, Grace Cole.

(a) They were all born after Dec. 28, 1659. [9]

(b) Grace was born in 1665 or 1666. [18]

(c) Grace and Mary were both married on June 26, 1685. [18 and 16.] If, as seems probable, Mary was named after her mother, and Grace after her grandmother, it is a natural conclusion that Mary was the elder, and her birth may be placed with considerable probability in or about 1663.

(d) Henry was married less than eight months after his two sisters and so, presumably (in absence of conflicting evidence*), was older than they. Henry's

* Mr. Drummond considers that the following deed is conflicting evidence:—Mary Andrews of Taunton, widow of Henry² Andrews, sells to Shadrach Wilbore land in Taunton, promising to give also copies of all deeds or other writings relating to said land, etc. And further, the said Mary Andrews and Henry Andrews, her son, promise, upon lawful demand, to do or cause to be done all such further acts, whether by way of acknowledging this deed, or of any other kind, that may be necessary for the more full confirming and sure-making the afore-bargained premises unto the said Shadrach Wilbore. In witness whereof the said Mary Andrews and Henry Andrews, her son, have hereunto put their hands and seals this 15th day of April 1684. Signed: Mary Andrews and a seal, Henry Andrews and a seal. Acknowledged by Mary Andrews and Henry Andrews, May 31, 1686. Recorded Dec. 11, 1717. [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, xi: 300.]

"When Henry² Andrews died," writes Mr. Drummond, "the title to this [his?] property vested in his wife and children. In those times the widow not unfrequently conveyed real estate so left, while her children were minors; but if any of her sons were of age, it was necessary for them to join in the deed as grantors. In this deed Henry did not join as grantor, as he should have done if he was twenty-one, but his mother makes the grant and he simply joins with her in a promise to do any act necessary to confirm the title. If he was then a minor, his acknowledgment of the deed two years later was such a confirmation of his mother's act as would bind him also. I therefore believe that Henry was a minor when that deed was given, and [judging from the date of acknowledgment] was not born before 1664."

It is with great diffidence that I venture to differ from so able a lawyer as Mr. Drummond, yet I think he has drawn a too subtle deduction from this deed of early times, and I demur at the wording of his statement that "this property was vested in his wife and children," since a part of the estate of Henry² Andrews was "settled upon his widow" and the balance, on March 8, 1678-9, was ordered to be divided among his six children [Printed Plymouth Col. Deeds, vi: 5]. There is no direct statement in the deed that Henry was a minor, and he put his hand and seal to the document in the usual manner of adults. The promise to acknowledge the deed and the delay in acknowledgment have no significance, in my opinion, such promises and delays being common in those days. Mary Andrews and her husband executed at least two deeds which were not acknowledged until after a long time; in fact, every deed of Mary Andrews which I have seen was acknowledged long after its date. In brief, as I read the deed, Mary sells the land and Henry confirms the sale.

birth may be placed a couple of years before Mary's and not long after the Division of Lands [9], that is, probably about 1660.

(e) Abigail married July 5, 1688 [19], and so probably was older than Mehitable, who did not marry until Dec. 20, 1694 [20]. Abigail's birth may be dated a couple of years after her sister Grace's, and Mehitable's a couple of years still later.

[11] Isack Negus married to Hannah Andrews 7th April 1679. [Taunton Proprietors' Records in GEN. REG. xvii: 35.] William Corbitt of Swanzev and Hannah Negus of Taunton married March 23, 1703-4. [Maj. Thomas Leonard's Marriages in GEN. REG. xiii: 253.] William & Hannah Corbett receipt, Feb. 12, 1706, for her portion of the estate of her father Henry Andrews. [Bristol Co. Mass. Prob. ii: 173.] Isaac Negus and his mother Hannah Corbett grant land, July 11, 1710, to John Hodges of Norton. [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, vi: 401.]

[12] Hon. Josiah H. Drummond proves at length that Jane Dighton, sister of Frances (Dighton) Williams of Taunton, and of Katharine (Dighton) (Hagborne) (Dudley) Allin, and eldest daughter of John Dighton of Gloucester, Eng., m. (1) John Lugg of Boston, and m. (2), before Oct. 27, 1647, Jonathan Negus of Boston. [Maine Hist. and Gen. Recorder, vi: 362-366.] Isaac of Jonathan Negoose, aged about 10 days, bapt. 3 day 1 mo. 1650; Maria of Jonathan and Jane Negus born 6 July, 1653; Maria of Jonathan Negoose bapt. 10 day 5 mo. 1653. [Boston Rec. Com'rs Report, ix: 31, 40, 44.] Isaac Negus, Taunton, 1675, cooper, styles himself sole heir of Jonathan Negus late of Boston; m. 7 April, 1679, Hannah Andrews. [13] Henry³ Andrews "senior" made a deed June 28, 1733, and acknowledged it April 15, 1734. [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, xxxv: 526.] Mary⁴ Andrews, Feb. 25, 1736, conveys to her brother John⁴ Andrews all her interest in estates of her father Henry³ Andrews and of her brother Henry⁴ Andrews, both deceased. [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, xxvi: 205.]

[14] Henry Andrewes and Mary Dean mar. Feb. 17, 1685-6. Henry Andrewes and Mary Williams mar. July 4, 1688. [Maj. Thomas Leonard's Marriages in GEN. REG. xiii: 251.] These marriages are both credited to Henry³ Andrews, no evidence of the existence in Taunton at this period of any other Henry having ever been found.

[15] Will of Samuel Williams of Taunton, dated Aug. 6, 1697, names sons Seth and Daniel, and daughters Sarah Dean, Mary Andros and Hannah Bun. [Bristol Co. Mass. Prob. i: 199.] 1686, July 25. Deed from Samuel Williams and Mary his wife to Joseph French. [Bristol Co. Mass. Deeds, v: 458.] Thomas Gilbert and Jane Rossiter married 23 March, 1639. [Printed Plym. Col. Col. Wills, iii: part 2: No. 78 of copy in Mass. State Archives]. See also Hist. of Taunton, 45.

[16] Joseph Richmond and Mary Andrewes married June 26, 1685 [Maj. Thomas Leonard's Marriages in GEN. REG. xiii: 251]. Joseph and Mary Richmond acknowledge receipt of her interest in estate of her father, Henry Andrews, March 28, 1707 [Bristol Co. Mass. Prob. ii: 186].

[17] For proof that Joseph Richmond, who married Mary³ Andrews, and Samuel Richmond, who married Mehitable³ Andrews, were both sons of John Richmond by his wife Abigail Rogers, compare Taunton Proprietors' Records of births of John Richmond's children [GEN. REG. xvi: 327], and discussion of John Rogers senior of Duxbury [The John Rogers Families in Plymouth and Vicinity, p. 19. By J. H. Drummond, 1895], and the Richmond Family, 3 and 10.

WAS ANNA WEST A DAUGHTER OF ROBERT SAUNDERSON?

By JOHN E. ALDEN, Esq., of Newton, Mass.

ROBERT SAUNDERSON, of Boston, goldsmith, partner of John Hull, the "Mint Master," died 7 October, 1693. Judge Savage's Genealogical Dictionary says: "By his will his widow was made Executrix, and in her will is evident proof that children and grandchildren named in the will of her husband were not his, but hers. No blood relation of his except brother Edward and son Robert can with confidence be found in his own will."

In reading Robert Saunderson's will by itself, one would have no doubt but that he was speaking of his own daughter without any ambiguity; whereas the will of his widow is not clear in this respect, and her allusions to "my Daughter West" would as well apply to a step-daughter. The first child named by her is "my daughter Ann Beckford," and if this was her daughter, Anna West could not have been so with a name so nearly like the other.

The references to Anna West in the two wills are as follows:

Will of Robert Saunderson.

Dated 18 July, 1693; presented 20 Oct. 1693.

"I, Robert Saunderson of Boston, Goldsmith, confirm to my wife Elizabeth the covenant made before our marriage, and give her one-half of all my Household goods. The other half, after my wife's decease, I give to my son Robert Saunderson and to my Daughter Anna West to be equally divided between them. To son Robert the house he lives in, &c. After decease of my wife I give to my daughter Anna West the westerly end of tenement near the Mill bridge, and the Slaughter house and yard, and a Leanto and yard, and a tenement and yard.

My dwelling house to son Robert, but if he die without lawful issue, then to daughter Anna.

A tenement on the road to Roxbury to be sold to pay legacies; £10. to grandson Robert Darby; £5. to great grand daughter Abiah Beard; £5. to Joseph, son of W^m. Saunderson; £5. to grandson Joseph Jones; £5. to children of James Penniman. All the remainder of produce of said tenement to my grandchildren, the children of my daughter Anna West . . . my wearing apparel to son Robert, my son-in-law Richard West, and Brother Edward."

Will of Elizabeth Sanderson.

Dated 15 Sept. 1694; presented 21 Nov. 1695.

"I . . . late wife of Robert Sanderson, deceased. 1st. to my daughter Ann Beckford my two thumb rings, if she dies, then to my Daughter West and Mary Casewell; I give to my Daughter Anna West a silver Tankard, my great Bible and one guiny; to niece Alice Carlile and her daughter Elizabeth, each 20 shillings; to cousin Francis Carlile, Jr. my seald Ring; to Mary Casewell £5. and a silver cup; to children of Thomas Lincoln, each a silver spoon; to Ann West a silver bason and a silver spoon; to Mercy West a silver porringer and a silver spoon; to Joseph West my grandson my silver Tankard; and to little Richard West a silver Bowl; to Benjamin West a silver bason and a silver spoon; to my daughter West and her children my halfe part in my Husband's Household goods, except bedding and wearing apparel to Mary Casewell; to Mary daughter of W^m. Sanderson 20 shillings; to her sister Lydia 40 shillings; to the old Church a Silver Beaker and £5.; to the poore £10.; residue if any to Mary Casewell my great Grand daughter."

The daughter Anna was married to Richard West of Boston, butcher, and the names of their children are suggestive; they had Joseph, Benjamin, John and Mary, not very distinctive, but they are also names of Robert Saunderson's children. They also named a child Sanderson West, born February 5, 1680; this is important in several ways, and shows that wishing to name a boy for her father without using her brother's name, she gave him the family name.

The date of marriage of Robert Saunderson with third wife Elizabeth is not recorded, but is important in this discussion.

I found in Granary Cemetery a gravestone (not named in "Bridgman's Epitaphs") with this inscription: "Here lyes y^e body of MARY late wife of ROBERT SANDERSON, SEN^r., age 74 years, died June 21, 1681, and her grandson in grave with her."

This grandson was probably Sanderson West who was the baby at that time. The date fixes time of marriage with third wife Elizabeth at 1681 or later; Sanderson West was born in 1680, and if Anna were Elizabeth's daughter as Judge Savage avers, she would not probably have named a child for Robert Saunderson before her mother's marriage with him.

There are other gravestones of this family in the same cemetery, and as they are not in "Bridgman's Epitaphs," they are copied here:

"Here lyes y^e body of ELIZABETH wife of ROBERT SANDERSON, aged about 78 years, died Oct. 15, 1695."

"——y^e body of RICHARD WEST, SEN^r., aged 67 years died Oct. 21, 1701."

"MARY, daughter of Mr. JOHN & MRS. MARY WEST, age 4 months, died Sept. 2, 1730."

"Children of MR. SANDERSON & MRS. MARY WEST,
1742 John 2 years. 1750 Mary 4 months
1749 Sanderson 9 weeks 1751 John 7 months."

The death of Richard West is recorded in Town records as October 20, 1701, instead of October 21, as on the gravestone. His estate was settled by the widow Anna, probated 23 March, 1701-2. Inventory £65. 8. 2.

Their son John³ West was born March 26, 1697; died 1742; married Mary ———, born 1697, died August, 1771; and had eight children: John, Sanderson, Anna,⁴ born November 25, 1726; Mary, Mary, Kesiah, Eunice, David. Anna⁴ West, born November 25, 1726, married October 27, 1747, Ephraim Green.

Two deeds are recorded in Suffolk County Registry in which Richard and Anna² West's children call Robert Sanderson their grandfather. viz. in Vol. 41, pages 3 and 4, both dated 19 July, 1725, by which John³ West buys of the other heirs "our share, portion, right and title by descent from our Grandfather Robert Sanderson, in a Tenement near the Mill bridge, and a Tenement on Middle street." These are signed by Benjamin West of Roxbury and his wife Joanna, Ann West, spinster, and Mercy Warner, wido w, both of Lancaster, Henry Haughton of Lancaster and Anna his wife.

All of which seems to prove that Anna² West was daughter of Robert and Mary Saunderson, notwithstanding the wording of the step-mother's will.

THE CLOGSTON FAMILY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

By WATSON H. HARWOOD, M.D., of Chasm Falls, N. Y.

THE Clogston family is of Irish origin, and was one of the Presbyterian families which immigrated from the north of Ireland to New Hampshire, sometime after the year 1718. Our records of the family are somewhat meagre. We have not as yet been able to learn the names of the parents of the family that settled in New Hampshire; we have a record of three of their children only, as follows:

1. MRS. HARWOOD. Her Christian name we have not yet been able to learn. She was the wife of James Harwood of Dunstable (now Nashua), N. H., who was descended from English ancestors. She is described as having been a very large, strong woman, and she lived to the advanced age of ninety-nine years. Her husband served five years in the old French and Indian war. He also served in the Revolution, in Capt. William Walker's company, Col. James Reed's regiment. Capt. Walker's company is said to have comprised one half the able bodied men of Dunstable. They were among the first men sent out from New Hampshire to engage in the struggle for American independence. They were present and fought bravely at Bunker Hill. Later on in the course of the war, James Harwood served in Col. Bedell's regiment, which was formed in 1776, to defend the frontier, and was stationed for a time at Isle Aux Noix, in Canada. In 1777, April 17, James Harwood entered the First New Hampshire regiment, then under the command of Col. Joseph Cilley. This regiment was during the months of May and June, 1777, in the vicinity of Ticonderoga, N. Y., and afterwards was engaged in the battles at Fort Schuyler, Stillwater, and finally, October 7, 1777, in the battle of Saratoga, which resulted in the surrender of Burgoyne with his entire army ten days later. After this most important event, the American troops hastened southward to help the sorely pressed patriots who were under the immediate command of Gen. Washington. They reached White Marsh, thirteen miles from Philadelphia, November 21, 1777, and here James Harwood died, tradition says, of small pox, December 1, 1777.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harwood were the parents of three sons and two daughters, all born in Dunstable, N. H.:

- i. JOHN² HARWOOD, b. in 1755. He served in the Revolutionary war, was wounded, and afterwards settled on a farm near Manchester, N. H. His wife was Sally Martin of Hooksett, N. H. They were the parents of six children. He d. about 1833.
- ii. JAMES HARWOOD, b. in 1760. He m. Patty Sanders, and settled in Unity, N. H. They were the parents of six children. Hon. C. E. Harwood, one of the most enterprising of the business men of Lynn, Mass., and recently mayor of that city, is a great grandson of James Harwood of Unity.
- iii. ARCHIBALD HARWOOD, b. in 1762. He served in the American army in the war of the Revolution, as a substitute for another man, being only sixteen years of age on entering the service. He was one of those whom the traitor Arnold contracted to sell to the British in 1780. After the war he went to Springfield, Vt., where he m. Susannah House, of English and Huguenot descent. They were the parents of eleven children. He was by trade a carpenter and mill wright. He resided several years in Weathersfield, Vt., then removed to Eden, Vt., where he built the first mills ever erected in that town. Afterward, he lived in Constable, N. Y., where he built and owned mills. He d. in 1837.

iv. ROSANNAH HARWOOD, m. John Burlingame. They resided in Weathersfield, Vt., and had children.

v. LYDIA HARWOOD, m. Jonathan Ordway. Her second husband was Jedediah Hutchins. She d. in Constable, N. Y., leaving children by both her husbands.

2. PAUL CLOGSTON resided in Dunstable, N. H. Fox, in his History of Dunstable, speaks of Paul Clogston owning a slave woman, who was married to a free black, and the latter purchased the freedom of his wife and children. Mr. Clogston enlisted May 1, 1775, in Capt. William Walker's company, Col. Reed's regiment, to serve in the Revolution. Was mustered into the service May 26th. He was wounded in the battle of Bunker Hill, and died of his wounds July 15, 1775. It is probable that he had a family, but we have no record of his descendants.

3. JOHN CLOGSTON, born in 1741. He, and a man by the name of Antipas Dodge, went from Londonderry, N. H., to Goffstown, N. H., in the fall of 1764, made a clearing in the woods, and built log houses, and in the spring came back to Londonderry and married wives. John Clogston's wife was a widow, a Mrs. Anna Glasgow; who was born in Glasgow, Scotland, August 30, 1737, and died in Marietta, Ohio, in 1822. It is said that after her marriage to Mr. Clogston, they went to their new home in Goffstown on horseback, both riding one horse. William Clogston of Springfield, Mass., a great grandson of John, to whom I am largely indebted for the facts concerning the Clogstons in this article, visited the site of the early home of the Clogstons in Goffstown, about 1876, and drank water from the old well used by them generations ago. He also visited the grave of John Clogston in the Goffstown cemetery, and copied the dates of his birth and death. William has still the pocket book which belonged to his great grandfather. John Clogston served in the Revolutionary war, in Capt. William Walker's company. He died February 3, 1803. The children of John and Anna Clogston were six in number, all born in Goffstown:

- i. JOHN² CLOGSTON, b. April 23, 1766. He m. Betsey Gardner of Bedford, N. H. In the fall of 1818, they emigrated to Marietta, O. They went with a team, and were six weeks on the road. His mother, then aged 81 years, went with them. John Clogston d. Feb. 18, 1824, and his wife March 23, 1851. They left several children.
- ii. THOMAS CLOGSTON, b. in 1769. He m. Phebe Eastman of Strafford, Vt. They had twelve children. He d. in Strafford, July 9, 1847, and his wife Aug. 27, 1851.
- iii. WILLIAM CLOGSTON, b. Dec. 12, 1771; m. Susan Annice of Goffstown. They had thirteen children. He d. in Hancock, Vt., Sept. 27, 1836, and his wife in Brandon, Vt., in 1848. He was the grandfather of William Clogston of Springfield, Mass.
- iv. MATTHEW L. CLOGSTON, b. Feb. 12, 1773. He m. Betsey Sargent of Dunbarton, N. H. They resided on the old Clogston homestead in Goffstown, where nine children were born to them. He d. Feb. 17, 1846.

- v. SALLY CLOGSTON, m. Samuel Clark of Goffstown.
vi. SILAS CLOGSTON, m. Sally Stevens of Goffstown. They lived many years in New Boston, N. H. Later, they lived with one of their children in Nashua, N. H. They were the parents of six children.

In Fox's History of Dunstable, the name Clogston is everywhere spelled Clogstone, and very probably that was the original and correct method of spelling the name.

I have already acknowledged my indebtedness for many of the facts given in this sketch to William Clogston of Springfield, Mass. I also obtained some important facts, as long ago as 1880, from Daniel Campbell, Esq., of New Boston, N. H., a highly respected citizen of that town, who was then in his 82d year. In one of his letters, written at that time, Mr. Campbell says: "The Clogstons were men of firm and upright character, always reported to be of Scotch-Irish stock." Mr. W. H. H. Hart, of Goffstown, a grandson of Matthew L. Clogston, also gave me valuable information years ago concerning the family.

As far as I can learn, this is the first time a sketch of the Clogston family has been offered to any publication.

The writer would be greatly pleased to hear from any person who has a fuller account of the family than he has been able here to give.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES FROM MARTHA'S VINEYARD.

By CHARLES E. BANKS, M.D., of Washington, D. C.

DURING some recent searches among the early records of Martha's Vineyard, I made brief notes of entries in the Probate and Deeds registries, relating to persons who had residences elsewhere, or who had emigrated therefrom, or had taken up a residence on the island after leaving a previous abode. These changes of locality made by the early settlers in their quest for homes constitute one of the greatest difficulties in the path of the genealogist, and whenever the opportunity occurs to make them known it seems to me helpful to others to publish such facts.

FINCH.—Jeremiah Finch, mariner, of North Carolina, will dated August 5, 1724; probated Feb. 26, 1724-5. Wife Deborah receives all estate, real and personal, except silver hilted sword, gun and pistol, which he gives to Capt. John Payling, and all his woollen clothes to Mackrough Serobrey. (Dukes Co. Prob. Rec. I. 157.)

RUSSELL.—Capt. John Jacob and Thomas Palmer enter a claim June 28, 1681, for a tract of land in Tisbury, "late belonging and in the tenure and occupation of Samuel Russell . . . in right of their wives, Mary and Elizabeth, daughters of Jorge Russell and sisters of the said Samuel Russell who deceased without issue." (Dukes Co. Court Records.) These are not Vineyard families.

BASS.—Richard Bass a tall thin-faced fellow pocksrotten ran away with a shallop of John Dalton of Monhegan about the middel of August 1682, with a servant of the owners, and another fellow a liver in the place, being in debt ran away. (Dukes County Deeds, I. 283.)

BATT-BAYES.—Timothy Batt, son of Timothy Batt of Boston, deceased, constitutes his friend James Breeding of Southampton, attorney to collect a legacy left him by “my grandmother Bayes of Martha’s Vineyard deceased.” Instrument dated March 16, 1696. (Dukes Co. Deeds, I. 227.)

BIRCHARD.—John Birchard of Norwich in County of New London, sells in 1693 the rights of his father Thomas in property at Martha’s Vineyard. (Ibid I. 222.)

CODMAN.—Stephen Codman, of Roxbury, mariner, sells land on Martha’s Vineyard, 10 Dec. 1678, “once belonging to my father Robert, or to my brother Joseph, both now deceased.” (Ibid I. 319.)

DAGGETT.—Thomas Daggett of Edgartown to “my brother John Daggett of Rehoboth.” (Ibid I. 323.)

TUCKER.—John Tucker, “late of Cape Annawaggon, near Sheepscoot [Maine] now of the town of Tisbury uppon Martha’s Vineyard,” sells his holdings in Maine, July 2, 1675. (Ibid I. 372.)

PEASE.—The inventory of the estate of Green Pease of Edgartown, weaver, amounting to £35 - 16 - 6, taken October 1, 1739 (Probate Records, I. 118), is offered as a curiosity in nomenclature.

BLANL-SMITH.—Thomas Levit and Isabel Levit (sometime Isabel Bland, daughter of John Bland of Martha’s Vineyard late deceased), both of Hampton, N. H., constitute their son John Levit their Attorney in the settlement of the estate of John Bland, by an instrument dated April 16, 1691. In support of their claim they file depositions of Nathaniel Drake aged 78, and Abram Drake aged about 70, both of Hampton, dated April 27, 1671, in which deponents state that they have known Isabel Bland since childhood and that John Bland formerly lived at Colchester, England, and “he was sometimes called John Smith but his name and his ancestors was Bland.” Samuel Smith aged 29 and Benjamin Gould aged 42 years both of the Vineyard testify to same effect. (Dukes Co. Deeds, I. 282.)

THE REV. MORGAN JONES AND THE WELSH INDIANS OF VIRGINIA.

By ISAAC J. GREENWOOD, A.M., of New York City.

SEVERAL of the earlier Welsh poets make mention of one Madog, son of Owain Gwynedd, prince of North Wales, who, sailing westward from his native country, about the year 1162, discovered a new land, whither, some ten years later, he led a colony of his own people. This event appears to have been forgotten, when in 1492 Columbus was proposing to cross the same waste of waters, and not till 1584 was the account of Madog made known to the English public by the Rev. Dr. David Powell in his History of Wales. Almost a century later the story was revived in a limited circle, by the statement of Morgan Jones, a clerical gentleman then in the American colonies, who testified at New York, March 10, 1685-6, to his having, some seventeen years earlier, lived for a few months among a tribe of Welsh Indians on the Virginia coast; and we continue to hear of White Indians, at distant intervals of time and in various localities, until, in the early part of the present century, Catlin encounters them on the Missouri River, near the present town of Bismark (Dakotah). The American traveller noted some words, in use among them, akin in sound and meaning to the Welsh, and was especially struck by the fairness of their skin, and by their very peculiar religious rites. They were then a tribe of limited numbers, called the Mandans, whom disease, a few years later, swept from the earth.

Mr. Jones's statement commences as follows: "These Presents may certify all Persons whatsoever that in the year 1669,* I being then an inhabitant of Virginia, and Chaplain of M. G. Bennet of Mansemon† county, Sir W^m. Berkeley sent two ships to search what was then called the Port Royal, but now S. Carolina, which is 60 leagues to the southward of Cape Fear; and I was sent with them to be their minister. Upon the 8th day of April we set out from Virginia." The writer continues his account, mentioning his arrival and departure from the new colony, whence, at the end of eight months, half-starved, owing to scarcity of provisions, he undertook to reach on foot, through the wilderness, the Virginia settlements, but only to fall into the hands of hostile natives westward of the great swamps. His few companions were evidently tortured and killed, while he, liberated by some Indians of the Doeg tribe, was taken to their retreat near Cape Hatteras. His freedom he attributes to his speaking Welsh, which was also the language of the Doegs, and in that tongue he continued to preach the Gospel to them for some months, before proceeding northward.

At this point a review of such facts as bear upon Jones's opening remarks is interesting.

In pursuance of an Act of Parliament, passed Oct. 3, 1650, the Council of State, by commission dated Sept. 20, 1651, sent out to Virginia the ship John, Capt. Robert Dennis, and the Guinea frigate, Capt. Edward Curtis, the former, with Mr. Rich^d Bennet, Mr. Thomas Stagge and Capt. W^m. Claybourne being appointed commissioners to raise forces, in said Colony, for the reduction of the plantations "to their due Obedience to the Parliament of the Commonwealth of England." Capt. Curtis, "in the case of mortality or absence of Capt. Dennis," was to take the latter's place as commander of the fleet, and to act also as a commissioner.

Sir George Ayscue, despatched about the same time on a similar errand to the West Indies, secured the rendition of the Barbadoes, Jan. 17, 1651-2, and then proceeded to St. Kits, which place also submitting, though its Governor, Capt. Pointz, made his escape to Virginia, Ayscus sailed for England, arriving at Plymouth May 25.

In the Virginia colony affairs were peaceably concluded; on March 12, 1651-2, articles were signed by the Commissioners, Richard Bennett, W^m. Claiborne and Edmund Curtis, and on April 30 Bennett‡ was chosen Gov-† Nausemond.

‡ Richard Bennett was in 1641 one of Gov. Berkeley's Council. In 1672 W^m. Edmundson, Quaker, visited America with George Fox, and reached Virginia about April. During the following month, among other men of prominence, who became converts to his preaching at Nausemond, was Maj. Gen. Richard Bennett. "He was a brave, solid, wise man, received the truth and died in the same."—Week's Southern Quakers and Slavery.

W^m. Claiborne in 1642 was appointed Treasurer of the colony, but appears to have been afterwards an officer in the Parliamentary forces.

Capt. Curtis was in the great fight with the Dutch, June 2-3, 1653, and was subsequently in the Royal Navy.

ernor, Col. Wm. Claiborne Secretary of State, and Capt. John West, with twelve other officers, Councillors of State; but at the restoration Sir Wm. Berkley, the late royalist governor, was re-established in his former position.

Gov. Berkley (a younger brother of Lord John Berkley), as one of the joint proprietors, had established a separate government at Albemarle in the Carolinas, when, some years later, the scheme of Lord Ashley Cooper (Earl of Shaftesbury), the most able and active of the Land Proprietors of the Province of Carolina, was put into action for making a settlement at some point further south; at least "as far south," says Bancroft, "as the Spanish would tolerate."

Accordingly, towards the end of August, 1669, the Carolina frigate, Henry Brayne, mr., the ship Port Royal, Capt. John Russell, and the sloop Albemarle, Capt. Edward Baxter, which had been fitting out through the past two years, sailed from the Downs, with settlers and their servants, touching at Kingsale, Ireland, whence the expedition, under the command of Joseph West, reached Barbadoes in the West Indies.

While lying here, early in November, the Albemarle was wrecked, and another sloop was hired through the agency of Sir John Yeamans, of the island, who intended to accompany them. Capt. West writes, Nov. 8, "the People here seemingly show a great inclination for Porte Royale." About Nov. 23d the little fleet left Barbadoes, but soon after, on account of bad weather, all put into Nevis, where a pilot was obtained for the Carolina coast, only to be separated, off the main land, and carried in different directions. The frigate was forced to take refuge in a harbor at Somers Island or Bermudas, and the Port Royal, with Yeamans on board, endeavoring to reach the Bahamas, was cast away on one of the islands, Jan. 12, 1669-70, and, though all reached shore safely, a number died during their long stay while building a boat. They finally got to New Providence, where some remained; the rest getting passage to the Bermudas, another sloop was hired to take them to Port Royal. If we judge rightly of a statement made by Richard Bennett and Tho. Goodwin, in their letter of April 28, 1670, to Lord Ashley, the Barbadoes sloop, John Baulte, mr., was driven as far north as the Nansemond River in Virginia, whence she sailed early in February, and, after some further adventure, reached the Keyawah (or Ashley River), May 23, and was piloted in by the Bermudian sloop which they met coming out to fish. Bennett's letter states that Sir John Yeamans had returned home to Barbadoes, "after he had sent away Capt. Saile, Governor to Port Royal," and, he continues, we daily expect some ship with news from Port Royal, "upon the arrival whereof we shall comply with your orders in buying hogs, cattle, and what else is desired by those that shall come for it. In which we shall pursue your instructions and endeavour the best we can for your advantage * * * in the despatch of such ships or vessels as is or shall be employed upon that account."

Meanwhile the Carolina frigate and the other hired sloop, sailing from Bermuda Feb. 26, 1669-70, reached their destination safely, and, landing first at Port Royal, soon moved up to Kiawah River and began a settlement called, in honor of the King, Charles Town. In need of provisions, the Carolina was despatched in May to Virginia, returning Aug. 22 with an eight months supply of Indian corn, pease and meal, while cows and hogs arrived within a fortnight from the same quarter; in June the Barbadoes sloop was sent to Bermuda on a similar errand.

Col. Wm. Sayle, the Governor,* was a Bermudian, a Puritan, and a non-conformist, and his name had been put into the blank commission of July 26, 1669, as before stated by Sir John Yeamans; writing to Lord Ashley, June 25, 1670, from Albemarle Point, he mentions the various needs of the colonists and continues: "But there is one thing which lyes very heavy upon us, the want of a Godly and orthodox Minister, which I and many others of us have ever lived under as the greatest of our mercys." He then recommends Mr. Sampson Bond of Exeter College, Oxford, who, by commission from the Earl of Warwick and the Somers Island Co., had been preaching the past eight years in Bermuda and had been invited to Boston and New York by the Governor. From other resources we learn that Bond had removed from New England in disrepute for having preached a sermon not of his own composition, an act "looked upon," says Hutchinson, "if not criminal, yet highly disreputable."

The foregoing review tends to show that no historical inaccuracies, as to his own movements, exist in Jones's statement, which was first given to the public in the Gentleman's Magazine of London, in 1740. Under the heading, "The Crown of England's Title to America prior to that of Spain," Theophilus Evans, vicar of St. David's in Breosn, writes: "Sir, That the vast continent of America was first discovered by Britons, about 300 years before the Spaniards had any footing there; and that the descendants of that first colony of Britons, who then seated themselves there, are still a distinct People, and retain their original language, is a Matter of Fact, which may be indisputably proved, by the concurrent Account of several Writers and Travellers. I shall first quote a letter of Mr. Morgan Jones, Chaplain to the Plantation of S. Carolina, sent to Dr. Thomas Lloyd of Pennsylvania, by whom it was transmitted to (his brother) Charles Lloyd of Dol-y-fran in Montgomeryshire, Eng., and afterwards communicated to Dr. Robert Plott, by the hands of Mr. Edward Lloid, A.M., Keeper of the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford," who in turn had received it from the above Charles Lloyd or from his cousin Thomas Price of Llanvyllin, Co. Montgomery, as we gather from a work entitled "British Remains." In this latter book, published in 1777 by N. Owen, jr., A.M., the author quotes a letter of Charles Lloyd (or Llwyd) esq. of Dol-y-fran, to the effect that Morgan Jones was cotemporary with his brother, Thomas Lloyd, and himself at Oxford; that he was of Jesus College, and, to distinguish him from others of his name, was known as "senior Jones."

The only Morgan Jones, clergyman, of Jesus College, Oxford, likely to have written the statement, matriculated June 1, 1636, aged 18, plebeian, son of "John David" of Trevethin (or Trethuen), on the Avon, westward of Uske, co. Monmouth; B.A., Dec. 12, 1639; vicar in 1661 of Undy (or Wondye), in the same county, on the British Channel, near Caldicott. But Jones, in the statement as to his adventures in Virginia, signs himself "son of John Jones of Bassaleg," a small place on the Ebwith, westward of Newport, and some miles south of Trevethin, and Calamy in his "Nonconformists' Memorial," London, 1721, notes, among the ejected ministers of Glanmorganshire in 1662, "Mr. Morgan Jones, an honest ploughman, of Llanmodock," at Whitford Point, though the author indicates his uncertainty, as to the exact locality, by an asterisk.

The other parties, through whose hands the statement passed, were first: Thomas Lloyd, for whom it was undoubtedly written. This gentleman arrived in Philadelphia, Aug. 20, 1683, on the America, Capt. Joseph Wasey; he stood high in the confidence and friendship of Wm. Penn; was President of the Council; Dept. Gov. 1684–88, and died Sept. 10, 1694, æ. 45, leaving three daughters. His age corresponds with that of "Thomas Lloyd, son of Morgan L. of Llanbalk, co. Carmarthen, pleb., Jesus Coll., Oxf., mat. March 18, 1664–5, aged 15; B.A. 1668; M.A. 1671," &c. Perhaps his brother was the Charles Lloyd, M.A., from Jesus College, July 20, 1657, who seems to have been rector of Cascob, co. Radnor, 1664.

Edward Lloyd (or Llwyd), natural son of Edward L. of Llanvorda, near Oswestry, co. Salop, entered Jesus College, Oxford, Nov. 17, 1682, aged 18; succeeded Dr. Plott in 1690 as keeper of the Ashmolean Museum, and died June 1709. He it was who transmitted the document to Dr. Robert Plot, who matriculated at Magdalen College, Oxford, July 2, 1658, was appointed head keeper of the Ashmolean Museum, and died April 30, 1696, aged 53. Dr. Plot was an antiquarian, and is said to have been a very credulous man, a trait which exposed him at times to the practical jokes of his contemporaries; but we should be sorry to classify Jones's "Welsh Indians of Virginia" under this latter category and assign it to the rubbish pile of the past.

What time Morgan Jones reached the American Colonies, after ejection from his ministry in Wales, does not appear, but we meet with his name in the Boston Town Records, as follows:

"Mr. Jones one the 28: 3^m (May) being sent for by the Selectmen for keep^s a schoole and being required to perform his promise to the Towne to remoue himselfe and famly in the springe: And forbideng to keep a schoole any longer."

Notwithstanding these hard measures he found means to make his peace with the authorities, for an entry on the records, in 1668, alludes to his living in the house of the Recorder, Mr. John Jolliffe, merchant, and he was, in July, one of three witnesses to a conveyance from Mathew Cory to said Jolliffe. Lib. V., p. 495. Soon after this, with a view, we may presume, to better his fortune, he went to Virginia, in time, as we have seen, to sail with Maj. Gen. Richard Bennet of Nausemond Co., as his chaplain in an expedition sent, in April, 1670, to Port Royal, or Charleston, S. C.

His services, as a minister, were evidently not required by the Carolina colonists; he set out afoot, to again reach Virginia, and after meeting curious adventures by the way, as has been related, was back in Boston by the middle of the year 1671, at which time he was again a witness to some deed in which Mr. Jolliffe was interested.

During his absence his wife, thrown upon her own resources, adopted what was then a novel method of livelihood, as we find by the following permit of 30: 11^{mo} January: 167^o₁—"Mrs. Dorothy Jones, the wife of Mr. Morgan Jones, is aproved of to keepe a house of publike Entertainment for the selling of Coffee & Chochaletto,"—being the first mention of a Coffee House in Boston.* The last renewal of Mrs. Jones's license was in April 1674, at which time she was accorded the additional privilege of selling "cider & wine."

During the latter year the preliminary Tax List of the town, for Division No. 4, contains the names of Morgan Jones and his man Isack Rat, an error evidently, as they do not occur on the regular list; we find Jones's name, however, on the regular list for Division No. 5, with that of his man's on the preliminary one. This Isaac Rat, as we gather from the town records of the previous year (Nov. 1673), was one of the persons driven out of their habitations in New York when that city was surrendered to the Dutch; coming to Boston he had entered the service of John Kean, who kept a cook-shop.

* Evelyn in his Diary, 1637, mentions the Greek Canopias, who, at the Oxford University, "was the first I ever saw drink coffee," a fact subsequently mentioned by Anthony a Wood in his "Athenæ Oxoniensis." An English Coffee House was established in Oxford about 1650, at the Angel, by one Jacob, a Jew, who opened another, two or three years later, in London, in the Southampton Buildings, Holborn.

The Indian, or King Philip's War, broke out in 1675; whether Jones took any active part in it is uncertain; however, his name occurs on the Treasurer's accounts, of July 1676, as a member of Maj. Sam^l Appleton's company, under Lt. Jeremy Swain (of Reading); this was six months after the Narragansett Expedition. During the following September he was one of the garrison stationed at Marlborough, an important rendezvous for the forces until the close of the war. REGISTER, xxxviii., 440-1; xl., 320; xliii., 266; Mass. Archives, lx., 97; Bodge's "King Philip's War."

By the year 1678 it would appear that Jones was located at Newtown, formerly Middleburgh, on Long Island, in the vicinity of New York. Bolton's Westchester informs us that, on the 17th Dec. 1678, the inhabitants of Eastchester agree to pay 40l. a year to Mr. Morgan Jones, "minister of Newton," if he will come and live among them and perform the offices of a minister. Accordingly he appears thereafter to have officiated both at East and West Chester, and rotated around among the different places to which he was called, through a period of over ten years. At this time King's county, the town of Newtown in Queen's county, Shawkopoke or Staten Island, and probably Westchester and Eastchester, constituted the West Riding of Yorkshire, as established by the first provincial assembly which met at Hempstead Feb. 28, 1665.

On the Westchester records, under date of Feb. 11, 1678, is noted a baptism by "Morgan Jons, priest;" a marriage also, performed by him, is recorded the same year. Bolton, ii., 200-1.

Riker, in his History of Newtown, L. I., states that, on April 3, 1680, it was agreed in a town-meeting at that place, to engage the Rev. Mr. Jones for one year, the term to date from March 10th, at a salary of 50l., and "to fit the house up" for his residence which had remained unoccupied since the death of the late minister Mr. W^m. Leverich, early in 1677. At the end of the year difficulties arose about the collection of the salary, some refusing to pay the minister's tax, and Mr. Jones preferring a complaint to the Co. of Sessions, the constable was directed that the law be fully enforced. At a town meeting of Dec. 17, 1681, it was decided by a general vote, to sustain the ministry by "a free-will offering, what every man will give."

Meanwhile Mr. Jones, in pursuance of a town-meeting, had received a call from the people of Staten Island. At a subsequent meeting, the largest town-meeting which had yet taken place, held June 19, 1682, by order of Capt. Richard Stillwell, Esq., one of H. M. Justices of the Peace, it was put to vote whether a Towne-rate be made for "ye satisfaction & paym^t of Mr. Morgan Jones, who by the Choice & at ye desire of ye Inhabitants aforesaid hath Exercised the function of a Minister in this Island this Year last past." Whereupon it was carried by 38 v. 31, that the Comrs. formerly appointed for such purposes, cause a Rate to be made whereby a sufficient sum of money, according to agreement, be raised for the immediate payment of Mr. Jones, "and that they take some speedy course that ye same may be collected. Ordered that this be presented to the Court of Sessions."

N. Y. Col. MSS., xxx., 77. Some persons refusing to make payment of this rate, it was, upon motion of Capt. Stillwell, ordered at a Co. of Sessions, held Dec. 20, 1682, at Gravesend, in the West Riding* on Long Island, that the same "be taken from them by distresse through the Constable Thomas Walton." N. Y. Col. MSS., xxx., 135. Hereupon Francois Martinou and Jno. Boudyn (Jan Boiden) preferred a petition to the Com^{dr} in Chief, the Rt. Hon. Anth. Brokholst & the Hon. Council of New York, in behalf of themselves "& the major part of the inhabitants of the Island." It is more probable, however, that they represented but a few French and Walloons, discontented at being obliged to pay an English minister whom they could not understand, which in fact was contrary to "the articles made with General Nicholls." In their petition, however, they stated that they had been ordered, by the last Co. of Sessions, "to contribute towards the maintenance of a certain person called Joanes Morgan a pretended minister in orders but by reason of his ill life and conversation is much doubted of by ye pet^{rs}"; that said order has been obtained, upon misinformation, by the warrant of Justice Stillwell without any summons given to the petitioners, who are now threatened by the constable "for to straine" upon them; wherefore they requested that a stop be made to said Stillwell's illegal proceedings, and a hearing of the whole matter be granted them, "or otherwise that the same may be remitted by way of an appeal to the Co. of Assizes."

In a long letter of Jan. 19, 168 $\frac{2}{3}$, from Staten Island, followed by another on the 24th, Mr. Stillwell explains the whole matter to Mr. John West, the Secretary at New York. The Justice doubts not "but that the Council will take into consideration the abuse which is offered to mee in this false & scandalous Petition, where my reputation is soe nearly concerned & my authority brought into contempt." The Sheriff further requests "that noe Stop may be put to our proceedings in this business; for Mr. Jones hath beene long out of his money; wants it extreamey & tis a greate shame hee is not yet paid, having honestly performed his part" (N. Y. Col. MSS. xxxi. 3, 6, 9). Stillwell adds that he had never heard "yt Mr. Jones was a person so Scandalouse as they represent him, nor do I know anything concerning his ordination but from his own mouth, but I believe he was qualified as he ought to bee, because he was recommended to us by Sir Edmund Andross, who I presume would not knowingly encourage soe ill a man."

From the journal of two Labadists, who visited Staten Island in October, 1676, we receive accurate information as to the religious status of its people at that time, and are quite safe to infer that Mr. Jones was their first English minister. These priests state that "there are now about 100 families on the Island, of which the English constitute the least portion, and the Dutch and the French divide between them, about equally, the greater portion. They have neither church nor minister, and live rather far from each other, and inconveniently to meet together. The English are less disposed to religion, and inquire little after it; but in case there was a minister would contribute to his support. The French and Dutch are very desirous and eager for one, for they spoke of it wherever we went. The French are good Reformed church-men, and some of them are Walloons. The Dutch are also from different quarters." Clute's Hist. of Staten Island, p. 212. Some two years later (but prior to Sept., 1678), we learn that a lot had been reserved for a minister. N. Y. Col. MSS. xxviii. 10.

* The three Ridings of Yorkshire (North, East and West) was abolished by the Colonial Legislature, at New York, in October 1683, and shires or counties established.

We have seen, by the resolution passed June 19, 1682, at the Staten Island town-meeting, that Mr. Jones had been preaching at that place for the past year; a petition to Gov. Dongan some years later, from the inhabitants of Madnan's (or Great) Neck, Long Island, states that "ye greatest part of us have Lived upon Madnans necke About twentie yeares and have Lived without any ministere Amongst vs and at y^e first settling of this necke it was Consented to by the Inhabitants of hempsted that madnans neck people should not pay to any Minister at Hempstead provided they would or could maintain one Among themselves and whereas In y^e month of June 1682 we entertained one Mr. Morgan Jones amongst us to be our minister and were very well satisfied with him, But soe it is, May it please your Excellencie, that Mr. Hobart, that is Now Minister of Hempstead, Did forbid the said Jones of Liveing Amongst vs, in manner as Aforesaide, whereupon he was forced to goe away from vs to our grate Damage and our Children." Doc. Hist. of N. Y., iii. 346.

Jeremiah Hobart (Jeremy Hubard), b. 1630 in Hingham, Norf., Eng. (son of Rev. Peter Hobart, after of Hingham, Mass.), graduated at Harv. Coll. 1650; preached for some years at Topsfield, Mass., and was called in May, 1682, by the Townspeople of Hampstead to be their minister; which choice was confirmed by the Com.-in-Chief, Maj. Anthony Brockholst,* at New York, April 26, 1683. Many of his people having become Quakers, says Thompson, and others so indifferent on the subject of religion that they would contribute towards his maintenance only upon compulsion, he finally removed in 1696, a step which was followed in a few years by the introduction of Episcopacy.

Meanwhile the first school-house at Eastchester was being erected in pursuance of an order passed at the town-meeting of Oct. 15, 1683, when it was agreed that "encouragement be given to Mr. Morgan Jones to become the school-master;" any invitation to that effect, however, appears to have been declined, for Mr. Warham Mather, a young graduate of Harvard College, became the minister for a year.

Jones now returned to Newton, L. I., agreeing to accept "the free will offering" of Dec. 17, 1681, already alluded to, and on Feb. 28, 1684, was chosen schoolmaster of that town, "to teach on the Sabbath day those that will come to hear him," and to be allowed for such service, "what every man will please." (Riker, p. 106).

At the time of Mr. Jones's leaving New England, he had a second wife, who, as we learn from the "lists of strangers in town," visited her Boston relatives during the year 1685; for under date of Feb. 5, 1684-5, we find "the wife (of) Morgan Jones who lives at New Yorke, at John Matson's, formerly the wife of William Cotton, Butch^r;" by which it appears that Jones's wife was the mother of Mary Cotton, who was born 1660, and had married the John Matson above alluded to.

Sept. 5, 1685, Jones was chosen to succeed Mr. Mather, for a year as minister of East Chester. The parish-minister, in the early days of the English New York Colony, nourished the soul of the colonial farmer, and looked for a spiritual harvest, be it ever so meagre; he expected, however, that the farmer who nourished the soil, and garnered a more substantial harvest, would leave some scant gleanings for the poor preacher. Such, however, as we have seen, was not always the case; the preacher's debts for life's necessities accumulated, and so in March, 1685-6, we have Mr. Jones petitioning for relief against the sheriff of Westchester, who, without giving him proper notice, had sold two chests of his books and clothes at public vendue. (N. Y. Col. MSS.) Moreover, not being able to obtain from the people of Newtown the promised compensation for his services, he petitioned that the Town might be ordered to pay him his arrears. Finally, on the 28th of April (1686), he gave a receipt to the Town for anything that he had ever claimed for his services, reserving to himself the power of demanding and securing of certain particular persons the several sums they had promised him..

Some better fortune befel him the next year, when the people of Madnans Neck (or Great Neck), L. I., dissatisfied with their being so far distant from the parish of Hampstedd, "whereof they cannot be so frequently instructed in the word of God nor have their children have that education they would desire," petition that they may have a minister of their own, "whom they are willing to pay and satisfie therein, naming one Morgan Jones for this first time to be admitted." June 9, 1687, at a council held in New York, his Excel^y Gov. Dongan, Major Anthon Brockholls, et omne being present, the Petⁿ was read and the allegations on both sides fully weighed, whereupon "It was resolved that the People of Madnansneck forthwith pay to Jeremy Hobbart (minister of Hampsted) all arrears due from them to him & that hereafter they may have a minister for themselves separate from Hempstedd, whom they are to maintaine, and that for the present the same Morgan Jones is admitted, ther to continue dureing his Exc^{'ly} will & p^{leasure}." N. Y. Col. MSS. xxxv. 67 & 88.

The student, admitted to Oxford in 1636, had now reached his three score and ten, "and if by reason of strength they be four score years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow." And so we hear no more of the Rev. Morgan Jones until, some twelve years later, Cotton Mather, in his "Magnalia," giving some examples of pseudo-ministers, holds up one glaring instance to public scorn under the initials of "M. J.," information as to whom he had received from one whose name is suppressed. Mather states that "M. J.," a Welsh tanner by trade, and sometime servant unto Captain P. of Salem, leaving that place went to Say-Brook, where he worked at his trade and stole Mr. W.'s leather breeches. Then he preached at Killingworth, but, his crime becoming known, they refused to have him, and he began preaching at Brainford until a reader, who had formerly been employed for Sunday service, charged him with having used a sermon not his own. This was a dire offence, as before stated in the case of Sampson Bond, and "M. J.," not accepted, took up his staff and scrip and, journeying onward, "went to Staten Island by New York, and (again) set up for a Preacher, being a ready Prater.". If true that Jones ever preached in towns along the Connecticut shore, the year 1677 seems the most likely period. As regards Mather's other remarks, it is possible that certain restrictions in the Massachusetts Bay Colony may have handicapped all exertions to pursue his divine calling, and if Jones was driven to other pursuits in order to support his family and keep body and soul together, it little behooved Boston's great, over-credulous Divine to bury the fair fame of a fellow-worker in Christ beneath a load of unfounded obloquy and reproach.

WAS JOHN KETTELL AN EARLY SETTLER OF STOW ?

By Rev. GEORGE F. CLARK, of West Acton, Mass.

As briefly as possible I will reply to the criticism of Abraham G. R. Hale, Esq., in the July number, 1897, of the REGISTER, of my article of the October number, 1896, relative to John Kettell as an early settler of Stow.

Mr. Hale seems to rely principally upon the traditionary account of Rev. Mr. Newell that Kettell bought land of the Indians. In my antiquarian researches of more than forty years I have found tradition so frequently disproved by reliable evidence, that I give little credence to it. Tradition says (Hist. of Concord, p. 57) that the day before the Sudbury massacre, April 21, 1676, "Thomas Plympton, a Mr. Boon and son" were killed by the Indians while seeking a garrisoned house. The inventory of Boon's property was taken April 3, 1676, which states that he was slain about the middle of February, 1676. Shall we believe tradition, or the Probate records?

In the deed of James Kettell, in 1706, to Isaac Held (Heald?) no mention is made of any buildings, and it is stated that the land was formerly a court's grant to Samuel Symonds. This convinced me that Kettell did not buy of the Indians. If he had settled upon it in 1653, it is very strange that the court should grant it to Mr. Symonds in 1660; for it was not their custom to assign to others land already occupied. Their grants were almost invariably of unoccupied territory. Many years ago, on consulting Mr. Newell's century sermon, I was greatly disappointed that it contained so little of historic value, when with his opportunity he could have given us so much important matter relative to the settlement of the town and its early inhabitants. A copy of this sermon is in the Antiquarian Library at Worcester; but on account of its meagre historic value it is not placed in the department of local histories. In a note to me some years before his death, Rev. John L. Sibley, a distinguished and accurate historian, who was settled as colleague with Rev. Mr. Newell, in 1829, said that Mr. Newell was "careless" in his statements. This seems to be true, for he says the town officers of Pompasittacutt were chosen in April, 1683. This is correct. Then he immediately states that "the spring following twelve adventurers from Boston, Watertown and Concord, as proprietors of Pompasittacutt, petitioned the General Court to be incorporated into a town by the name of Stow, which petition was granted on the 16th of May, 1683." This is carelessness. For it was the same spring, and not "the spring following" the choice of officers, and less than a month afterwards, that the town was incorporated. Again in their petition (a copy which lies before me as I write) the petitioners call themselves "inhabitants of Pompasittacutt," and in the act of incorporation they were so recognized. Nor did they ask the court to name the town Stow, but that it should be given "some suitable comly English name."

By the will of Abraham Joslin, of Lancaster, made before 1671, it is certain that Kettell lived on one of Joslin's farms in Lancaster, which he would not probably have done, if he then owned 300 acres a few miles away. The affidavit of Mrs. Sally W. Hale, a few years ago, who lived on the farm in question, and the statement of others, only proves that she and they believed in the current tradition. How the fact that Mr. Hale "used to cross in boyhood" a certain brook, and much other irrelevant matter, proves that Kettell lived on the farm near by more than 200 years ago, is beyond my comprehension. That it was known as "Kettell's farm" for many years I have no doubt. I myself believed that he lived there, and have so publicly stated several times. But about two years ago I accidentally found evidence that convinced me that he did not.

If it be remembered that the John Kettell who died at Salem in 1685, "in possession" of the 300 acres near Nashaway, was not the John Kettell of Charlestown, who Mr. Newell says bought land of the Indians, and the births of whose children are recorded at Sudbury and Lancaster, and whose wife and children were taken prisoners, and that the names of the two men's children were different, the matter will be greatly simplified. The Salem man was about nineteen years the elder.

I am now done with this controversy. When it can be shown by reliable records that Mr. Kettell, of Charlestown, bought land of the Indians, at Stow, and settled thereon, I shall rejoice as heartily as my friend Mr. Hale, that tradition has become truth.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN AND BENJAMIN DUNNING OF STRATFORD, CONN.

Compiled by Hon. RALPH DUNNING SMYTH (grandson of Hannah Dunning), and communicated by BERNARD C. STEINER, Ph.D. (grandson of Ralph Dunning Smyth).

JOHN and BENJAMIN DUNNING, brothers, appear first, I think, at Stratford about 1700. Isaac Hurd of Stratford married Hannah Dunning on March 11, 1708. She may have been a sister. John Dunning married Sarah Lambert, daughter of Jesse and Deborah Lambert, of Milford, about 1709. She was born about 1693. He died January 1, 1734. His will was dated December 22, 1733, and proved February 11, 1734. In it, he divides his estate into fifteen parts, and gives each of his six sons two parts and each of his three daughters one part. He makes his wife and his brother Benjamin Dunning of Newtown his executors. The inventory, made April 8, 1734, consists of a long list of household goods, a house and barn, and home-lot of two acres valued at £140; thirty-one acres, with buildings and orchard, £280; one and one half acres to take up £3; one half acre east of river, £2. 10. 0; six acres west of Buckingham's Ridge, £33; seven acres north of Mr. Lambert's home-lot, £50; right of commonage, £6. 10. 0.—(Fairfield Co. Prob. Rec., Lib. 1716-36, pp. 262-318.)

Newtown, in Fairfield Co., was settled from 1710 to 1712. Among the earliest records of the town is the following: "Dec. 9, 1712, Benjamin Dunning voted a constable, and John Dunning fence viewer." On December 30, 1712, there is a list of the inhabitants made out, in which John Dunning is the sixth and Benjamin Dunning the fourteenth. The brothers, therefore, were among the first settlers of Newtown. John Dunning removed to Norwalk before April 9, 1717, when he bought land, giving the latter place as his residence (Lib. iv., fol. 280).

Benjamin Dunning remained in Newtown, and died there March 21, 1739. His will was dated March 23, 1737, and probated April 3, 1739.

On January 7, 1739-40, Elizabeth Dunning, relict of Benjamin, was appointed guardian of Michael and Amos Dunning; Thomas Skidmore, guardian of Abel and John Dunning; and Obadiah Wheeler, guardian of Benjamin Dunning. GLEANINGS FROM PARISH REGISTERS OF HESSETT, ENGLAND, AND VICINITY.

Communicated by Capt. CHARLES HERVEY TOWNSHEND, of "Raynham," New Haven, Ct.

THROUGH the kindness of the Rev. Richard Morphey, M.A., Rector of Hessel, Co. Suffolk, England, where I examined the Parish Records, May 29th, 1882, I was enabled to glean some items interesting to New England genealogists, and append below such as I think may be of value. In this parish register, under date of 1630, appears the name of Symon Bradstreet, clerk, who was father of Gov. Simon Bradstreet of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

I also find, in the same register, the marriage of Joan, daughter of Walter Hoo or Howe, of Hessel, to Philip Newgate, of the neighboring parish of Horningsheath, and they were the parents of John Newgate, an important settler of Boston, Massachusetts, in 1633. Again in this register is the name of Goodrich, which family was later represented by two brothers who settled at Wethersfield, Connecticut.

There are many other names in this register which, after 1630, appear in New England, viz.: Bacon, Cooper, Tilly, Fuller, Sampson, and, last but not least, Carver; and as these names and locality may point out the place of search for the families of Governor John Carver and John Tilly, both of the Mayflower, 1620, I give them here for others to search and investigate. Also abstracts from Hessel wills bearing their names.

Symond Bradstreet, clerk 1630.

Elizabeth, daughter of Robert and Joan Carver, bapt. 9th May, 1594.

Gualtherus Hoo and Agnes Lockwood, probably widow and second wife, were married Oct. 7, 1561.

Phillip Newgate and Joan, daughter of Walter Hoo, were married 20 Dec. 1578.

Abraham Church of Drinkston, widower, and Joan Lockwood, daughter (step-daughter) of Walter Hoo.

John Goodrich of Bradfield and Maria Hoo, widow, were married Dec. —, 1594.

William Cooke and Margaret, daughter of Richard Hoo, were married Oct. 1st, 1600.

Thomas Hoo of Hessel and Ellen Chaplin, daughter of Stephen Chaplin of Coomes.

Agnes, wife of Walter Hoo, died 8 May, 1586, ætatis 80. This was no doubt Walter Hoo's second wife, as she is not mentioned in his will dated 1587, proved Jan. 4, 1589. In this parish the names Carver and Tilley appear often. Also in the next parish of Beyton.

The following is a brief abstract from the History of Hessel, by the Rev. Canon Cooke:—

The name of Carver frequently appears in the register of this parish, and also in that of the adjoining parish of Beyton, where a John Carver was found with a numerous family.

From the foregoing evidences we may construct the brief genealogy which follows of the Batt Family of Salisbury in Wiltshire and the earlier generations of their posterity in America, although a few of the members of it still remain unplaced. The Batts of the Devizes, from causes which have been already set forth,* present a far less perfect pedigree than the former family, but the fair tabular pedigree which follows can be constructed from the evidences now in hand, while there seems no doubt that an exhaustive examination of the two registers of the Devizes would greatly extend it and throw light upon many now obscure points.

A brief tabular pedigree of the Byley Family is also appended, which illustrates the connection between the emigrant members of the two cognate families and fitly concludes the work undertaken.

ANCESTRY OF PHEBE PIERCE OF WOBURN.

Communicated by WILLIAM R. CUTTER and ARTHUR G. LORING, of Woburn, Mass.

A GENEALOGICAL problem of long standing has at last been solved. James Pierce (1690-1773)* married wives named Hannah and Phebe. The surname of Hannah is unknown. Phebe is now known to be Phebe Reed. She was the daughter of Lieut. Joseph Reed, of Woburn.

Joseph Reed, in his will dated April 18, 1737, probated March 29, 1742, mentions his wife Phebe Reed, and his three daughters Phebe Pierce, Susanna Fowle and Abigail Reed, and his grandchild Joseph Reed, son of his son Joseph Reed, deceased. (If grandchild dies before being of age, his share to go to the three daughters.) The son Nathaniel, who was to have a double share, was to take care of his sister Abigail, if she continue weak.—Middlesex County Probate Records, 21: 159-161. Josiah Converse, of Brookfield, was the guardian of the grandson Joseph.†

According to a parcel of Reed deeds belonging to the Woburn Public Library, and described in Bulletin, No. 25, of that institution, Lieut. Joseph Reed had a son Joshua Reed. The father had a lot of land laid out to himself in the township joining upon Rutland, for service, evidently military, done by said Joshua Reed, deceased, before June 18, 1735—same parcel of deeds, 21: 17.

Nathaniel Reed and Abigail Reed, other children of Lieut. Joseph Reed, are mentioned in same collection in a quit-claim deed [21: 21] relating to the settlement of the father's estate after his decease. Nathaniel is mentioned at this date, July 13, 1756, as deceased, and as having a son Joshua, a minor, then, with Abigail abovesaid, under guardianship; Abigail being named as a person non compos mentis in this deed, July 13, 1756. Another deed in the same collection [21: 24] relates to the estate of Nathaniel Reed, deceased, under date of January 6, 1758. These items shed light on facts not to be found in the Woburn Records.

Lastly, from the collection of Reed deeds in the Woburn Public Library, we ascertain that Nathan Simonds and Hannah Simonds were the administrators [de bonis non] to estate of Joseph Reed, deceased, and as such made a transfer of land, which was part of the inheritance of said Joseph Reed, on April 15, 1752 [21: 19].

Joseph Reed, lieutenant, was a son of Ralph Reed of Woburn, and a grandson of William Reed, the immigrant. The record of his birth is not to be found on the Woburn Records. He died Dec. 26, 1741. His brother Daniel Reed died Dec. 18, 1741, and Phebe, his widow, April 7, 1743. He served in Phips's 1690 expedition to Quebec, and according to Woburn tax lists was a sergeant from 1701 to 1713; ensign, 1713-1715; lieutenant, 1716-1741; captain (perhaps a captain-lieutenant) 1739-1740. In 1738 his name heads a list of persons from Woburn and vicinity, who have a just claim to the bounty of the General Court, by being either personally, or by their ancestors, in the Canada Expedition, Anno 1690;

* Pierce Genealogy, by F. B. Pierce, p. 39. Woburn Records Births, 1st series, p. 194; Deaths, 1st series, p. 146.

† The grandchild, Joseph Reed, named in will of Lieut. Joseph Reed, was half-brother of James Reed (1724-1807), captain, lieutenant-colonel, and in 1775 colonel of the 2d New Hampshire regiment at the Battle of Bunker Hill, afterwards a brigadier-general on the recommendation of Gen. Washington in the Revolutionary Army; this Gen. James Reed being also a grandson of Lieut. Joseph Reed of the will.

taken in Woburn, Feb. 19, 1738, by virtue of an order of the General Court bearing date Dec. 22, previous. He "was personally present in the expedition, attested upon oath of Zachariah Converse of said Woburn," 1738. He attested to the presence of others.*

His wife's name is not given in the marriage records of Woburn, but it is now known to be Phebe Walker, daughter of Israel, son of Samuel Walker, senior, of Woburn. She was born March 11, 1676. Her mother, Susanna Baldwin, was Israel Walker's first wife, and she was a daughter of Deacon Henry Baldwin and Phebe (Richardson) Baldwin, daughter of Ezekiel and Susanna Richardson.†

Confirmation of this marriage is found in the Reed deeds in the Woburn Public Library [21: 14] where Henry Walker and Edward Walker deed a piece of land to their "brother-in-law" Joseph Reed, June 3, 1721. Their father was Ensign Israel Walker, 1707, per deed [21: 12]; corporal 1683-1690, sergeant 1690-1696, ensign 1696-1719, in Woburn tax lists, when he died aged 75.

In these Reed papers are the will of Ralph Reed, father of Lieut. Joseph, and other papers relating to the distribution of his property. The will names Ralph's sons John and Timothy and Joseph and Daniel Reed; his grandson William Reed; and the wife Mary Reed. Dated August 23, 1692. Ralph Reed died January 4, 1712, and Mary, his wife, died Feb. 15, 1701. The grandson William Reed was the son of Ralph's son William, per another deed [21: 7]: "Whereas William Reed, late of Woburn, now deceased, did with leave of his father, Ralph Reed, possess and occupy certain parcels of land in Woburn, which he had no assurance of by any legal conveyance of the said Ralph Reed, and leaving behind him three children, one son and two daughters, all in their nonage; the said Ralph Reed having reserved the use of said lands to his daughter, the relict of William, and mother to said children, till the son of said William shall arrive to the age of twenty-one years," Ralph Reed grants to William Reed, son of William, full possession, he to pay sisters certain sum, etc. Dated Sept. 29, 1692. A further declaration appended names Mary and Elizabeth Reed as sisters of said grandson William. The whole acknowledged Dec. 16, 1703.

Daniel Reed quitclaims his portion of his father Ralph Reed's estate to his brother Joseph Reed, Nov. 9, 1698 [21: 8]. William Reed, Jr., son of William Reed, deceased, apprentices himself, with consent of all of his relatives and friends (who are mentioned) to Joseph Reed, to learn the "art or mystery of husbandry," May 16, 1700 [21: 10].‡

William Reed, the immigrant, names his son Ralph in his will, April 9, 1656, and mentions him as one of his three children that are married in New England.—REGISTER, 48: 381-382. Cutter: Woburn Historic Sites, pp. 26-27. Reed: History Reed Family, p. 61, etc.

‡ The autographs appended to this document are unfortunately missing, but the language used is, "that the said William Reed, junior, of his own free will and voluntary consent, and with the consent and well-liking of his father-in-law, and his own natural mother, his grandfather and grandmother, and the rest of his relations and friends."

ALDEN GENEALOGY.

2. ELIZABETH² ALDEN (*John*¹). Born in Plymouth, 1622 or '23. "The first white woman born in New England." LETTERS OF JONATHAN BOUCHER TO GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Contributed by WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY FORD, of Washington, D. C.

THE following letters possess more than a personal interest. It was an accidental circumstance, a connection with Washington, that lent some notoriety to Jonathan Boucher. It is his ideas on education that makes these records of permanent interest, for they throw some light upon the conceptions of education entertained nearly a century and a half ago in Virginia.

Boucher, tutor, divine and lexicographer, was born at Blencogo, a small hamlet in the parish of Bromfield, England, 12 March, 1738. He received some schooling at Wigton, and towards the end of the year 1755, went to Workington, in order to study mathematics, under Rev. Mr. Ritson, who, Boucher states in his autobiography, of which only extracts have been printed, "was a character, and thought so even in a part of the world that is fruitful in characters." He must have excelled in mathematics, for as schoolmaster at Workington and minister of a chapel at Clifton, he received £40 a year. Yet by taking private pupils he "not only brought up his family, but saved a thousand pounds."

With him Boucher remained four years. What happened then may best be described in his own words.

"Early in 1759, Mr. James heard that Mr. Younger, a respectable merchant in Whitehaven, wanted a young man to go out as private tutor to a gentleman's sons in Virginia . . . I was to enter into pay on the day of my leaving England; to have my passage gratis; to have my board and sixty pounds sterling a year for teaching four boys, with liberty to take four more, on such terms as I could agree for, on my arrival . . . On the 12th of July I landed safe at Urbanna, near the mouth of Rappahannock river; and soon after got to the place of my destination, viz., Captain Dixon's, at Port Royal, on the same river, and met with a cordial reception.* . . .

Being hospitable as well as wealthy, Captain Dixon's house was much resorted to, but chiefly by toddy-drinking company. Port Royal was inhabited in a great measure by factors from Scotland and their dependents; and the circumjacent country by planters, in general in middling circumstances. There was not a literary man, for aught I could find, nearer than in the country I had just left; nor were literary attainments, beyond merely reading or writing, at all in vogue or repute. In such society it was little likely I should add to my own little stock of learning; in fact, there were no longer any inducements . . . In all the two years I lived at Port Royal I did not form a single friendship on which I can now look back with much approbation, though I had a numerous acquaintance and many intimacies . . .

I was now once more quite to seek, and as much at a loss as ever as to a profession for life. My thoughts had long been withdrawn from the church. Yet happily, a train of unforeseen circumstances now led me back to this my original bias, and at last made me an ecclesiastic.

A Mr. Giberne† was rector of Hanover parish, in King George's County, and lived across the river, directly opposite to Port Royal . . . He was now engaged to marry a rich widow in Richmond County, and the parish there being vacant, and offered to him, it was natural he should accept it. All at once, and without the least solicitation on my part, or even thinking about it, that which he was about to leave was offered to me. The suddenness of the thing and my deep sense of their kindness, rather than my not knowing what else to do with myself, determined me to accept of it. I did so, and was to sail for England for Orders the week after . . . Captain Stanley, of the Christian, promised to give me a passage home and

* Mr. R. A. Brock, lately librarian of the Virginia Historical Society, tells me that this was doubtless Roger Dixon, who died just before the Revolution. "He was a vestryman of St. George's Parish, Spotsylvania Co., in 1768, and a little later appears to have had pecuniary reverses. In 1770, Thomas Nelson, Jr., had a claim for a considerable amount due British merchants to collect from him."

† Of this "Rev." Isaac William Giberne the commissary wrote in 1766: "His mother is a milliner in the city of Westminster. He was not bred to the church, but was sometime a clerk in some office on Tower Hill. He obtained orders and came here under the countenance and protection of the present governor [Fauquier]. He purchased the disgust of the Clergy at his first coming by unsuccessful endeavors to reconcile them to an Act of which they had sent a complaint to England, boldly setting his Youth and Rawsness in opposition to the past and present feelings of long experience. . . . Many of the Laity think him too fond of cards and gaming for one of his cloth. He has removed from one Parish to another two or three times." A characteristic letter of his is printed in my Letters of William Lee, I. 70.

back again gratis. I embarked on board the Christian about the middle of December, and about the middle of the following month in 1762, I arrived in Whitehaven, after a rough and tempestuous passage

All the little time I now staid in England was one continued scene of bustle and hurry. I went from Whitehaven to London for Ordination, and Bishop Osbaldeston being then just come to that see, I was long detained and much plagued before I succeeded

It was a remarkable coincidence, though perfectly accidental, that I again landed on the 12th of July, and again at Urbanna

An incident now occurred, apparently of no moment, but which, as it led to some circumstances of great moment in my little history, I must set down. One Sunday, as I was riding to my church at Leeds, on the road I fell in and joined company with a stranger gentleman. He was from Maryland, of the name of Swift, distantly related to the family of the celebrated Dean; and being a merchant, his errand in my neighbourhood was to secure a large debt owing to him which he thought, and not without reason, to be somewhat hazardous. I was happy enough to point out to him a way of effecting his purposes, which might not have occurred to himself, but which happily succeeded. On his return he spoke of my kind offices and myself with such warmth that next spring four of his most respectable neighbours sent four boys under my care, and thus began my acquaintance in Maryland

I seemed now to be somewhat in a flourishing way, and as I was very diligent and faithful in my employment, my character was soon established. But behold, early in August I was seized with a violent fever, from which it was thought little less than miraculous that I ever recovered. It was late in November before I was able to stir out of my own doors During this illness my countryman and acquaintance, the Rev. Mr. Dawson, of St. Mary's, in Carolina County, had died. Port Royal, where I had formerly lived, was in this parish; and my friends so earnestly solicited me to succeed him, that, after some hesitation, I at length consented, but not before the people of Hanover, who had so generously chosen me for their minister under many disadvantages, also gave me their entire approbation. They went so far as to continue my salary a quarter of a year after I left them; an instance of generosity which I hope never to forget St. Mary's was not a pleasant place, neither had it good water; but there was a good house, and another old one, which at a little expense might be made such an one as I wanted. To this place I removed early in the spring. And now, besides adding largely to the furniture of the house, I bought stocks of cattle, and horses, and slaves.

But my industry and exertions were extraordinary. I had the care of a large parish, and my church was eleven miles distance from me; neither had I yet any stock of sermons. My first overseer turned out good for nothing, and I soon parted with him, so that all the care of the plantation devolved on me; and though it was my first attempt in that way, I made a good crop. I had now also increased my number of boys to nearly thirty, most of them the sons of persons of the first condition in the colony. They all boarded with me, and I wholly superintended them myself, without any usher, for two years.

At this glebe of St. Mary's I lived, I believe, seven years. I had a good neighbourhood, and many hospitable and friendly neighbours; and I had a great turn for plantation improvements, which I indulged to a great extent. Yet upon the whole I cannot look back on this period of my life with much satisfaction. It was busy and bustling, but it was not pleasant, inasmuch as it was very little such a course of life as a literary man should wish to lead. And though it was neither wholly unprofitable to myself, nor, I trust, wholly useless to others, yet I attained neither of these purposes to such a degree as I now think I might have done. . . .

He followed Ritson's example and took pupils, two of whom, young Custis, and a Mr. Carr who afterward married a sister of Boucher's wife, went with him to Maryland. It is in regard to Custis that these letters were written, but before introducing them a few more sentences may be taken from the autobiography, descriptive of the intellectual condition of the colony.

On my removal to Annapolis the scene was once more almost quite new to me. It was then the genteel town in North America, and many of its inhabitants were highly respectable as to station, fortune, and education. I hardly know a town in England so desirable to live in as Annapolis then was. It was the seat of government, and the residence of the Governor and all the great officers of state, as well as of the most eminent lawyers, physicians, and families of opulence and note. . . .

A very handsome theatre was built whilst I stayed there by subscription; and as the church was old and ordinary, and this theatre was built on land belonging to the church, I drew up a petition in verse in behalf of the old church, which was inserted in the Gazette, and did me credit. And this I think was one of the first things that made me to be taken notice of. I also wrote some verses on one of the actresses, and a prologue or two. And thus, as I was now once more among literary men, my attention was once more drawn to literary pursuits, and I became of some note as a writer. The Rector of Annapolis is officially chaplain to the Lower House; and the salary was but about 10/ currency a session, and even that ill-paid. It seemed an indignity to offer or to receive a salary beneath that of the door-keeper or mace-bearer; and so I wrote a letter to the assembly in as handsome terms as I could, that I would, if they so pleased, serve them for nothing, but that, if I was paid at all, I would be paid as a gentleman. This transaction also made much talk in the country, gaining me some friends and more enemies.

Three or four social and literary men proposed the institution of a weekly club under the title of the Homony Club, of which I was the first president. It was, in fact, the best club in all respects I have ever heard of, as the sole object of it was to promote innocent mirth and ingenious humour. We had a secretary, and books in which all our proceedings were recorded,* and as every member conceived himself bound to contribute some composition, either in verse or prose, and we had also many mirthfully ingenious debates, our archives soon swelled to two or three folios, replete with much miscellaneous wit and fun. I had a great share in its proceedings; and it soon grew into such fame that the governor and all the principal people of the country ambitiously solicited the honour of being members or honorary visitants. It lasted as long as I stayed in Annapolis, and was finally broken up only when the troubles began and put an end to everything that was pleasant and proper. . . .

At the outbreak of the Revolution Boucher remained loyal to the king, and was obliged to leave Maryland. Going to England he received a pension from the crown, and devoted himself to philology. He died in 1804.

It must be admitted that Boucher was, in ability, much above the ordinary divine to be found in Virginia at that time. Many very peculiar characters were exported from England to lead the souls of the American colonists into the paths of righteousness. If we were to judge the sincerity of the church by the character of some of its exponents and agents to be found in Virginia, the result would be discouraging. Like the merchandise sent to America, many of the clergymen might have been called "colonials," meaning a quality of article not good enough to be used at home, but quite good enough for use in a colony thousands of miles away, and where the curing of tobacco was of equal importance with curing of souls. No scandal ever attached to Boucher. He owned and worked slaves, but that has a necessary incident where free labor could not exist owing to the prevalence of slavery. He taught his slaves, and even made some of them schoolmasters for the rest. He was a Tory, but a good part of the wealth and intelligence of the colonies remained loyal. He loved horse racing, but against that may be set his ardent desire for intellectual fellowship, and the Homony Club, one of the earliest literary clubs in America.

Wherever Washington's letters throw light upon those of Boucher I have used them. A letter from the President of King's College (now Columbia University) is inserted as germane to the subject. In every case the letters are printed as the writers wrote them, as any revision of text would destroy one of the main reasons for printing — the illustration of character in the writer.

*Boucher to Washington.

CAROLINE, 13 June, 1768.

Sir,

I think myself much obliged to you for the flattering Preference given me, in thinking me a proper person to undertake the Direction of mast^r Custis's Education. And I will not hesitate to confess to you, that it would mortify me not a little to be depriv'd of so acceptable an Opportunity of obtaining some Credit to myself; which I flatter myself there would be no Danger of, from so promising a youth. Yet am I under a necessity of informing you of a Circumstance in my affairs, which may probably lead you to look out for another Tutor for your Ward. Preferments in the church in Virginia are so extremely scanty, that I have for some time been endeavouring to establish an interest in Maryland, where, I doubt not but you know, the Livings are much better. I happened to be in Annapolis, chiefly

* On May 30, 1768, Washington wrote to Boucher asking if he would be willing to take Master Custis as a pupil. "He is a boy of good genius, about 14 years of age, untainted in his morals & of innocent manners. Two years and upwards he has been reading of Virgil & was (at the time Mr. Macgowan left him) entered upon the Greek Testament." Custis was to have a boy and two horses, and provender for the latter. "If it is necessary for him to provide a Bed, could one be purchased in your neighborhood? It would save a long carriage." Washington wrote, "I will cheerfully pay Ten or Twelve pounds a year, extraordinary, to engage your peculiar care of, & a watchful eye to him, as he is a promising boy, the last of his family, & will possess a very large Fortune, add to this my anxiety to make him fit for more useful purposes than Horse Racer." The whole letter is in my Writings of Washington, II. 257.

upon this Business, at the Time your Letter reach'd this Place: and tho' I have already met with two Disappointments, yet I have rec^d. fresh Promises that I shall now soon be provided for. If This happen at all, as I have all y^e Reason in y^e world to believe that it will, the Parish I expect is That of Annap^s., where also I propose to continue superintending the Education of a few Boys.

Now, Sir, it will be necessary for you to consider, whether in Case such a change sh^d. take Place, it w^d. be agreeable to you that Mast^r. Custis shou^d accompany me thither: for, otherwise, I can hardly suppose you will think it worth his while to come down hither, probably, for a few months only. For my Part I cannot help imagining that you will think Annap^s. a more eligible situation, as it is, I believe, rather more convenient to you, & a post Town from whence you might have Letters, if necessary, every Week to Alexandria. But This is a matter on which you alone ought to judge, & in which perhaps it becomes not me to give my Opinion. All I have to add is that sh^d. you resolve, at all Events, to trust the young Gentleman to my Care, either Here or in Maryland, I will exert my best Endeavours to render Him worthy of Yours, & his Family's Expectations. And as He is now, as you justly observe, losing Time, wou^d it be amiss to send Him down immediately, if it were only upon Tryal, as I presume He has never yet been remov'd from under the wing of his Parents: You will then, from his own Reports of me & my management of my Pupils, be better able to judge of the Propriety of continuing Him with me. And tho' it be usual for Boys to find their own Beds, in this case, that wou^d be unnecessary. I will furnish Him for the little Time He will have to stay before I know what my Destiny is to be. As to Terms, &c., These may be settled hereafter. All I shall now say of Them is, that from what I have heard of Coll^o. Washington's character, they are such as I am well convinced He will not think unreasonable.

I have been under much concern that it was not sooner in my Power to acknowledge the rec^d. of y^r. obliging Letter: this is forwarded by a serv^t. of Mr. Addison's, whom I have requested to send it over to Alexandria, by w^h. Means I hope you will receive it sooner than by Post.

I am, very respectfully, Sir,

Y^r most Obedient & most Hble Serv^t.

JONAN. BOUCHER.

Boucher to Washington.

CAROLINE, 16 June, 1768.

Sir,

Altho' I have already return'd an Ans^r to y^r obliging Letter of the 30th ult: by a serv^t of the Rev^d M^r Addison's who went from hence a Day or two ago, yet as you seem'd desirous to hear from me as soon as possible, & as Coll^o Lewis now informs me that He can furnish me wth an Opp^{ty} directly to your House, I am desirous to convince you, that I have not been inattentive to the Matter of y^r Request. In my former L^r, I have inform'd you of my Expectations of removing shortly to Annap^s, where I propose also to continue to take Care of a few Boys, & have left it to y^rself to judge whether, in that Case, it wou^d be agreeable to you & Mrs. Washington, that Mast^r Curtis sh^d accompany me thither, as, unless he shou^d, I imagin'd you wou^d hardly think it worth while to send Him abroad to a school, w^h may probably be broke up in a very few Months. I added also, that sh^d you approve of this, I shou^d be glad He might come down hither, in the Manner you have propos'd, immediately; which, I suppose, He may easily do, as there will be no Occasion for his making much Preparation; since, if I sh^d be so unfortunate as to be again disappointed in Maryland, & be obliged to remain still where I now am, it will be as Easy for you hereafter to furnish Him wth any thing He may happen to want; and in the mean Time, it will be no Inconvenience to me to let Him use one of my Beds, &c. And This is all, or nearly all, I yet have it in my Power to give you for Ans^r: I sincerely wish the Uncertainty of my present Prospects wou'd allow me to speak more positively.

Ever since I have heard of Mast^r Custis, I have wish'd to call Him one of my little Flock; and I am not asham'd to confess to you that, since the Rec^t of y^r Letter, I have wish'd it much more. Engag'd as I have now been for upwards of seven Years in the Education of Youth, you will own it must be mortifying to me to reflect, that I cannot boast of having had the Hon^r to bring up one Scholar. I have had, 'tis true, Youths, whose Fortunes, Inclinations & Capacities all gave me Room for y^e most pleasing Hopes: yet I know not how it is, no sooner do They arrive at that Period of Life when They might be expected more successfully to apply to their Studies, than They either marry, or are remov'd from School on some, perhaps even still, less justifiable Motive. You, Sir, however, seem so justly sensible of y^e vast Importance of a good Educaⁿ, that I cannot doubt of your heartily concurring in every Plan that might be propos'd for y^e Advantage of y^r Ward: And what I am more particularly pleased with is, the ardent Desire you express for y^e Cultivaⁿ of his moral, as well as his Intellectual Powers. I mean, that He may be made a Good, as well as a learned & sensible Man. That Mast^r Custis may be both is the sincere wish of,*

Sir,

Y^r most obed^t &

most Hble Serv^t

CAROLINE, 15 July, 1768.

Dear Sir,

I have just Time to put a Cover over The Enclosed & to add to the Informa^{ns} I suppose Mast^r Custis himself has given you, that He has enjoy'd perfect Health ever since you left Him, except^g two or three Days that He complained of a Pain in his stomach, which I at first took for the Cholic, but since think it more likely that it might be owing to Worms. As it easily went off by two or three Medicines I gave Him, and as He has had no Returns, I did not think it necessary to consult Dr. Mercer;† which however, I shall immediately do, if you desire it.

You will oblige us by looking into y^r Books for a Work of Cicero's, De officiis, or his Familiar Epistles — & Livy: & sending Them down by y^e first opportunity that [offers].

Be so obliging to me as to excuse the Shortness of this Letter; it shall not be long, ere I will write to you more fully. The Messenger, who is to carry This to y^e office, now waits for me.

I am, very respectfully

y^r most obed^t Hble Serv^t

BENEFACTIONS TO HARVARD COLLEGE LOCATED IN CHELSEA, MASS.

By WALTER K. WATKINS, Esq., of Chelsea, Mass.

ANDREW MCFARLAND DAVIS, Esq., contributed in the REGISTER, Vol. 46, pp. 233-244, an interesting list of the exhibitions of Harvard College prior to 1800.

As a citizen of Chelsea, I am interested in the doings of her inhabitants in the past, and would wish to add to the information given regarding the few bequests by them to the College in the period covered by Mr. Davis.

The Elder Penn annuity of £10 in 1671 was paid to the elders or deacons of the First Church of Boston for the use of students, and was paid by the Sale family of Chelsea up to 1866.

The sister of James Penn marrying William Townsend, had a son Penn Townsend, whose daughter Ann married John Sale.

On 12 April, 1866, a resolve was passed by the Massachusetts General Court allowing the annuity to cease by the sale of the real estate, $600 being paid the First Church as a release, and that sum invested for the purpose originally intended. The land in question was Round Top Hill in Beachmont now owned by the City of Boston.

Mr. Davis does not mention a bequest by a large land owner in Chelsea, an original grantee in 1638, John Cogan, a dweller in Boston.

In June 1652 he gave to Harvard College a marsh of about 53 acres, a condition being that if any of his children or grandchildren were students they should have the income while in college.

This annuity was enjoyed by the College, from the proceeds of leases, until 1832 when the tract was sold to Dr. Edward H. Robbins.

Another owner and inhabitant of this period, John Newdigate, gave 11 June, 1650, an annuity of £5 which, after his death, was payable from the rents of his farm.

His son Nathaniel Newdigate sold the farm subject to this annuity to Col. Samuel Shrimpton, who was grandfather of the wife of John Yeamans.

Her son, Shute Shrimpton Yeamans, bequeathed it to his aunts Mary Chauncy, Sarah Greenough and Mehetable Hyslop.

Their heirs on 15 May, 1844, paid the College $333.33 to be released from further payment of the annuity.

Mr. Davis speaks of the clause in the will of Gov. Richard Bellingham in regard to the bringing up of four or six students, and of which the College never seems to have been benefited.

This opens up the Bellingham will controversy, which lasted over a century in our courts. The General Court disallowed the will in 1676, and though the Rev. Phillips Payson, the Chelsea minister, enjoyed the occupation of a farm, a part of Bellingham's estate, during the troublous times before and during the Revolution, by authority of the town, he was dispossessed of the same by the Supreme Court in 1787, in favor of the heirs of the grantee, who purchased from Dr. Samuel Bellingham, who contested his father's (the Governor's) will.

To John Barker, Edward Barker, George Barker, Peter Barker, William Barker, Anne Barker, and Alice Barker, children of said Elizabeth, my daughter, late deceased, 10s each. To Ann Stronge and Katherine Stronge, daughters of my daughter Jane Stronge deceased, 20s each. To daughter Dorothie Coe, wife of John Coe, £10. To servant Philip Buntinge 10s. Residue to sonnes Thomas Hale, John Hale, William Hale, and Peter Hale. Son John Hale executor. Witnesses: James Gibson, William Blythe, John Greene, John Frebon.

Consistory of London, Register "Sperin," fo. 24.

[The Connecticut flavor of Strong and Coe, and the name of Anne Ward, strike me. The above are very likely the grandparents of Thomas Hale of Newbury. The surmise of the late Hon. Robert S. Hale (REGISTER, Oct. 1881) that Joseph Carter was Thomas Hale's only connection in New England (to let alone "America") seems to me very ill grounded. The Newbury pioneers were all interwoven in blood, and Thomas Hale was probably connected with many of his neighbors in Newbury, Oldtown and Rowley. The Doles and Hales have lived side by side there to this day, and Richard Dole's mother, Joan Hale, was doubtless among Thomas Hale's many near connections, as well as Thomas Barker of Rowley. We may probably add Samuel Hale of Wetherfield and William Hale of Billerica.—L. W.]

ROBERT PARKER, Romford, Essex, yeoman. Will 30 Nov. 1590; proved 25 Nov. 1591. To wife Agnes house I bought of Christopher Bryce, situate and being at Buleerica (i.e. Billerica). To son John all my free and coppie hold lands lying in great Bursted and Bulerica, John to pay to three sons, Robert Parker, Stephen Parker, and Jacob Parker £10 a year at 21 years. Wife and son John executors. As I owe my neighbor John Webster £10, he shall have twelve acres of Rye as security.

Archdeaconry of Essex, Register "Stephen," fo. 16.

[This will may eventually assist in clearing up the long obscurity about the origin of Rev. Robert Parker, the famous Puritan, as the places mentioned are parishes from which came some of the comrades of Rev. Robert's only son Thomas to New England. It is very puzzling to detach the Essex-Suffolk threads in the Ipswich-Newbury settlement from the Wilts-Hants woof, crossed occasionally by a West country streak. Luckily there is little Midland and North of England stock to complicate matters in the very earliest families. Those elements came in later on.—L. W.]

WILLIAM COFFIN, East Hurne, parish of Christchurche, county of South-[ampton], yeoman. * A chilver sheep, in Dorsetshire and probably in some of the adjoining counties, is a female lamb. It retains its name until it is one year old, but no longer. See articles on pur and chilver in the London Notes and Queries, 6th series, vol. 5, pp. 88, 176 and 215.—WM. B. TRASK.

[Beyond the fact that all Coffin wills of the period are most interesting to new England genealogists, the mention of Nicholas Coffin as overseer suggests the contemporaneous Nicholas (who died in 1613), grandfather of Tristram Coffin, the emigrant. The other overseer, Methuselah Deane, soundeth puritanically.—L. W.]

THOMAS SAVORD, Godshill [Isle of Wight], will undated, but testator being sicke"; proved 13 April, 1581. To be buried in churchyard of Godshill. To mother church of Winton 2d. EDE SEFFORD [docketed as "Editha"]. Will 12 April, 1581; proved Aug. 1581. To be buried in churchyard of Godshill. To the mother church of Winton 2d. To son William two ewe sheepe in there wooll, brass pott, kittell, coffer platter, little kive, and unto Johan his wife 12d. To daughter Alice two ewe shepe in ther wooll, two kittells, two payre of hetts, a blanket, a tubb, my best frocke, my best peticoat, and a wastcote. To Elizabeth Curle, daughter of Henrie Curle, a lamb. To Jane and Edith Denton, daughters of Richard Denton, 6d a pece. Rest to daughter Ann executrix. To Alice Baker 12d. Overseers, Thomas Kingsmill and William Jeffry. Witnesses, William Mervell, John Wright. Inventory £7. 11s. 3d. Ditto.

[I have also the will of Timothy Safford or Safford of Essex, mentioning a daughter Rebecca. This is interesting in connection with the fact that Thomas Safford of Ipswich, Massachusetts, had a granddaughter Rebecca Safford, who married Nathan Wheeler, one of the founders of Byfield, and whose granddaughter, Rebecca Wheeler, was mother of Dr. Nathan Noyes of Newburyport, my great-grandfather. Rebecca Wheeler's sister Elizabeth was grandmother of Capt. Abijah Garrison of Newburyport, father of William Lloyd Garrison. However, the above wills are, to my mind, those of the progenitors of Thomas Safford, the emigrant. It has always been surprising to me that the late Mr. Nathaniel Foster Safford, although a director of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, so long keenly interested in genealogical matters, and who contributed many important items to Essex County research, never made any more headway with his own line. Possibly he was early discouraged with the lamentable state of the first Ipswich records of both church and town. Even as late as the notice of Mr. Safford in the REGISTER for January, 1893, the maiden name of his ancestress Sarah, wife of John Safford, Thomas's son, seems to have been unknown. As will be presently seen, her name is most important in identifying the English line of the Saffords and her own family, the Lowes. The county records at Salem easily disclose Sarah (Lowe) Safford's identity."—L. W.]

WALTER LOWE, Shorwell, Isle of Wight, County of South^t. Will 24 Sept., 1578; proved 30 April, 1579. To be buried in Shorwell churchyard. To wife Annis best bed, &c. To John Lowe, eldest son of my son Henry Lowe, three sheepe, &c. and to his yonger brother Thomas Lowe the two other shepe. To said John Lowe the cubbard in the hall, one heffer, &c. Rest to wife Annis and sonne Henry Lowe, executors. Supervisors brother-in-law Thomas Dapernell and neighbor John Terrell. Inventory, £16. 15s. Archdeaconry of Winchester, Register, 2.

[This is, probably, the ancestor of Thomas Lowe, the pioneer of Chebacco, now Essex, but then part of Ipswich, Massachusetts, and possibly of John Lowe and other New England lines. Sarah, daughter of Thomas Lowe, married John, son of Thomas Safford, and in the early generations the New Englanders were apt to marry among their country folk in the mother land. The Saffords and Lowes seem thus to be neighbors in the Isle of Wight.—L. W.]

HENRIE JAKUES, Hullavinton, Wilts. Will 2 June 1601; proved 1601. To sonnes Thomas Jaques and Peter Jaques and daughter Ellenor Clarke a busshel of wheate each. To George Jaques, Ellenor Jaques, and John Jaques, children of sonne Thomas, to Katherine Jaques, daughter of sonne Peter, to Margaret Clarke, daughter of sonne-in-law William Clarke and to Edith Jaques and Ann Jaques, daughters of sonne Robert, all a lambe each. Rest to sonne Robert Jaques, executor, requesting my wife Maude Jaques to lett sonne Robert occupie my Tenament and yeard lands for her maintenance of meat Drinks, cloth, &c. Witnesses: John More, vicar, William Jenkins, Giles Punter.

Archdeaconry of Wiltshire, Register A, fo. 156.

RICHARD JAKUES, Grittleton, Wilts., clarke. Nuncupative will, January, 1652-3, leaving all to wife Grace, executrix. Witnesses: Mary Hill, Elizabeth White, Mary Ware. Brent, 144.

[The rector of Grittleton matriculated at Magdalen Hall, Oxford, in 1636, as 18 years old and son of Richard Jaques of Rodborne, Wilts. Henry Jaques was probably the grandfather of Henry Jaques who came to Newbury, Massachusetts, in 1640, with Benjamin Woodbridge, at the invitation, it is supposed, of Benjamin's elder brother John. Henry Jaques's next neighbor in Newbury, George Little, is said to have come at the same time on the same invitation. Henry Jaques's eldest son, Henry of Woodbridge, New Jersey, is the ancestor of the Jaques family of that state, while his younger children have numerous descendants in New England. His grandson, Richard Jaques, planted the famous elm of Newbury, celebrated by Miss Gould, Dr. Holmes, and others, and still slowly dying in front of the old Jaques homestead, lately occupied in part by the Newburyport philanthropist, Miss Anna Jaques. The name of Richard was, as it still is, persistent in the Jaques family, there being several other Oxonians and clergymen of the name in the Grittleton rector's time, and Richard is found as a name in the family of Sir John Jaques, long established in St. Christopher le-Stocks, London, now the site of the Bank of England.—L. W.]

Wife Susan, while widow, to have profits of lands given to children had by her, but if she marry not to have either house in Oxford or custody of children. Wife Susan also to procure cancelling of bond for £200 to her father and her brother Mr. Daniel Bernard, late deceased, or else all jewells, &c. to sonne Edward. If executor or administrator of Mr. Thomas Barnard or Mr. Daniel Barnard molest my executor for the £200 the same to be saved out of lands bequeathed to children by Susan. Executor, eldest sonne Edward. Overseers, Mr. Principall of Brasenose, Mr. William Leach, and sonne-in-law Mr. Robert Parratt. Witnesses, Richard Dod, Thomas Singleton. Codicil, 9 Nov. 1590. Whereas I Olyver Withington, doctor of physicke, of the Vniversitie of Oxford, have not provided for my youngest sonne Nicholas Withington, to said Nicholas house at Whateley where widow Kersey dwells, lease of Brasenose hammes and Mr. Parrett's hammes, notwithstanding any former bequest or grant, and £20. Witnesses, Thomas Singleton, Myles Leigh, John Bernarde, Edward Withington.

Drury, 75.

[Dr. Withington was father of Richard Withington, the demi of Magdalen, whose will was given in the July REGISTER, p. 298. This will shows the Barnard pedigree in the Oxford Visitation, published by the Harleian Society, to be a tissue of errors and omissions. Dr. Withington is called "Witherington" in the Visitation and is called "of Lancashire." Dick Whittington might just as well have been denominated "of Gloucestershire" after his famous third term of office. Dr. Withington was certainly brought up and lived most of his life in Oxford City, and may have been son of Richard Withington, mayor there in 1567. The doctor was M.A. in 1555, proctor of the university in 1561 and M.D. in 1569. The Visitation which gives his second wife as "Sara" instead of Susan, makes no mention of her brother Daniel Barnard. The doctor's first wife was Katharine Bridgeman, a niece of Sir Thomas White, founder of St. John's College. Most of the doctor's children were of some note. Francis was canon of Southwell and Oliver was vicar of Nottingham.—L. W.]

GEN. FRANCIS A. WALKER, LL.D.

By REV. SILVANUS HAYWARD, A.M., of Southbridge, Mass.

GENERAL FRANCIS AMASA WALKER, A.M., Ph.D., LL.D., was born in Boston, Mass., July 2, 1840, and died there January 5, 1897. His father was Hon. Amasa Walker, LL.D., who held the office of Secretary of State in Massachusetts from 1851 to 1853, and who was lecturer on Political Economy at Oberlin and Amherst, and author of the "Science of Wealth," a book marked with scholarship and profound thought. His mother was Hannah, daughter of Stephen Ambrose of Concord, New Hampshire, a woman remarkable for a rare combination of Puritanic strength of character with refined literary taste. His first American ancestor was Captain Samuel Walker of Lynn, Mass., who came to this country about 1630, and was actively prominent in affairs of Church and State. The ancestral line is as follows: Francis Amasa,⁸ Hon. Amasa,⁷ Deacon Walter⁶ and Priscilla Charpentier (of French Huguenot stock), Captain Phineas⁵ and Susanna Hyde, Nathaniel⁴ and Submit Brewer, John³ and ———, Samuel² and Sarah Reed, Samuel¹.

Francis Amasa Walker began the study of Latin at the age of seven and entered Amherst College at fifteen. Losing one year on account of weakness of the eyes, he graduated in 1860, having received prizes for composition and extempore speaking. He then entered the law office of Devens & Hoar at Worcester, but a few days after attaining his majority enlisted under Colonel Devens, as Sergeant Major in the Fifteenth Massachusetts Regiment of Volunteers. Enthusiastic in military service and "almost fiercely loyal" he performed his duties with such faithful efficiency and marked personal bravery, that he was rapidly promoted till he became Adjutant General of the Second Corps under General Hancock, who said, "Colonel Walker is the best Adjutant General that I ever knew." He took part in many battles, notably at Fredericksburg, and Chancellorsville where he was severely wounded, and in the campaigns of the Wilderness, and the siege of Petersburg. At Ream's Station, while carrying dispatches in the evening, he was captured and confined in Libby prison six weeks. Broken health compelled him to retire from the army early in 1865, having won the high encomiums of his superior officers, with the brevet title of Brigadier General, conferred on request of General Hancock.

After a few months rest at his father's home in North Brookfield, he taught Latin and Greek at Williston Seminary for two years, was assistant editor of the Springfield Republican for one year, when he was placed by President Grant at the head of the Bureau of Statistics in Washington. His eminent fitness for the position led to his appointment as Superintendent of the Census of 1870, in which work at this time and again in 1880, he surpassed all his predecessors in the world's history. In 1871 he was Indian Commissioner, but after one year accepted the professorship of History and Political Economy in the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale, where he remained eight years, having been Lecturer at Johns Hopkins for two years of that time. He subsequently lectured for three years at Harvard. In 1878 he published "Money," probably his most important book, "referred to by English economists as first of its kind." He was Chief of the Bureau of Awards at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, and represented the United States in the International Monetary Conference at Paris in 1878.

In 1881 he became President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he accomplished his most important work, elevating a small technical school to a great Scientific University famous throughout the land. Honored and beloved by his associate teachers, he inspired the students with admiration and respect. They believed in him not only as a great man of immense resources, but as a personal friend. Though he had little to do directly in the class-room, he knew them individually, and for them his office door was every day ajar, and his kindly advice and assistance were always ready.

Stricken with apoplexy, he died without a moment's warning, undoubtedly the victim of overwork. The death of very few men could have brought so much sorrow throughout the civilized world. City and national officials, and learned societies at home and abroad, vied with each other to do him honor. The London Times said, "The death of the American economist, General Walker, will be regretted in this country almost as much as in the United States."

Besides "Money" already mentioned, General Walker published some twelve or fifteen books, statistical, historical, financial and economic; among the more important of which are the "History of the Second Army Corps," "Principles of Political Economy," and "International Bimetallism." As a writer his style is eminently fitted to the subjects of which he treats.—clear, positive, concise, indicative of profound and exact thinking permeated with strong practical common sense. Affiliating with the Democratic party on the subjects of tariff and finance, his discussions are always fair-minded and unpartisan, and he was annoyed to indignation to be represented as sympathizing with the “free silver craze of '96.” Senator Hoar says: “The country has lost its ablest and most famous authority in the department of economy, science relating to money, the currency, and kindred topics. General Walker had a clear head and a scientific temperament, which enabled him to deal with great questions without heat or passion, and in the light of clear reason. It is better to have such a man as Walker even to differ with, than some men who discuss questions to agree with.” Hon. Carroll D. Wright says: “General Walker never winced. He faced his foe with pen as fearlessly as he would armed with a gun. So honorable a fighter was he, and so pleasing was his personality, that when he withdrew from the contest, his enemy invariably became his friend.”

Few better illustrations of heredity can be found than in General Walker. The family for generations has been distinguished for strong character and independence of thought and action. His father and uncle were leading abolitionists, and among the founders of the Republican party. His boyhood home at North Brookfield was a well-known station of the “underground railroad.” From his Huguenot grandmother came apparently his remarkable versatility, together with his special taste for the exact sciences. From mother and grandmother alike he inherited that dignity and charm of manner which fascinated all who knew him, so that one says: “He was the most lovable man I ever knew.” From his father came his capacious and retentive memory, fearlessness of action and great genius for details, while from both sides he inherited a sturdy Puritan strictness in all questions of honor and integrity.

Tireless activity characterized his whole life. What was said of him in Boston might almost be said of the whole country: “There was no department of life that did not feel the inspiration of his noble thought, and the touch of his firm hand.” The man himself is always greater than his work, and it is noticeable that all the eulogies which come from acquaintances of General Walker are pervaded with a sense of “deep personal bereavement.” One of the best types of the true “American gentleman,” he was much sought for in the social and literary life of Boston. Distinguished among the distinguished members of the famous Saturday Club, he had been for ten years President of the Saint Botolph Club, and for fifteen years member of the Wednesday Evening Club of 1777.

Always modest and unassuming, unselfishly seeking to serve his country and mankind, he was “fairly loaded” with unsought honors. In his own city and state he was continually called to important posts. He was a member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society and of the Massachusetts Historical Society, President of the Massachusetts Military Historical Society, Chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Managers at the World's Fair, eight years member of the Massachusetts Board of Education, three years member of the School Board of Boston, President of the Society of Arts and Trustee of the Art Museum, six years Chairman of the Massachusetts Topographical Survey Commission, four years member of the Park Commission, and Trustee of the Public Library. He was President of the American Statistical Association from 1882 till his death, also seven years President of the American Economic Association, Vice-President of the National Academy of Sciences, also of the American Society for the Promotion of Profit Sharing. He was Honorary Member and "President Adjoint" of the International Statistical Association, Honorary Member of the Royal Statistical Society of England, Correspondent of the Central Statistical Commission of Belgium, Corresponding Member of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, an officer of the French Legion of Honor, and Correspondent of the Institute of France. For his Statistical Atlas of the United States in 1875, he received a medal of the first class from the International Geographical Congress of Paris.

He received the Ph.D. from his alma mater, also from Yale and Halle. Amherst conferred also the LL.D., which was repeated in turn by Yale, Harvard, Saint Andrews, Dublin and Edinburgh Universities.

August 16, 1865, General Walker married Exene E., daughter of Timothy Stoughton, Esq., of Gill, Mass., who survives him with seven children and two grandchildren. Their son Francis has recently been appointed Professor of Political and Social Science at Colorado College, and has the degree of Ph.D. from Columbia.

MOORE GENEALOGY.

Communicated by JOHN S. SARGENT, of Chicago, Ill.

JOHN¹ MOORE was in Sudbury in 1642, and in September of the same year he bought of Edmund Rice a house and land situated in the east part of the town, in the southerly part of what is now the town of Wayland. He took the oath of fidelity at Sudbury July 9, 1645, and the same year bought of John Stone a dwelling house and house lot, and all other lands and meadows belonging to Stone by virtue of his right in the beginning of the plantation of Sudbury. He subscribed to the covenant of Lancaster "11th first mo. 1653," and forty acres of land were laid out in his name, in the first grant of lots (1653, 30th 9 m^o.).

John Moore was a prominent citizen, and a prosperous farmer and land owner. His will is dated the 25th of August, 1668, and was allowed the 7th of April, 1674. In it he mentions wife Elizabeth, sons John, William, Jacob, Joseph and Benjamin, and daughter Elizabeth, wife of Henry Rice, Mary, wife of Daniel Stone, and Lydia, wife of James Cutler; and appoints Rev. Edmund Brown, Lt. Edmond Goodnow, and Mr. Thomas Stevens, overseers of the will. His signature to the will was John More. The name was written variously, More, Moor and Moore, and is derived from the Gaelic, from Mor; meaning great, chief, tall, mighty. Children of John (perhaps not in their order of birth):

NOTES AND QUERIES.

NOTES.

THE BRUNSWICK STANWOODS.—In Babson's History, quoted by Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins, in her article of October, 1896, Philip Stainwood of Gloucester is said to have married in 1654, but the town records say "Philip and wife Jane" had a son John—the second child—"born last of the last mo. 1652." Also, according to Babson, he was selectman in 1667. The town records show by two entries that he was selectman in 1658. Job, John and Samuel are given by her as the sons of Philip,² son of the original settler. According to the town records of Gloucester the children of Philip² and "Easter" were:

- i. ESTER, b. Sept. 2, 1684.
- ii. PHILLEP, b. Dec. 16, 1685.
d. 10 of 11 mo., 1685.
- iii. MARY, b. June 3, 1687.
- iv. PHILLEP,³ b. March 10, 1690.
- v. DAVID, b. February 14, 1695.
- vi. JOHN, b. March 13, 1698; d. March 5, 1718.
- vii. HANNAH, b. February 7, 1703.
- viii. ABIGAIL, b. November 14, 1705.

Philip² died on Sept. 24, 1728.

4. PHILIP³ (Philip,² *Philip*⁴) had two of the sons credited to Philip,² with others.

The Gloucester Records give as the children of Philip³ and Sarah Harraden, whom he married, Dec. 18, 1718:

- i. SARAH, b. June 28, 1720.
d. July 13, 1720.
- ii. JOHN, b. Aug. 23, 1721.
d. Feb. 16, 1723.
- iii. SARAH, b. Feb. 12, 1725.
- iv. JOB, b. Feb. 14, 1727, who married Hannah Byles and Martha Bradstreet, and went to Mt. Desert.
- v. ELIZABETH, b. May 30, 1729.
- vi. ZEBULON, b. Aug. 28, 1731.

Sarah, wife of Philip,² died in 1732, and he married Lydia Mogridge in 1736. The children of this marriage were:

- vii. BENJAMIN, b. November 17, 1736.
- viii. ESTHER, b. Dec. 9, 1738.
- ix. JOHN, b. May 31, 1741.
- x. ABRAHAM, b. January 8, 1743-4.

I can find no authority in the Gloucester Records for saying that the original settler, Philip, had a son Lawrence.

MORTIMORE, alias TANNER, AND HATHERLY. — In looking over Worthy's "Devonshire Wills" (London, 1896), I happened upon the following abstract of a will which helps to throw some light on the English ancestry of Timothy Hatherly of Scituate. On pages 253-4 I find:

"1637. The last will of Elinor Mortimore, otherwise Tanner, of Fremington, widow. She desires to be buried in the parish churchyard, just by the chancel door, near to the 'sepulchre' of her husband William Mortimore, alias Tanner, and leaves 10s to the poor of the parish. Mentions sons Matthew and Henry Mortimore, alias Tanner, and daughter Elinor Friend; also son Tymothy Hatherley and daughter Eylin Hanver."

This will was proved the 30th August, 1637. In her husband's will, proved the 12th September, 1615, I find no mention of any "Hatherley" or "Hanver," and this lends color to the surmise that the two mentioned above were her children by a former marriage. Nicholas Mortymer, in his will, proved the 11th December, 1613 (page 252), leaves "to Elizabeth Hatherleigh my second beste dublett and jerkyn, my best wastcoatt, and one canvas shirt;" and "to John Hatherleigh my best hatt." I give these last items for what they are worth.

Mr. Henry F. Waters, to whom I showed the first will, said that he had no doubt that Timothy Hatherly and his sister, Eglin Hanford, of Scituate, were the persons mentioned. Eglin Hanford came with two daughters in the Planter, in 1625. Another daughter, Lettice, seems to have arrived earlier, for she married Edward Foster, of Scituate, the 8th April of the same year. Timothy Hatherly, though married twice, left no children.

I hope that the above may lead to some further investigations. If not, it may still prove of some interest to the numerous descendants of Edward Foster.

NASH—SAMPSON—SOULE. — In Winsor's History of Duxbury, p. 301, is the statement that Abraham Sampson — the first Abraham — married a daughter of Lieut. Samuel Nash. Having last spring occasion to look up something connected with the Sampson family, I sought verification for the statement in the will of Samuel Nash, and what was my surprise to find mention of his two "grandsons (Samuel Sampson's two sons) Samuel and Ichabod," his two grand-daughters Elizabeth "Dillano" and Mary Howland, and his daughter Martha Clarke. His daughter Martha to be executrix and his two friends Thomas "Dillino" and John Soule to be "overseers." (Old Colony Court Orders, Vol. 4, part 2, p. 112.)

Samuel Sampson was killed in Philip's War, and a reference to the Old Colony Records shows that in 1678 his widow Esther Sampson married John Soule, thus proving positively that the wife of John Soule², son of George Soule of the Mayflower, was Esther Nash, daughter of Lieut. Samuel Nash, and not "Esther de la Noye" as has been so long conjectured.

OTIS. — In the Otis Genealogy, published in vols. 1-5, the following is given: Stephen Otis, born 30 Sept. 1738, son of James and Sarah (Tudor) Otis, grandson of Judge Joseph and Dorothy (Thomas) Otis, great-grandson of John and Mary (Jacob) Otis, married Lucy Chandler of Duxbury, Mass., in 1672. They lived at Colchester, Conn., where their eleven children were born. He took the oath of fidelity 1781, and the freeman's oath 1782. He was in the old French war under Gen. Putnam, was stationed at Fort Stanwix, and was at the taking of Montreal. He was also a soldier in the Revolutionary war and saw the burning of New London. He died at Halifax, Vt., 1832, aged 93 years, 51 days.

This statement was made only sixteen years after his death, so there must have been some foundation on which it rested; but I cannot find the official record, although letters have been sent to the adjutant-generals of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont. No Revolutionary soldier should be allowed to have his military service questioned by any of his descendants. Can the REGISTER give me any assistance?

PERKINS.—I found the enclosed on our Probate Records after the Waterbury History was printed. Titus Perkins was not of Waterbury, and I think perhaps was from Massachusetts. In any event, I thought you might like to have it:—"At a Court of Probate, holden at Waterbury, Conn. January 20, 1796, Joseph Hopkins, Esq. Judge. Epha Warner of Waterbury was appointed administrator on the estate of Titus Perkins, a soldier in Capt. Joseph Thomas's company in Col. Jⁿ Lamb's Reg^t of artillery in the late Continental army, Dec'd, and became bound as the law directs." This is all that appears on record.

DEATH OF JAMES GRAY, DEALER IN BOOKS.—The following notice in "The Boston News-Letter," April 16, 1705, is of interest as showing the demand for literature in New England at that early period. Judging from the specimens of the publications that have come down to the present time, they were for the most part books of a religious character, though occasionally a poem or an historical work is seen among them:

"On Thursday last Dyed at Boston, James Gray, That used to go up and down the Country Selling of Books, who left some considerable Estate behind him; and 'tis confidently affirmed that he made a Will, which he left in some honest persons hand, with some other Papers, which have not yet been found: And any person in Town or Country who have said Will or Papers, are desired to bring them into the Office of Probate in Boston."

Reference to the files of the Suffolk Probate Office shows that administration papers were granted on Gray's estate in 1705, thus proving that the will was not found.

SAMUEL A. GREEN.

PRATT.—Statements on page 63 of the work issued in Boston in 1889, relating to the descendants from Mathew Pratt, of Weymouth, Mass., are not correct as regards (VI.) Matthew, son of (V.) Matthew, of Braintree, Mass.

I have the family records of that period, in the handwriting of (V.) Matthew, and subsequent records, which quite disprove the statement there made of relationship with Matthew Pratt, of Braintree, Vt. Although the latter may have been descendant from the Mathew Pratt who is recorded as being of Weymouth in 1623, he certainly was not a son of (V.) Matthew Pratt, of Braintree, Mass., whose son of that name, born 21 Nov., 1769, died 22 June, 1776. Another son, born 18 Aug., 1780, was also named Matthew, and he died 18 Nov., 1847, in the State of New York, where he had long resided and had several children.

MARRIAGES IN BERWICK, MAINE.—The late Rev. Ephraim Williams Allen, born in Newburyport, Mass., Oct. 9, 1813, died at Newark, N. J., May 17, 1896 (see Congregational Year Book for 1897, page 14), had in his possession, as he wrote in August, 1895, from 32 Halsey St., Brooklyn, N. Y., a little manuscript book of marriages from 1745 to 1828 in old Berwick, Maine. The marriages numbered 498.

QUERIES.

COVERT, WRIGHT, KNAPP, MUNSON, BARNES.—Information is desired concerning the ancestry of the following named persons:—

1. Elisha Covert, of Cortlandt Manor, Dutchess Co., New York. His will was proved July 14, 1801; in it he mentions his seven daughters. In 1775 he probably lived in the northeast precinct of "Nine Partners." He was one of the executors of the will of Nicholas Budd, dated Aug. 17, 1772. Was his wife a Budd? and was he a descendant of Tennis Jans Covert, who came from Holland in 1650, and settled at New York? If so, what was his line of descent?

2. Daniel Wright, of Yorktown, Westchester Co., New York, where he was living in 1751. He belonged to a Quaker family. His wife was Rachel, daughter of Daniel Horton and Esther Lane.

3. Isaiah Knapp, probably of Connecticut, or one of the east-Hudson counties of New York. He married prior to 1763, Prudence Scofield, of Stamford, Conn. It is said that he was related to Uzzal Knapp, one of Washington's body guard, who is buried at Newburgh, New York.

4. Eunice Munson, or Monson. She was born Oct. 19, 1754, and died Dec. 11, 1807. She married Timothy Barnes, Jr., of Litchfield, Conn.

5. Timothy Barnes, or Barnes, of Branford, Conn. He married Dec. 6, 1733, Phebe Barnes, of New Haven. (Branford Town Records.)

She m. 2d. after 1790, as his second wife, Thomas Waugh, of Litchfield; he was b. 1727, and m. 1st, Rosina Watson, by whom he had eight children; she died Aug. 4, 1789; he d. Feb. 24, 1801. There was a John Lewis, b. June 16, 1734, son of Samuel Lewis and Mary Taintor, of Colchester, Conn., later of Kent, Conn., from which place the line of travel to South Farms is across Washington; the Washington records give the marriage of Thomas Waugh, of Litchfield, and Rosina Watson, April 11, 1754.

Which of the above was the first husband of Elizabeth Barnard? Names of her children, and present address of any descendant?

2. Lucy Barnard, sister of above, b. about 1748, m. James Adams, of South Farms, by whom she had issue. She m. 2d, about 1786, ——— Olds, of Litchfield(?) as his second wife, "both quite old when married"; she d. Sept. 16, 1807. FRANK WILLING LEACH.

DAVID NUTTING AND JAMES PLATT.—Who were the parents of Captain David Nutting, a Revolutionary officer, and where and when was he born? He was living in Bennington, Vt., in 1781, as his eldest child was born during that year. His wife's name was Tamar——; can any one inform me if this was Tamar Warner, aunt of Seth Warner and widow of Remember Baker? She was living in Bennington at that time, and I think it very likely that David Nutting married some one in that town. He afterwards removed to Berkshire, Vt., and in 1797 was the first Town Clerk.

Where in Connecticut in 1776 was James Platt born, son of John Platt and Sarah ——? Sarah died, and John Platt had by his second wife (name unknown), Levi, Homer, Malora, Ophelia and Aphia. This could not be the John Platt who married Sarah Lockwood in Norwalk, as that was in 1695. I would also like to ascertain birthplace of John Platt.

NOTE.—The history of Derby records that she was the daughter of Deacon Daniel Bennett. This is not correct. Sarah Bennett m. in 1769, Joseph Hull,⁶ the fourth of the name, and they were the parents of Commodore Isaac Hull.

GREEN.—The Family of the Printers. Are there extant any of the papers, or account books, or Family Bibles of Samuel Green (1615-1702), the printer of the Elliot Bible, of Bartholomew Green (1666-1732), his son, the official printer of Massachusetts, or of Timothy Green (1679-1757), the official printer of Connecticut?

There is good reason to suppose that nine children of Samuel Green (1615-1702) by his second wife were alive in the early part of 1731, although but four at the utmost are given in the Records in 1707. I am endeavoring to find out what became of all his children, by both his first and second wives.

My examination would seem to show that, beside the printer Greens, who are well known to have claimed descent from Samuel, Isaiah L. Green (1761-1841) H. C. 1781. M. C. 1805-9, 1811-3, was a descendant.

REPLIES.

A PROBLEM OF NEW ENGLAND GENEALOGY (ante, vol. 39, p. 78).—The facts adduced by Mr. Waters and Mrs. Troup have thrown so much doubt upon the conclusion given on p. 79 of Vol. 39 of the REGISTER, as the result of the facts there stated by me, that, although I do not yet acknowledge that conclusion disproved, as Mr. Appleton does, I have most carefully examined the facts there given, to see whether any other solution is possible. I think all the facts have the most ample proof behind them, except those stated in the parenthesis about Anthony Wilson; these were taken directly from Savage, and I cannot say that he who first stated them is much to be blamed, but they can be proved only so far as follows:

John Brundish died in 1639, leaving a widow Rachel and five children, all girls except the third child, a boy; it would appear that on Aug. 5, 1642, the widow married Anthony Wilson: that the daughter Bethiah was about sixteen, April 26, 1654; that after she was eighteen and before the daughter Posthume was, so probably in 1655-7, the Brundish property was divided between Mary, wife of Francis Purdy, John Brundish (afterwards Representative from Rye), Bethiah Brundish and Posthume Brundish; from which it would follow that the widow and one of the elder daughters was then dead.

Thomas Bulkeley died in 1658, and his widow afterwards became widow of Anthony Wilson. She made a will in 1677; from this will it is plain she was not the mother of Anthony Wilson's child. Anthony Wilson had an only child, Sarah; she married Joseph Rowland (born about 1647) and their first child was born about 1677, I think. We find but one daughter of hers, named Elizabeth.

I have also again carefully examined Anthony Wilson's will (or rather what is left of its record). Two things appear: he ignores his Brundish stepchildren, and is very affectionate towards the Hills; one would naturally say they were blood relatives of his. If it can be proved they were not, I will not hesitate to say that Anthony Wilson married, probably in 1655-7, Elizabeth, younger daughter of William and Sarah (Jordan) Hill, had by her his daughter Sarah, and then immediately lost his wife; perhaps I am near proving it. Possibly this is the wife's grandchild, concerning whom Edmund Greenleaf complains in his will that he spent money on it without reimbursement.

If this solution is correct, there are two problems (one solved) instead of one, since there will be no longer any reason to suppose the Wilsons came from the same part of England as the Hills.

In Anthony Wilson's inventory there occurs childbed linen. Perhaps that might be taken as an argument that his daughter was quite young when he died.

SOUTHWORTH (vol. 51, p. 496).—In answer to Mary L. T. Alden, in October number—Edward Southworth, the pilgrim, was in Leyden in 1611 and 1613, so could not have been the Edward in Nottinghamshire in 1614. There are some mistakes in the line given in Winsor's history of Duxbury. Sir John—not Sir Thomas—married Ellen, daughter of Richard Langton. Christopher's son was not named Richard, but Edward who m. Jane Lloyd. Edward who m. Alice Carpenter probably came from Sir John, who m. Ellen Langton through his son and heir Sir Thomas who m. Margery Boteler, his grandson Sir John, who m. Mary Asheton, and his great-grandson Thomas who m. Rosamond Lister, and was father to Thomas and Edward who went to Leyden. The baronetcy expired with the second Sir John.

S. G. WEBBER.

[Some years before his death, Mr. Horatio Gates Somerby informed me that the pedigree of Southworth in Winsor's Duxbury was not printed as he furnished it to the family. He did furnish a pedigree, but some one altered it before printing. In the pedigree furnished he did not connect the Plymouth settlers with it. I presume that Mr. Somerby's genealogical papers, which were left to the Massachusetts Historical Society, will show what he did furnish the Southworth family. He complained of other clients who, in printing matter furnished by him, had made him responsible for mistakes he never made. Mr. Somerby died at London, Nov. 14, 1872, in his 67th year. See sketch in the REGISTER, vol. 28, pp. 340-342.—JOHN WARD DEAN.]

MERCY, MARY, &c.—On page 225 of Vol. LI. of the REGISTER, Miss Helen Mansfield furnished some items of interest as to confusion of the names Mercy, Martha, Mary. In one of lesser Genealogies it is made to appear that Judah Wright, returning from the captivity in Canada, after the Deerfield massacre, wedded Miss Mercy Hoyt, daughter of Deacon Hoyt. This information is correct except as to the Christian name. It was Miss Mary Hoyt to whom he was betrothed and whom he happily married on his return.

If Miss Mansfield has at hand the information will she kindly state where the record is which shows the marriage of Mercy Thorn and Isaiah Wood, 1653, and who this Isaiah Wood was.

COBB (vol. 51, page 174).—I wish to correct an error in the Woodward Genealogy in the April number of the REGISTER for 1897, on page 174. John Cobb of Taunton, and John Cobb of Plymouth, were entirely distinct persons. John Cobb of Plymouth descended from Henry Cobb; married Martha Nelson 1658, and had: John, Samuel, Elizabeth, Israel, Patience, Ebenezer, Elisha and James. See Davis's Landmarks of Plymouth. John and Edward Cobb, of Taunton, were probably brothers, and Augustine was nephew of John. John married Martha and had no children, and looked upon Augustine as his heir. When his wife died, he married Jane (Godfrey) Woodward, and had, at least, John, Morgan and Samuel. His will was made Nov. 5, 1699; proved 1691, and speaks of these three, and Elizabeth and Israel Woodward. Augustine Cobb was the ancestor of Gen. David Cobb and Col. Silas Cobb.

A Memoir of Robert C. Winthrop. Prepared for the Massachusetts Historical Society. By ROBERT C. WINTHROP, JR. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. 1897. 8vo. pp. vi.+358. With portraits at various ages. Price, $3.

The life of the Honorable Robert C. Winthrop, by his son, is an excellent account of the public life and of the views of public questions of a remarkable man, for he was one of the few, who, having tasted power, have resisted the temptation to continue its possession by compromising their principles. He withdrew from office, not because his scholarly instincts and fastidious tastes made life in Washington distasteful to him, as Daniel Webster had prophesied, but because he would not deny or veil his opinions and was not what men, even so honest as William H. Seward and Horace Greeley, considered "a practical politician." Other Boston boys of his generation were as well born and as well bred as he, and had as much talent and as much capacity for public business, but hardly another, starting with equal advantages, had the moral and intellectual balance to determine his political principles with sound judgment and to follow them without wavering but with moderation. Others mistook hysterical sentimentality for patriotism and descended to vulgar abuse of their opponents to win applause; Mr. Winthrop, when he could no longer retain public office with self-respect, retired promptly to private life and, calm as an Epicurean deity, surveyed from a higher plane and purer air the noise and dust of the conflict below. He returned home not because he disliked the duties of public life, but because he fully appreciated that he could benefit the world more by what he was than by what he did, and from this knowledge came his marvellous self-restraint under provocation and his Christian forgiveness of outrage and insult from Northern fanatics and Southern madmen. On the great political question of his generation Mr. Winthrop was not in sympathy with the party which prevailed, and his expressions of opinion on the successive steps in the progress of that stupendous experiment have therefore an air of antiquity which is appropriate to the elegance and polish of his style. His views on religion and education were in harmony with his political creed and hence it was natural that he was one of a small minority in an age which supposes that large buildings and numerous pupils make an institution of learning and that man's duty to his fellow-man is the whole of religion. By the omission from this biography of all details of Mr. Winthrop's domestic and social life there is left clear and distinct the impression of the honorable, conscientious, refined gentleman, who, having read only the best books and lived only in the highest society, decided all questions and acted on all occasions with "the patrician decorum which becomes the smooth result of impulse restrained and emotion checked." The likenesses of him in this volume are indeed "not wholly satisfactory,"—they are too severe, as the likeness in the room of the Managers of the Provident Association, where Mr. Winthrop presided so many years, is too feeble,—but there is a picture which shows a fitting embodiment of this noble spirit. In the collection of the portraits of the Speakers of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, in the Speaker's Room in the State House, the face and bearing of Mr. Winthrop in his early manhood shine like those of an ideal prince in a fairy tale, making the best of the plain faces about him look doubly bourgeois by the contrast. The work of Mr. Winthrop's son in this book deserves unstinted praise. Seldom is a task so delicate performed with so much skill. The volume is almost wholly composed of extracts from Mr. Winthrop's speeches, letters and diaries, and from the letters of his friends, not chosen to exhibit him at his best, but to give an entirely fair idea of his character. Some of the most unmeasured abuse and most caustic criticism which Mr. Winthrop ever endured are printed, and the only defence offered to them is the continuous narrative showing his subsequent reconciliation with his traducers by their desire. The younger Mr. Winthrop has limited himself to brief statements of facts necessary to the continuity of the biography, but even this extreme brevity cannot conceal the pungency of his own style, which makes the reader regret that it is so seldom committed to print. Typographically the book is all that could be desired. * * *

The American Genealogist; being a Catalogue of Family Histories. A Bibliography of American Genealogy or a List of the Title Pages of Books and Pamphlets on Family History, published in America from 1771 to date. Fourth Edition. Prepared by the Publishers. Albany, N. Y.: Joel Munsell's Sons, Publishers. 1897. Super Royal 8vo. pp. 328. Price, $5.

This book is considered the fourth edition of "A Handbook of American Genealogy," by William H. Whitmore, A.M., published in 1862, and a notice of it was printed in the REGISTER for April, 1862, written, we suppose, by the editor, the Rev. Elias Nason. A second edition was published in 1868 with the title changed to "The American Genealogist," which title the third edition, in 1875, also bore. These three editions bear the name of Mr. Whitmore as author.

This fourth edition is prepared by the sons of the late Joel Munsell, the original publisher of the Handbook. Important changes are made in the work. The titles are arranged alphabetically instead of chronologically, but we miss the descriptions of the contents of the several works with remarks on the value of their contents, which are omitted. In their stead are added a large number of new titles. The publishers consider this as a "companion volume" to their "Genealogical Index," originally prepared by the late Daniel S. Durrie, and of which the fourth edition was published in 1895.

The book will be found a very useful one.

Cape Cod. The Right Arm of Massachusetts. An Historical Narrative. By CHARLES F. SWIFT, author of "A History of Old Yarmouth." Yarmouth: Register Publishing Company. 1897. 8vo. pp. 391. Price, in cloth, $5.00. Sold by George E. Littlefield, 67 Cornhill, Boston.

While it is probable that Bartholomew Gosnold was the first Englishman to set foot upon Cape Cod, the chronicles of Thorfinn Karlsefne make it likely that, about A. D. 1006, two ships from Iceland sailed along its shores "where were trackless and white sandy beaches, of such length as to obtain the name of Furdurstrandir" (Marvellous Strands). The signing of the compact in the cabin of the Mayflower in Cape Cod Harbor (at the place now called Provincetown) on Nov. 11, 1620, was one of the most important scenes ever enacted in the unfolding of the great drama of empire on the shores of the New World. The fisheries have from the earliest times furnished occupation to many Massachusetts men and we find the pilgrims at Plymouth as early as 1670 devoting the profits therefrom to the establishment and maintenance of free public schools. The author asserts that the first overt act of the Revolution took place in Barnstable in September, 1774, when a large body of the citizens prevented the judge of the King's Court of Common Pleas from holding court in that place. This was three months prior to the first overt act of rebellion in New Hampshire (namely, the capture of Fort William and Mary in Newcastle, on December 14, 1774, by New Hampshire men, as the result of an earlier ride on public business of Paul Revere from Boston to Portsmouth to give notice that troops and supplies would soon arrive from England), and seven months prior to the battle of Lexington. Could the Norsemen have looked down through the grand perspective of the unfolding years, could they have seen the wonderful rise and progress (continual earnest of the grander progress yet to be) of our great Republic in the West, invested as all of its history has been with the charm of romance and story, well might they with prophetic vision have given it the name of Furdurstrandir (Marvellous Strands).

Year Book. 1896. Charleston, South Carolina. 8vo. pp. xii.+423.

This valuable work was presented to the Society by the Hon. J. Adger Smyth, Mayor of Charleston. The contents are similar to previous Year Books of Charleston noticed in the REGISTER.

It contains many interesting and clear cut portraiture of many eminent South Carolinians who were attendants at the services of St. Philip's Church, Charleston. It appears, from "An Act for the better observance of the Lord's Day," passed by the Legislature of South Carolina, cited in his sketch by Edward McCrady, Esq., that the observance of Sunday was formerly quite as strict in Charleston as in New England in colonial times.

The compiler of this volume, George E. Cokayne, F.S.A., Clarenceux King of Arms, is the author of several books relating to biography and kindred subjects, the chief of which is his "Complete Peerage," now in the course of publication, the sixth volume having reached the name Ryton. Americans remember Mr. Cokayne with kindly feelings as the intimate friend of the lamented Col. Chester.

Mr. Cokayne here gives some account of the Lord Mayors and Sheriffs of London from 1601 to 1625, "showing as far as possible (inter alia) their parentage, marriages, children and armorial bearings, as also the date of their appointment as Aldermen, which office during this period (indeed from 1582 to 1653) was without exception held by them. The style of each Lord Mayor or Sheriff is given as it existed during any time of his tenure of office." The biographical details in this volume are gathered carefully and laboriously from every available source, and full references to authorities are given. The compiler has laid the students of heraldry and family history under great obligations.

The arms of Sir William Cokayne, Lord Mayor of London, 1619-20, are given as a frontispiece to the volume.

The Colonial Laws of New York from the Year 1664 to the Revolution, including the Charters to the Duke of York, the Commissions and Instructions to the Colonial Governors, the Duke's Laws, the Laws of the Dongan and Leisler Assemblies, the Charters of Albany and New York and the Acts of the Colonial Legislatures from 1691 to 1775 inclusive. Albany: James B. Lyon, State Printer. 1894. Five volumes. Vol. 1, pp. xxiii.+1093; Vol. 2, pp. 1113; Vol. 3, pp. 1181; Vol. 4, pp. 1187; Vol. 5, pp. 931.

These five volumes of Colonial Laws were prepared by the Commissioners of Statutory Revision and have been published by the State of New York. They average over one thousand pages to each volume, and contain the Colonial Laws and the other matters specified in the title page.

The Commissioners, in a prefatory note, state that till now there "has never been a complete publication of the colonial laws of New York." The first edition of the Laws was issued in 1694 by William Bradford, the public printer of the colony, of which book only seven copies are known to be in existence. The later editions are fully described, some of which are very rare. The commissioners have taken great pains to collect and verify the different laws. The work, besides its value as a law book, will be found very useful to students of American history.

History of the Old Tennent Church, with Biographical Sketches of its Pastors. Written by Rev. FRANK R. SYMMES, Fifteenth Pastor. Freehold, N. J.; Printed by James S. Yard & Son. 1897. 8vo. pp. 144. Price, $1.15.

The historic old Tennent Church is located near the scene of the victory by Washington and the Continental troops over the British under Sir Henry Clinton at Monmouth, and was, according to tradition, somewhat injured during the battle. The biographical sketches of the various pastors of this church, written by Rev. Frank R. Symmes, the present pastor, have the great merit of brevity and are well written and no doubt exact portraiture in outline of his predecessors in the pastorate of this church. In short, they seem to be models of biography. A valuable appendix contains a large amount of historical material of great value.

The Ancestral Register of the General Society of the Daughters of the Revolution. 1896. Philadelphia: The Bailey, Banks & Biddle Co. 1897. Super royal 8vo. pp. 414.

Register of the Society of Colonial Wars in the District of Columbia, 1897. Washington City: Printed for the Society by the Law Reporter Company. 1897. 8vo. pp. 124.

Report of the Historian of the District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution for the Years 1895 and 1896. By MARCUS BENJAMIN. Washington City: Printed for the Society by the Law Reporter Company. 1897. Royal 8vo. pp. 67.

The Registers, Reports and Year Books issued by the several patriotic societies show that great pains has been taken in the preparation of these volumes. Much care is shown in recording the ancestry of the members, and the volumes are tastefully brought out.

The General Society of the Daughters of the Revolution was instituted August 20, 1891, and incorporated September 1 of the same year. This volume "contains the names and lineage of all members of the Society during the first four years of its existence, except the names of those who have resigned during that period." The Roll of Membership fills 342 pages. The book also contains a list of officers of the Society, the constitution, necrology, and fifty pages of "Ancestors and Descendants."

The Register of the Society of Colonial Wars of the District of Columbia contains the list of officers, necrology, and the "List of Members" and their ancestral record. A portrait of Rear Adm. Richard W. Meade embellishes the volume.

The report of Marcus Benjamin, historian of the District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, contains a history and the necrology of the Society. A portrait of Major William H. Webster forms the frontispiece.

Franklin and Marshall College Obituary Record. (Issued Annually.) A Record of the Lives of the deceased Alumni of Marshall College and of Franklin and Marshall College. Edited for the Alumni Association. Vol. I., No. 1. Lancaster, Pa.: Press of the Alumni Association of Franklin and Marshall College. June, 1897. 8vo. pp. xi. + 245. Price, $2, for life subscription.

The Alumni Association of Franklin and Marshall College have "decided to publish annually, from June, 1897, a record of the lives of the deceased alumni of Marshall College and Franklin and Marshall, the first number to contain the records of all deceased alumni to June, 1897, and the subsequent numbers to contain the records of those who may die from year to year."

The first number of this "Obituary" is before us. The committee in charge of the publication are Samuel H. Ranck, chairman, President John S. Stahr, Rev. Adam S. Weber, and Rev. Charles W. Levan. They have done their work thoroughly and have furnished full and precise records of the deceased alumni, and have had the book handsomely printed on good paper and with clear type. The committee quote the axiom, that "the best test of any system of education is the men that it produces." Judged by this test, the system of education at this college is worthy of great praise.

The Roger Williams Calendar. 12mo. pp. 370. E. L. Freeman & Sons, Printers, Central Falls, R. I. Price, $5.

This book, under each day of the year, gives brief extracts from the writings of Roger Williams. In the preface, the compiler, Mr. John Osborne Austin, says: "It is hoped that these extracts from his own works, collected arbitrarily here and there, may enlarge somewhat this field of acquaintance and lead the reader to a study of the publications and republications of his works."

A brief sketch of the career of Williams is given, from his birth in London, to his death in Providence, R. I., in 1683. The reader will do well to study Mr. Waters's discoveries about Williams in the REGISTER for July, 1889, and in its later issues, particularly his letters to the aunt of Oliver Cromwell, Lady Joan Barrington (REG., vol. 43, pp. 316-20), while he was chaplain to her son-in-law, Sir William Masham. It is almost certain from these letters that he was never beneficed in England, though he says he had refused, from conscientious scruples, several parishes.

Vital Record of Rhode Island, 1630-1850. First Series, Births, Marriages and Deaths. A Family Register for the People. By JAMES N. ARNOLD. Vol. IX. Seekonk (including East Providence), Pawtucket, and Newman Congregational Church. Published under the Auspices of the General Assembly. Providence, R. I.: Narragansett Historical Publishing Company. 1897. Folio. Price, $7.50. Address James N. Arnold, Providence, R. I.

We have before us the ninth volume of Mr. Arnold's valuable "Vital Records of Rhode Island." The previous volumes have been noticed in the REGISTER as they appeared. The General Assembly of that State have done well to encourage the labors of Mr. Arnold.

The compiler in his Introduction informs us that "while preparing and reading the manuscript for our late published work (Vital Record of Rehoboth, 1642-1890), we were forcibly struck with the large proportion of the matter therein recorded, that was so very closely woven into our own State Record already published in these volumes. It became apparent that to print it would produce a much larger work than we at first deemed possible." So Mr. Arnold decided to publish in his Rehoboth volume the records found in the original book, and let the new town records make up another volume. The Rehoboth volume was published last year and was noticed by us in our April number. The other volume is before us.

The reason for making this volume is, the compiler thinks, "emphasized by the fact that the territory of Seekonk is now Rhode Island soil, and about four-fifths of the matter recorded to all intents and purposes belongs to the records of our own State." We hope that Mr. Arnold will give us more Rhode Island records like this.

Records of Rev. Roger Viets, Pastor of St. Andrew's, Simsbury, Conn., and Missionary for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, 1763-1800. By ALBERT C. BATES. Hartford: 1893. 8vo. pp. 84. Edition, 100 copies.

Rev. Dudley Woodbridge; his Church Record at Simsbury in Connecticut, 1697-1710. Prepared with Prefatory Notice by ALBERT C. BATES. Hartford: 1894. 8vo. pp. 12. Edition, 100 copies.

Mr. Bates, the librarian of the Connecticut Historical Society, has, in the two works before us, preserved in print two important church records of the town of Simsbury, Conn.

Mr. Viets was a native of Simsbury and a graduate of Yale College. His records cover the latter part of the last century and furnish us with glimpses of the social life of that section of the State during the period they include. Mr. Bates prefixes a valuable historical sketch.

Mr. Woodbridge, whose record is printed in the next book, was a native of Killingworth, Conn., and a graduate of Harvard College in 1694. He was ordained in Simsbury in 1697 and died 1710. The manuscript of this record was for some years supposed to be lost, but in a tattered condition it was recently brought to the notice of a Middletown antiquary, who, recognizing its value, obtained possession of it. It has now passed into the possession of the town. Mr. Bates, by printing it, has saved its contents from a second loss.

The General Court and Land Bank Litigants. By ANDREW MCFARLAND DAVIS. Worcester, Mass., U. S. A.: Press of Charles Hamilton. 1897. 8vo. pp. 20.

This is a paper which was read before the American Antiquarian Society, at its April Meeting, and is reprinted from the Proceedings of that Society. It is an able and exhaustive article on one phase of the history of the Land Bank, on which subject the author has given us several articles, one of them in the pages of the REGISTER (vol. 50, pp. 187-97, 308-17). In these articles he has thrown much light on a very perplexing subject.

Alexander Hamilton in New Jersey; An Address before the Washington Association of New Jersey at Morristown, on February 22, 1897. By WILLIAM NELSON. Chronicle Print, Morristown, N. J. 1897. 8vo. pp. 16.

The celebration of Washington's birthday last year, in Morristown, N. J., furnished the occasion for Mr. Nelson (the corresponding secretary of the New Jersey Historical Society, and one who has done much to elucidate the history of that State) to present to his hearers a review of the life of Alexander Hamilton in New Jersey, from his schooldays at Elizabethtown to the duel at Wehauken. Mr. Nelson's address is an able and interesting one.

Collections of the Connecticut Historical Society. Vol. V. Hartford: Published by the Society. 1896. 8vo. pp. xviii.+517.

—Vol. VI. Hartford: Published by the Society. 1897. 8vo. pp. viii.+410.

The two volumes of the Collections of the Connecticut Historical Society are worthy to be placed with any of the previous issues of the Society. The fifth volume contains "The Talcott Papers," being Correspondence and Documents (chiefly official) during "Joseph Talcott's Governorship." The sixth volume contains the "Hartford Town Votes" from 1635 to 1716. Miss Mary Kingsbury Talcott has edited the fifth volume, and Hon. Charles J. Hoadly, the State Librarian of Connecticut, has edited the sixth. Both have done their work in an admirable manner. A review of the Talcott Papers, by Charles M. Andrews, was printed in the Hartford Daily Courant, Nov. 19, 1896, from which we extract the concluding paragraph:

"Miss Talcott has done exceedingly well in her task of editing the volume. She has printed not only Governor Talcott's correspondence, but also papers obtained from the state archives, from the archives of the Massachusetts Historical Society, from the Public Record Office in London, the Yale College Library, and the Lenox Library, New York. These documents are exactly as in the originals in the matter of spelling, capitalization and punctuation. She has also furnished many valuable notes, chiefly biographical, which show extensive research. The documents are excellently arranged and excellently indexed, and altogether make up a volume in which Miss Talcott and the Historical Society can take a just pride."

Mr. Hoadly has, as might be expected from his previous work on Connecticut history, done his editorial work on Hartford Town Votes in an equally thorough manner.

The Registers of Stratford-on-Avon, in the County of Warwick. Baptisms, 1558—1652. Transcribed by RICHARD SAVAGE, Secretary and Librarian of Shakespeare's Birthplace and Trust, and Deputy Keeper of the records of the Corporation of Stratford-on-Avon. London: Privately printed for the Parish Register Society. 1897. 8vo. pp. viii.+188. Price, £1. 1s. 0d.

The volume before us is the first issue for the second year (1897) of the Parish Register Society, an account of which we gave on page 235 of our April number. The Society was formed for the purpose of printing the early parish registers, and their issues are furnished to subscribers who pay an annual sum of one guinea. Five volumes per year have been issued thus far. The present volume was transcribed for printing with the permission of the Rev. George Arbuthnot, vicar of Stratford-on-Avon. "The particular interest in the Registers of Stratford-on-Avon," says Mr. Savage, "centres in the entries of the baptism and burial of William Shakespeare . . . The printing of these Registers is undoubtedly the crowning work undertaken in connection with the study of the life and times of the great poet. That the late Mr. J. O. Halliwell-Phillipps, the eminent Shakespearean scholar, considered it would be so is certain from a letter dated 4th April, 1887, to Mr. Richard Savage, in which he says: 'A publication of the Stratford Register would be a work of high value, about the most important Shakespearean job that is left to do, in the whole county.'" The Stratford Register has, since Mr. Waters's Gleanings on the ancestry of John Harvard, a new interest for New Englanders, for it contains the baptism of Katherine Rogers, the mother of the founder of Harvard College (see REGISTER, vol. 40, pp. 363-4). The Parish Register Society has acted wisely in selecting the registers of Stratford-on-Avon for early publication in their series, and in printing them in full, verbatim et literatim, with a full index.

History of the Class of 1856 of Amherst College, 1852—1896. Prepared by HENRY CLINTON GRAVES. From the Class Records and other Historical Data. Boston: C. H. Simonds & Co., Printers. 8vo. pp. 59.

The class books of the several colleges are repositories of much interesting information, and we are glad to see that they are increasing. The present volume contains a general survey of the College Days, and the Post Graduate Days of the Class of 1856 of Amherst College, followed by brief biographical sketches of the several members of the Class, over seventy in number, among whom are many distinguished names. The book has been prepared by Rev. Henry Clinton Graves, D.D., of Somerville, Mass., and does credit to his pen.

The Genealogical Magazine; a Journal of Family History, Heraldry and Pedigrees. New York: J. W. Bouton, 20 West 28th St. 1897. Published monthly, about 60 pages each, imp. 8vo. Price $4.00 a year, or 50 cents a number. Nos. II June, III July, IV August, V September, VI October, VII November, VIII December.

In the REGISTER for July last we noticed the first number of this valuable periodical, of which Arthur Charles Fox-Davies is editor. We have now before us seven more numbers. They contain the same kind of excellent genealogical and antiquarian matter as the initial number. The December number contains contributions from J. Paul Rylands, F.S.A., Rev. A. W. Cornelius Hallen, Murray Lane, Chester Herald, Col. Hon. Robert Boyle, Thomas Shepard, L. C. R. Duncombe-Jewell and other able writers. The prospectus informs us that "the Genealogical Magazine will be carefully indexed, and an attempt will also be made to collate into one general index, the indices of all other kindred works which reach the hands of the editor for review."

The Wayside Inn; its History and Literature. An Address delivered before the Society of Colonial Wars at the Wayside Inn, Sudbury, Massachusetts, June 17, 1897. By SAMUEL ARTHUR BENT. Boston: 1897. 8vo. pp. 27.

The paper of Mr. Bent, before the Society of Colonial Wars, last June, gives an interesting account of the Red Horse Tavern, Sudbury, made famous by the poet Longfellow as the "Wayside Inn." Its landlords and the events that transpired within its walls are well portrayed. A fine view of the buildings forms the frontispiece.

Births, Marriages, Baptisms and Deaths, from the Records of the Town and Churches in Coventry, Connecticut, 1711—1844. Copied from the records by SUSAN WHITNEY DIMOCK. Printed for private distribution. New York: The Baker & Taylor Company. 1897. 8vo. pp. vii.+300+1.

In this volume Mrs. Susan Whitney Dimock has given us the recorded births, baptisms, marriages and deaths of Coventry from 1711 to 1844. The book is printed in clear type, on fine white paper with broad margins, making a handsome volume. Prefixed to the records are brief accounts of the town and its records. Previous to 1675 the Indians used the land of what is now the town of Coventry as a hunting ground.

Mrs. Dimock has taken great pains in copying these records. She says: "There are what seem to me some mistakes of dates in the records, but I have not undertaken to correct them. All the records have been carefully transcribed by me. They are now published that they may be preserved from the further ravages of time."

Mrs. Dimock has done so well by the town of Coventry that we are glad to learn that she is now engaged on the records of Mansfield, Conn.

An Exeter Worthy and his Biographer. By MRS. FRANCES B. TROUP. Read at Kingsbridge, July, 1897. 8vo. pp. 28.

This is a paper read before the Devonshire Association for the Advancement of Science, Literature and Art, and is reprinted from the Transactions of that body.

Mrs. Troup is a native of Massachusetts, and though for several years residing in England she still maintains her interest in the annals of New England, and in subjects having a relation to New England history. Ignatius Jourdain, the "Exeter Worthy," whose life is here commemorated, was the father of Mrs. Sarah Hill, who came to New England with her husband and settled in Connecticut. After his death she married Edmund Greenleaf of the Massachusetts colony.

Ignatius Jourdain was born in Lyme Regis in 1561, and settled in Exeter, where, in 1599, he was appointed one of the bailiffs, and "from this time onward he proceeded to fill various municipal offices. He was elected member of the Chamber on September 6th, 1608; he was appointed receiver of the city in 1610, sheriff of Exeter in 1611, and mayor in 1617." He died at Exeter in June, 1640, aged 78. He was a Puritan of the highest type, upright and fearless. Mrs. Troup has been indefatigable in her research and has gathered many important facts about this worthy of the sixteenth century.

The biographer of Ignatius Jourdain was Rev. Ferdinando Nichols of Exeter, of whom Mrs. Troup has gathered many interesting details.

A Register of the Members of St. Mary Magdalen College, Oxford, from the Foundation of the College. New Series, Vol. I. Fellows to the year 1520. By WILLIAM DUNN MACRAY, M.A., F.S.A. London: Henry Frowde, Oxford University Press Warehouse. 1894. 8vo. pp. x.+187.

Vol. II. Fellows, 1522-1575. By WILLIAM DUNN MACRAY, M.A., F.S.A. London: Henry Frowde, Oxford University Press Warehouse. 1897. 8vo. pp. xi.+231. Sold by Henry Frowde, Oxford University Press (American Branch), 91 and 93 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Price, $2 a volume.

The preface to this work informs us that "in 1853, the first volume appeared of the Register of the Members of Saint Mary Magdalen College, by John Rouse Bloxam, D.D., Fellow and Librarian. "This volume," we are told, "contains the Choristers. Vols. II. and III., published in 1857 and 1863, contain the clerks, chaplains, organists, schoolmasters and ushers, the second volume having also by way of introduction, a very full and accurate history of the chapel and the choral service, with an appendix of extracts from the Bursars' accounts relating to the same. In 1881 appeared the seventh volume of this series, being the fourth and last of the Register of Demies. A complete index of names in the second volume, compiled under the direction of the present writer, was published by the College, two years afterward."

Rev. Mr. Macray, the compiler of these volumes, is a well-known author, Fellow of Magdalen College, and Rector of Ducklington, Oxon. He has here preserved much valuable material relating to the Fellows of Magdalen College, drawn from the Registers and Rolls of that college. Not a few of our New England settlers were graduates of Oxford University, or descendants of graduates, and the interest in these books among our people will induce them to order the volumes.

Memoir of William John Potts. By FREDERICK D. STONE. Philadelphia: 1897. 8vo. pp. 40.

The late Frederick D. Stone, the librarian of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the editor of its publications, in this volume pays a merited testimonial to the memory of his friend and early schoolfellow, William John Potts, of Camden, New Jersey. He remembered him forty years before as "a bright little boy" in Mr. James's school, whom he afterwards learned to love and admire. Mr. Potts died at his residence in Camden, Nov. 18, 1895, and this memoir was read before the American Philosophical Society, Dec. 1, 1896. He was a frequent and valued contributor to the REGISTER, and to other antiquarian publications. A brief sketch of his life was printed by us in January, 1896. Mr. Stone says of him: "To sum up Mr. Potts's character in a few words, he can best be described as an educated gentleman of broad and liberal tastes, in whose company every one could find pleasure."

To the memoir are added letters from Mr. Potts to Mr. Stone on "Reading in the British Museum and in the National Library, Paris," and to Mr. John Jordan, Jr., on "Fictitious Antiquities."

Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society. Papers presented at the Annual and Scientific Meetings, held at New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Published by the Society. [Press of the Friedenwald Company, Baltimore, Md.] 1893-1897. 6 Nos. 8vo.

The American Jewish Historical Society was organized at New York, June 7, 1892, with the Hon. Oscar S. Straus as president. Its object is to present to the world material relating to the history of this country, and is therefore not sectarian, but American, although it is the genealogy and actions of Jews only which it designs to record. They are such Jews, however, as participated in the discovery and colonization of America, and bore a part in the Revolution, either personally or by pecuniary aid. Their contributions to the progress of the independent nation, philanthropic, literary and military, are also included, noteworthy among these being their share in the anti-slavery movement. The Jews of South America have likewise been embraced in the scope of the Society.

These publications will confirm the reader in the high estimate which every cultured mind places on the part borne by the Jews not only in the universally acknowledged moralization, but also, to a preëminent degree, in the intellectualization of the human race.

Annual Report of the Connecticut Historical Society. Reports and Papers presented at the Annual Meeting, May 25, 1897; also a List of the Officers and Members and of Donations for the Year. Hartford: Published by the Society. 1897. 8vo. pp. 62. Price, 50 cents.

The last Annual Report of the Connecticut Historical Society, which is before us, shows the Society to be in a prosperous condition. Among the papers here printed is one of especial value, entitled "Historical Notes on the Probate Districts of Connecticut." The probate districts of that State have long puzzled genealogists in other parts of New England, and this paper will be warmly welcomed by them. Appended are a "List of Probate Districts, 1897," and a "List of Towns showing districts in which they are or have been included."

1794—1894. Celebration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Roxbury Charitable Society, November 22, 1894, by the First Church, Eliot Square, Roxbury. With Historical Notes and a List of Members. Printed for the Society. 8vo. pp. 84.

In November, 1894, the Roxbury Charitable Society celebrated its centenary. Rev. James De Normandie, pastor of the First Church, and Rev. Percy Browne, rector of St. James's Church, delivered addresses, and Dependence S. Waterman, president of the Society, gave the "Statistics of a Century" of the Society. The report of the proceedings at this celebration is here printed. The work done by this Society is creditable to its members.

Robbins Battell. 8vo. pp. 79.

This elegant volume, printed at the De Vinne Press, is designed as a memorial of Robbins Battell, a graduate of Yale College and a prominent citizen of Norfolk, Connecticut. It contains a sketch of his life by Charles S. Elliot, a poem by Ella Antoinette Hotchkiss, a number of letters from those who knew him, and several newspaper obituaries. He was one of the most generous benefactors of Yale College.

The Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury, Massachusetts, with some Related Families of Newbury, Haverhill, Ipswich and Hampton. By DAVID W. HOYT. Part One. Providence, R. I.: 1897. 8vo. pp. 80. Price, $1 a part.

Mr. Hoyt, of Providence, R. I., the author of the Hoyt Genealogy, has issued the first part of the work on Salisbury and Amesbury announced in our October REGISTER (Vol. 51, p. 497). The work, as prepared for the press, is intended to consist of five parts of eighty pages each. The Introduction fills thirty pages and contains many ancient names and other original documents relating to the two towns. The genealogical portion fills fifty pages and contains a record of families from Allen to Buswell, all carefully compiled with full and precise dates. This is a much needed work, and we trust that those interested will by promptness with their subscriptions see that the whole book may be printed without delay. If the means are not furnished for printing the other parts the manuscript will be deposited in the library of this Society.

A List of Early Imprints, 1640—1700, belonging to the Library of the American Antiquarian Society. With an Introduction and Notes. By NATHANIEL PAINE. Worcester, Mass.: Press of Charles Hamilton. 1896. 8vo. pp. 80.

A List of Early American Broad-sides, 1680—1800, belonging to the Library of the American Antiquarian Society. With an Introduction and Notes. By NATHANIEL PAINE. Worcester, Mass.: Press of Charles Hamilton. 1897. 8vo. pp. 64.

These two pamphlets are very valuable additions to the bibliography of this country. The Antiquarian Society has a rare collection of early American books and broadsides, of which Mr. Paine has here given bibliographical descriptions with interesting historical notes. The Massachusetts Historical Society, Harvard College Library and the Boston Public Library have also many early American imprints which together furnish opportunities for those who are studying the early literature of this country to make themselves familiar with the original editions. A list of the early American imprints in the Massachusetts Historical Society has been printed, and we trust that Harvard College and the Boston Public Library will see that bibliographical lists of their collections are prepared and printed.

We continue in this number our quarterly list of recent genealogical works.

The volume on the Fairbanks family contains over 950 pages, and is well filled with the records of that family, evidently compiled with care. It gives the descendants of Jonathan Fairbank, who came to New England in 1638 and settled at Dedham, Mass., where he died Dec. 5, 1668. The book makes a handsome volume, illustrated with over fifty portraits besides other engravings. The family is to be congratulated on having so full a record of the various branches of that ancient New England family. The volume has a good index.

The two volumes on the Doty or Doten family are a great addition to the genealogical works relating to the descendants of the Mayflower pilgrims. The compiler, Mr. Ethan Allen Doty of Brooklyn, N. Y., has evidently devoted much care to the compilation of this work, which is well printed and bound, and has a very full index.

The record of the Minot family is an elegant volume worthy of the family so prominent in the history of Massachusetts. A genealogy of that family by the pioneer genealogist, Lemuel Shattuck, was printed in the first volumes of the REGISTER. The Massachusetts family is descended from Elder George Minot who was born Aug. 4, 1590, at Saffron Walden, Essex, where his father Thomas Minot was a man of education and wealth. The son was one of the first settlers of Dorchester, Mass. The book is compiled by Joseph Grafton Minot, Esq., of Boston, who acknowledges indebtedness to Walter Kendall Watkins for researches in England, where the name is traced to A.D. 1307. The history of the family in England is fully given and the genealogy is well traced. The book is printed on fine white paper with broad margins and is neatly and substantially bound. It is illustrated with engravings of the church of Saffron, Walden, exterior and interior, and Audley End Mansion in Essex, besides other illustrations.

Mr. Lord's Memorials of the family of Morse is a later edition of the work noticed in the REGISTER for January, 1897 (vol. 51, page 93), with additions and revision.

The Lincoln volume contains Hon. Solomon Lincoln's article on the Lincoln family of Massachusetts, reprinted from the REGISTER of October, 1865, and other Lincoln matter by the compiler. It is handsomely printed and embellished by elegant photographic views.

The Narrative of Phineas Pratt is well known as an original authority on the beginnings of New England history. The late Eleazer F. Pratt of Boston, a descendant of Phineas, devoted much time during his long life to the collection of the records of his kindred, and his sons (Messrs. Francis S. and Charles H. Pratt) have given to the public the result of his labors in an attractive form. It is from the press of T. R. Marvin & Son.

The Sandwith pedigree is traced to the reign of Henry VIII., George Sandwith of Oswaldkirk, in Yorkshire, the stirps of this family, being found in that county in 1525. He died Nov. 12, 1560. The pedigree seems to be compiled with great care and judgment. The author says in the Introduction, that it is printed to "place beyond the loss by fire or other cause, a large mass of genealogical facts that represent many years of labor and research." The author asks that corrections or additions be sent to his publishers, Messrs. Phillimore & Co.

The pedigree of the Royal Family gives the descendants of George III., King of England, to the present time, with precise dates. It will be found very useful.

The genealogical chart of the sovereigns of Great Britain is issued in "commemoration of the Sixtieth Year of Her Majesty's Reign and the Thirteenth Centenary of the Foundation of the See of Canterbury." It is ingeniously contrived to show at a glance much interesting information.

The pamphlet on the Royal Houses is intended as a companion to the chart. It gives matter that could not conveniently be got into the chart.

The Farnsworth volume contains a valuable record of the Farnsworth Family in this country, compiled by Moses F. Farnsworth of Manti, Utah. He has evidently spent much time collecting the records of this scattered family. It is well arranged and well indexed.

The book on the Bockée family is an interesting record of a family of French descent. The name was originally spelled Bouequet, and descendants use a variety of spelling. The book is well arranged and handsomely printed, with a good index.

The book on the Howard family is devoted to the descendants of Abraham Howard of Marblehead, and is a well printed volume, with full indexes. The volume combines the results of the independent researches of Joseph P. Howard of New York, Judge Nathaniel J. Holden of Salem, and the compiler, Henry W. B. Howard, 174 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The King genealogy contains much matter about the King family in this country, and is an important addition to American genealogy. It is embellished with portraits and views of buildings, with maps, showing the location of places where the early Kings settled.

The Smith Memorial is an interesting volume. It contains a full genealogical record from 1707 to 1895, and Miss Smith, the compiler, does herself credit by her work.

Sampson Mason, to whose genealogy the next book is devoted, came to New England and settled in Dorchester in 1640, and thence removed to Rehoboth. The old church at Swansea was organized at his house in 1663. A genealogy of his descendants by Judge Ira M. Barton was published in the REGISTER for July, 1864. The present work has large additions to that article.

The three works on the Twinings, whose titles we give, are compiled by Miss Louisa Twining of Rochester, Kent, England. They give much genealogical and biographical matter relative to the Twining family. She has preserved much interesting matter relating to the name.

The volume on the Prince family contains the records of many of the name who served in the Revolutionary war, the war of 1812, and the civil war. It will be found a useful compilation.

Eaton Grange, which furnishes the title for the next work on our list, is the summer home of the sons and daughters of John Eaton. The eldest son, Gen. John Eaton, is the executive in charge of the affairs of the Grange, and Miss Christie L. Eaton, the author of this work, is the matron and hostess. Much biographical, genealogical and historical matter will be found in these pages.

The pamphlet on the Webber family furnishes a good account of the descendants of Andrew Webber, born in Methuen Feb. 18, 1763. He was a son of William and Lucy (Kimball) Webber and a grandson of Edward Webber of Ipswich, Mass. The descendants are well traced.

The Southworth pamphlet is printed for the author, Geo. C. S. Southworth of Salem, O., for private distribution. It relates, as its title states, to the descendants of Constant Southworth of Duxbury, Mass., son of Edward Southworth, whose widow Alice was the second wife of Gov. William Bradford.

The Upham pamphlet gives a record of the descendants of the Uphams who settled in Amherst, N. H., prefixed by a sketch of the early history of the family. It has a good index.

The Whipple-Hill pamphlet seems to be devoted to a record of the ancestry of the compiler, besides an account of the Whipple and Hill families and fragmentary records of the Hawkins, Wager, Walker, Hall, Redway, Tower, Sabin, Fisher, Allen, Maryott, Bullard, Matson, Brown, Read, Slocomb, Metcalf, Abel, Bucklin, Barstow and Farrington families. It has an index.

The Stone pamphlet gives the lately discovered information as to the birth-place and ancestry of Simon Stone of Watertown and Gregory Stone of Cambridge, which was read by the author at a meeting of the Stone Family Association, Jan. 26, 1897. It is a valuable contribution to the history of the Stones.

The Leeds pamphlet was noticed by us in July, 1897, but there was a typographical error in the title which leads us to give the title correctly here.

The next pamphlet, on Henry Boardman Taylor and his ancestry and kindred, is a genealogy of one branch of the Taylor family. The author has been successful in tracing this line.

The pamphlet on the Howland and other families gives brief genealogies of families bearing those names.

The contents of the Moore chart are described on its title.

The Marcy pamphlet is by Prof. Oliver Marcy, LL.D., of the Northwestern University. He contributed an article on this family to the REGISTER for July, 1875. This pamphlet is printed to preserve matter obtained since that article was published. He acknowledges assistance from the late Manning Leonard of Southbridge.

The Sherman pamphlet was compiled by Charles A. White of New Haven, Conn. Our readers have the substance of it contributed by Mr. White to the REGISTER for July, 1897.

The next four pamphlets — Kuhn, Schieffelin, Batt and Byley, and Richard Williams — are reprints from the REGISTER and are known to our readers.

The pamphlet on the Tyler gathering gives an account of the first Tyler Reunion at North Andover Centre in September last. It has for a frontispiece a portrait of Prof. William S. Tyler of Amherst College.

The Hills pamphlet contains the third annual report of the Directors of the Hills Family Genealogical and Historical Association, organized July 6, 1894. The president of the association is Thomas Hills, K St., South Boston, and the general secretary is Edwin M. Hills, 159 School St., Taunton, Mass.

The Knowlton pamphlet contains accounts of the first and second reunions of the Knowlton Association, the first held at Hartford, Conn., Nov. 13, 1895, and the second at Boston, Mass., June 17, 1896.

The Buchanan book gives an account of the "First Gathering of the Buchanan Clan, Trotting Creek, Miami Co., Ohio, Saturday, October 1, 1892." It contains a list of some of the descendants of Col. George Buchanan.

The Bailey-Bayley pamphlet contains an account of the fourth Annual Gathering, which was held at Rowley, Mass., in August, 1896. Hollis R. Bailey, 33 State St., Boston, is the secretary.

The Cobb pamphlet contains genealogical matter concerning one line of that family. It has a view of the residence of Ebenezer Cobb of Kingston, Mass.

Pile, 17.

[Near the above, in the same quire, is the registration of the will of Anne Reynoldes, widow of the foregoing. She mentions her various relatives named Burton, Holden or Holdinge and Havers, but throws no light whatever upon the Juxon(?) connection.

Here might come the will of Thomas Ferrers, citizen and clothworker of London, who seems to have married Judith the widow of John Juxon. This will was made 5 March 11 Charles, with a codicil dated 14 March 1635, proved 17 January 1636. He mentions wife Judith and the children she had by her former husbands, without naming them, and also her uncle Sir Nicholas Raynton and her brother Nicholas Raynton. This is all I found in his will bearing on his wife's relationships. In case any one interested would like to make a further and larger examination of it, I would say it is registered in Book Goare (11).]

[These Juxon wills, which began with the will of Thomas Knott on the last page of my Gleanings for July, enable us to enlarge very greatly the pedigree of Juxon given in the Visitation of London for 1633-4, &c., as published by the Harleian Society (page 23 of the second volume). It begins with a John Juxon, whose will I have not run across, but who appears apparently in the registry of Christ Church, Newgate Street, a printed copy of which I had a chance to examine hurriedly last year. From that I gleaned the following:

Christenings.

- 1552 Aug. 18 Richard son of John Juxon.
- 1578 May 11 Thomas son of Thomas Juxson.
- 1580 May 23 Christopher son of Rass (Raff) Juxson.
- 1581 Aug. 27 Mary daughter of Rase (Rafe) Juxson.
- 1585 June 4 Agnes daughter of Rafe Jugson by his wife Sara.
- 1585 June 4 Mary daughter of Thomas Jugson.
- 1586 Aug. 21 Arthur son of Raf Jugson.
- 1586 Sept. 10 Mary daughter of Thomas Judgson.

Marriages.

- 1578 Feb. 2 Rafe Ingson (Jugson) and Sara syster unto Mr. Smalwood's wyf.

Burials.

- 1560 June 21 John Judson.
- 1566 Mar. 6 John Juxon's grandmother.
- 1582 July 14 Mrs. Jugson wife of Thomas, grocer.
- 1586 Mar. 2 Rafe Juxson.

Among the Marriage Licenses recorded in the Vicar General's Book (1533-90) I found one issued in January 1583 to the curate of St. Mildred's, Bread Street, to solemnize a marriage between Thomas Juxon of Christ Church, Newgate, merchant taylor and Elizabeth Ireland spinster (puellam), daughter of John Ireland of the aforesaid parish, salter. This was that Thomas Juxon whose will was published in my Gleanings for July 1889 (REGISTER, Vol. 43, pp. 304-5). His daughter Elizabeth became the wife of Sampson Cotton, whose will was also published in that same volume of the REGISTER (p. 303). Elizabeth, one of the daughters of Sampson and Elizabeth Cotton, was the wife of Edmond Sheafe and the mother of Sampson Sheafe of New England; after the death of Mr. Sheafe she was married to Mr. Matthew Barker, a clergyman of London. Anne, another daughter of Sampson Cotton, became the wife of Thomas Walters, a merchant of London; Joane, another, was married first to John Wood, a merchant of London, and secondly to John Bence; Hester, another daughter, was married first to William Ballowe, citizen and mercer of London, and secondly to Edward Westfield or Westfield, citizen and grocer of London. Most of the wills of these people I have gathered and here publish.]

WHITFIELD AND SOUTHCOTT (ante, vol. 48, p. 139, and vol. 51, pp. 410-424):

[Thomas Southcott of Calwoodley, Devon; whose will is given in REG., Vol. 48, p. 139, mentions his son Richard whom he makes his sole executor.

Vivian's Visitation of Devon gives the wife of Richard as Elizabeth Whiffield of Wadhurst, Sussex, an evident error for Whitfield.

It was this Richard most probably who was at Dorchester, who came in the Mary and John, 1630, and returned in July of that year to England.

His brother was George Southcott of Kilmington, Devon, of whom is recorded in the Public Record Office his great service to the Puritans. Thomas, son of George, is also mentioned.

Mr. Waters, in his article on the Whitfield family, July number (vol. 51, p. 410 to 424), asks for a list of the children of Rev. Henry Whitfield.

The following account, prepared by Hon. Ralph Dunning Smyth, has been forwarded by his grandson, Dr. Bernard C. Steiner, librarian of the Enoch Pratt Free Library of Baltimore:—

"Rev. Henry Whitfield, b. 1597 at Mortlake, England; d. Sept. 1657, at Winchester, Eng.; m. 1618 Miss Dorothy Sheaffe, dau. Dr. Edmund Sheaffe of Cranbrook, Kent. She survived her husband. Both returned to England in 1650, having emigrated thence to America in 1639. Their children were:

1. Dorothy, bap. at Ockley, England, Mch. 25, 1619; said to have been the wife of Thomas Jordan, one of the first settlers of Guilford, or according to another account of Samuel Desborough, Lord Keeper of Scotland under Cromwell.

2. Sarah, bap. at Ockley Nov. 1, 1620; d. 1675; m. 1641 Rev. John Higginson of Guildford and Salem.

3. Abigail, bap. at Ockley Sept. 1, 1622; d. at Saybrook, Conn., Sept. 9, 1659; m. Rev. James Fitch of Saybrook and Norwich.

4. Thomas, bap. at Ockley Dec. 28, 1624. Probably did not come to Guilford, may have died young.

5. John, bap. at Ockley Feb. 11, 1626; came to Guilford but returned to England with his father.

6. Nathaniel, bap. at Ockley June 28, 1629; came to Guilford but returned to England soon after his father, probably about 1655.

7. Mary, bap. at Ockley March 4, 1631.

8. Henry, bap. at Ockley March 9, 1632; d. at Ockley Feb. 28, 1634.

9. Rebecca, bap. at Ockley Dec. 22, 1635."

Elliot Stone, Esq., Riverdale, New York City, furnishes extracts from the records of Ockley, Surrey, printed in the "Proceedings at the Celebration of the 250th Anniversary of the settlement of Guilford."

BATE (ante, vol. 51, p. 268):

[I do not know whether the Bates of Lyd were related to the family of the same name in London, but I can send you for publication, if you wish it, an abstract of the wills of Anthony Bate, citizen and clothworker of London 1598, and his brother Robert Bate of Little Chester, co. Derby, 1626. I also have wills of the Bates of Little Chester and a short pedigree from the Visitation of Norfolk 1563.

[In connection with these Cottons we must bear in mind the will of John Dingley of London (1626), published in Part III. of these Gleanings (p. 265), who calls Sampson Cotton brother in law. I have found traces too of a connection with the Pargiter family.

Another New England family through which the famous family of Juxon attached itself to New England was the Byfield family. I have already in my earlier Gleanings (Part I., pp. 114-116) given the wills of Richard Byfield of Stratford upon Avon and later of Isleworth, and of his son Richard Byfield of Long Ditton. Deaneries of Shoreham and Croydon (1664-1679) L. 374.

[Mrs. Sarah Byfield, the testator, was mother of Col. Nathaniel Byfield, of Boston, Mass., and Bristol, R. I. Her husband, Rev. Richard Byfeild, of Long Ditton, died 26 Dec., 1664, in his 67th year. His will is given in these "Gleanings" (REGISTER, vol. 39, page 174). His baptism was recorded at Stratford-on-Avon, 24 Sept. 1598, followed by on 24 Apr. 1600, that of Robert, and on 16 Mch. 1601, by Nathaniel, children of Richard Byfield.

Their father, Rev. Richard Byfield, in 1603 left Stratford after service as vicar, this name appearing continuously from 1558 as such, in the parish register, which commenced in that year. He went to a parish in Worcestershire, and then to Islesworth, Middlesex. His will is given in the "Gleanings" (REGISTER, vol. 39, p. 173), proved 24 Oct. 1633.

Rev. Nicholas Byfeild, b. 1579, whose will is given in this number on p. 135, is said to have been a half brother of Rev. Richard Byfeild of Long Ditton, by Brook in his "Lives of the Puritans," and that his father became minister of Stratford-on-Avon in 1596. Rev. Richard of Long Ditton wrote "The Doctrine of the Sabbath vindicated against his Brother Mr. Nicholas Byfield" (Calamy).

It is possible and probable that the Ric. Bifield, who is signed continuously from 1558 to 1603, the register at Stratford, were two individuals during that period.

Adoniram Byfield, whose will is given on p. 139, son of Nicholas Byfield, of Islesworth, see ante, p. 135, was a graduate of Emanuel college, Cambridge, in the year 1642 became chaplain to Sir Henry Colney's regiment in the Parliamentary army, and the next year was appointed scribe to the assembly of divines. In 1646 he with others was appointed to collect proofs of scripture quotations, and the same were inserted in the "Confession of Faith."

He was rector of Fulham, Middlesex, and afterwards of Collingbourne-Ducis, Wilts.

He was mentioned by name by Butler in his "Hudibras."

WALTER K. WATKINS.]

ters of the said deceased, to their use and during their minority, having now by reason of the full age of the said Mary Johnson &c. ceased and expired.

TIMOTHY BYFIELD, Doctor in Physick, 8 November 1715, proved 19 December 1723. To be buried in Mortlack churchyard somewhere on the south side because my kindred lie on that side. I would be put into a plain coffin made of well seasoned whole deal, with no more expense than what will just be decent. I would not be put into a coach or hearse but be borne on men's shoulders to the water side and be carried in a boat to the small landing just against the church and from thence to be carried on men's shoulders directly to my grave. I would not have the customary service said over me nor the minister to be busy there nor to be eager for money because I have so little to leave to my wife. And as to that small worldly substance which at present I possess and as to that which hereafter will come due to me I give it entirely and every particular of it to my dear and well beloved wife Mrs. Dorothy Byfield. I give to her all that legacy of two hundred pounds left me by my cousin Mr. Thomas Juxon late of Clapham, Surrey, as is to be made out by his last will. I give to her my Patent for Sal Oleosum Volatile and all the benefits and profits of my articles grounded thereon. And I give to her all the arrears of one hundred pounds per annum together with my arrears according to my stock and share in the copartnership with Mr. Francis Moulton and Mr. Daniel Crichlow. I give her all the cost of the Lawsuit they so barbarously and cruelly commenced against us. I freely and cheerfully forgive Mr. Moulton and Mr. Crichlow the cruelty and base usage of me in my lifetime in the body and hope they may find repentance, but I do not forgive them any sort of money that is due to me on any account, but order it to be recovered from them and paid to my wife. And now with much love and affection I make and constitute my dear wife Mrs. Dorothy Byfield sole executrix of this my last will and testament and with great tenderness I commit her spirit, soul and body into the most merciful hands and sweet embrace of our most gracious God and loving Redeemer, that under his glorious power and protection her spiritual life may be secured and her outward life preserved from all danger and trouble, and I exhort Mr. Moulton to lay aside his cruelty and fraudulent dealing as he will answer for it without repentance and restitution.

Forty shillings given to Mr. Daniel Taylor. Seager, 100.

[It is evident that the foregoing wills relate to the family of our Rev. John Wilson. The will of his stepmother, made in the lifetime of her husband, was an entirely unexpected find. William Gibbs, the testator in the will immediately preceding this note, was a nephew of our Mr. Wilson, being a grandson of the Rev. William Wilson, Canon of Windsor, whose will I gave early in these Gleanings (Part I., pp. 54-55). Other wills relating to this family of Wilson and their connections may be found in Part III. of same Gleanings, pp. 267-272. The will of Mrs. Wilson, who was the second wife of Canon Wilson, shows clearly enough that she was a Webb, sister of that Erasmus Webb whose will is here given, and whose name appears in her will.]

The father of the Rev. William Wilson of Windsor (and grandfather of our John Wilson of Boston) was, as we have found, a William Wilson of Wellsbourne, in Lincolnshire, who died in Windsor Castle and was buried there in 1587.

In Harleian MS. 1507, I found the following on leaf 20 (in pencil):

A confirmation of ye Armes & guifte of ye Crest of W^m Wilson of Welborne in ye County of Lincoln. son of William Wilson of ye Town of Perith (Penrith?) in ye County of Cumberland. to all his Issue & offspring for ever under ye hand & seale of W^m flower als Clarenc^e King of Armes dated ye 24 of March 1586 ye 19th of Queen Elizabeth.

Now, 1594, borne by ——— Wilson of ye prebends of Windsor sonn of ye Afores^d W^m Wilson of Wilborne.

Against this was a tricking of the Arms and Crest in pencil: — Per pale ar and az. three lions gambes erased, fessways, in pale, counterchanged. — Crest: A lion's head ar guttée de sang.

In the same MS. (leaf 180, in pencil) I found a copy of a grant or confirmation of the arms of Woodhall and Brindall (Grindall) quartered. This I hope to copy some time.

There is here also the grant to Capt. John Smith, 9 Dec., 1603, by Sigismundus Bathor, Duke of Transilvania. Another is a grant to Robert Cutler of Ipswich, Suffolk, gent. 20 June, 1612. Still another is William Camden's grant to Francis Thornedike of Burnell, Lincolnshire, and Harbert Thorndike, his brother, of Greenfield in said County, 20 Nov. 1616. H. F. W.]

THE NAMES OF THE FIRST MEN SLAIN BY THE INDIANS IN THE KING PHILIP'S WAR.

By DAVID H. BROWN, A.B., of West Medford, Mass.

ACCORDING to Hubbard's Narrative of the Indian Wars,—“On the 24 of June 1675 was the alarm of war first sounded in Plymouth Colony when eight or nine of the English were slain in and about Swansea,” but no names were given.

The Plymouth Colony Records of births, marriages and burials contain the following burials at Swansea, June 24, 1675, as reported by the town clerk of Swansea at that time, and there are no other deaths or burials recorded in Swansea on that day.

The following are the names as recorded :

Joseph Lewis	of Swansea	buried 24 June 1675
Robert Jones	“ “	buried 24 June 1675
John Jones	“ “	buried 24 June 1675
Nehemiah Allen	“ “	buried 24 June 1675
William Cohun	“ “	buried 24 June 1675
John Salsbury	“ “	buried 24 June 1675
Wm. Salsbury	“ “	buried 24 June 1675
John Hall	“ “	buried 24 June 1675

This record at Plymouth made at that time from data sent by the town clerk seems to settle this interesting question in regard to the names of the first to fall in that memorable war.*

BELLS IN NEW ENGLAND.

By the REV. JOHN JAMES RAYEN, D.D., F.S.A., Vicar of Fressingfield, Suffolk, Eng.

THE glimpses of New England life in the seventeenth century, which we gain from the extracts from local accounts given by Mr. Elbridge H. Goss,† reveal a resuscitation of primitive expedients for calling assemblies, to be found in the Pentateuch or in the writings of ecclesiastics of the sixth century. The Levitical silver trumpets,‡ and the σήμαντρα§ or signal-boards smitten with a mallet, have their later representatives in the conch-shell blown by John Lane at the town of South Hadley, and in the drummer at Cambridge, the director of Johnson's wandering footsteps.

When we reach the period when bells began to be used, our curiosity is roused as to their history. No evidence has been found by us in the old country so important as that afforded by the bells themselves—by means of their inscriptions, mouldings, foundry marks, armorial bearings and initial crosses. In order to collect and arrange these evidences much labor has been undergone. Many a painful and dangerous climb up rickety ladders has been made in order that some English shire might be completed. Thus in the earlier days of bell-hunting the octogenarian Ellacombe worked in the west; thus my poor wasted friend North in his sick-room managed, by correspondence, to place so much of the Midlands on record; thus with the help of others I completed Cambridgeshire, and afterwards saw "The Church Bells of Suffolk," the result of forty years' exertion, in print.

In the course of these pilgrimages we learned never to despise single bells, even if devoted to secular use. For instance, over a stable at Ford Abbey, in the parish of Thorncombe, Dorset, we found a mediæval bell from the Norwich foundry, inscribed:—

nor is this by any means a solitary case. Mr. Goss has recorded the inscriptions on several of the later bells, such as the sixteen in the First Church, Harvard Square, Charlestown, the gift of Miss Charlotte Harris, and the work of W. Blake & Co., of Boston, dated 1868; but many of the single bells have not been looked at, and it is quite possible that they may have their story to tell. If we in the old country may receive casts or rubbings of lettering and marks, we can easily compare them with what are already recorded and engraved. The dates on the eight at Christ Church, Boston, make it pretty clear that the second (1723) was the original bell of the church, and that the other seven (1744) were cast to bear it company. It would be worth while to see what marks of tuning there are on them, or whether that excellent craftsman, Abel Rudhall, of Gloucester, England, succeeded in turning them out in tune. The initials A. R. on the second bell are those of Abraham Rudhall the elder. His earliest known bell is at Oddington, Gloucestershire, dated 1684. At that time the surname was spelt Riddall. He died in 1735-6. Abel, who was his grandson, died in 1760, aged 46, and was therefore a man of thirty at the time of the completion of the Christ Church eight. The pedigree is given in Ellacombe's "Church Bells of Gloucestershire," p. 79.

Our interest will be much centred at present on two recorded by Mr. Goss, that, "small of size and of disagreeable sound," dated 1719, supposed to be at Charlton, Co. of Worcester; and that which rests in the court house of Barnstable, bearing the year 1673 with much grotesque ornamentation. But nothing will come amiss to us. Not long ago a Mechlin bell was sent to me, which in the sack of that city had been taken by some soldier and carried to Spain. So, hanging over some New England school, court-house, or even coach-house, may be found a Sanctus bell of the middle ages, or the summons bell of some village guild. Even mortars of bell-metal, and weights and measures are not to be overlooked, as they may bear the impress of artificers like the Rudhalls, whose bells sound over the city of Boston, as over many a town in Old England.

BULLET TAKEN FROM THE BODY OF GEN. WARREN, WHO WAS KILLED AT THE BATTLE OF BUNKER HILL.

By FREDERIC W. PARKE, Esq., of Boston.

WILLIAM HENRY MONTAGUE, the last survivor of the five founders of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, at its monthly meeting, March 5, 1884, presented to the Society the historic relic designated by the title of these explanatory notes. The father of Mr. Montague who, as affirmed below, brought the bullet from England, was the Rev. William Montague, an Episcopal clergyman, who served in the Revolutionary army, was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1784, and became rector of Christ Church, Boston, in 1789. In his later years he was rector of St. Paul's Church, Dedham, Mass., and died in 1833.

The bullet, however, was not extracted by the Rev. Mr. Montague from the body of Gen. Warren, but, as he says in the appended statement, was received by him from "a Mr. Savage." This person was Arthur Savage, a loyalist merchant of Boston, who was appointed in 1755 Comptroller of the Customs at Falmouth, where he was mobbed, soon after, in consequence, returning to Boston. His proscription and banishment took place by the Act of 1778. He had, however, already left the country, as he embarked in 1776 at Halifax for England, where he died in 1801. (See REG., vol. 51, p. 473.) The relic was transferred by Mr. Savage to the keeping of the Rev. Mr. Montague, at the house of Mr. Harrison Gray, the last provincial treasurer of Massachusetts, several loyalists being present on the occasion.

The circumstances of the discovery of the bullet are related in the statement which here follows, the original of which, framed with the object to which it refers, is at the Library of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society:

I William Montague of Dedham County of Norfolk State of Massachusetts, Clergyman do certify to whom it may concern that in the year 1789 or 90 I was in London and became acquainted with a Mr. Savage formerly an Officer of the Customs for the port of Boston and who left there when the Royalists & Royal troops evacuated that town in 1776.

When in London Mr. Savage gave me a Leaden ball which is now in my possession with the following account of it Viz. "On the morning of the 18th of June 1775 after the battle of Bunker or Breeds Hill I with a number other Royalists and British Officers among whom was Gen. Burgoyne went over from Boston to Charlestown to view the battlefield. Among the fallen we found the body of Dr. Joseph Warren with whom I had been personally acquainted. When he fell he fell across a rail and this ball I took from his body and as I shall never visit Boston again I will give it to you to take to America where it will be valuable as a relic of your Revolution his sword & belt with some other articles were taken by some of the Officers present & I believe brought to England."

W^m MONTAGUE.

Norfolk ss Dedham March 5 1833 the above named William Montague appeared before me and made oath to the above statement.

SHERMAN LELAND, Justice of the peace.

NECROLOGY OF THE NEW-ENGLAND HISTORIC GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY.

Prepared by the Historiographer, REV. GEORGE M. ADAMS, D.D., of Amherst, Mass.

THE sketches of deceased members prepared for the REGISTER are of necessity brief, because the space that can be appropriated is quite limited. Fuller sketches are printed in the annual "Proceedings" of the Society. Materials for still more extended memoirs are preserved in the Society's archives, and will be available for use in preparing the "Memorial Biographies," of which five volumes have been issued and a sixth volume is in preparation. The income from the Towne Memorial Fund is devoted to the publication of these volumes.

FRANCIS FAULKNER EMERY, born in Boston, March 26, 1830, was a son of Francis Welch Roberts and Sophronia (Faulkner) Emery. He was elected a member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, January 7, 1880, and became a life member in 1882. He was a lineal descendant of John Emery, one of the early settlers of Newbury, his line being John,¹ Jonathan,² Jonathan,³ Joshua,⁴ Joshua,⁵ Joshua,⁶ Francis Welch Roberts⁷ and Francis Faulkner⁸ Emery. His mother was a descendant of Edward Faulkner, one of the first settlers of Andover.

He was educated at Phillips Academy, Andover, and the English High School, Boston, graduating at the latter school in 1848. When a young man, he spent two years in California, and, returning to Boston, engaged in the manufacture of shoes, becoming a member of the firm of Frederick Jones & Co. in 1853. During the war they had extensive contracts with the government to furnish shoes to the army. He was a man of great energy and strong convictions. He took great interest in public affairs, but never was a candidate for office. September 18, 1855, he was married to Caroline, daughter of Frederick and Maria (Sweetser) Jones. His wife died in 1890, but he left one daughter and two sons. He died January 15, 1897.

D. H. B.

GEORGE AUGUSTUS KENDALL, a resident member, elected November 3, 1886, died at Newton Centre, April 8, 1897. He was a son of George Augustus and Cordelia (Richards) Kendall, and was born in Boston, July 8, 1840. He was a descendant from Francis¹ Kendall of Woburn, through Thomas,² Lieut. Samuel,³ Jonas,⁴ Abel,⁵ and George Augustus,⁶ his father. His education was obtained in private schools in Jamaica Plain and Boston. He was expecting to go to college, but was obliged to give it up on account of the death of his father.

In 1856, he entered the employ of J. M. Beebe, Richardson & Co., but broke down in health and was obliged to leave. He went to Colorado in 1860 and traveled extensively in that and other territories. When the war broke out, he raised the larger part of Co. C of the 1st Colorado Infantry, but did not enter the service as he was not approved by the surgeon. His health improved, and he came east and spent two years in Chicago, and later accepted a position in New York, but he broke down again. In 1880, he and George W. McCrillis organized the firm of McCrillis & Kendall, wholesale dealers in feathers, curled hair, etc., in Boston, and continued in that business. In 1873 he was married to Achsah Hawes Stone, daughter of Dr. Ebenezer Stone of Walpole, and a descendant of Gregory Stone, by whom he had three children, Edith Stone, George Augustus and Charles Faulkner Kendall. D. H. B.

WILLIAM BACHE, a corresponding member, elected January 7, 1857, died in Philadelphia, August 18, 1897. He was a son of Col. Louis and Mary Ann (Swift) Bache, and was born in Philadelphia, March 16, 1812. He was a lineal descendant of Benjamin¹ Franklin through his daughter, Sarah² (Franklin) Bache, and Louis³ Bache, his father. The latter was a colonel in the war of 1812, but died when William was seven years old. His mother had died previously, so that he was left an orphan, and at the age of sixteen he was obliged to depend upon himself. He seems to have had a very meagre education, but like his distinguished great grandfather, he was apprenticed to the printing business, and followed it nearly all his life. In 1838 he went to Harrisburg and was foreman in the printing establishment of Clark & Thompson, the State printers, and remained there two years.

Removing to Philadelphia, he took an active interest in political affairs, and was appointed collector of taxes and clerk in one of the municipal departments. He removed to Bristol, Pa., in 1849, and established the Bristol Gazette, and later the Bache's Co. American, and in 1859 Bache's Index, but neither enterprise proved financially successful. After his removal to Bristol, he took an active part in municipal matters, as member and clerk of the council. Of late years, he had been manager of the Practical Farmer and wrote for other papers. He was author of Historical Sketches of Bristol Borough from 1681 to 1853, and the Life and Trials of John Fitch, the inventor of the steamboat. He was married December 9, 1841, to Antoinette Benezet, daughter of Dr. Anthony Benezet of Bensalem, Pa. Seven children were born to them. D. H. B.

THOMAS DOANE, a life-member since 1890, died at West Townsend, Vt., October 22, 1897. He was born in Orleans, Mass., September 20, 1821. He studied at Phillips Academy, Andover, and after three years' service in the office of S. M. Felton of Charlestown, a noted civil engineer, he became head engineer of a division of the Vermont Central Railroad. At one time or other he had been connected during his life with nearly all the railroads leading out of Boston. He was appointed chief engineer of the Hoosac Tunnel, in 1863, and had a large share in its construction. He ran the first locomotive through it. Becoming interested in railroad building in Nebraska in 1869, he took a prominent part in establishing a college in the present town of Crete, twenty miles west of Lincoln. This college bears his name. He secured for its site a square mile of land, and made generous donations to the institution. He held many offices connected with business and charitable affairs, and was widely known as a philanthropic and public-spirited citizen. For forty years he was a deacon of the Winthrop Church in Charlestown, Mass.

His estate was given to trustees who are to pay the net income to his wife and other relatives for a term of years. When his youngest grandchild attains the age of twenty-one years the principal of the trust fund is to be paid to Doane College.

His wife and four children survive. A daughter married Rev. D. B. Perry, president of Doane College; another married Rev. William O. Weeden, and the third daughter married Henry B. Twombly, Esq., a lawyer in New York. The son, Rev. John Doane, is pastor of a church in Lincoln, Neb. W. R. C.

The Hon. JOHN ISRAEL BAKER was elected a member of the N. E. Historic, Genealogical Society March 5th, 1851, and became a life-member in 1863. He was born in Beverly August 16, 1812, and was a son of Joseph and Lucy (Bisson) Baker. John Baker, his immigrant ancestor, came from Norwich, England, to Ipswich, in 1635. His lineage is John¹ Baker, Capt. Thomas² and Priscilla (Symonds) Baker, Capt. Thomas³ and Mary (Capen) Baker, Thomas⁴ and Sarah (Wade) Baker, Joseph⁵ and Hepzibah (Thorndike) Baker, Joseph⁶ and Lucy (Bisson) Baker, John I.⁷ Baker.

During his entire life he was identified with his native town. He was elected town clerk at the age of twenty-three, and was in some town office nearly every year of his life. He was county commissioner for sixteen years, member of the legislature for eighteen years, senator in 1863 and 1864, and of the council under Gov. Banks and Gov. Andrew. In early life he worked at shoemaking and became a shoe manufacturer, and later a rubber manufacturer. He was also a surveyor. From 1886 to 1896 he was one of the harbor commissioners. He was one of the organizers of the republican party in 1854, but in 1870 joined the temperance movement, and in 1875 and 1876 was a candidate for governor of the prohibition party. He took a determined stand against the division of the town of Beverly, and when it became a city he was elected its first mayor.

He married Mary Cressy, daughter of Maxwell and Joanna (Green) Cressy. She died in 1861, and subsequently he married Ellen Masury, daughter of Stephen Masury. His wife survived him, and he left two children, Bessie Allen Baker and John S. Baker. He died February 17, 1897. D. H. B.

GEORGE BOWN MILLETT, M.R.C.S., a corresponding member of this society since 1887, was born at Penzance, Cornwall, England, June 27, 1842. He was educated chiefly under private tutors. After serving apprenticeship to Mr. Francis Boase, surgeon, at Penzance, he was entered a student at St. Mary's Hospital. In 1865 he was admitted a member of the Royal Society of Surgeons of England, and the year following became a licentiate of the Society of Apothecaries, London, and of the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh. He then returned to Penzance, where he settled in the practice of his profession.

Dr. Millett was curator, librarian and for more than twenty years secretary of the Royal Geographical Society of Cornwall, and many local offices. He was connected officially with the Church of England Temperance Society, the Young Men's Christian Association and other philanthropic organizations. He published the Parish Registers of Madron and Gulval, also two volumes entitled "Penzance Past and Present." He was a great collector of books, pictures, china, etc., his house at Penzance being a veritable museum. He never married, being of delicate health and subject to many illnesses. He died at Penzance, September 17, 1896. S. H.

SAMUEL CLARKE CLARKE, Esq., became a member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society January 2, 1867. He was born in Dorchester, Mass., now a part of Boston, February 27, 1806, and died in Marietta, Georgia, February 26, 1897. He was the son of Dr. Samuel Clarke and Rebecca Parker (Hull) Clarke, and a direct descendant in the sixth generation from Thomas Clarke, first mate of the "Mayflower." He was educated at the Boston Latin School, was engaged in the drug business in Boston from 1820 to 1830; in South America, 1833; in the East Indies as supercargo, 1834-6; in Chicago, 1839-64. After giving up business he resided in Boston until 1876, and in Marietta until his decease. He printed a genealogical history of the families of Clarke, Hull, Curtis and Fuller; also a monograph on "Fishes of Southern Waters." He was a member of the Massachusetts Chapter of the Cincinnati in descent from his maternal grandfather, General William Hull. He was a good husband and father and a faithful friend, beloved and respected by all who knew him.

SAMUEL WALLIS WINSLOW, Esq., of Boston, a resident member of this Society, elected February 7, 1877, was born in Boston May 17, 1820, and died in Andover, Mass., August 18, 1895. He was of the seventh generation from John Winslow, younger brother of Governor Edward Winslow of the Old Colony. The line is as follows: John¹, who came to Plymouth in the ship "Fortune," November 9, 1621; Edward²; Edward³, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, 1743 to 1752; Isaac⁴; Samuel⁵; Charles⁶; Samuel Wallis⁷. He was educated at the Franklin School, and spent the most of his business life in the drug business. He gave much time to genealogical and scientific pursuits. He was a member of the Art Club; of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows; of the Masonic Fraternity, and of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Mr. Winslow was never married. His two unmarried sisters and himself constituted his household until the death of the older sister in 1893.

TIMOTHY WADSWORTH STANLEY, Esq., a resident member Jan. 5, 1870, life member 1872, died in Granby, Conn., Feb. 18, 1897. He was the son of Amon and Abi (North) Stanley, and was born in New Britain, Conn., July 13, 1817. He learned the printing business with G. & C. Merriam of Springfield, Mass., and spent two years as a printer in Boston. Later he was a manufacturer of hardware and then a hardware merchant in New Britain. His last years were spent in Granby. He was a director in the Stanley Rule and Level Company, a director and vice-president of the New Britain Savings Bank, and president of the Union Manufacturing Company of New Britain. He married, first, in 1841, Adaline G. Cornwall, who died in 1878. His second marriage was with Mrs.

Theresa Stanley, widow of Mortimer H. Stanley. She survives him with two young sons, Philip Bartholomew and Maurice. His genealogy is given in "The Stanley Families of America," by Israel P. Warren, D.D., published in 1887.

His intellectual vigor, cultivated taste and sunny spirit, his high moral sense and spotless integrity, his faith and hope and charity united to form a personality as charming as it was noble.

HON. SAMUEL LELAND MONTAGUE, elected a resident member in 1882, was born in Montague, Massachusetts, May 4, 1829, and died in Cambridge January 16, 1897. He spent his boyhood on farms in the towns of Hopkinton, Ashland and Westboro, and was educated in the common schools of those towns and in academies in Hopkinton and Worcester. He began his business life as a clerk in Boston. Eight years later he formed a partnership with Mr. Haskins in the old metal business, which gradually grew into a large commission trade in cotton, hides and various Southern products. After thirty-two years of success the firm was dissolved, and Mr. Montague devoted himself to the management of cotton and woolen mills which the firm had built in Maine.

He removed to Cambridge in 1859, where he served in the city council and the board of aldermen, and was mayor in 1878 and 1879. He was a trustee of the Cambridge Public Library seventeen years, and chairman of the board ten years, and held other important local offices. He was active in Masonic affairs. In resolutions passed at a special meeting of the Cambridge city government on occasion of his decease it was said: "We recognize and appreciate the value of his public services, the rugged New England virtues of which he was the embodiment and exemplar, his conscientious fulfilment of every duty assigned him, his sturdy unswerving honesty and love of truth for its own sake, and withal, the constant and unfailing friendship which bound him to so many hearts." Mr. Montague married in 1852, Ann Maria Bucksted of Boston. She died in 1854, and in 1856 he married Mary Elizabeth Bucksted, who survives him, with a son, Charles H. Montague of Cambridge, and a daughter, Annie S. Montague of Wellesley College.

CYRUS HENRY TAGGARD, a resident of Boston, a life member of this Society since 1871, was born in Hillsborough, New Hampshire, July 27, 1822, and died in East Boston January 18, 1897. He was the son of Samuel and Sarah (Hartwell) Taggard. He married September 6, 1849, Anna E. Phillips, daughter of John Phillips of Haverhill, who survives him. They had no children. He came to Boston in young manhood, and established himself in the provision trade, which he gave up in 1861, when he entered upon dealing in real estate. About the year 1885 he removed to East Boston. At the time of his death he was rated among the heavy realty holders of East Boston property. A local paper recording his decease, said: "Mr. Taggard was a self-made man in all which that term implies, and in all his dealings his honesty and integrity were never questioned." He took much interest in the welfare of this Society, and appreciated every effort to preserve and perpetuate the character and influence of old-time New England.

DARWIN ERASTUS WARE, Esq., a resident member, elected March 4, 1891, was born in Salem, Mass., February 11, 1831, and died at his home, 237 Marlborough Street, Boston, April 2, 1897. He prepared for college at the public schools of Salem and graduated at Harvard in the class of 1852. Later he graduated from the Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1855, and established a large legal practice. He served in the State Legislature and Senate. He was a member of the board of overseers of Harvard University for many years. Mr. Ware practised extensively in the United States courts, standing high as an authority of the Federal laws concerning customs, revenue and shipping. As an authority in these matters, he received recognition from the United States Secretary of the Treasury McCulloch in 1866, when the latter appointed him one of the two commissioners for the codification of the customs revenue and shipping laws. Mr. Ware served on this commission from 1866 to 1874, when he resigned. He continued actively in the profession of the law, and during the past twenty years was among the most respected as well as the most accomplished gentlemen of the American Bar and Boston Bar Associations. During the administration of President Hayes, Mr. Ware became one of the most zealous advocates for the reform in the civil service, and was among the pioneers who organized the Civil Service Reform Association, and was among its earliest presidents. He was also active in the organization of the New England Reform League, as well as the Massachusetts Tariff Reform Club. He was prominent in several literary and charitable organizations, ever regarding the welfare of the unfortunate as well as the favored. He was married May 26, 1868, to Miss Adelaide Frances Dickey, who, with a son, Richard D. Ware, Esq., mourns his decease. He ever regarded the history of New England with choice delight.

GEORGE OTIS SHATTUCK, Esq., elected a resident member March 4, 1891, was born in Andover, Mass., May 2, 1829, and died in Boston February 23, 1897. He was the son of Joseph and Hannah (Bailey) Shattuck. Both his grandfathers were soldiers in the war of the Revolution, and his great-grandfather Bailey was killed at Bunker Hill. His paternal line of ancestry for several generations bears the name of Joseph, and descends from William Shattuck, the founder of the family in New England. He graduated at Harvard University in 1852, and from the Harvard Law School in 1854. He became a prominent lawyer in Boston. For many years he was a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard University. He was a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts. In 1857 he married Emily, daughter of Charles and Susan Copeland of Roxbury, who survives him with a daughter, Susan, wife of Dr. Arthur Tracy Cabot. Professor J. B. Thayer says of him: "He has lived a strong and useful life. He had come to be a leader, trusted and honored. He began with none of those supports of fortune and powerful friends, which are so helpful. But he had brought with him the qualities of a vigorous ancestry, and he planted himself firmly, and steadily grew."

Mr. Wright was also a descendant, through his mother, from Rev. John Russell, who succored for a time the regicides Goffe and Whalley, who acted as judges in the condemnation of Charles I. and afterwards fled to this country. Mr. Wright's grandfather, Dr. Ebenezer Wright, served in the Revolutionary War, and other ancestors of his served in the French and Indian Wars. In 1849 Mr. Wright founded in New York the house of Dale & Wright. Ten years later, on the death of his brother Joseph at New Orleans, he succeeded him as purchaser of cotton for mills, under the name of George W. Wright & Co. of New Orleans and Memphis. On retiring from business he secured a beautiful estate in Duxbury, Massachusetts, where he resided with his family the remainder of his life.

REV. CALEB DAVIS BRADLEE, PH.D., D.D.

By REV. ALFRED MANCHESTER, of Salem, Mass.

THE name at the head of this article will suggest to many people the memory of a life that was peculiarly devoid of selfishness. From beginning to end, it was a life seeking the good of others rather than its own good. There is great satisfaction, to one who believes that life itself is of more importance than the things of life, in watching the development, and learning the lessons, of a character, trained from the first, and held throughout the period of human relationship, in strict accord with the Golden Rule. We may say, without fear of contradiction from any one who knew him, that such was the character of the subject of this sketch. The question, so often heard in our day, "Is life worth living," would never be asked if the average life with which we come in contact were in the spirit of this life with which we have so recently parted.

Caleb Davis Bradlee was born in Boston, February 24, 1831. It was on a Thursday, at 6.30 A.M., in a house on Avon Place, now Avon Street, where a part of the store of Jordan, Marsh & Company is now located.

His early ancestors spelled their name Bradley. In his preface to his work on the Bradlee Family, Samuel Bradlee Doggett, Esq., says: "The name was originally spelled Bradley, the change to Bradlee being made by Samuel Bradlee, who was recorded in the Dorchester Records as the son of Nathan and Lydia Bradley, born Oct. 5, 1707, and on the monument erected to his memory, in the Dorchester burying-ground, as Mr. Samuel Bradlee, died July 7, 1768, aged 62, the y giving place to e. Family tradition has it that the Bradleys in Dorchester were so numerous that mistakes were made, to obviate which Samuel Bradlee changed the final let-to e. The change in spelling applies also to John Bradley, the brother of Samuel, whose name is recorded on his tombstone as Brad-

lee. The posterity of Samuel Bradlee who are living, and bear the name at the present day, still retain this mode of spelling it."

Dr. Bradlee's father bore the name Samuel, which is so familiar in the Bradlee annals. He was a man of sterling integrity, a prominent Boston merchant; the son of Nathaniel Bradlee, one of the loyal Americans who, disguised as Indians, threw the British tea into Boston Harbor. It was in the old Bradlee homestead, at the corner of Tremont and Hollis Streets, that some of the men met to prepare for the "tea-party." This house is still occupied by a Bradlee descendant.

The boy received the name of Caleb Davis in honor of his maternal great grandfather, the Hon. Caleb Davis, a deacon of Hollis Street Church, the first Speaker of the House of Representatives after the new Constitution had been adopted, and one of the electors of George Washington as President of the United States.

The mother was the daughter of Jeremiah Williams, Esq., of Boston. Her name was Elizabeth Davis Williams, and she became the second wife of Samuel Bradlee, July 31, 1817. Caleb was the youngest of eight children of this marriage. He was never in robust health, but he survived all other members of his father's family. His brother, Nathaniel J. Bradlee, Esq., well known as a prominent business man in Boston, died suddenly the 17th of December, 1888, leaving him the sole representative of the family.

From his earliest years, Mr. Bradlee was deeply interested in the church and all that it stands for. He was christened in Hollis Street Church by the Rev. John Pierpont, whom he remembered in after years as having called on his mother one afternoon when he was five years old. Of this call he says: "I at that time selected for him, because he was my minister, the best apple I could find, and, with great joy and pride, placed it in his hand, whilst his smile and approving voice were a sufficient compensation." Later in life, after his settlement as a clergyman, Mr. Pierpont delighted him very much by being his guest at supper.

The boy was first sent to the school of a Miss Bacon; but, when he was five years of age, he entered the preparatory department of Chauncy Hall School, and Miss Nancy Healey, afterwards Mrs. Elisha D. Winslow, was his teacher. His education was continued in this school for twelve years, with the exception of a few months, during which he was a pupil of Rev. Richard Pike of Dorchester. His faithfulness in the performance of his school duties is shown in the fact that he received three medals from the Chauncy Hall School. Two of these medals were lost in a fire at North Cambridge. The other was given to a friend who, many years later, gave it to Dr. Bradlee's daughter. As a boy he wrote anonymously for the papers, and, at a very early age, began to write sermons.

In 1848 he entered Harvard University, and, the next year, received a detur. Among his classmates were the Hon. Charles Thomas Bonney of New Bedford, Mass., the Hon. Addison Brown, Prof. Charles Taylor Canfield, Prof. George L. Cary, Dr. and Prof. David W. Cheever, the Hon. Joseph H. Choate, Prof. E. W. Gurney, Henry G. Denny, Esq., the Hon. William C. Williamson, Dr. Samuel H. Hurd, Judge Hurd, and many other well-known men.

He received his degree of A.B. in 1852, and in September of the same year entered the Cambridge Divinity School, where he remained a year and a half, and received a highly honorable dismissal, placing himself under the care of the Rev. F. D. Huntington and the Rev. Rufus Ellis, with whom he pursued his studies in divinity with great earnestness and interest. In due time he was elected an honorary member of the Cambridge Divinity School. In 1855 he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

About this time he took steps that resulted in the formation of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union.

His connection with Hollis Street Church at this time, as teacher of Bible-classes and, later, as Superintendent of the Sunday School, brought him into close relations with the Rev. Thomas Starr King, of whom he was a great admirer.

Mr. Bradlee was licensed to preach, by the Boston Association of Ministers, on the 12th of June, 1854, at a meeting held at the house of the Rev. George E. Ellis, D.D., in Charlestown, Mass., and from this time to December 11th of the same year he preached in several pulpits as transient supply.

He was ordained to the ministry and settled as pastor of the Allen Street Church, North Cambridge, Mass., on the 11th of December, 1854, having been advised to accept this call by Rev. James Walker, D.D., President of Harvard College, who was his intimate and dearly beloved friend, and who gave the "Charge to the Minister." Rev. Thomas Starr King preached the sermon.

This pastorate lasted just three years, and it resulted in many life-long friendships. All through his life after this he was called, from time to time, to attend anniversary occasions and to hold special services in the homes of the members of this his first parish.

A few words from him about the character of ministerial labor in those days may be of interest. He says: "At the time of my settlement the whole arrangement of our churches was different from what it is now. A great deal more work was required of the young man on Sunday and a great deal more visiting during the week. Every minister was expected to call at each home at least twice in the year, and every week in cases of sickness. The minister's house was the home of the people at all hours of the day and evening; and, also, if he were invited, he was expected to be always ready for dinner or supper or an evening entertainment. I was relieved from a great deal of this kind of visiting; but it was all made up to me by the calls at my house and by the many choice gifts of dainty food that were constantly sent to my home."

It was during this pastorate, on June 7, 1855, that he married Miss Caroline Gay, youngest child of George and Nancy Lovering Gay, of Boston, and sister of the well-known surgeon, Dr. George H. Gay. By this marriage he had three children, only one of whom is now living, Mrs. Eliza Williams Bradlee Smith, who married Walter C. Smith, Esq., June 12, 1895.

In 1858, and in 1860, he was elected on the Board of School Committee of Cambridge, Mass., and in 1860 he was chosen one of the special Committee of the High School in Cambridge. All through his life he was opposed to public examinations, asserting that the man of good memory, but of little real ability, might succeed in such a test better than his deeper and more able brother who was naturally diffident.

During the absence of the Rev. Warren H. Cudworth, who served as Chaplain in the United States Army, for three years of the Civil war, Mr. Bradlee took charge of the Unitarian Church in East Boston. These years were full of happy fellowship. Here he thought the real usefulness of his ministry began. Here he said he learned how to preach. Those were trying years for everyone, and especially for one who watched the progress of the war with such interest as he had in its results. His sermons of this period breathe a spirit of intense patriotism. His correspondence with Mr. Cudworth is of great interest.

Early in 1864 a movement was made to establish a Unitarian Church at the South End, in Boston. Mr. Bradlee was asked to be the pastor. It was called "The Church of the Redeemer," and its services were begun in a hall on Concord Street. Here he had delightful fellowship with his people and became known over a large section of the city as one who was willing to serve the public in all helpful ways. He was constantly called upon to give his services in the homes of many who never went to his church, or, in many cases, to any church. He continued to reside at the South End for about thirty years, first in Chester Park, and then in West Brookline Street, during which time he became known, in hundreds of homes, as a kind friend and sympathetic pastor. In the summer, when most clergymen were away on long vacations, he made a point of remaining at home to attend to special calls for ministerial services. He was glad to think that his presence made it possible both for the clergymen to go away, feeling that no one would be neglected, and that there would be some one ready to minister to every need. No one was called more frequently to visit the sick or to bury the dead, and no man ever had a greater gift for such a ministry. He was welcomed alike in the homes of the rich and in the homes of the poor. He never asked to be excused from the trying service when his health would permit him to perform it. In the course of his work at the Church of the Redeemer, he developed great social gifts and became very much interested in children. At the close of eight years of happy service in this church, it was thought best, in view of the changes that were going on in that part of the city, through the removal of many people to the Back Bay and to other parts of the city, to disband the church. This was done reluctantly on the part of both pastor and people.

It was during this pastorate that Mr. Bradlee was, for a time, one of the faculty of the Boston School for the Ministry. In 1868 the department of Pastoral Care and Christian Biography was assigned to him, and he did the work of this department until the School was united with the Divinity School of Harvard University. This work was very attractive to him, as he was always very fond of young men, and devoted himself to their welfare with great earnestness. His lectures in Christian Biography were especially interesting and valuable, being prepared with a great deal of care; and his treatment of the pastoral relation was given with great attention to details of parish work.

It was also at this time that his father died, leaving him ample means. His friends thought that he would now live in retirement and devote himself to the pursuit of literary interests that were dear to him. This he never did, but devoted himself, and all that he had, to the work of the ministry, glad that, henceforth, he could serve, without any charge, those who needed his help. He had the conviction that he was only the steward of what he possessed. A modest living was all that he ever asked for himself; the remainder of his income was conscientiously devoted to public and private charity.

From 1872 to 1875 he was the pastor of the Christian Unity Society, which was an early experiment in what is now known as the "Institutional Church."

Among the happiest and most useful years of his life were those from 1875 to 1890, when he was the pastor of the Harrison Square Church. This Church was formerly called the "Third Unitarian Society in Dorchester." At the time that he became its pastor it was just the kind of church that he had made up his mind to serve. It had become weakened and seemed in danger of extinction. But, under his faithful labors, it rallied and took a new lease of life, and, at the end of his term of service as its pastor, it had regained its position. The prosperity of the church was sufficient compensation to him for all the service that he had rendered. The years that he might have spent in semi-retirement, busy about personal affairs, had been spent in behalf of others, and he was satisfied thus to have given expression to his self-sacrificing disposition and benevolent spirit.

In 1888 Galesville University, of Galesville, Wis., honored him with the degree of D.D., and in 1889 the same University gave him the degree of Ph.D. Tufts College, at the Commencement of 1891, conferred upon him the degree of D.D.

Having accomplished his purpose in the Harrison Square Church, he became interested in a newly formed religious society in Dorchester called the "Norfolk Street Church." He served this society for two years, from June, 1890, to June, 1892, had the pleasure of seeing it grow under his care, build a place of worship, and become able to call a pastor whom it was able to support.

For a little time he rested from pastoral duties, although he continued to answer calls for special services. He sometimes thought, as his friends did, that his work as pastor of a church was at an end. Little did he think that the crowning work of his life still lay before him; that the few years of life that remained for him were to be those in which his worth as a preacher and organizer were to be most strikingly shown.

In the autumn of 1893 he accepted an invitation to take charge of Christ's Church, Longwood, Brookline. This church was built by Mr. David Sears, who had dreams of church unity, and thought he had devised a ritual in the use of which all Christians would at once unite. The use of this ritual—or the use of no other service—was made a condition of the use of the church edifice. The church was a noble structure and beautifully situated. The ritual became a stumbling-block to many, and, after three short pastorates, the church was closed. It was fifteen years since services had been held in the church when Dr. Bradlee agreed to hold services there, at the invitation of some people who lived in the neighborhood. For a long time the attendance at the services was very small, but Dr. Bradlee had a conviction that the time would come when a strong society could be gathered there. It proved that he was right. After the departure of the Rev. M. J. Savage from Boston, a number of his former parishioners and their friends came into the church, and, in the autumn of 1896, a strong society, called the "Second Unitarian Church of Brookline," was organized. Dr. Bradlee built a fine residence in Brookline and moved into it in May, 1895.

As in former cases, so now, Dr. Bradlee, having accomplished his purpose, resigned his pastorate. The resignation took effect on the first of May, 1897. This was on a Saturday. On the preceding Sunday he preached his farewell sermon. His friends were glad to think that he had given up his formal connection with parish work and anticipated for him a long and beautiful twilight after his day of faithful labor. On the morning of the first of May, the very day that his parish work was at end, he arose as usual in the morning, and, while at the breakfast table, complained of a pain in the chest. This did not yield to simple home remedies and a physician was summoned who thought he was suffering from an attack of indigestion, and told him to lie in bed through the day. He did this, and, about six o'clock, while the family were at dinner, having left him resting quietly, they were suddenly summoned by an attendant who had been left with him, and arrived at his bedside just in time to see him peacefully breathe his last. His life ended with the end of his ministry.

On the following day he was to have been elected Pastor Emeritus of the church from whose active service he had just withdrawn. At the meeting called for that purpose it was voted that resolutions of respect and loving sympathy should be prepared by the Prudential Committee.

One of these resolutions was as follows: — "Resolved: That, in the purity and nobility of his character and aims, his unaffected simplicity of manner, his unselfish devotion to active Christian Endeavor, his abundant charity, his liberality and kindness toward those who differed from him in belief or practice, and his unstinted, loyal affection, we recognize virtues which claim our reverence, and which we may well imitate."

The funeral service was held at the church on the fifth of May, and was very largely attended. Rev. James DeNormandie conducted the service, and Dr. Edward Everett Hale, his intimate friend for many years, gave a fitting eulogy. The burial was at Mount Auburn Cemetery.

Dr. Bradlee published two volumes of sermons, which were well received. One was called "Sermons for All Sects," and the other was called "Sermons for the Church." The manuscript was ready for another volume to have been published in 1898, to be called "A Voice from the Pulpit." He also published many single sermons, poems, and various articles for the periodicals.

He belonged to many learned societies, and was especially interested in historical societies. He was a life-long member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, having been its secretary for several years, and having prepared many lectures to be delivered before it. He served twenty-eight years on its Board of Directors.

He took special pride in the "Boston Association of Ministers," from which he received his first license to preach, and over which he presided as moderator for two successive years, which was all that the by-laws allowed.

He belonged to innumerable charitable organizations, and was a liberal contributor to their treasuries. The Home for Aged Couples appealed to him with special power to move his sympathies and to draw out his generosity.

He was much interested in libraries, and here, as elsewhere, he found a field for the exercise of his liberality; and many hundreds of volumes were sent by him to newly formed libraries in struggling communities.

Dr. Bradlee was a good student. His mind was synthetic rather than analytic. He was impatient of details, and grasped, intuitively, conclusions that were afterward verified in his experience and in that of others. God, Christ, Duty and Immortality were divine realities in his thought; and he had the power to carry his convictions into the hearts and lives of others. His religion was love to God and man. His sermons were practical; they were dynamic rather than didactic. Many souls were deeply touched by his preaching, and readily confessed their personal indebtedness to him for new hopes and better life that had been inspired by his spoken word. After the sermon always came the warm grasp of the hand and some word fitted to make a lasting impression.

Philosophical studies were attractive to him. He was possessed of full and accurate classical knowledge, and wrote French and Italian with some fluency.

In his reading he inclined specially to Biography and to the sermons of the masters in the pulpit, both ancient and modern. He cared less than some do for strictly scientific studies, and yet was well informed as to the trend of modern thought. He read, to some extent, in the line of the Higher Criticism, but cared little for the details of that science, being convinced of the reality of the great life revealed in the Old and New Testament, finding the consummation of the revelation in Jesus Christ.

He held tenaciously to certain views in theology which seemed to him essential; but did not withhold his hand of fellowship from any who held views that differed from his own. He held personal friendship and human sympathy with all who came in contact with him. To one who differed very widely from him in regard to a certain matter, he wrote: "Let it be clearly understood, at once, and forever, that between you and me personally there can be nothing but the most cordial fellowship."

On the fortieth anniversary of his ordination he prepared a paper, "Recollections of a Ministry of Forty Years," which he read before the Boston Association of Ministers. In it he said: "I honor my brethren of to-day. I may not think as they think, I may not see as they see, I may not work as they work, I may be too tied to the past, I may be too bound to ceremony, I may like more than they do confessions and prostrations and forms; but I bow before them in reverence for their manliness, for their love of human nature, for their steady adherence to principle, for the study of the religions of all the ages of the world, for their cordial acknowledgment of the good in all religions, for their philanthropy, for their devotion to righteous living, and for all about them that is strikingly sound and really glorious."

He assumed no clerical dress, but was at once recognized by all who met him as a minister of religion. Denominational barriers fell at his approach, and many, on a short acquaintance, learned to regard him as one in whom they could find sympathy with their highest aspirations and a power of help in their deepest need.

His health was too precarious to allow of his going about as freely as he would like to have done. His home was the centre of his life, and here he sustained most tender relations with those nearest and dearest to him, and dispensed a hospitality that was remarkably free and generous.

He was especially fond of welcoming his brother ministers to his home, and made a regular practice of entertaining several of the larger associations of them at frequent intervals.

This was only one form of a boundless charity, in the exercise of which he delighted. In the course of the last thirty years of his life he gave away many thousands of dollars, always paying heed to the scriptural injunction not to let his left hand know what his right hand did. While he made a note of the amounts of his various gifts, in case he should ever wish to refer to it, he never reckoned the sum of them and said he did not wish to know what it was.

His tastes and habits of life were very simple. He wanted his friends to have all that they wanted, but for himself he wished little. His life is a splendid illustration of altruism.

Hospitality was one of his most prominent traits of character. "The latch string is always out," was one of his favorite sayings. There were some of his younger ministerial brethren to whom his house was opened with great freedom. There was a "prophet's chamber" to which they were always welcome, and a seat at table always awaited them. Whenever he went on a journey there was a "Bradlee Party"; beside his immediate family, others were invited, and thus many have paid an unexpected visit to various delightful spots.

His interest in young men, and especially in young ministers, was unbounded; and it was deepened in proportion to their need of sympathy or assistance.

Children loved him and were loved by him. Shy little ones soon learned to trust him, and sat on his knee listening to his droll stories and imitations. He had something of the ventriloquist's art, and amused the little ones by making their dolls talk, thus winning their confidence and gaining their lasting friendship.

He was full of charity for the wrong doer, always distinguishing between the sin and the sinner. He regarded his own conduct with respect to the strictest law of rectitude. He was, if anything, over-conscientious. He was willing to give others more than their due, but sometimes would not receive for himself what others considered his just dues.

He was an early riser, being found at his desk regularly, for many years, at four o'clock in the morning. He liked to work when all was still around him, and those early morning hours were filled with labor. His correspondence with libraries and societies, as well as with individuals, was large and carefully attended to. He was exceedingly prompt as a correspondent, as he was in all his business relations. He had a perfect abhorrence of debt, and, if he could have had his way, would never have gone to bed a single night in debt to any one.

He was a wise counsellor in financial matters, and in many ways disclosed the possession of faculties the exercise of which would have made him a successful business man. This ability he inherited from a line of ancestry full of sagacity and integrity.

By his will he gave much of his property directly to charitable and educational institutions, and provided that, eventually, nearly all of it shall be so disposed of.

The following resolutions, selected from those passed at a meeting of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, give a good summary of his character:—

“Resolved, That we honor the memory of Dr. Bradlee for the noble work he did as a minister of the gospel, his chosen profession, into which he entered with earnestness and zeal, laboring to promote the religious and moral welfare of his parishioners in the several parishes over which during his life he was pastor, some of which he built up from feeble congregations to self-supporting churches.

“Resolved, That by his writings, and particularly by the two volumes of sermons which he published, he won for himself a place among the authors of New England.

“Resolved, That we would express our gratitude for his liberal bequest to our funds, which will greatly aid us in carrying on the work in which we are engaged.”

“Cordially,” so he signed his letters. It was more than a conventional term to him. It is the expression of his character. So he lived and so he labored; in his family and in the world; to the glory of God, in the name of his Master, for the good of all.

ALDEN GENEALOGY.

3. Capt. JOHN² ALDEN (*John*¹). Born in Plymouth, 1625 or '26. He was one year old or more May 22, 1627, at the Division of Cattle, as shown by the Plymouth Colony Records. He died in Boston March 14, 1701-2. He married 1st, before 1659, Elizabeth ————?, for on Boston records is the birth of a daughter Mary, born Dec. 17, 1659. The mother died soon after, and he married, April 1st, 1660, Elizabeth (Phillips) Everill, widow of Abiel, and daughter of William Phillips of Boston and Saco. For further information about William Phillips, see a very interesting and valuable article in the Bangor Historical Magazine, by Joseph W. Porter, on Capt. John Alden. I shall quote from this largely. Elizabeth, his second wife, died February, 1695-6, and was buried Feb. 7th, for Sewall, in his Diary of that date, says: “Mrs. Alden is buried. Bearers were Mr. Cheever, Capt. Hill, Capt. Williams, Mr. Walley, Mr. Ballentine." Capt. John Alden went to live with his daughter, Elizabeth Walley, after his wife's death. His death is spoken of by Sewall. Where was he buried? In the Boston Transcript, April 30, 1870, is the following: "Mr. Samuel Jennison, the owner of property on and about Carlton Place, has recently, on account of widening of Eliot street, begun operations for the purpose of building there a new block. As the excavations have been going on some relics of the past have been dug up, including a lot of bones, and quite a number of gravestones, some of them nearly whole. These are small slate stone tablets, such as may be seen in the King's Chapel, Granary, and other ancient burying grounds in the vicinity, and most of them have the old-fashioned death's head cut over their inscriptions. Some of the inscriptions are * * * 'Here lyeth the body of John Alden, Senior. aged 75 years, Deceased March 14-1701-2.'" Mr. John E. Alden of Newton, Mass., has been aiding me very largely in my investigations. He writes in 1897: "I saw the gravestone in Mr. Jennison's office at the time it was found. * * * This Carlton Place was evidently obliterated by the widening of Eliot Street; it does not exist now. The spot where the stones were found is on the south side of Eliot Street, between Washington and Tremont Streets. Mr. Horace Weston, now deceased, told Mr. Jennison that he knew of these gravestones being there; that they lay in a confused heap on the surface of the ground, and were afterwards covered by an addition without cellar to the rear of the building, and had evidently been carted there when cutting off the lines of some cemetery, very likely from the Central Burying Ground at the time Frog Lane was changed to Boylston Street. Mr. Jennison gave the stone to Dr. Ebenezer Alden of Randolph, and he afterwards presented it to the Old South Church Society. It is now set in the wall in the vestibule of the new Old South Church, as a memorial stone." John Alden was one of the organizers of the Old South Church in 1669. We know very little of his life before he came to Boston. He was on a list of those able to bear arms in 1643. Freeman, 1648. He was a mariner. In 1655-6 we find his name on a list of residents and freeholders in Newtown, Long Island. He went to Boston in 1659, but in 1660 is in Saco with his father in law. After 1682-3 his life was spent on the ocean. Mr. Porter says: "For nearly thirty years he was commander of what navy the Province of Massachusetts Bay had, and its trusted agent. He supplied the forts of Maine with provisions and other necessary supplies. He made, and assisted in making, several treaties with the Eastern Indians, and it seems was trusted by them as no other man in the Province of Maine was at that time." For further particulars I refer the reader to Mr. Porter's article. Two of his sons, John Jr. and Nathaniel, were mariners also, and tradition has it that his younger brother, Zachariah, and his nephew Henry, son of David, were with him often on his voyages. In August or September, 1691, Capt. Alden was sent to convey Col. Edward Tyng to Annapolis, N. S., in the Province sloop, and was taken prisoner with his vessel at St. John. Sewall says: "Boston, Oct. 19, 1691. 'This day comes news of Captain Alden's being taken [prisoner] by a French Frigate at St. Johns. Mr. Nelson carried to Quebec, Col. Tyng and Mr. John Alden Jr. kept prisoners till Articles made for Capt. John Alden's coming here be fulfilled.'" "March 23, 1692. 'Capt. Alden sails for redemption of captives, and fetching home Col. Tyng and Mr. Alden, the son.'" This captivity was certainly not six months in duration. I would like to know who these other captives were. On returning from this voyage he was arrested for witchcraft, and confined in Boston jail. "It is said that the stout old mariner used some emphatic 'sea language' on the occasion. He denounced the witches as a set of wenches playing off their juggling tricks. He declares he never saw his accusers before, nor they him. His indignation was refreshing, but public opinion was then with the witches, his sword was taken from him, and he was imprisoned in Boston jail. He left a written account* of this trial, in which he says 'he was carried to Boston jail and remained there fifteen weeks, when he was prevailed upon to make his escape. He went to Duxbury, where he arrived in the middle of the night, telling his relatives that he 'was flying from the devil, and the devil was after him.' After a while, the delusion having abated, he returned to Boston, delivered himself up to the authorities, and was bound over to the Superior Court at Boston, the last Tuesday in April, 1693. No one then appearing to prosecute him, he, with others, were discharged by Proclamation. It is said that whenever the witchcraft delusion was alluded to he 'never acquired a calm state of mind.' It was not easy for him to forget or forgive the part the church and some of his friends took in the matter, and considerable effort was made to reconcile him." Immediately after his arrest, a prayer meeting was held in his own house, assuming that he was guilty. Judge Sewall tells of this, and again says under date Dec. 22, 1692: "Mrs. Willard talked to me very sharply about Capt. John Alden's not being at the Lord's Supper last Sabbath Day." In 1688, in company with Col. John Phillips and Major James Converse, he concluded an important treaty with the Eastern Indians. His will was proved 13 April, 1702:

The Probate of the Will of John Alden late of Boston—mariner dec'd. And Administration granted thereon unto his Sons John Alden and William Alden Executors in the same Will named.

LASTLY I do hereby nominate, constitute and appoint my s^d sons John Alden and William Alden to be the Executors of this my last Will and Testament. We now come to events occurring long after Capt. John Alden's death.

Vol. Mass. General Court Rec., 1734-7, page 418.—“ In Council, Jany. 12, 1736-7. Jona. Belcher, Governor.

A petition by Edward Tyng, Temple Nelson, and Nathaniel Alden, praying for a grant of a Tract of Provence Land for themselves, and the other heirs of their Respective Fathers in a long captivity in France, being in the service of the Province when taken.” * * * In answer to this petition “ordered that twelve hundred acres of the unappropriated Lands of the Province lying West of Salem, Canada* Town, be and hereby are granted to the petitioners, the heirs and legal representatives of the within named Edward Tyng, Esq., John Nelson, Esq., and Capt. John Alden, dec'd,” &c.

We find later, Feb. 3, 1764. General Court Orders, 1763-5, page 188.—“ Hon. Thos. Hutchinson, Esq., Lieut. Gov.—A petition of John Jones, Esq., of Hopkinton, in behalf of himself and other heirs of Capt. John Alden, dec'd, setting forth, That the General Court did on the 9th of June 1736, in consideration of the services of the said John Alden, grant to his heirs four hundred acres of the unappropriated lands of the Province, who did accordingly survey 400 acres of Land, lying on the Branches of the Souhegan River, the Plat whereof was returned and accepted. Since which the said land, by the late running of the line is fallen into the Government of New Hampshire, by which means they must lose the benefit of their grant, and the charges they have been at, without the aid of this Court and Praying Relief.”

This relief was granted by a new 400 acres being granted in the region near Pittsfield. Later John Jones died, and his son settled the estate, selling the land and going to great trouble to find all the heirs of Capt. John Alden. Mary Gale makes oath in 1786 to the descendants, she, herself being one. She says: Capt. John² Alden left five children—John Jr.,

* Near Tynsborough, N. H.

William, Nathaniel, Zachariah and Elizabeth. John³ Alden Jr. left John, Nathaniel, Elizabeth, Hannah and Anna. William left three daughters, Elizabeth, Lydia and Mary. Nathaniel left Mary and Elizabeth. Zachariah left Mary and Elizabeth. Elizabeth married a Willard and had seven children, and all are dead but the Bridgams, who are grandchildren. We see that in 1786 there was not a descendant of Capt. John Alden in the name. John Alden, grandson of Capt. John, left one heir—Anna, wife of Samuel Burrill. Nathaniel left only Hannah, wife of Michael Homer, and Elizabeth, wife of Anthony Jones. Mr. C. H. Wight* of New York, aided by Mrs. Lucy H. Greenlaw of Cambridge, have sifted this to the bottom and have copies of all the deeds, receipts, &c., of this long and tedious affair. It shows conclusively that all pedigrees in the Alden name, running to Capt. John Alden, are false.

LETTERS OF JONATHAN BOUCHER TO GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Contributed by WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY FORD, Esq., of Washington, D. C.

ST. MARY'S, 2 August, 1768.

Sir,

I do not recollect that Mast^r. Custis has had any Return of y^e Pain in his stomach, which I told you I suspected to be occasioned by worms: but as it is but too probable that He may have a little of the ague & Fever in This or y^e next month, this complaint, it is not unlikely, may return; and if it does, in any considerable Degree, D^r. Mercer shall be consulted.

Mast^r. Custis is a Boy of so exceedingly mild & meek a Temper, that I meant no more by my Fears, than a Doubt that possibly He might be made uneasy by y^e rougher manners of some of his schoolfellows. I am pleas'd, however, to find that He seems to be perfectly easy & happy in his new situation; and as the first shock is now over, I doubt not but He will continue so. You know how much the questⁿ. has been agitated between y^e advantages of a private & a public Educaⁿ.: & this young G—man has afforded me occasion to reflect upon it rather more than I had done before. His Educaⁿ. hitherto may be call'd a private one; & to This, perhaps chiefly, He owes that peculiar Innocence & sanctity of manners w^h. are sô amiable in Him: but then, is He not, think you, more artless, more unskill'd in a necessary address, than He ought to be, ere He is turn'd out into a world like this? In a private Seminary, his Passions cou'd be seldom arouz'd: He had few or no Competitors; and therefore cou'd not so advantageously, as in a more public Place, be inured to combat those little oppositions & collisions of Interest, w^h. resemble in miniature the contests y^t happen in y^e gr^t school of y^e world. And let our Circumstances in y^e world be what They will, yet, considering the thousand unavoidable Troubles that human nature is Heir to, This is a Part of Educaⁿ, tho seldom attended to, w^h. I think of more Importance than almost all y^e Rest. When children are taught betimes to bear misfortunes & cross accidents wth becom^g. Fortitude, one half of y^e Evils of Life, wth w^h. others are dejected, afflict not Them. Educaⁿ is too generally considered merely as y^e acquisⁿ. of knowledge, & y^e cultivatⁿ. of y^e intellectual Powers. And, agreeably to this notion, wⁿ. we speak of a man well-educated, we seldom mean more than that He has been well instructed in those Languages w^h. are y^e avenues to knowledge. But, surely, This is but a partial & imperfect acc^t. of it: & y^e aim of Educaⁿ. sh^d be not only to form wise but good men, not only to cultivate y^e understanding, but to expand y^e Heart, to meliorate y^e Temper, & fix y^e gen'rous Purpose in y^e glowing Breast. But whether This can best be done in a private or public school, is a Point, on w^h. so much may be said on both sides, that I confess myself still undetermined. Y^r son came to me teeming wth. all y^e softer virtues: but then I thought, possess'd as He was of all y^e Harmlessness of y^e Dove, He still wanted some of y^e wisdom of y^e Serpent. And This, by y^e Œconomy of my Family, He will undoubtedly sooner acquire here than at Home. But, how will you forgive me sh^d. I suffer Him to lose in Gentleness, Simplicity, & Inoffensiveness, as much as He gains in Address, Prudence, & Resoluⁿ? And I must assure you f^m. Experience, that This is a Dilemma by no means so easily avoided in Practice, as it may seem to be in Theory. Upon the whole, however, I can honestly give it as my Opinion (and, as it must give you & Mrs. Washington much Comfort & Pleasure to hear it, I hope you will not suspect y^t. I c^d be so mean as to say so, if I did not think so,) that I have not seen a Youth that I think promises Fairer to be a good & a useful man than John Custis. 'Tis true, He is far f^m. being a brilliant Genius; but This so far from being considered as a Reflexion upon Him, ought rather to give you Pleasure. Parents are generally partial to gr^t. Vivacity & Sprightliness of Genius in th^r. children; whereas, I think, that there cannot be a symptom less expressive of future Judgment & solidity; as it seems thoroughly to preclude not only Depth of Penetration, but y^t attenⁿ. & applicaⁿ. w^h are so essentially requisite in y^e acquisiⁿ. of knowledge. It is, if I may use y^e simile of a Poet, a busy Bee, whose whole Time passes away in mere Flight f^m Flower to Flower, with^t rest^s upon any a suff^t. Time to gather Honey.

He will himself inform you of y^e accident He lately met with; and as He seems to be very apprehensive of y^t. Displeasure, c^d. I suppose it necessary, I w^d. urge you & his mamma to spare Rebukes, as much as he certainly deserves Them. Mrs. Washington may believe me that He is now perfectly well. He seem'd to xpect me to employ a Doct^r. but as He met wth. y^e accident by his own Indiscrⁿ, & as I saw there was no Danger, I thought it not amiss not to indulge Him. The calling in a Physician upon any trifling Occasion, I think, is too likely to render Children needlessly timorous & cowardly.

I did not misunderstand y^e meaning of y^r. Request, in y^e matter wherein you suspect I possibly might; being persuaded that you know as well as I do, that such particular Attention is not only unnecessary, but impracticable. He will probably inherit a much more considerable Fortune, than any other Boy here; and I thought it by no means an improper or unreasonable Request that a p^rticular attenⁿ. sh^d be bestow'd on a youth of his Expecta^{ns}. But as any Partiality to Him on y^e trifling Circumstances of his Diet or other accommoda^{ns}. w^d. be rather disserviceable to Him than otherwise, I have taught Him not to expect it. The only p^rticular attenⁿ. you c^d. wish for, I also think Him entitled to; & that is, a more vigilant attenⁿ. to y^e Propriety & Decorum of his Behav^r, & y^e restrain^s Him f^m many Indulgences, w^h. I sh^d. willingly allow p^rhaps to ano^r. Boy, whose Prospects in Life do not require such exalted sentim^{ts}. Y^e allowing Him more frequently to sit in my Company, & being more careful out of y^e Company of Those, who might probably debase or taint his morals. Had I my choice, believe me, it w^d. be more agreeable to me to superintend y^e Educaⁿ. of two or three promis^g Lads, than to lead a Life of y^e most voluptuous Indolence: but the Truth is, oblig'd as I was to engage in it by necessity & not by choice, I have often found myself so ill-requited, & y^e office itself considered as so low, & so often taken up by y^e very lowest Fellows one knows of, that, after hav^g laboured in it for upwards of seven years, with^t hav^g added much either to my Fortune or Reputaⁿ, I am almost resolv'd to drop it entirely. Yet whilst it continues to be agreeable to you to let Mast^r. Custis remain with me, it will be a Pleasure to me to have y^e management^t. of Him: nor can I indeed come to any decisive Resoluⁿ. as to y^e other matter, till I know more certainly y^e Fate of my Expecta^{ns}. in Maryland.

Be so obliging as to find some speedy & safe conveyance for a L^r. to Mr. Addison, w^h. I take y^e Liberty of recommend^g. to y^r p^rticular Care, as it might be of much Detriment to me, sh^d. it fall into ill Hands, as has been y^e case once before.

I beg Pardon for this very tedious Letter, w^h. I have tax'd you wth. y^e Perusal of, and, wth mine & my sister's compt^s. to Mrs. Washington, I am &c.

Boucher to Washington.

CAROLINE, 5 September, 1768.

Dear Sir,

I was much concern'd for Mast^r Custis's Indisposition, w^h yet I foresaw, & sh^d have told you so, as I did Him, had I not been unwell at y^e Time He left us. He is fond of Fruit, & w^t is worse for Him, He is fond of cucumbers; & to These, I doubt not, in a g^t measure, He owes his bilious complaints. A better air, & stricter attention, I trust, will soon restore Him to his former Health.

I did intend to have dismiss'd my Boys a week ago; but th^r Parents & Friends hav^g neglected to send for Them, many of Them have had, & still have this vile Disorder. And as both my Sister & Usher are also down in it, I see no chance I have of quitting y^e Place during y^e sickly season, w^h was my chief aim. Thank God, the Fevers are not very obstinate this year, & easily give way to Vomits and Bark.

Unless you hear from me again, I shall be glad to see Jack here agⁿ ab^t y^e latter End of this month, if his Health will then permit Him: & I hardly expect He will be in a Capacity to leave Home much sooner. Then, I hope, he may come without Danger. Mr. Addison is expected here every Day, who will probably either come or return your Way.

I beg my comp^{ts} to Mrs. Washington & her son, & am &c.*

Boucher to Washington.

FREDERICKSB^g, 11 January, 1769.

Dear Sir,

I have been much concern'd that it has not been in my Power to spend a few Days at Mount Vernon, as I hop'd I should. A very painful Disorder I labour'd under when Mast^r Custis left me, confin'd me to my Bed a Fortnight; and now it is too late to set out, when I expect all my little Flock to return immediately, as some of Them already are. You will please therefore to let Mast^r Custis know, that it will be to no Purpose for him now to wait for me, as we proposed when we parted; & that I shall expect to see Him at St. Mary's, as soon as ever a good Day or two may tempt Him to set out.

If Mr. Magowan be still with you, be so good as to enquire if He rec^d a L^r f^m me ab^t a month ago: The Parish In Louisa I mentioned to Him is still vacant, tho' warmly solicited for by his Fellow-Candidate Mr. Contes & others.

I am &c.

MOUNT VERNON, 24 April, 1769.

Your favor of the 17th came to my hands this day; the contents of which, or the Letter itself shall soon reach Mr. Addison's hands. In respect to the Dancing Gentry, I am glad to find you have such a choice of them, and that Newman has got the start of his rival Spocner, because I have heard him well spoken of as a teacher in that science. The other's misfortune might recommend him to the notice and charity of the well disposed, but if his accomplishments in that way are inferior to the other's, it ought by no means to entitle him to the preference. You will be so good, therefore, sir, to enter Master Custis with Mr. Newman for a year or otherwise as he may form his school. Mrs. Washington I can venture to assure you, will be very glad to see you at Mount Vernon in the recess of Whitsun Hollidays, but it is a pleasure I must be deprived of, as I expect to be in Williamsburg before, and long after that time.

*Washington to Boucher.*MOUNT VERNON, July 13th, 1769.Rev^d Sir

As we have fixed upon the 27th Inst^t for our departure to the Frederick Springs, & M^{rs} Washington is desirous of seeing her son before she leaves home, I am now to request the favour of you to permit him to come up for that purpose so soon as this letter gets to hand (by M^r Stedlar, which I am told will be eight days after date).

Nothing new in this part of the country worth a recital, and therefore I have only to add the comp^{ts} of M^{rs} Washington and my own to yourself & Miss Boucher, and our Loves to Jacky.

CAROLINE, 20 July, 1769.

Sir,

In consequence of your L^r, Mast^r Custis now waits on you; & as this is a pretty busy Time with us in school, I shall be glad He may set off back again at y^e same Time you do for the springs.

Enclosed you have his acc^t for y^e last year, which as you were so obliging as to offer me when I was at Mount Vernon, I will beg y^e Fav^r of you now to send by Jack.† I hope it will not appear too high to you; it being just what I charged y^e only Boy (Mr Turner) I ever had living wth me in y^e same manner he does. For my own Part, I must own to you, I charge his Horses merely by Guess, hav^g never very nearly attended to y^e Expence of maintain^g a Horse: Those I have mentioned y^e matter to here, think it too low: you, probably may have had occasion to consider y^e matter, therefore I beg leave to refer it entirely to y^rself. I have yet to mention to you on this subj^t that, perswaded by my own Experience, I have lately come to a Resoluⁿ of tak^g no more Boys for less than £25 p^r ann: There are now four upon these Terms, & more expected soon. Unless therefore you object to it in Time, you must expect next year to find your son charged so too.

I have a Pleasure in informing you that I please myself wth think^g we now do much better than formerly: You will rem^r my hav^g complain'd of Jack's Laziness, which, however, I now hope is not incurable. For I find He will bear driving, which heretofore I us'd to fear He would not. He has met wth more Rig^r since I saw you, than in all y^e Time before, & he is the better for it. This I mean only as to his Books; in other matters, He is faultless. His new Boy too is infinitely fitter for Him than Julius; & if He be not spoil'd here, which, in Truth, there is some Danger of, you & He & I too will all have cause to be pleas'd at his having made y^e Exchange.

Miss Boucher was very intent on going to the springs, but being now convinced that she cannot, consistent with associaⁿ Principles, she is contented to drop it. She begs her respectful comp^{ts} to Mrs. Washington & Miss Custis may be join'd to mine, heartily wishing them as well an agreeable Jaunt, as that They may reap all the Benefit they xpect from the waters.

I am &c.

I had forgot that the Dancing school is to be at this House next Friday. He has already miss'd two, & sh'd not therefore, I think, neglect attending this.*

"The Printer has promised to have a Musick Book rul'd for Miss Boucher if I come up, if so it shall be brought. Jack's stay has been longer here than we intended, but we hope he will endeavour to make atonement by extraordinary diligence."

KING'S COLLEGE, NEW YORK, 22 March, 1770.

My dear Sir,

I hold myself much obliged to you for good will, as well as good offices, towards this college, as instanced in your Conduct respecting Mr. Custis; and I am under still weightier obligation, when I consider your very friendly suspension of Belief, with Regard to some Reports, which you tell me have been circulated in your Parts to our prejudice. I am conscious that we have Enemies in abundance—that every Dissenter of high principles, upon the Continent, is our Enemy—that many of their missionaries, from the northern into the southern provinces, make it their Business, nay, have it in Charge from their masters, to decry this Institution by all possible means; because they are convinced, from its very Constitution—being in the Hands only of Churchmen;—which is very far indeed from being the Case of any other college to y^e northward of Virginia,—and I know of none to the southward of it—they are convinced that it must eventually prove one of the finest supports to y^e Church of England in America.

* Washington went to the Springs July 31 and returned in September.

Hence there arose an opposition coeval with y^e College itself—or rather, with the very first Mention of an Institution so circumstanced; which hath been continued, without Interruption, to this very Day, with much Resentment, Inveteracy, and Malice. The College of New Jersey—and those of New England—were already in their own sole Directions, and yet they could not be satisfied that y^e poor Church should have any Influence in one: not that Dissenters of any Denomination are excluded from either Learning or Teaching; nay, we have educated many, and have several at this very Time, who do Honor both to us and to themselves.

However, owing to the very Opposition, or to our own Care & Circumspection,—which may, perhaps, have arisen from the former;—our Numbers yearly increase, and our present apartments overflow. It would ill become any one, to boast of the advantages enjoy'd by a Seminary over which he himself presides: but I will venture to affirm, that, with Respect to Discipline (which, it seems, is one heavy accusation exhibited against us) we are far from being outdone by any College on the American Continent: and I know of none in Europe, to which, in this article, we are really inferior. Add to this, that the Expence—however such Things may be magnified by our adversaries, is not half so much as at any of the latter; and, I believe very little, if at all, more, than at most of the former. Our Tuition is only five pounds—one Dol^r passing for 8 shillings—New York currency: Room rent four; and Board, including Breakfast, Dinner and Supper, at y^e Rate of eleven shillings a week, for y^e Time each student is actually in College. These (saving Firewood, Candles & Washing, which must be had everywhere,) are the principle Expences, indeed almost the only ones, of the truly collegiate kind. Others, indeed, may run higher—as in Dress, and sometimes in Company, than they do at Colleges in the Country; tho' even these will not be materially different to a student of real Gentility: For such a one will chuse to appear handsomely-habited in all situations; and when he does go into Company, he will chuse the best for his associates.

With Regard to our plan of Education, it is copied, in the most material Parts, from Queen's College in Oxford; with the wh[ole] system of which, (having been for many years both Learner and Teacher in that seminary, with the character of which you are by no means unacquainted,) I looked upon myself as perfectly familiar.

The young Gentleman's Guardian may rely on everything in my Power for his Ward's Emolument: but as to my turning Private Tutor as it were—it seems to me so inconsistent with my office (whatever others in my situation may think of it) that I must beg to be excused. But I repeat—That I will shew Mr. Custis every mark of care & attention, and see that his other Teachers shall do the same.

I have only to add, that I wish he may be here in June,—as we do not admit pupils when absent.—that I beg my best Respects to Col^o. Washington, whom I shall be exceedingly happy to wait upon in New York (yourself, I hope, in Company)—and that I am, D^r S^r Y^r Aff^o Friend and very obed^t servant, &c.

M. COOPER.

I hope you will have patience with me—at present I suffer much by a severe fit of the gravel.

Boucher to Washington.

CAROLINE, 2 April, 1770.

Dear Sir,

I felt so strongly the Truth of your Remarks, that I took shame to myself for having reduc'd you to so distressing a Dilemma. Believe it, however, sir, that it was Necessity, & not Inclination, that urged me to the step, which yet I sh'd hardly have taken, at last, cou'd I have supposed the circumstances of Mast^r Custis's Est^a to have been as you represent Them.

I have now the Pleasure to inform you, that I trust my present Difficulty will be surmounted, with^t laying my Friends under a contribution. I am almost sure it will, if Mr. Claiborne will only be punctual in paying his £50, which I was Security for. A Debt, of long standing, & which I had almost despair'd of, fortunately for me, has just been paid: & This, with some collections I have made from the Est^a of a deceased Friend, on w^h I administered, have enabled me to make up my Sum of £230. this last, indeed, was an Expedient I very unwillingly had Recourse to; but I now learn by Experience, that real Distress is very effectual in teaching a man to get the Better of certⁿ delicate Qualms of conscience—& let This teach me to view, wth candor, the Peccadillos of others in similar circumstances. I purpose replacing This with what I am to receive of you on Mast^r Custis's acc^t, & therefore, if not highly inconvenient to you, wou'd this year prefer a Bill to Cash, and shou'd I again be obliged to call on you before it is due, as I hope I shall not, I flatter myself with being again excused.

Might not your proposed Improvem^{ts} of y^e Navigaⁿ of the Potomac to the W:ward be accomplished on some such Plan as This?—I mean by obtain^g an Act of Assembly, empowering certⁿ Commissioners therein named, to borrow the Sum supposed to be wanted at a high Interest (suppose 10 p^r cent) & this Interest to be rais'd f^m a Tax proportioned thereto, on all y^e vessels mak^g Use of s^d Navigaⁿ? Or, if y^e Navigaⁿ w^d bear it, w^h tho' p^haps it might not at first, yet, undoubtedly it soon would, might not this Tax be rated so, as to produce a considerable Surplus, enough not only to sink the original Loan, but to raise a Fund for still farther Improvem^{ts}. Are not some of the canals in Engl^d, & y^e Turnpikes on this System? & if I mistake not, the very grand canal now carrying on in Scotland is so too.—You doubtless have heard long ago w^t was done on this matter by the Maryland Assembly; but, as I fear, f^m y^r acc^t of Things, our Assembly w^d not easily be persuaded to advance any cash towards the scheme, tho' I can have no immediate Interest in it, I s^d be grieved so beneficial a Project shou'd be dropp'd.

I guess my Friend Mr Addison met with some Difficulties in y^e Bargain he pro[mised] to make for me, as I have never heard from Him, nor about the Boy.

Custis who, as well as myself, is but just return'd from a Trip I took Him into Richmond County, is gone to write to his Mamma, to whom, & to Miss Custis, with many thanks for the^r obliging Helps to my Garden, I beg my affectionate compliments. I am &c.

Boucher to Washington.

CAROLINE, 9 May, 1770.

Sir,

There are some particular Circumstances in my affairs, at this Juncture, which make me desirous to know your & Mrs. Washington's final Resolution respecting Mr. Custis's visit to Europe. Should you think it advisable for Him to go, & I be thought a proper person to accompany Him, I still am willing to do it, & on Terms which, I can hardly think, you will judge unreasonable.—I do not mean to take upon me to advise you in the matter; yet, I cannot help giving it you as my opinion, that, from what I know of Him, Travelling will be of peculiar Service to Him. And, as he is now advancing fast to that period of Life, much the most hazardous, this Expedient, if ever adopted at all, should be resolved on early, and put in Execution, at least, in two years from this Time. The Expectaⁿ of it will engage his Attention, & divert Him from what I think a very wrong System, tho' a very common one, with the Youth of Virginia; it is to be hoped too, that it will stimulate Him to pursue his Studies with greater Earnestness, when he recollects how often He must be put to the Blush, if he appears illiterate amongst Men of Letters, into whose Company, in Travelling, He will often fall.

Surely, it will not be thought that I can possibly have any interested views in this matter. It is true, indeed, I wish to revisit my native Country; and I have too a strong inclinaⁿ to see the diff^t parts of the world. In point of Prudence, however, I believe it were better for me to remain contented as I am; I consider it in this Light, that I am unconnected in the world, with no very violent Passion, but that of increasing my slender stock of knowledge, which I persuade myself I shall most effectually accomplish by a Tour thro' those Countries where Arts & Sciences have been most successfully cultivated. These, believe me, are all the interested motives I feel the Influence of; & if I have either heretofore or now, recommended it to Mr. Custis to travel, it was from a full conviction how necessary & how useful it w^d be to Him. I have many Reasons for this opinion, some of which, I believe, are not unknown to you.

Happening, at present, to be a good deal hurried, I have only Time to add, that I wou^d by no means have mentioned this matter to you now, had not my own affairs required it; & that I can never consent to his leaving Virg^a, unless He is first inoculated, which therefore should be resolved on as soon as ever you can be advis'd of a good opportunity.

I beg my respectful Comp^{ts} to Mrs. Washington & Miss Custis, & am, very truly &c.

P.S. I have shown Jack what I have wrote, and desir'd Him to think of the Project calmly & coolly, & then sit down, & write you fully his own sentiments on the Subject.*

CAPOWACK.

IS IT THE CORRECT INDIAN NAME OF MARTHA'S VINEYARD?

By Surgeon CHARLES E. BANKS, U.S.M.H.S.

IN an article printed in the REGISTER (vol. 48, p. 201), I presented the question as to the "proper nomenclature of the Vineyard," and cited a long list of authorities, printed and in manuscript, in which the name of "Martin's" Vineyard was used during the seventeenth century almost to the exclusion of "Martha's" Vineyard, or, as stated by Thomas Mayhew, Jr., in a letter dated October 22, 1652, "this Island commonly called Martin's Vineyard." Since the publication of that article I have had opportunity to examine personally the first volume of Deeds covering the period 1642-1692, in the Dukes County Registry, and have carefully gone through it page by page to note the use of the words "Martin's" and "Martha's." The result disclosed the use of both names in about equal frequency, and I noted that the first clerk who wrote the title to the volume, recognizing the peculiar situation, has engrossed, on page 237, the following: "Record of the Landes uppon Martins or Marthas Vineyard & Dependances," showing that when this book was opened for entry (probably about 1670), the question of the proper nomenclature of the Vineyard had not then been settled.

* Washington's answer to this letter is printed in my Writings of Washington, II., 277. On May 20th Washington noted in his Diary, "Breakfasted at Mr Boucher's."

The object of this paper, however, is to examine the standing of the Indian word "Capowack" as the aboriginal title of the Vineyard. It is not my purpose to discuss the etymology of the word, from an Algonquin standpoint, for I have no knowledge of that tongue.

I asked William Wallace Tooker, Esq., of Sag Harbor, Long Island, who is a recognized authority on this language, having made a special study of this subject in its relation to the aboriginal place-names of Southern New England, to define the word for me, and he kindly undertook the examination of its dialectic origin. In his opinion, as stated to me in a letter, dated November 7, 1897, its definition is "the shut-in place," and in a subsequent letter he states that the late Hon. J. Hammond Trumbull, LL.D., translated it the same. This is a perfect description of the almost land-locked body of water known to-day as Capoag Bay (or in the corrupted form Capoge), and hence cannot be a word describing an island.

It is true that the early writers who published descriptions of New England from the time of the first explorations, Smith, Winslow, Wood, Gorges and others, call it the Isle of Capowack (in variations of spelling), and I am familiar with the authorities of that period so far as to admit that this name was generally used to designate the Vineyard. This name had the advantage of undisputed usage (up to the time which I shall cite hereafter), and therefore is entitled to all the privilege which exclusive occupancy of the field may bestow.

An examination of the Coast Survey charts and current maps of Martha's Vineyard will show off its Eastern shore and closely contiguous, a curiously shaped island, with a long sickle shaped neck of land extending therefrom, now called the Island of Chappaquidick, while the extreme North end of this pointed neck is known as Cape Poge. The evolution of the name Cape Poge is easy of demonstration. The name was originally, as I believe, Capoag or Capoak, and by giving each vowel its syllabic value in pronunciation, we have Ca-po-ag, or Ca-po-ak, which was, probably, an Indian name of a definite locality; and the early voyagers hearing this pronounced, and noting the phonetic resemblance of the first syllable to our geographical word "Cape," immediately applied it to that portion of the island answering the physical features of a cape, and the map makers accordingly registered their decrees. In the DeLaets map of 1630, showing the Vineyard, we see the legend "C. Ack," or Cape Ack, and in the Novi Belgii map of 1671, it is repeated with a slight change, "C. Wack als Ack," that is Cape Wack or Ack, appearing in both instances at the eastern side of the island, where Cape Poge is known at the present day. In the DesBarres chart of 1781 it is Capoag (one word), and by pronouncing it in two syllables we have Ca-pōg, which is the general local pronunciation to-day. It is, however, spelled Cape Poge or Pogue.

It is my belief that the name Capowack is the Indian title of this point of land, with its enclosed and almost land-locked harbor, which afforded a safe shelter for the frail canoes of the natives in battle or storm. In evidence of the general proposition that Capowack is not the correct Indian name of Martha's Vineyard I submit the following facts:—

I. Neither the town records of Edgartown, from 1642 to 1670, which are, in fact, the earliest muniments of title on the Vineyard; the Court Records of the County of Dukes County, from the earliest entry in 1673 to 1700, nor the town records of Tisbury, from 1671 to 1700, all of which I have examined personally, and from which I have full abstracts for the periods cited, disclose the use of the name Capowack as a place name for the island as a whole. This is, of course, negative testimony, but it may pass as such for cumulative or circumstantial evidence.

II. In the Court Records of the County of Dukes County, under date of October 13, 1675, an order relative to trading with the Indians is entered, and as a part of the plan for prohibiting non-residents from bartering surreptitiously with them, it was provided "That no man presume to land any goods anywhere at Marthas Vineyard, Capepowak, Nomans Land or Elizabeth Isles, unless at the places appointed." This topographical list includes the whole of the County as then and now constituted, and serves to show that "Capepowak" was by the inhabitants considered as distinct and separate a place from Martha's Vineyard as Noman's Land or the Elizabeth Isles.

III. When the New England Charter of 1692 was issued it disclosed the fact that unbeknown to the people of the Vineyard, and to the government of New York, under which it had been since 1671, the Island was placed under the government of the Massachusetts Bay. In the acts of the General Court of that year, providing for the control of, and the civil authority on, the Vineyard it was called "Martha's Vineyard alias Capowack." This official designation aroused the inhabitants to protest against the further use of this title for the Island, and in obedience to this sentiment, and acting on his instructions as Representative of the towns of Edgartown and Chilmark to the General Court, at the next session after the passage of these acts, Mr. Benjamin Smith addressed the Governor and Representatives in this language:—

"I am to shew that it seemeth greivous to us that wee seem to be named in divers acts of the assembly here by a name in no waies acknowledged by us.

I am to shew to your honours that if an act be made that whereas in the divers acts mentioning Martha's Vineyard Alias Capowick, If it be inserted Martha's Vineyard and Capowick, it will be more satisfactory to our people."—(Mass. Arch. cxii. 453.)

This evidence seems to me to establish conclusively that however much others, through ignorance or inadvertance, had given credence to the original use of the title Capowack as representing the Vineyard in its entirety, yet the inhabitants, who were peculiarly familiar with the Indian language and had been brought into long and intimate relations with the natives through their missions, disavowed the name as applicable to the whole Island.

That Martha's Vineyard had an Indian name is certain, and as my desire is not wholly iconoclastic, it is my purpose to restore, if possible, to its proper place in history the correct name of the island, as given to it by the Indians. My authority is Thomas Mayhew, Jr., the first "apostle" to the Indians there, 1643–1657, an educated gentleman, learned in their language and who taught them the Christian religion in their own tongue. In his letter of October 22, 1652, published in "Tears of Repentance," etc. (London, 1653), reciting the conversion of the Indians, he says:—"I drew forth the same morning in the Indian Language, which I have here sent in England," the Covenant of the Indians, which begins, "We the distressed Indians of the Vineyard (or Nope, the Indian name of the Island)."

The use of this curious word, pronounced in two syllables, No-pe, is of rare occurrence in the early records, and I have seen but four instances thus far in my readings and searches. The first is the one just cited; the second is by Daniel Gookin in his "Description of the New England Indians," written in 1674 (1 Mass. Hist. Soc. Coll., I., 141). The next is quoted by Freeman (History of Cape Cod, II., 274), from a deed dated September 7, 1680, when John Yanno, "Indian of Gay Head at Nope Island," sells certain property in Barnstable. The last is a reference made by Josiah Cotton, at the end of his Indian Vocabulary, compiled about the year 1737 (3 Mass. Hist. Soc. Coll., II., 147–257), who says in a dialogue between himself and a Plymouth Indian, that the Indians of the main land find it difficult to understand him because he learned from his father (Rev. John Cotton), who had acquired his knowledge "at Nope," his father having been a missionary to the Indians at the Vineyard 1665-8.

I should be glad to be advised of any further references which readers of the REGISTER may observe.

A COPY OF THE RECORDS OF THE REV. THOMAS WHITE, THE FIRST PASTOR OF THE CHURCH IN BOLTON, CONN.

Communicated by Miss MARY K. TALCOTT, of Hartford, Conn.

THE settlement of Bolton was commenced about the year 1716, and the first inhabitants were largely from the towns of Hartford, Windsor and Wethersfield. In 1720 it was incorporated as a town, and in 1725 the people obtained liberty of the General Assembly to form a church. The first minister was the Rev. Thomas White, who was born in Hatfield, Mass., July 10, 1701, son of Capt. Daniel and Sarah (Bissell) White of Hatfield, afterwards of Windsor. He was graduated from Yale College in 1720. He then taught in the grammar school at Northampton, and probably at the same time pursued his theological studies with the Rev. Solomon Stoddard. The next year, he supplied the pulpit of the First Church in Worcester, Mass. In 1725, he accepted a call to the newly formed church in Bolton, and was ordained there October 26, 1725, and continued his work until his death, February 22, 1763. He married, June 17, 1725, Martha, daughter of Jonathan Hunt, of Northampton, who survived him, and married, August 15, 1764, Col. Thomas Welles of Glastonbury, Conn.

COL. JOHN GORHAM'S "WAST BOOK."

FAC-SIMILES.

With Notes by FRANK WILLIAM SPRAGUE, Esq.

THE "Fac-simile" of a part of the "Wast Book" first appeared in the January, 1898, number of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, that publication having printed notes of it with other interesting Gorham records in the April and October numbers of 1897. The only error that we have discovered in Col. John Gorham's "Wast Book" is that he makes Capt. John Gorham the son of John (see Facsimile No. I.). The Plymouth Colony records prove that his father's name was Ralph.

In January, 1896, the New-England Historical and Genealogical Register contained the writer's notes of "Barnstable Gorhams," and in the same number was "Eben Parsons and Fatherland Farm," by Mrs. Susan E. P. Forbes. "Eben Parsons married Mary Gorham, May 1767." The "Wast Book" was for a great many years among the papers of Eben Parsons, at Byfield, Mass. Upon the death of his son Gorham Parsons, in 1844, this book was handed down through several generations of the family and recently it came into the possession of the present owner, Mr. John M. Gorham of Cleveland, Ohio, by whose courtesy the writer is enabled to present this fac-simile to those interested in the family records.

The story of Col. John Gorham's part in the capture of Louisburg is best told by himself in his letter to Sir William Pepperrell, Parsons's Life of Pepperrell, page 240 :—

“‘HALIFAX July 5, 1751.

“I did your message to our Governor, who since tells me he has wrote your honor. I will take the freedom to remind your honor how I came to be in that glorious expedition against Louisburg. I was sent up to recruit from Annapolis Royal, by Governor Mascarene, as that fort was then in great danger of falling into the hands of the enemy, and this expedition being then in embryo, I was importuned by Governor Shirley, and desired by your honor and many more of the council, to raise a number of men, and purchase whale boats and proceed in the expedition, as I did, upon condition of my having the liberty of going home [to England] with your honor's packet in my own sloop, as soon as the English flag should be hoisted at Louisburg. But I was disappointed in this, and received no commission in his royal regiment. My Father died, and most of his regiment at Louisburg. But I thank you for giving me the Commission of Colonel of my father's regiment; and I now solicit a letter of recommendation abroad, and assistance to carry through my memorial to the Legislature of Massachusetts.’

"These favors were granted; and in respect to the promise of sending him bearer of despatches announcing the conquest, it should be remembered that it was made before Warren joined the expedition, who had an equal voice with Pepperrell, in selecting a bearer, and would prefer a regularly commissioned officer of high rank in the Navy, as being more respectful to the King."

The widow of Col. John Gorham, in a letter written by her to Governor Cornwallis, dated "Boston, June 8, 1752," says: "My dearly beloved husband in his loyal service to the King, has expended his entire fortune." (Bourne Papers, Harvard College Library.)

Lieut. Christopher Gorham, and his brother Charles, sons of Col. Gorham, were in the "Gorham Rangers," commanded by their uncle Joseph Gorham, in the expedition which captured Havana, in 1762. Christopher died at Havana, and Charles at Grenada. (Bourne Papers, Harvard College Library, and Facsimile No. VI. containing the Gorham Family record.)

The "Bourne Papers" found in Barnstable, Mass., were given to the Harvard College Library by the late Judge Joseph M. Day of Barnstable. Among these papers there are many letters written by Major General Joseph Gorham to Melatiah Bourne, who was his cousin. General Gorham was a younger brother of Col. John Gorham, his letters dated from 1760 to 1775. According to the Memoir of this man written in London, in 1887, by Louis D'Aguiar Jackson, his commission as Major General in the English army was dated 28 April, 1790.

In one of his letters to Melatiah Bourne, he states that he has received grants of land for the estate of his brother John, and for himself, for their services in Nova Scotia. He also states that at that time his rank was Lieutenant. It would appear from this statement that he was at Louisburg in 1745.

"BATH, Oct. 24, 1774.

"A Captain Payne, of that regiment was Lieut. to David Gorham's company at the Havana."

Otis, in "Barnstable Families," vol. i., page 119, says of William Bourne (brother of Melatiah Bourne): "He served in Gorham's Rangers at the taking of Louisburg in 1757. From this it would appear that Joseph Gorham took part in both sieges of Louisburg.

Another item from the letter written at Bath, England, October 24, 1774, is of interest as showing the feeling of the English toward the Americans at that time:—

"Since writing the above Col. Amherst is come to Bath, and by advice of some of the Court party yesterday from London, says that a new Parliament was painfully struck with a view and with a better character to adopt some more favorable measures to satisfy the people of America. Yet they want to trim you Bostonians, who are represented and looked upon as principals from the beginning. Little considering that if these measures had commenced in any other part of the Continent, the same sort of opposition would have been given."

At the unveiling of the Louisburg Memorial, June 17, 1895, Col. James Madison Whittemore, U.S.A., a descendant of Col. John Gorham (through his son Lieut. Solomon Gorham of Gloucester, Mass.) was placed in command of the procession.

From 1675 to 1762 five successive generations of Gorhams, from father to son, who had lived or were born in Barnstable, Mass., held rank as military men.

Capt. Benjamin Gorham, who married Nancy Hinckley, in Boston, Nov. 28, 1774, was another son of Col. Shubael Gorham.

Capt. Benjamin Gorham, Junior, also a shipmaster, married in Boston, February 13, 1809, Nancy Kneeland. The following notes of the senior Capt. Benjamin Gorham may be found in Massachusetts Historical Society Proceedings, vol. iv., page 219, and vol. xiii., page 173 :—

"MARCH 6, 1774."

"Capt. Benjamin Gorham, nine weeks from London, in the Brig Fortune, brought 28½ chests of Bohea tea consigned to several persons here."

"March 7" "This evening a number of Indians, as is said of his Majesty of Ocnookortunkogg tribe, emptied every chest into the dock and destroyed the whole 28½ chests."

Several generations of the descendants of Capt. Benjamin Gorham have owned plantations in Cuba. Not long since the Barnstable Patriot had an account of the Glean brothers as being descendants of this branch of the Gorham family, making mention that these brothers are owners of plantations in Cuba.

Our readers may be interested to know that a letter from Col. Joseph Gorham, dated "Fort Cumberland," November 10, 1776, may be found in Kidder's "Eastern Maine and Nova Scotia," page 73.

Mr. T. B. Akin, Record Commissioner of Halifax, published Memoirs of the "First Council" in Collections of the Nova Scotia Historical Society for the years 1879-80, vol. ii. On pages 26 and 27 may be found a Memoir of Col. John Gorham.

One of our expert genealogists pronounces the "Wast Book" one of the best antiquarian finds of the year.

Of the fac-similes, Numbers I. to IV. are extracts from the Waste Book; Number V. is the title on the cover of the book; and Number VI. is the record of Col. John Gorham's family from a loose leaf found among the same papers.

HON. LEVI LINCOLN, SENIOR, AND HIS CONNECTION WITH THE EXTINCTION OF SLAVERY IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Communicated by Rev. SAMUEL MAY, of Leicester, Mass.

IN connection with the REGISTER's notice, in the October number, of the Hon. Levi Lincoln, the elder, we here add an account of his action in the Worcester County slave case of 1781, which resulted in the decision, by the Supreme Court, that slavery can have no existence under the constitution of Massachusetts. This account is taken from the chapter furnished to the History of Worcester County and its Towns (J. W. Lewis & Co., 1889), by the late Hon. William W. Rice:—

In 1781 the final effort of slavery to maintain itself in Massachusetts was made in the county of Worcester. A colored man, known as Quork Walker, was held as the slave of Nathaniel Jennison of Barre. Mr. Jennison claimed that Walker was born a slave; and was his by inheritance; or, as elsewhere stated, as having been the property of his wife. There were Barre men who refused to recognize the justice of this claim, and aided Walker in asserting his right to freedom. In the Court of Common Pleas, June term, 1781, Jennison brought suit against John and Seth Caldwell for enticing away his slave, Quork Walker. The court rendered a judgment in favor of the plaintiff, Jennison; but the Caldwells appealed the case to the Supreme Court. While the appeal was pending, the grand jury of the county found an indictment against Nathaniel Jennison for an assault on Walker, and illegal imprisonment; and the defence was that the party assaulted was his slave and property. This case of assault, etc., was decided against Jennison; and this also appears to have been appealed. The final hearing before the Supreme Court was not had until the April term, 1783. Levi Lincoln, the elder, of Worcester, and Caleb Strong of Northampton,* appeared in behalf of the alleged slave. Addressing the court, Mr. Lincoln said: "Is it not a law of nature that all men are equal and free? Is not the law of nature the law of God? Is not the law of God, then, against slavery? If there is no law of man's establishing, then there is no difficulty in this case. If there is such a law, then the difficulty is to determine which law you ought to obey; and if you have the same view that I have of present and future things, you will obey the law of God." The court sustained this view. Chief Justice Cushing, in pronouncing the decision, said that the idea of slavery was inconsistent with the Constitution of Massachusetts. Thus, says Mr. Rice, "the 'higher law' was proclaimed, in April, 1783, in the Worcester county court house, by Levi Lincoln, in terms quite as bold and unmistakable as by William H. Seward, three quarters of a century later, in the United States Senate."†

In the sketch of the town of Barre, in the same County history, will be found a more detailed account of the Quork Walker case; and the record that "this was the first and only trial of the question of slavery under our State Constitution; and it was then established that slavery in this Commonwealth was abolished by the Declaration of Rights, which prefaces the Constitution."*

† History of Worcester County (Philadelphia, 1889), vol. 2, pp. 1658-9.

CAPT. HOPESTILL FOSTER OF DORCHESTER, MASS., AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

By WILLIAM H. WHITMORE, A.M., of Boston, Mass.

THOUGH considerable has been written about Capt. Hopestill Foster, much was incorrect, and I must confess to have been one of the blunderers. This is especially in regard to the idea that his father came to New England.

The true record begins with the fact that on 17 April 1635, there embarked on the "Elizabeth," of which William Stagg was master, Patience Foster,	aged 40.

Hopestill Foster,	" 14.
Rachel Bigg,	" 6.
James Bate,	" 53, and his family.

I agree with Mr. Savage that the age of Rachel Bigg was a clerical error, and that she was the Rachel Bigg whose will of 17 Nov. 1646 is in our Suffolk Wills and which is annotated by me in the REGISTER, vol. 29, p. 253. In the same notes will be found the will of John Bigg of Maidstone, Co. Kent, Eng., dated 27 March, 1641-2, proved 7 Feb. 1642-3. He mentions his mother, his sister Foster, and his brother Stowe, all three in New England; cousin James Bate of New England; and his own brother Smallhope Biggs of Cranbrook, deceased. I omit many other interesting references.

Now the widow Rachel Bigg in 1646 mentions her nephew Hopestill Foster, and his children Thankful, Hopestill and Patience. In regard to the word "nephew" I made a surprising blunder, treating it as equivalent to son-in-law, and meaning by it the husband of Patience Foster who came over with Mrs. Bigg. In fact the word "nephew" in English wills of that date means very often, if not invariably, "grandson." See on this point the standard dictionaries.

This makes everything harmonious. (1) Mrs. Patience Foster, the emigrant of 1635, was doubtless a widow, and the Christian name of her husband is still unknown.† Her son (2) Hopestill Foster, born in 1620, or 1621, was the first of these names in Dorchester, was the (nephew, i.e.) grandson of Rachel Bigg, and in 1653 he and his cousins, the Stowes, divided the lands of their "deceased uncles Smallhope Bigg and John Bigg, both of Kent."

* Ibid, vol. 1, p. 351.

† In Aspinwall's Notarial Book, I find several papers regarding the Fosters, Stowes and Biggs, notably one of 3, 11th mo. 1648, when they appointed Robert Swinock of Maidstone, Kent, their attorney to receive a legacy and "to call in a bond given by Henry Archer and Hopestill Foster and Mr. Andrew Foster for security to discharge him of said legacy." Archer's wife was a Stowe. But it seems that the security, Andrew Foster, must have been in England.

Against this, is only the tradition or idea that Patience Foster's husband was named Hopestill, and that he came to Dorchester, substantiated by the fact that a Hopestill Foster was a freeman 22 May, 1639, Art. Co. 1642, and selectman 1645. (I do not find a selectman then, it being an error for 1655.) These offices seem beyond the reach of a boy born in 1620.

But look at the other side. In the Dorchester Church Record we find admitted prior to Nov. 1639, Rachel Bigge, Patience Foster and Hopestill Foster. In the same record, Thankful Foster bapt. 27 Dec. 1640, "married to Mr. Baker of Boston." [Later note on the ch. record.]

Hopestill Foster " 10 Mch. 1644.

Patience Foster " 16 July, 1646.

all recognized in other ways as children of Capt. Hopestill Foster and his wife Mary, daughter of James Bates, and of course the same three named by their grandmother, Rachel Biggs, in her above will of November, 1646.

Now Capt. Hopestill was presumably married in 1639, the same year that the freeman was admitted, and that he was made a church member also.

In Dorchester Town Records as printed, p. 28, in the division of lands widow Foster had an acre next to Mr. Bates, at the Neck, in January, 1637-8; in March 1637-8 she has 2 acres and 30 rods. In 1641 (p. 45) persons putting horses on the neck were to report to Hopestill Foster; in 1644 H. F. was one of three to settle with John Glover. From that date we trace Capt. Hopestill.

All of these facts point to certain conclusions, viz., that prior to 1639 Patience Foster was a widow, and as there is no mention of her husband's death here, nor of his being alive here, it seems indisputable that he never came here; but that her son Hopestill was made a freeman, church member and a husband in 1639. As I have said, if he were only 14 in 1635 this would be marvellous; but if the Custom-house entry of age was wrong, as it was in regard to his grandmother Rachel Bigg, there is no inconsistency. In fact I incline to think the age given him was 17 instead of 14, and then he would be 21 when he took up these responsibilities in 1639. Mr. Savage in his transcript of these lists of emigrants, has pointed out numerous instances of evident mistakes in the ages given.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. HOPESTILL² FOSTER (*Patience*¹) was evidently a very active man and his name for years is on nearly every page of the Dorchester records. In 1654 he is called "ensign," and so on for eight years; in 1662 he is called "lieutenant," under Capt. Clapp; and in 1666 he became "captain," by which title he was known till his death.

He held many town offices, as treasurer, &c.; was selectman in 1655 and many subsequent years; and was deputy to the General Court annually from 1659 to 1676, excepting 1671, when he was commissioner for small causes, eventually dying in office. This must be an unusual tenure of office.

As this article is to be genealogical, I shall not attempt to trace Capt. Foster's purchases of land, except as they may be evidence of pedigree.

HOPESTILL² FOSTER married Mary, daughter of James Bates of Dorchester, who was a cousin to John Bigge. She came in the ship with the Fosters, and was reported as aged 17, a slight evidence that Hopestill's age is incorrectly given. Their children were as follows, the births being copied from Dorchester town records, and the baptisms from Dorchester church records:

- i. THANKFUL,³ bapt. 27 Dec. 1640; m. John Baker of Boston 8 Jan. 1663-4.
 - 3. ii. HOPESTILL,³ " 10 March, 1644-5.
 - iii. PATIENCE,³ " 16 Aug. 1646; m. Maj. Thomas Brown of Sudbury.
 - 4. iv. JOHN,³ " 10 Dec. 1648.
 - 5. v. JAMES,³ b. 13 April, 1651. (Ch. Rec.)
 - 6. vi. ELISHA,³ bapt. 24 Aug. 1653.
 - vii. MARY,³ " 10 Feb. 1655-6; m. (1) Ephraim Sale about 1680,
(2) Samuel Ward 10 Dec. 1691.
 - 7. viii. COMFORT,³ b. 28 Sept. 1658; died unm. 5 Jan. 1688-9.
 - 8. ix. STANDFAST,³ " 13 Nov. 1660.
 - x. RICHARD,³ " 29 March, 1662-3; d. 6 Oct. 1663.
- Capt. Hopestill Foster d. 15 Oct. 1676.
His widow Mary d. 5 Jan. 1702-3, aged 84 years. (Tombstone.)

Mrs. David W. Foster has the unrecorded original of an indenture between Edmond Brown of Boston, shopkeeper, and Elizabeth his wife (heretofore the wife of Hopestill Foster of Dorchester, soap-boiler, deceased), Hopestill Foster of Boston, gunmaker, Samuel Foster of Boston, goldsmith (sons of said Hopestill Foster), Timothy Nash of Boston, merchant, and Mary his wife, one of the daughters of Hopestill Foster and Elizabeth Foster of Boston, spinster, another daughter of Hopestill Foster, ——— of the one part,

And James Foster of Dorchester, yeoman, of the other part, selling to J. F. for £40.

A parcel of upland in Dorchester, about 12 acres, part of estate of s^d Hopestill Foster, bounded Northerly by the highway leading toward Castle Island.

Westerly " " Isaac Jones

Note, Livery of Seizen given by E. Browne & Hopestill Foster 10 April 1694.

Mch 31, 1698 H. F. & Sam^l F. acknowledged before Sam. Sewall.

Again it appears by Suffolk Deeds, vol. 21, fol. 524, that on 23 April, 1696, James Foster of Dorchester and wife Anna; Standfast Foster of Dorchester and wife Abigail; Thankful Baker, widow; Patience, wife of Thomas Brown of Sudbury, gent; and Mary, wife of Samuel Ward of Boston, cooper; all children of Capt. Hopestill Foster; and also Hopestill Foster of Boston, gunsmith, one of the grandsons of Capt. Hopestill, sold land to Matthias Puffer of Dorchester.

By a deed dated 31 Dec. 1703, recorded in 1715, Suffolk Deeds 29, fol. 223, it seems that Standfast Foster bought land of Thomas Brown of Sudbury, who married Patience, one of the daughters of Capt. Hopestill Foster; James Foster, son of Capt. H.; Mary Ward, widow, a daughter of H. F.; Hopestill Foster, gunsmith, and Silence Eliot, widow, two of the grandchildren of Capt. H. F. It mentions that Hopestill, Elisha and Comfort, three sons of Capt. H. F., were then deceased.

All of these relations are plain except Silence Eliot. I pointed out in Sewall's Diary, vol. iii. p. 333, that she was the daughter of a daughter of Capt. Hopestill. James Foster had a daughter Silence Foster, as we shall see, born in 1677; but Silence Eliot, who was the wife of Joseph Eliot of Boston (son of Jacob Eliot), died 8 June, 1744, aged 78, as her tombstone in the Granary yard testifies. She was born in 1666. Now it is certain that Capt. Hopestill's oldest daughter married 8 Jan. 1663-4, John Baker of Boston, and had John, born at Boston 26 Feb. 1664-5, and Silence born at Dorchester (see records) 28, 5 mo. 1666, "daughter of John Baker of Boston, deceased." John Baker's will, dated 26 March, 1666, proved 5 July, following, is in Suffolk Wills 1. 471. In it he mentions wife Thankful, son Thomas, daughter Elizabeth, a child unborn, and makes his father Hopestill Foster, his uncle Richard Baker, and his cousin William Ireland, overseers. He mentions his sister Catherine Johnson, his wife's uncle Bates, and gives his son Thomas the land that was his grandfather Swift's, at Dorchester Neck.

I pointed out in my note to Sewall's Diary, that Savage was entirely wrong about John Baker; this will shows still more error in Savage (vol. i., p. 97, and vol. iv., p. 241). Savage says that John Baker of Boston, blacksmith, married 5 Nov. 1657, Joan, daughter of Thomas Swift of Dorchester, by whom he had five sons and one daughter, of whom only Thomas and Elizabeth survived. Then he denounces the record of the marriage and the first four births as falsely made on the Boston records, because the marriage record of 1657 says "married by John Winthrop, governor," though he died in 1649. (See Boston Records, printed edition, p. 62.)

Now the explanation is ludicrously simple. It was a clerical error for John Endecott, Gov., whose name is added to the next entry, and so for twenty more marriages on the same page. It is only a proof that eight years after his death, a clerk would mechanically write Gov. John Winthrop's name.

Boston records say that Joanna, wife of John Baker, died 21 July, 1663, and this makes everything clear. By his first wife (Swift) Baker had only Thomas and Elizabeth, and by his second wife (Foster) he had the child, unborn in March, who was named Silence, later. Undoubtedly John, the first child of this marriage, had died, not being named in the will, and Silence was thus the only heir of her mother, Thankful (Foster) Baker, and therefore she joined in the deed we have cited.

As to Patience Foster, wife of Major Thomas Brown of Sudbury, and her issue, I shall speak later on.

THIRD GENERATION.

3. HOPESTILL³ FOSTER, of Boston (of second church), soap boiler, married Elizabeth, daughter of Giles Payson of Roxbury, 15 Feb. 1666-7, and had at Boston:

- i. ELIZABETH,⁴ b. 26 July, 1669.
- ii. MARY,⁴ b. 22 July, 1671; m. Timothy Nash 2 April, 1694.
9. iii. HOPESTILL,⁴ b. 1673?
10. iv. SAMUEL,⁴ b. 27 Dec. 1676.

Hopestill died about 1677, and his widow married Edmund Browne of Boston before 1694.

He was a constable in Boston 1675, on a committee for the town 1676.

By Suffolk Deeds (vol. 37, fol. 233), it seems that 7 Aug. 1700, there was a settlement of the estate of Hopestill F., soap boiler. This deed was acknowledged 14 Nov. 1715, by Elizabeth Brown the widow, and Hopestill F., gunmaker, the eldest son, but was not recorded till 18 May, 1724, after the latter's death.

Suffolk Deeds (vol. 38, fol. 27), Elizabeth Brown assigned her rights under date of 10 July, 1724, to her daughter Elizabeth Foster, widow and shop-keeper.

4. JOHN³ FOSTER of Dorchester, H. C. 1667, died unmarried 9 Sept. 1681.

Blake's Annals says that John was schoolmaster of Dorchester, and was "he that made the Seals or Arms of the Colony, viz an Indian with a bow and arrow, &c."

5. JAMES³ FOSTER of Dorchester (Sergt. 1688, Lieut. 1700), married 22 Sept. 1674, Mary, daughter of John Capen, and had:

i. SILENCE,⁴ b. 4 April, 1677; m. John Clap, 26 May, 1698.

James Foster's first wife died 8 Feb. 1678-9. He married 2d, Anna, daughter of Capt. Job Lane of Bedford, 7 Oct. 1680, and had:

ii. THANKFUL,⁴ b. 30 March, 1682-3; d. 15 Feb. 1700-1.

iii. ANNA, b. 27 Jan. 1684-5; m. Robert Field, 1 June, 1710.

iv. PATIENCE,⁴ b. 12 Feb. 1686-7; m. 7 Feb. 1716-17, Samuel Savel of Braintree.

v. JOHN,⁴ b. 9 Feb. 1688-9.

vi. JEMIMA,⁴ b. 9 Dec. 1690; m. 22 Dec. 1720, Robert Spur.

vii. MARY,⁴ b. 13 Oct. 1692.

viii. ELIZABETH,⁴ b. 6 Feb. 1694-5; m. 29 Sept. 1715, Ebenezer Barnard of Woodstock.

11. ix. JAMES,⁴ b. 8 Dec. 1698.

x. REBECCA,⁴ b. 14 Sept. 1700; d. 28 Sept. 1700.

12. xi. HOPESTILL,⁴ (bapt.) b. 15 Feb. 1701-2. Dorchester Ch. Rec.

xii. THANKFUL,⁴ b. 15 July, 1704; m. 29 May, 1728, John Shaw of Pomfret.

Anna, wife of James, died 29 Sept. 1732, in 68th year, and he died 4 Oct. 1732, in his 82d year.

His children's marriages are shown by the following deed:

Suffolk Deeds (vol. 48, fol. 76.)—John Foster & w. Mary, of Boston, blacksmith. James Foster Jr. & w. Priscilla, of Dorchester, yeoman. Hopestill Foster Jr. & w. Sarah, of Boston, housewright. Silence, w. of John Clap of Sudbury. Anna, w. of Robert Field of Dorchester. Patience, w. of Samuel Saville of Braintree. Jemima, w. of Robert Spur of Dorchester. Elizabeth, w. of Ebenezer Bernard of Woodstock. Thankful Foster, spinster. All children of James Foster.

James Foster's tombstone is in the old Dorchester yard, and bears the following coat-of-arms. It records the death of James and his wife, both in 1732, and, under the rules of the Heraldic Journal, this coat must be considered as strong presumptive evidence of the right of the family to use arms. James was the son of an emigrant, and the inscription is earlier than the period of the assumption of arms here.

6. ELISHA³ FOSTER of Dorchester. Married Sarah Payson (daughter of Giles, and sister to his brother Hopestill's wife), 10 April, 1678. He died 16 Oct. 1682, probably of small pox. His widow married Ebenezer Wiswall, 26 March, 1685, and died 21 June, 1714.

7. COMFORT³ FOSTER of Dorchester, husbandman, never married, and died "in his majesty's service."

He and his brother Standfast were residuary legatees of their father; Standfast was made administrator on his brother's estate. Suffolk Deeds, vol. 14, fol. 244.

8. CAPT. STANDFAST³ FOSTER of Dorchester, maltster. Married Abigail, daughter of Thomas Holman and Abigail (Rigby), who married 19 Feb. 1663-4. By her Foster had:

13. i. COMFORT,⁴ bapt. 29 June, 1689.
- ii. ABIGAIL,⁴ b. 18 March, 1692-3; d. 27 Sept. 1695.
- iii. ELISHA,⁴ b. 18 June, 1696; d. Nov. 1775.
- iv. MARY,⁴ b. 31 Oct. 1700; d. 16 March, 1700-1.

The Dorchester Church record says Comfort, son of Standfast Foster, was bapt. 29 June, 1689, at Milton, "the mother being at her father Holman, by reason of the small-pox being at Thomas Modesly house."

His wife Abigail died 22 June, 1713. He married 2d, Sarah Miller (published at Boston 27 May, 1714), who died 1 Aug. 1727, in 59th year. He died 11 Nov. 1727, in 67th year. Administration granted to son Comfort.

FOURTH GENERATION.

It will be noted that though Capt. Hopestill had five sons, he had but five Foster grandsons to carry on the name.

9. HOPESTILL⁴ FOSTER of Boston, gunmaker, married Elizabeth, daughter of Solomon and Mary (Danforth) Phipps of Charlestown, at Cambridge, 15 Nov. 1705, and had:

- i. ELIZABETH,⁵ b. 26 Aug. 1707; d. 15 Sept. 1707.
14. ii. HOPESTILL,⁵ } twins, b. 28 June, 1708. Bookseller.

- v. MARY,⁵ b. 29 Aug. 1715.
- vi. DANFORTH,⁵ b. 27 July, 1717; d. 14 Aug. 1717.

He seems to have held office in Boston, constable 1705, clerk of the market 1710, tythingman 1710, 1715, 1717. He became a shopkeeper at some date after 1715. By Suffolk Deeds, vol. 37, fol. 128, Hopestill Foster, shopkeeper, and wife Elizabeth mortgage lands to Eben^r Mawdsley of Dorchester.

He committed suicide April 21, 1724, in his own house by hanging; see Sewall's Diary, iii. 333. His widow (born 2 Jan. 1683-4) died 15 Feb. 1732, and aged 51 years. (King's Chapel Epitaphs.)

Suffolk Wills, 14 Oct. 1735.—Estate of Hopestill Foster, shopkeeper, viewed at request of Hopestill Foster, bookseller. The children were Elisha, Hopestill, Elizabeth and Mary.

10. SAMUEL⁴ FOSTER of Boston, goldsmith, married Rebecca Brisco, and had:

Samuel⁴ Foster died at Boston 10 March, 1702. His widow married 2d, Thomas Morrise, 13 Oct. 1709; 3d, William Scorch; married 25 Dec. 1718.

Suffolk Deeds, vol. 21, fol. 150.—Samuel Foster made a trust deed, dated 9 March, 1699–1700, describing himself as son of Hopestill Foster the soap boiler—for love of now wife Rebecca, daughter of my father-in-law Joseph Brisco, and also love of only child Rebecca.

In 1724, Suffolk Deeds, vol. 39, fol. 68, Samuel Foster of Boston, periwig maker, and wife Rachel—Rebecca, wife of John Best, tanner, also Rebecca, widow of Samuel Foster and then wife of William Scorch of Boston, cooper, make deed.

- iii. MARY,⁵ b. 3 June 1727.
- iv. ANNA,⁵ b. 4 Aug. 1729; m. Obadiah Low of Boston, 1 June, 1758.
16. v. JAMES,⁵ b. 31 March, 1732.

His wife died 16 March, 1739–40, in her 47th year, per town records, but her tombstone says she died 6 March, 1732, aged 46 years, 6 months, 21 days; and he married 2d, Mrs. Elizabeth Pimer, who died 25 May in her 75th year.

12. HOPESTILL⁴ FOSTER, son of James, baptized in Dorchester, removed to Boston, where he was married to Sarah Allen, 11 Nov. 1724, by Rev. Samuel Checkley. His record of office-holding is similar to that of his cousin Hopestill, the gunsmith, but begins about ten years later. His children were:

- i. SARAH,⁵ b. 3 Oct. 1725; m. (1) George Hanners, 17 Aug. 1749; (2) ——— Hersey, 27 May, 1762.
- ii. BENJAMIN,⁵ b. 27 May, 1727; d. 30 Aug. 1747; bur. Granary.

His wife died Sept. 1772, aged 70; "Capt. Hopestill Foster of the South End died Dec. 1772, aged 71"; both reported in the Mass. Gazette. His will, dated 13 Aug. 1772, mentions son Hopestill, daughter Ann Swift daughter Sarah Hearsey, granddaughter Sarah Hanners, daughter Mary Prince. Mentions house and land bought of Andrew Belcher, also wharves &c.

13. COMFORT⁴ FOSTER of Dorchester, glazier, married Eleanor Woods 22 July, 1712, and had:

FIFTH GENERATION.

As a further proof of the contracted increase of the name, I note that the male Fosters descended from Capt. Hopestill were five sons, five grandsons and eight great-grandsons.

14. HOPESTILL⁵ FOSTER of Boston, bookseller.*

15. SAMUEL⁵ FOSTER of Boston, periwig-maker, published 8 March, 1721–2, to Rachel Kneeland, undoubtedly was married to her, as a deed in 1724 (Suffolk Deeds, vol. 36, fol. 68) mentions him and wife Rachel.

* Suffolk Deeds, vol. 50, p. 55, dated 4 Jan., 1734–5, Elisha Foster and Elizabeth to our brother Hopestill Foster, bookseller, executor of our mother Elizabeth Foster, widow and shopkeeper. Mary Foster sells her rights to her brother Hopestill Foster, bookseller, by deed of 1 Sept., 1836, Suff. Deeds, vol. 54, fol. 3.

20. JOHN⁵ FOSTER of Dorchester married, 9 Oct. 1755, Hannah Downs, and had :

- i. JOHN,⁶ b. 5 Aug. 1756, died probably 26 Oct., 1786. ii. COMFORT,⁶ b. 21 March, 1758. iii. WILLIAM,⁶ b. ———; d. 20 May, 1763.

John Foster died 7 Nov. 1784; his widow died March, 1787.

Having thus traced five generations with reasonable fulness, I propose to trace only one line to the present time, that of [No. 17] Hopestill,⁵ son of [No. 12] Hopestill,⁴ grandson of Capt. James,³ who lived at the corner of Hollis and Washington Streets, Boston. As to the Dorchester lines, I rest here, because there were in that town, from 1664, other Fosters not allied to Hopestill, and it may be difficult to discriminate the later generations. I append to this article the early generations of these Fosters.

SIXTH GENERATION.

LETTER OF THOMAS MAYHEW TO GOV. EDMUND ANDROS, 1675.

Communicated by C. M. FOSTER, Esq., of New York.

I SEND herewith a copy of a letter from Mr. Thomas Mayhew to Gov. Edmund Andros, taken from New York Colonial Manuscripts. I have never seen a copy of this letter before, and doubt if it has been published. Aside from the facts he gives concerning the validity of his title to the Islands, it also proves he was a man who, when he felt sure of his rights, was thoroughly competent to maintain them. The Mathew mentioned herein was grandson of Gov. Mayhew. It is certain the Governor never had a brother in his country. "My Sonne Saxson" was probably Richard Sansom who married the widow of his only son, Thomas 2d. Widow's maiden name was Jane Paine, and most likely the daughter of Sir Thomas's second wife by her former marriage with Robert Paine of London.

VPPON MARTINS VINYARD this 12th Aprill 1675.

Deservedly honored Sir, I have written to yo^r honor by Steven Hassy the wch I hope is come to hand: and by way of boston which I doubt not will be carefully sent to both which I humbly referre yo^r honor, not presuming in the least but that they shall be considered according to the worth of the contents: my meaning therefore now is to crave patience to reade & weigh the ensuing lines in a special manner whereby unto your honour I shall be much obliged: In 1641 I had a graunt of Mr. James Forrett Agent to the Earl Sterling for these Isles and I forthwith endeauoured to obtaine the Indian right of them: Mr. Richard Vynes Steward general to Sir Ferdynando Gorges hearing of it interrupted shewing me his masters pattent & his power insomuch that I was conuyned by him that Gorges who was then gouernor of the provynce of Maine th really Sir Ferdynandos right And for a some of money did obtaine from said Vynes a graunt allso: It came so to pass that Mr. Forrett went suddenly for England before he had shewed me his masters pattent whome afterwards I never saw: some years after this came ouer one Mr. Forrester furnished with power who was here with me & told me that he would cleare upp all things & that I should be one of his Counsell but he from here went to Long Island & from thence to the Dutch where the governor put him in prison and sent him a prisoner into holland as I heard for I never saw him more: Soe we remained under Gorges haueing no newes of either Lord proprietor till his Majestys Commissioners came ouer and then Mr. Archdale sent me printed paper whereby his Matie had by his the commissioners most strongly confirmed Ferdynando Gorges Esquire to be the Lord of the province of Maine of wch Nantukkitt & this be a pte: withall he wrote me that Generall Nycoll did clayme these Isles but at their first meeting that would be taken of A: now after this Generall Nycoll wrote me that Mr. Archdale haueing Gorges pattent for to present and he not haueing the said Sterlings the kings commissioners orders referred the decision to his Matie: whereof he had not any intelligence but a little before he went to England: Generall Nycoll did acknowledge that the power of these Islands was proper in the heires of Sir Ferdynando Gorges: I have the testimony of the Generall Court of boston for it: wch Court sent to the Gentlemen of the provynce of Maine whose answer was, That it was in my Isle &c. Now after all this co[n]test Collonell Lovelace he sends for me in a loueing manner to come to York to show by what tytle I hold those Ilands: whereuppon I gave him to vnderstand as is aboue written: And at length went to him & showed him my graunt which he approved of and the printed paper from his Matie: at which he stumbled much: allso I showed him what Generall Nycoll had written me of his not being informed what his Matie had done: thereat he stumbled very much likewise: then I asked him yf he had the Lord Sterlings pattent by him, he said noe: I answered then I was at a losse I sent to Captaine Nycoll and acquainted him with our discourse and prayed him to search in matters of Long Iland & see yf he could not find the date of Lord Sterlings pattent, yf not I could doe nothing at York, which he did finde & it was more antient than Gorges: yf not I had nothing but a Elizabeth Iles. I questioned allso in myselfe whether safe for me to I say little touching any Land without a publique warrant to decline (?) Gorges Gouernment as I had to obey it: I meant (?) from his Matie Except Euenths compelled: allsoe this his honour & I did agree vppon in acknowledgement wch by my graunt from Forrett I was to pay yearly to the Lord Sterling or his Successours a new Charter and liberties in it made: grounded vppon my first graunt & the resignation of Lord Sterlings heires to his Royal highness &c. thankfully by me accepted there & by all at home

& allso at Nantukkett so far as I know: the General Court vnanimously have made according to liberties graunted without am the next year we went to Nantukkett where they would not proceed in the way we beganne the year before: After very much debate wee came away resolving speedly for reply or servis to the Governor thereabout, but Mathew* being vppon the way who was furnished to pay the acknowledg-ment mett with newes that York was taken by the Dutch: Then I hearing captaine Nycoll was well so I certified him at lardg of every thing from wch I had an answer to full satisfaction in every pertycular: And lastly by o^r applycation to yo^r honour I did & doe still rest sattisfied therein to the full it being absolutely just in my under[standing] & such as have seene it hat are very judicious: But those of Nantukkett It is saied they say noe man had right to a foote of land before the date of the last charter & acte accordingly notwithstanding all the foresaid: and they by the book Indeavour to overthrow o^r liberties: grounding also all obtayned from the Earl of Starling nothing, also the Indian right nothing, my quiett possession thereof 29 years nothing: the grounding the new charter vppon my first graunt nothing: all other transactions for 29 years nothing: the lawes we made nothing and wch yo^r honour & Counsell saw reason to put in force: all which was most absurd vnreasonable & most vnwise: that wch they for some by end Indeavour to Interprett away & make voyed is that wch by Generall Nicoll was judged good wch his honour Collonell Lovelace confirmed without the least scruple & Counsell that wch Captain Nycoll by his letter really approves and that wch yo^r honour & Counsell hath detemined: I hope yo^r honour will take some speedy course to force into practyce what you have established. this is verry certaine that their now condemned apprehensions & Interpretations & actinge in some degree accordingly was the first root of contentions about rights to land at Nantukkett & revoltings from gouernment were & laying down power: And their coming hither now and striving (?) without our doeing in punishing ringleaders for crying downe power of gouernment with their conserse with some of them and allso Captaine Gardners sayeing to the chiefest of them at his house that yf he had noe more to answer for then they had at York he should sett but little by it but he had much more & I say this hath allso turned to preiudice [I give (illegible)] on oath of what Capt. Gardner spoke as abovesd & last I saye I have come myself in settling these Iles: haue passed through many difficulties and rs in it, beene to verry much cost touching English and Indians wch I shall leave for present to mention: much desireing yf God please to relate it to yourself: I beseeche yo^r hon^r to take in good my adventurous to : I wish all apynes to attend yo^r honour & all as I commend yo^r hono^r & yo^{rs} to the Lords Direction & prtecton & rest.

Yo^r hon^r Most affectionate & most humble servant. THOMAS MAYHEW.

(On the margin.)

NOTE.—In April, 1897, when this was copied, the paper had become very brittle, necessitating very careful handling; the ink had years ago evidently so faded as to become illegible, and the two closely written pages had been treated with some chemical to restore the writing, and portions of the paper have disappeared altogether, so that the reading of it has been a slow and difficult task. The hiatuses have been represented by, the guesses or doubtful readings indicated by a ? or in brackets [] when the text makes such suggestion probable.

BARNSTABLE FAMILIES, BY THE LATE AMOS OTIS, ESQ.

THE folowing statement was communicated by Frank W. Sprague, Esq., of Boston, to the Barnstable Patriot, and printed in its issue of December 20, 1897:

BOSTON, December 7, 1897.

In November, 1861, Mr. Otis began in the Barnstable Patriot, the publication of his genealogies of Barnstable Families, a series of articles which were reprinted in two volumes by F. B. & F. P. Goss in 1888 and 1889. Mr. Otis began sending these articles as they appeared to the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, but they miscarried so frequently that he discontinued sending them, saying to the librarian that he was preserving a set of the articles for himself by pasting them into a volume, and that he would at the same time prepare another set for the Society, which he would deliver to the Society when the series were finished. This Mr. Otis said in my presence.

When, in 1872, I became librarian of the Historic Genealogical Society, I found that though the series was ended, the volume had not been delivered. On meeting Mr. Otis, I reminded him of his promise. He replied that he did complete a set for the Society, but before delivering it to them, he loaned it to Rev. Henry M. Dexter, D.D., and while Dr. Dexter had the volume a gentleman in Boston wrote to him for the loan of it. He wrote to Dr. Dexter, authorizing him to loan it, which he did, but the volume was never returned to Dr. Dexter nor to Mr. Otis. He had then forgotten the name of the borrower; but if he found the letter he would get the book and deliver it to the Society.

I saw Dr. Dexter and he confirmed Mr. Otis's statement. He said the gentleman who borrowed the book gave him his card, which he kept in his pocketbook for many years, but had then lost it. To the best of his recollection the borrower was in the insurance business in State Street. I made inquiries, but was never able to find who borrowed the book, nor where it was. Dr. Dexter described the book, but there is no need to give the description.

JOHN WARD DEAN,
18 Somerset Street, Boston.

The volume has not yet been found. The Society is desirous of obtaining the original articles as they appeared in the Patriot, and will give a handsomely bound volume of the reprint for a complete file of the numbers of that newspaper containing the articles which were commenced in November 1861.

MOWRY: A UNIQUE FAMILY MONUMENT.

By WILLIAM A. MOWRY, Ph.D., Hyde Park, Mass.

WITHIN the cemetery near Woonsocket, R. I., opposite the Friends' Meeting House, and near the main entrance, has lately been erected a unique monument to the Mowry family in America. A beautiful view of this monument, from a photograph by Merrill, of Woonsocket, accompanies this article.

The monument is of white bronze, is five feet and a half square at the base, and sixteen feet high. It is surmounted by a figure of Hope with one hand upon the anchor, and a face, exquisite in expression, turned upward. This monument was erected solely at the expense of Hon. Arlon Mowry, now of Providence but a native and former resident of old Smithfield, later North Smithfield. Upon the panels and plinths of the four sides are placed the inscriptions which include the genealogy of one direct line of nine generations of Mowrys in this country, beginning with Roger,—one of the early settlers of Boston,—and ending with the children of Arlon.

These inscriptions include the names of more than one hundred different persons, and embrace over a thousand words in telling the story.

The following are the inscriptions upon the four sides of this monument :

For further information concerning the descendants of Roger Mowry, see a volume entitled "The Descendants of Nathaniel Mowry of Rhode Island," by William A. Mowry, A.M., Ph.D., copies of which are in the Providence Public Library, the Harris Institute Library, and the Library of the Society of Friends in Woonsocket.

It is doubtful if another monument similar to this in design and scope can be found in the whole country. It places the genealogy of this one family for nearly three centuries in the most compact form and in a public place, where it will be read not only by the members of this family, but by thousands who otherwise would be entirely ignorant of the early history of the family in America.

The earliest mention of Roger Mowry in this country is found in the Boston records, as follows:—

“Eighteen May, 1631, names of such as desire to be made freemen, [among them] Roger Mawry, Roger Williams.” Neither of these two Rogers remained in Boston to accept the duties and privileges of “freemen” in that colony. But, soon after, we find them both citizens of Plymouth, later both became citizens of Salem, and finally they lived side by side in Providence. Roger Mowry was in Salem from 1636 to 1649. He and his wife Mary were members of the church at Salem. The Suffolk records (vol. iii., p. 374) show that his wife was “the eldest daughter of John Johnson, late of Roxbury.” In 1637 “he had fifty acres laid out” to him two miles or more from the settlement at Salem toward what was afterwards known as Salem Village. He built his house on the lot which is now the corner of Essex and Flint Streets, adjoining the Bowditch School. Indeed this house lot ran from what is now Essex Street northward to the river and included the land upon which now stand the Bowditch School and the Catholic Church.

The records of the church in Salem show that his oldest son, Jonathan, was baptized April 2, 1637, and other children as follows: Bethia, 1638, June 17; Mary, 1640, June 16; Elizabeth, 1643, January 20; Benjamin, 1649, May 20; between Elizabeth and Benjamin were four other children as given on the north side of the monument and no record is found of their baptism. In August, 1658, in open Town Meeting, at Providence, Roger Mowry testified that his three youngest children, Benjamin, Thomas and Hannah, were born in Providence. It is supposed that the Salem pastor, when on a visit in 1649 to the members of his church then residing in Providence, found the infant Benjamin, baptized him there and entered the record upon the Salem Church book on his return home. The original records of that period of the Salem Church have been lost, although some of them were copied and kept in a later book which has been preserved. The above facts are gleaned from that book.

Roger Mowry was admitted freeman in Providence in 1655. He built a house about 1653, a portion of which is now standing, newer parts having been built to it from time to time during these intervening centuries. This house is on Abbott Street, near North Main Street, not far from the North burial ground. It has been known for many years as the oldest house in the city, and has been called the Olney House.

Professor Isham of Brown University has lately proven by real estate records that this house was built by Roger Mowry as mentioned above. For a series of years he kept a “tavern” in the town of Providence. About the same time Richard Pray was licensed to keep a public house also. It would seem that the liberty-loving people of the town were accustomed to frequent the house kept by Mowry.

A story is told of a Massachusetts constable who had arrested a man at Pawtuxet and was carrying him to Massachusetts. He stopped with his prisoner over night at Pray's Tavern. During the evening some citizens of the town gathered at Mowry's Tavern, discussed the matter, decided that a Massachusetts constable had no right to arrest a man in their colony and carry him to the Bay Colony. They, therefore, suddenly summoned a meeting of the town council at Mowry's Tavern. The members of the council soon gathered and sent a messenger to the Massachusetts officer demanding by what authority he held his prisoner. Some controversy ensued between the parties, but the result was that the officer did not carry his prisoner to Boston but he was released.

1690 he received a license to keep a tavern, and is then called Cornelius Waldo, Sr., of Chelmsford. He died at Chelmsford, January 3, 1700 (grave-stone), or 1701 (Town Records), and was buried in the old burying ground there, where his grave-stone, on which he is called æt. 75 yrs., is still standing. Before his death he divided all his property among his children. His widow died December 25, 1704, æt. 80 yrs. Her grave-stone is still in good preservation in the Phipps Street Cemetery, Charlestown.

Wheeler in King Philip's War and was wounded at the fight at Quaboag, "not so dangerously as the rest," Aug. 2, 1675. He afterwards served at Groton garrison and in 1682 was, with his brother Daniel, employed as a mounted guard in the town of Dunstable of which he was an inhabitant, and for which town he was representative in 1689. He was an inhabitant of Boston in 1695 and may have lived there earlier, since in 1684 Rebecca Waldo, who may have been his wife but was probably his sister, was admitted into the Second Church, Boston. He owned a grist mill at Dunstable and in 1697 John Waldo of Boston, miller, sold a tide mill at the Town Cove, Hingham, but it does not appear that he ever lived there. Soon after this he removed to Windham, Ct., where he was admitted an inhabitant January 20, 1697-8, and where he died April 14, 1700. In Windham also he owned a grist mill. He married, 1676-7, Rebecca,³ daughter of Samuel² (Henry¹) and Rebecca (Graves) Adams of Charlestown. She survived him and married 2d, 1710 (marriage contract dated April 26), Deacon Eliezer Brown of Canterbury, Ct., who died January 22, 1719-20, and she died September 17, 1727, at Canterbury.

3. CORNELIUS² WALDO (*Cornelius*¹) is first heard of January 24, 1676, when he is credited on Treasurer John Hull's ledger with £00:19:00 for services in the Indian War. He was of or served at Chelmsford. He was given land in Dunstable by his father and probably resided there for a time, but finally removed to Boston, where his name appears on the tax list in 1691. The births of all his children are recorded at Boston, but as the third child is also recorded at Dunstable (not Lancaster, as says GEN. REG. xviii. 176) in 1786, he probably did not remove till after that date. He married about 1683, Faith, widow of Jeremiah Jackson of Boston, who died about 1781, and by whom she had a son Jeremiah, born June 11, 1677, at Boston. She was daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Pecke of Boston, and was born December 8, 1658, at Boston, and long survived her husband, who died previous to June 8, 1697, when Thomas Pecke gave land to his daughter, Faith Waldo, widow. She was a shopkeeper "at the next House to the Bunch of Grapes Tavern in Leveretts Lane Boston," very likely continuing her husband's business. She died October 23, 1732, says Mr. Daniel Waldo, her great grandson. Her will, dated March 12, 1730, probated November 14, 1732, names son Cornelius, daughters Judith Durant, Rachel Durant wife of John Durant, and Elizabeth Waldo wife of John Waldo.

He was a blacksmith and appears to have lived in Boston but removed to Newton about 1732 and d. there Oct. 13, 1740, "leaving great estate." His wife d. Oct. 27, 1785, aged 95. They had seven children.

4. DANIEL² WALDO (*Cornelius*¹) was in 1682 an inhabitant of Dunstable when he and his brother John were employed as a mounted guard against the Indians, but later he seems to have lived at Chelmsford, and July 30, 1695, he was granted a lot of land by that town, in consideration for which he agreed to "set up and maintain a good sufficient corn mill and a good sufficient miller on stony brook below the highway to Dunstable between Merimack and the bridge." He was in garrison at Chelmsford March 16, 1691-2. In the year 1700 he sold his lands in Chelmsford and Dunstable and removed to Bridgewater, though he seems to have lived for a time at Dorchester, where his son Zechariah was born. April 25, 1716, he received from "his brother" Jonathan, the life interest in a farm of 211 acres in Pomfret, Ct., and probably removed thither about that time. December 2, 1717, he was voted an inhabitant of that town and was Representative in the May term, 1720. He m. November 20, 1683, at Chelmsford, Susannah,³ daughter of Samuel² (Henry¹) and Rebecca (Graves) Adams of Chelmsford, sister of his brother John's wife. She died March 16, 1741, at Pomfret. He died November 1, 1737. They were buried in the old burying ground at Pomfret and their grave stones much defaced by time and scarcely legible, are still standing.

5. JONATHAN² WALDO (*Cornelius*¹) is in GEN. REG., xviii., 176, and elsewhere, called son of his brother Daniel. That he was son of Cornelius,¹ is established by a deed dated April 25, 1716, in which "Jonathan Waldo of Boston Merchant and Hannah his wife for and in consideration of ye Natural love and affection yt we have and bare towards our well beloved Brother Daniel Waldo and his present wife our sister Susannah Waldo," convey a life interest to them in a farm in Pomfret, Conn. He removed to Boston, probably when young, lived the remainder of his life there and became a prominent and wealthy merchant. He was a large land owner in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and owned a share in the Muscungus Patent in Maine, which afterwards became the property of his son Samuel.

His name often occurs in the Boston Records, though he held no important offices. His will, dated May 15, 1731, probated June 11, 1731, in which he left "large donations to pious uses," names sons Samuel and Jonathan, daughters Hannah Fairweather and her husband Thomas Fairweather, and Anne Waldo, granddaughter Abigail Allen, son-in-law Jeremiah Allen, and wife Priscilla. He married 1st, November 28, 1692, at Boston, Hannah Mason, who was born about 1668, but whose parentage is unknown, though from certain evidence in Suffolk Deeds she may have been daughter of John Mason of Boston, joyner, and his wife Sarah.

Mrs. Hannah Waldo died May 16, 1726, aged 58, say the Boston Records; but in the diary of Jeremiah Bumstead (GEN. REG., xv., 309), under date of June 3, 1726, we read "Also Mrs. Waldo dyed; & buried the 6." Mr. Waldo married 2d, Madam Priscilla Sparhawk, widow of Rev. John Sparhawk of Bristol, R. I. (intentions published February 11, 1726-7), and died May 26, 1731, aged 63. His widow removed to Kittery, and died before March 31, 1755, when her will was probated. Mr. Waldo "was always accounted a Man of Integrity, a fair dealer, and a liberal benefactor to the Poor."

“Prince of Orange,” and in 1744 made his reputation by capturing a French privateer of superior force. In 1745, he was made commodore of the colonial squadron which was fitted out to assist at the reduction of Louisbourg, and commanded the frigate “Massachusetts,” in which he has been erroneously given the credit of the capture of the French man-of-war “Vigilant” of sixty-four guns, but in which capture he simply assisted. Two or three years later he abandoned the sea and returned to business, and d. Sept. 8, 1755, at Boston. His wife d. previous to Jan. 14, 1754. They had six children.

In 1719, he was with twenty-three others interested in the building of the New Brick Church, and was an original member of that society. He married 1st, October 3, 1706, at Windham, Elizabeth ffenno, whose parentage and birth has not been learned; but she was probably some relation of the Ephraim ffenno of Boston, who was joint owner with Waldo of an estate in Boston. She died about 1720, and he married 2d, May 22, 1722, at Boston, Ann Candage, who was born about 1692 and died February 2, 1723, aged about 31 years, as says her grave stone in Copp's Hill burying ground. He married 3d, June 22, 1724, at Boston, Mrs. Hannah Bucklin or Buckley, who was a widow in 1719. She was daughter of Thomas and Mary Tawley, and was born April 16, 1680, at Boston. She died before March 5, 1728, and he married 4th, April 14, 1730, at Boston, his cousin Elizabeth, daughter of Cornelius and Faith Waldo (No. 3, iii.). She died in 1746, as December 26, 1746, Cornelius Waldo was appointed administrator of the estate of “his sister Elizabeth Waldo, widow.” Mr. Waldo died about 1736, and administration on his estate was granted to Elizabeth Waldo, widow, October 19, 1736. Belcher. He was an owner in the Muscungus Patent in Maine, and eventually became almost the sole proprietor of that property, which contained about 500,000 acres. He was also a large proprietor of lands in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and at his death his property inventoried £71,020:14:6 lawful money, an enormous fortune for those days. He is described as "an accomplished gentleman, active and enterprising, an elegant military officer, tall and portly." Feb. 7, 1745, he was commissioned brigadier general, and was second in command to Sir William Pepperrell in the Louisbourg expedition. In connection with his Maine lands, he made many voyages to Europe. He settled what is now Waldoboro' with German colonists. Mr. Flucker was a merchant in Boston and a leading man there. He was representative 1756-60, councillor 1761-8, and secretary from Nov. 12, 1770 till the end of British rule in Boston. In Nile's "History of the Indian and French Wars" it is said: "Captain Waldo, probably venturing too near, was shot through the body. He was carried into the fort, but soon after died"; "after the fort was surrendered they [the Indians] dug up Captain Waldo, before spoken of, and others and scalped them." This story is partly confirmed by a report in Mass. Archives that Capt. Waldo's company was commanded after Aug. 8 by Capt. Abel Keen, and by the fact that Waldo d. before his father, as he is not named in the settlement of his father's estate. He never married.

He had a second wife, also named Hannah, of whom nothing is known. He had no children.

He succeeded his brother Joseph as overseer of the poor in Boston in 1770, and held that office until his removal from Boston. MISS PEASE'S DESCRIPTION OF THE BOOK FROM WHICH THESE RECORDS ARE COPIED.

When in Boston some weeks since, I spoke to you of a certain little book belonging to my father's collection of valuable papers. This little book contains a record of upwards of one thousand deaths in the town of Edgartown. It was kept by the Rev. Samuel Kingsbury and by the Rev. Joseph Thaxter, and covers a period of sixty-seven years, beginning in 1761 and ending in 1827. I speak of it as the Thaxter Record of Deaths as most of it is in his hand.

Under date December 18, 1851, my father, Richard L. Pease, says of it: “These records were kept by Rev. Joseph Thaxter, in a small memorandum Book, which more than 20 years after his death, I found in a garret, with other old papers. In the Town Records only a few scattering Records of death were kept prior to 1821, when Isaiah D. Pease, Esq., was chosen Town Clerk.” “The original mem^o Book is now in my possession. That book and this,”—referring to a copy he had just taken—“contain the only record of deaths from 1761 to 1821.”

The value of this little book can hardly be estimated, containing as it does the sole record of death of many of the former inhabitants of this town. Realizing its value and foreseeing the loss it would be if any accident should wipe it out of existence, I became convinced that it should be duplicated and preserved in some more enduring form, so asked if you would like to have it to print. With this I send the first instalment—243 deaths—the record kept by the Rev. Mr. Kingsbury.

I enclose some notes which may be used or not—just as you please. As the preservation of this little record is due to my father's thoughtfulness and care, I would be glad if you would mention him in connection with it.

[This was that Joane Stafford whom Philip Rogers in his will (already given) called his mother in law. The will of her husband John Staverd precedes this. Of their five daughters Margaret was the wife of George Greame or Grymes, and her will I have also given. Johane or Joane was the wife of Philip Rogers, just referred to, and Katherine was the wife of Daniel Felton, a brother of Bishop Felton and of John Felton of Yarmouth whose widow Ellen Felton and sons Benjamin and Nathaniel went to Salem in New England. The will of John Felton the elder of Yarmouth, father of Nicholas, Daniel and John and grandfather of Benjamin and Nathaniel of Salem, has also been given. Anne (or Agnes), another of these five daughters, was the wife of Symon Bradstreete or Broadstreete, citizen and grocer of London, whose will appears in my Gleanings, Part I., p. 47. Their daughter Margaret was the wife of Edmund Slater citizen and mercer of London.

It is interesting to note that two sons of Philip Rogers were to receive, under Mrs. Staverde's will, the reversion of the New Inn at Chelmsford in Essex. This makes the third family of Rogers that I have found connected with Chelmsford, vizt. our famous New England family, descended from John Rogers of Mulsham in Chelmsford, the shoemaker, and his father, John Rogers the joiner, whose wills have both appeared in these Gleanings; secondly a family of Rogers of Stanford le Hope, Fobbing and Corringham, Essex, two members of which I have found mentioned in wills as living in Chelmsford; and now, thirdly, this London family which I have not quite placed, but can recall that Philip was a name in the Martyr's family.—HENRY F. [ELIZABETH GOODALE the testator was the mother-in-law of Henry Killam whose will is given below, and grandmother of Austen Killam the emigrant to New England. She was buried 5 March, 1601-2. Of this family was also Robert Goodale who came from Ipswich, Eng., to Salem in 1634.

The late Mr. Somerby procured for Abner C. Goodell, Jr., Esq., a large collection of wills relating to the Goodale family in Suffolk and Norfolk, which the writer hopes to utilize in the coming summer, during an extensive search of the parishes in the above named counties.—WALTER K. WATKINS.]

[I have no doubt that we have here the family of our Austin or Augustine Kilham who went to New England in the ship Mary Anne of Yarmouth, William Goose master, in the spring of 1637 (see Drake's Founders of New England, page 49), in company with sundry others from Norwich, Yarmouth and parts of Suffolk. I myself examined the list of passengers some years ago, and made out a trifle more than Mr. Drake seems to have done. It reads as follows (i.e. to my eyes):

May the 11th 1637. The examinacion of Augsten Call Alles his wife aged 40 yeares desirous to goe to Salam in New Eng

I have occasionally seen the name written Callum in our records at Salem.

In the Assembly Book (1585-1613), Norwich (in the Guild Hall there), I found (on fol. 36), among those admitted to the freedom of the city 30 January 30 Elizabeth, Augustine Kylham, Pynner, non apprenticius. This man must have been of an earlier generation than our Augustin Kylham.

Among the Marriage Allegations (Bishop of London), I found, under date July 1(?), 1623, that of Augusten Kellam of St. George, Botolph Lane, pin-maker, a widower, aged about 55, and Ellen Clarke of St. Clement's, East Cheap, widow, aged about 50, relict of ——— Clarke, haberdasher, deceased, to be married at St. George's &c. Who this man was I cannot say.

HENRY F. WATERS.

Henry Killam and Alice Goodale were married at Dennington, Suffolk, Eng., 12 Aug. 1582. Their eldest daughter Mary was baptized there 13 Aug. 1583, as were other children of Henry Killam. There also is recorded the baptism of Daniel, son of Austen Killam, in 1620. Henry Killam was buried 27 May, 1631.

Rev. John Ward was presented to the church of Dennington, Suffolk, in the diocese of Norwich, by Sir John Rous in 1624, but 13 years afterwards, viz. in 1637, he was accused of simony, and superseded by Archbishop Laud, who procured a presentation from the King for Ezekiel Wright. Afterwards articles were objected in the High Commission Court against Ward for the pretended simony, although he denied knowledge of any corrupt practices. To free himself from a vexatious and chargeable suit, Ward, by advice of his counsel, pleaded his Majesty's coronation pardon, and although the Archbishop took notice thereof, yet it was ordered more than once that the cause should go on to hearing, notwithstanding the said pardon, and in Midsummer Term 1638 the Archbishop pronounced Ward simoniacal and to be deprived of the benefice worth £200 per annum. (Domestic State Papers, Charles I., vol. cccxcix., 16.) Ward was suspended by the Chancellor, a Commissioner of Bishop Wren then Bishop of Norwich, because he would not read the second service at the Communion Table set altarwise where few of his parish could hear. (Vol. cccclxxvi.) "Wednesday, 26th Day Jan. It was reported in the House of Commons, that there were 52 Families of Norwich that went to New England, by Bishop Wrens pressing their conscience with illegal oaths, ceremonies, observations and many strange innovations." ("Diurnall Occurrences, or Daily Proceedings of both Houses, in this great and happy Parliament, from the third of November, 1640, to the third of November 1641. London 1641.") Matthew Wren, Bishop of Norwich, and later of Ely, through his persecution of the Puritans, was persecuted in turn by them in the destruction of his records, of which however some survive, and are stored in the muniment room of the Episcopal Palace, at Ely; and the writer can testify to the extraordinary industry of Bishop Wren in his records and annotations during his short stay at Ely.

The immigration of Killam and others from the Norwich Diocese was doubtless caused by the zeal of Wrenn and his associates.

John Ward, born about 1593, was youngest son of Rev. John Ward of Havverhill and Bury, St. Edmunds, and brother of Rev. Nathaniel Ward of Ipswich, Mass. He was instituted rector of Denington, 29 June 1624, and ejected 14

Jan. 1638. In 1643 he was found at the George Inn, Lombard Street, London. He was afterward, in 1645, rector of St. Clement, Ipswich, Eng. The writer while visiting Newport, in the Isle of Wight, was fortunate in procuring a sermon preached by him, "The Good-Will of him that dwelt in the Bush," preached before the House of Lords, 23 July 1645. The identity of which with a book with an imperfect title was suggested by Mr. John Ward Dean in his "Memoir of the Rev. Nathaniel Ward, A.M.," p. 164.—WALTER K. WATKINS.]

Bundle for 1630 (Norwich), No. 35.

[Wortwell and Redenhall are adjoining parishes, or perhaps one and the same parish, in the Southern Division of Norfolk (the nearest railway station being Homersfield) and Mendham is just over the border in Suffolk. Wortwell was probably the birthplace of a Thomas Fuller of New England, but of which Thomas? The mention of his son John in 1645 leads me to think that must have been Thomas Fuller of Dedham and not Thomas of Woburn and Salem (i.e. Middleton).—HENRY F. WATERS.

RALPH FULLER, of Wortwell, whose will is given above, was evidently the father of Thomas Fuller, an early settler of Dedham, Massachusetts. Both Thomas Fuller of Woburn and Salem, and Thomas Fuller of Dedham, had sons named John, but John son of the former was not born until March 1, 1655, some years after the date of the testator's will, while John son of Thomas of Dedham was born November 1, 1644. This confirms Mr. Waters's opinion that Thomas Fuller mentioned in the wills of Ralph and Robert was Thomas of Dedham. Further evidence may be found in the REGISTER, vol. 22, page 296, in a letter from Benj. Corbyn, to his "Lo. ffre: Tho: fuller of Dedham in New England," dated Alburgh, 1 m. 14, 1677, in which he says: "How I wonder sometime you have not sent for your five.¹ especially considering Bro. Rob: Allen came over." Alburgh is a parish adjoining both Redenhall and Wortwell. Robert, son of Ralph, whose will follows that of the father, was baptized in Topcroft near Wortwell, Aug. 21, 1604 (see REGISTER, vol. 48, p. 345).—

Wife Christian to be executrix and Jonathan Cockraine, my second son, to be executor with her. Attested to by William Cockraine, the son of the testator.

Arch. Suff. B. Coke (67), L. 82.

[This must have been that William Cockerum or Cockerham of Hingham (Mass.) who had the dispute with William Cockerell, also of Hingham, about some land which Cockerell claimed had been assigned and allotted to him in 1637, but which he was hindered from using and enjoying by the defendant, Cockerham. Somewhere in the Suffolk Registry of Deeds will be found a deed made by the testator of the above will conveying land in Hingham to his son William. William Cokerell, I suspect, removed to Salem. At least there was one of that name there who left some daughters, one of whom, Hannah, became the wife of Francis Collins (he wrote his name Collinge). Their daughter Christian was the wife of Robert Bray. Many Salemites are descended from them. There was also a connection with the Reeves family and hence the name Cockerell (sometimes written Cochran) Reeves. I have a vague impression that I found, years ago, some reason to believe that Deacon Edward Clap married a Cockerell also, but, unfortunately, I have none of my old notes here with me and so cannot speak positively.—HENRY F. WATERS.]

[The above will was not indexed in the Calendar. Nor was it registered. I came upon it in going through the bundles of original wills. I found that there was an immense number of wills not registered and many not indexed.]

To this family of Yonges undoubtedly belonged John, Joseph and Christopher Yonges or Youngs of Salem. Some mention of them will probably be found in the Essex Institute Historical Proceedings (Salem). Christopher, I think, removed to Wenham, and one or both of the other two, I believe, removed to Southold. In Salem, I associate them with the lower part of the town, say about the neighborhood of English, Webb and Derby Streets. I have not my notes at hand or I could speak more definitely of the whereabouts of their lots.

I have found the family mentioned occasionally in the wills of the Prerogative Court.—H. F. WATERS.

Christopher Young of Wenham, Mass., left a will dated 9 June, 1647. He directs his three children to be sent to their native country, Great Yarmouth, Norfolk, England. But our court decided otherwise. He names father-in-law Richard Elvin of Gt. Yarmouth, and his wife to whom he bequeaths his two daughters; his son to John Phillips of Wenham; sisters the wives of Joseph Young and Thomas Moore. His children are Sarah, Mary, Christopher. (The latter bapt. 1644.) Esdras Reed of Wenham, Wm. Brown of Salem, and the wife of Joseph Young, executors.

The son Christopher, I suppose, married Mary Budd, and had sons Christopher and John. The younger Christopher of Southold was son of Rev. John Young, the pastor there, and born in America.

Margaret, the daughter of the Rev. Christopher Youngs of Reydon, in Suffolk, married Capt. Joseph Youngs of Salem and Southold.

Christopher Youngs, sr., was of Southold in 1656. In 1637 "John Yonge of St. Margretts Suffolk, minister aged 35 yeares and Joan his wife aged 34 yeares with 6 children, John Tho., Anne, Rachell, Marey and Joseph" were examined being "desirous to passe to Salam into New England to inhabit." (Mass. Hist. Coll., 4th Series, vol. 1, p. 101.) His passage was forbidden, and when he did come his wife was named Mary. See Thompson's Long Island. He died 1672 æt. 74.

The statements of Thompson and Griffin must be accepted with caution. Probably the entire connection of these Southold and Salem Youngs can be worked out from these wills and the Essex County records, Salem, and Southold records.—EBEN PUTNAM.]

When Mr. Morrison was over here in 1889, finding that he was in search of the English home of the Kimballs of Ipswich, Mass., I had the pleasure of putting him upon the right track by giving him these notes, all except the will of Robert Whotlock (brother of Martha Scott), which by some oversight I did not notice when I was going over my collection with a view to help him. It was this very Martha Scott who, with her son Thomas Scott and her daughter Ursula Kembold or Kemball and the latter's husband, Richard Kemball, took passage the last of April, 1634, in the Elizabeth, William Andrews master, from the port of Ipswich in old England, and settled in Ipswich, New England.

[I was utterly amazed, on looking over my past Gleanings recently, to find that this will, which I took note of a dozen years ago, has not appeared in them. I cannot now account for the omission.—HENRY F. WATERS.]

The testator was the widow of Henry Sewall, mayor of Coventry in 1589 and 1606, and was the daughter of Avery Grazebrook, of Middleton, Co. Warwick. Her husband died 16 April, 1628, and both are buried in St. Michael's, Coventry. The son Henry was the grandfather of Chief Justice Samuel Sewall, and settled at Newbury till 5 Aug. 1646, when he conveyed his farm at "Newberry falls River" to his son Henry and went to Rowley, where he died in 1657. His troubles with his wife (Mass. Records, vol. 1, pp. 162, 236), and with others of the church in Rowley in 1650, were perhaps repetitions of his behavior to his family in England.

The will of the husband of the testator is given in the REGISTER, vol. 40, p. 45. Also see Salisbury Memorials, p. 145.—WALTER K. WATKINS.]

Original Wills, Bundle for 1625-6, No. 161.

[The Visitation of Essex 1634 shows that the testatrix was a daughter of John Skory, Bishop of Hereford, and the wife of Giles Aleyn of Haseleigh, son of Christopher Aleyn of London and nephew of Sir John Aleyn the Lord Mayor. Her eldest daughter Rebecca seems to have been the wife, first, of Thomas Nevill of Stocke in Essex (see Pedigree on page 334, Visitation of Essex 1634), and afterwards a ——— Ball. Her daughter Mary was married to William Coys, Esq. (see Coys Pedigree in Visitation of Essex 1612, page 184). Their children, as given in this Pedigree, were Giles, Matthew, Daniel, William and Edward Coys (five sons), and three daughters, Martha, Sarah and Mary. These were probably the eight children of "daughter Coys" referred to in the will. It seems reasonable to infer that the "niece" (i.e. grand daughter) Martha Griffin was one of these daughters of William and Mary Coys and "niece" (i.e. grand daughter) Sara Chauncey was another, the latter being that god daughter referred to as having married Walter Chauncey. We had a Matthew Coy or Coys in New England, and I recollect reading some depositions (I think in the State House at Boston) about the coming down to London (I believe) of this Matthew and a brother, and their taking passage or being carried over to New England.

Anne Aleyn, the third daughter of this testatrix, as given in the Pedigree, was the wife of Henry Chauncey of Yardley, Herts. (see Visitation of Herts. 1634, page 39), eldest son of George Chauncey (called of Gedleston, Herts, in the Pedigree, but of Barking, Essex, according to his own will). Our Charles Chauncey, the President of Harvard College, was half brother to Henry Chauncey of Yardley, being one of the sons of George Chauncey by a second wife. The testatrix refers to "my daughter Chauncey's two sons." These were probably Henry and John Chauncey, the former of whom was the father of Sir Henry Chauncey or Chauncy, the well-known historian of Hertfordshire. I have a number of wills relating to this family which I hope to publish sometime or other. While the late Mr. Reginald Ames was making his collection of notes about this family I used to give him what I found. Since his death I have gathered other notes.—HENRY F. WATERS.]

[Some one in Boston may be able to tell us more about this Thomas Bromfield and his relationship to the Cushings and others. He seems to have been a nephew of the first Edward Bromfield of Boston. This family, it may be well to state, gave name to Bromfield street in Boston.

The wills I have given show pretty clearly that the last wife (and widow) of Arthur Bromfield, grandfather of our first Edward, had been the widow of

NOTES.

HARWARD OF SOUTHWARK.—Any reference to the family of John Harward is full of interest, so no apology is required for giving the following note:

Nichols's Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, Vol. viii., contains an article on "The Manor of the Maze, in St. Olave's, Southwark." On page 260 are given "Extracts from the Court Rolls of the Manor of the Maze." This is dated 2 June, 1661, when John Weston was Lord of the Manor in right of his wife. A list of "Tenentes liberi" is given, ending with Thomas Harward. Then follows "Homagiū Ss.—Joh'es Rawlinson, Bennett Hull, Jur'. Thos. Harward." Further on occurs the following entry: "Cogn'.—Ad hanc Cur' Thomas Harward cognovit se libere tenere de D'no hujus Manerii quatuor messuagia sive tenementa cum p'tin' scituat' apud Battle Bridge in Mill Lane, infra Maneriu' p'dict' p' reddit' p' annu' 1^d. fidelitat', sect' cur', et al' servic', et fecit D'no fidelitat' ac solvit pro reddit' triginta annos ad festum Annunciac'onis beatae Mariæ Virginis modo ult' p'terit' ijs. vj^d.

THOMAS HARWARD, } Jur.

Mr. Waters in his Gleanings in the REGISTER (vol. xxxix. p. 279) gives the will of Thomas Harvard of St. Olaves, Southwark, and in vol. xl. p. 371, are quotations from the Feet of Fines relative to tenements in the same parish. Possibly these refer to the places which are mentioned above; if so these notes will help to identify them. Perhaps some one more familiar with the valuable matter turned up by the careful study of Mr. Waters may be able to tell whether the John Harward mentioned in the quotations I have given above, who held the tenements in 1631, was or was not the John Harvard of ever-precious memory.

ROYALL THE LOYALIST.—In turning over the pages of Nichols' Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, Vol. viii., I came upon a description of the Church of Froyle, Hampshire, and on page 216 I noted the following:

"In the Churchyard, on the south side, are railed monuments to the memory of ISAAC ROYALL, Esq. late of Medford, in New England, who died Oct. 16, 1781, aged 62, as also of his daughter Mary McIntosh, wife of George Erving, late of Boston, in New England, Esq. died Nov. 11, 1786, aged 42."

It is also mentioned that in the chancel of Froyle church there are seven achievements, one bearing the arms of Pepperell, with the arms of Royall on an escutcheon of pretence. In a note it is stated that this is "the achievement of Sir William Pepperell, Bart. He was Governor of New England, and married one of the daughters and coheirs of Isaac Royall, Esq. of New England, but of a Scotch family. Lady Pepperell's mother was a coheiress of the Highland family of M'Intosh. The wife of W. Congreve, Esq. of Aldermaston, co. Berks, was a daughter of Sir William Pepperell."

In Vol. xxxix of the REGISTER is an account of the "New England Royalls," in which it is stated, page 356, that "Isaac Royall died of the small-pox in England in October, 1781," but no place of burial is given.

It is also there asserted that his daughter Mary McIntosh, wife of George Erving, was born 10 Jan. 1744-5, and, on the authority of Sabine, that she died in 1806, unless I have misread this statement, which may be that George Erving died that year. However, it may be mentioned that the age given on her tombstone almost tallies with her age at the date given for her death.

I notice that Drake, in his "Historic Fields and Mansions of Middlesex," refers to a petition of Col. Royall to be permitted to return home in 1789, which would be eight years after his death.

SAMUEL LEONARD OR LEONARDSON.—On page 55 of the genealogy "Solomon Leonard and His Descendants," is presented a problem which "Norwich Deeds," book III., part A, page 411, solves; for there is recorded the acknowledgment of Joseph Benjamin and wife Elizabeth, John Carter and wife Mary, John Andrews and wife Sarah, Samuel Lennard and wife Lydea, and Jane Cook, as having received from their brother Obed Cooke their share of the estate of their father Richard Cooke, late of Norwich, deceased, 4th Dec. 1716.

DON OR DAN.—Correction.—In the REGISTER, Vol. 48, p. 323 (Docket No. 500), is given the inventory of Jacob French appraised by Thomas Dor and William Holbrook. At the time the abstract was made the files were not arranged in the new court house, and the record alone was consulted. The name written Thomas Dor in the record by the clerk should have been Thomas Don or Dan as given in the original paper.

QUERIES.

WEST.—An early settler on Martha's Vineyard was Thomas West, who came to the island about 1675, and resided in the town of Tisbury. He deposes in June, 1677, aged 31 years, which would make his birth 1646 or thereabouts (Dukes Deeds, i., 8). He was evidently a practitioner of medicine and a man of education, as he bequeathed his "surgical instruments" to a son in his will, and I believe him to be the Thomas West who is spoken of in the Court records of the Vineyard as "the Kings Slissiter" (Solicitor) in 1688, and as "their Majesties Attorney" in 1689 (Dukes Court Records, vol. i). His will, dated January 15, 1697-8, and proved November 28, 1716, opens up an interesting question. He mentions a son Sackfield West, to whom he makes a bequest. This son afterwards removed to Yarmouth, on the Cape, and later to Barnstable, where he died, leaving descendants. Sackfield is evidently a form of Sackville, which is one of the family names of the English family of the De la Warr Wests, so prominent in the early colonization schemes of Virginia. Sir Thomas, Baron de la Warr, was Captain General of all the Colonies in Virginia, 1609, and his younger brother, Francis, born October 28, 1586, was Governor of Virginia in 1627, and it will be remembered that he had been previously Admiral of New England, four years before. It is a tradition in the family of West of Martha's Vineyard that their ancestor Thomas was a son of Francis, the Admiral and Governor, but this is manifestly incorrect, although it may be a tradition that will repay examination in other lines of descent from cadet branches of the Sackville-West family. This tradition is given space in the recently published Daggett Genealogy, in connection with an intermarriage of the two families on the Vineyard, without endorsement, however. Suggestions upon this problem are requested. It is further said that he came to Tisbury from Plymouth, Mass., and one correspondent states that he was the son of Francis West and Margery Reeves. He had sons Abner (eldest), Thomas, Peter, Sackfield and Judah. Thomas and Peter remained in Tisbury, Sackfield removed to the Cape, and Judah went to Plymouth where he married and had many children.

CHARLES EDWARD BANKS, M.D.

NORTON.—Information wanted about Dr. Oliver E. Norton and his ancestry in male and female lines. He was born in or near Boston, but is said to have been living in New York state in 1800. He practised medicine for half a century. His eldest son Dr. William Shepard Norton is said by some to have been born in Massachusetts in 1804, and by others to have been born at Easton, N. Y., in 1796. Dr. William Norton studied medicine with his father, and at the Casleton School 1823. He practised medicine for forty years. Toward the end of his life he certainly lived at Fort Edward, but it has been stated that before going to Fort Edward permanently he practised in Albany as medical partner of Dr. March and as professor in the Castleton School of Medicine which was removed to Albany. At any rate Dr. William Norton married Katharine Marie Finn, daughter of William Finn, Esq., of Fort Edward, on April 2, 1826. In 1848 he was elected permanent member of the Medical Society of the State of New York, having previously served as delegate from Washington county. In 1857, on recommendation of the State Society the Regents of the University conferred upon him the honorary degree of M.D. He contributed numerous articles to various medical, literary and educational journals. He died at Fort Edward, Feb. 20, 1863, and was there buried. Dr. William Norton had sisters named Anne Bradstreet Norton and Lucy Winthrop Norton, and he is said to have been related in the families of Bradstreet, Winthrop, Eliot, Shepard, Law and Oliver. Dr. William Norton's son, Dr. John Finn Norton, was a surgeon in the U. S. navy during and after the Civil War. If the story is true that Dr. Oliver Norton's father was a physician, this family has the unusual record of five generations of physicians.

BROWN—BYLES.—Mather Brown, the painter of the portrait of Jefferson for John Adams, in 1786, and who "died in Newman street, London, May 25, 1831, at an advanced age," was the son of Mrs. Brown, daughter of Rev. Mather Byles, Sr., whose portrait in pastel by Copley is dated 1763. Washington Allston said that Mather Brown was a native of Boston, "the son of a celebrated clock maker, the maker of the 'Old South' clock which is said to be an uncommon piece of mechanism." This would be Gawen Brown. If Mather Byles's daughter, who had her picture taken by Copley in 1763, married Gawen Brown, she was his second wife, for in the Granary Burying Ground is the tombstone of "Mary Brown, wife of Mr. Gawen Brown, died May 28, 1760 Aged 31."

Can any of your readers tell if Gawen Brown did marry Mather Byles's daughter or what was the christian name of the Brown who did marry her? Also her christian name and the date and place of birth of Mather Brown.

EDDY, BENNETT AND HORTON :—

Eddy.—Wanted, the birthplace of Zachariah Eddy, youngest child of Nathan Eddy and his wife Eunice Sampson, who was born Nov. 8, 1778, according to the family record given in his Bible. This register of births also mentions the following children, brothers and sisters of Zachariah: Ephraim, Lydia, Hannah, Nathaniel, Nathan and Isaac. The town records of Middleboro', Mass., give the marriage of Nathan Eddy to Eunice Sampson, Nov. 17, 1757, and mention all their children, as stated in the Bible, with the exception of Zachariah, whose name is not recorded. Tradition says that he was a native of Plymouth County, Mass., and that the family removed to Sherburn, Vermont, about 1778, the year of his birth. It is therefore possible that his birth record was not given to the Middleboro' town clerk. The name Zachariah Eddy, I may add, was not uncommon in Plymouth at that time. Any information regarding his birthplace will be appreciated.

Horton.—Can any one verify the following facts by reference to documentary evidence? "Daniel Horton, son of David Horton and Esther King, was born at White Plains, N. Y., 23 April, 1702; married about 1724, Esther Lane, born at Rye, 24 May, 1704. They settled at Yorktown, N. Y., about 1724. She died 18 April, 1769. He died 10 Dec. 1777. Children, born at Yorktown: Daniel, Elizabeth, Rachel, Stephen, Esther, Phebe, Milicent and William, b. 10 Jan. 1743, married Elizabeth Covert." (Horton Genealogy, by Geo. F. Horton, M.D., p. 15.) The sources of this information were unfortunately not given by the compiler, who died some years ago, and a careful search for his notes has been unsuccessful. The undersigned is desirous of obtaining the marriage record of Daniel Horton and Esther Lane, and the birth record of their son William.

Cook.—Names of six children of Jacob³ Cook (Jacob², Francis¹ of the "Mayflower") and Lydia³ Miller (John², Rev. John¹) are given in the REGISTER, vol. 51, p. 34. Davis in "Ancient Landmarks of Plymouth" adds two. Did they have a ninth, Elizabeth⁴, married, about 1730, to Isaac³ Sampson (Isaac², Abraham¹)? See "Sampson Family" in Vinton's "Giles Memorial." If so (1) Elizabeth⁴ bore the name of her father's sister. (2) Her daughter Lydia that of the two grandmothers, Lydia (Standish) Sampson and Lydia (Miller) Cook, unless Jacob³ had a second wife. (3) Her son Jacob⁵ that of her father, grandfather and brother. (4) Her daughter Phebe⁵ that of her brother Jacob's⁴ wife. This coincidence of names, not derived from the father's family, and some of them rather unusual, can scarcely be accidental.

LAKE.—May I ask in your pages for any information regarding the descendants of Thomas and John Lake, both of Boston, the half brothers of Sir Edward Lake, Bart., of Lincoln. Both of them have been frequently mentioned in the REGISTER, the former being one of the leading men of that time in Boston. The second, John Lake, I have always looked upon as one of my ancestors, but as there was apparently at that time more than one John Lake in Boston, he is difficult to identify. I do not think he can be the one who married Mary Coy, as, according to Savage, their issue died out after one generation.

Sir Edward Lake, Bart., of Lincoln, born c. 1597, died 1674, had two half bros., (i) Thomas Lake, (ii) John Lake.

(i.) Thomas Lake, merchant, of Boston, killed by the Indians 14 Aug. 1676, married Mary Goodyear, and had issue, besides others who died infants:

(1) Stephen, b. 1649; died unmar. in England, 1670.

(2) Thomas, b. 1657, the ancestor of the Lake Baronets.

(3) Anne, b. 1663; mar. 1st, Rev. John Cotton; 2d, Rev. Increase Mather. Her descendants have been already worked out in the REGISTER.

(4) John, b. 1666. (5) Nathaniel, b. 1668.

(6) Rebecca, b. 1670. (7) Sarah, b. 1671.

Information wanted as to the descendants of these four youngest children.

(ii.) John Lake, also of Boston.

Information wanted as to his marriage, death and descendants. From a family pedigree in my possession, he had a son William, a physician, who died in London about 1717, and from collateral wills he possibly had two other sons, Luke and Joseph.

Any information regarding these Lakes will be most thankfully received.

HISTORICAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE HARLEIAN SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of this society was held in the Council Room at 140 Wardour street, London, W., on the 28th of January, Lord Amherst of Hackney in the chair. The report of the society stated that there were three hundred and thirty members, of whom one hundred and eighty-one subscribed to the Register section. During the year 1897 this society has issued three volumes to its members: (1) "The Visitations of Cambridgeshire in 1575 and 1619," under the editorship of Mr. J. W. Clay, F.S.A.; (2) "The Registers of Durham Cathedral from the commencement in 1609 to the end of 1896," fully annotated by the late Captain E. A. White, F.S.A., under the editorship of the Honorary Secretary, Mr. Armytage, F.S.A.,—this volume was dedicated to the Queen by Her Majesty's gracious permission; and (3) the concluding volume of "The Registers of St. George, Hanover Square, to the end of June 1837," when the Civil Registration Act came into force, also edited by the Honorary Secretary, Mr. Armytage.

The society contemplates issuing for 1898, "The Visitation of Kent in 1619," or one of the Hampshire Visitations, and also "The Early Registers of St. Martin's in the Fields."

Sir Charles Stuart Rich, F.S.A., Dr. Colby, F.S.A., and Mr. Thomas Brooke, F.S.A., were re-elected on the council.

The society is doing good work, and issuing its publications punctually. During the twenty-eight years of its existence it has issued sixty-five volumes of Heralds' Visitations, Marriage Licenses, Cathedral and Parish Registers, and other works relating to Heraldry, Genealogy and Family History.

FARRAR'S INDEXES.—We have received an advance copy of "Index to Irish Marriages," 1771 to 1813, being a part of the Index to Births, Marriages and Deaths in Anthologia Hibernica from the notes of Sir Arthur Vicars, F.S.A., Ulster King of Arms, compiled by Henry Farrar, editor of the Index to Obituary and Biographical Notices in the Gentleman's Magazine. It will be issued in two volumes, price three guineas (£3 3. 0). The part before us is handsomely printed and shows evidence of being carefully compiled. The complete work will be found a very useful compilation.

The author writes us: "I am getting ready for the press the registers of St. Margaret's Westminster, a church in which the late Col. Joseph L. Chester took deep interest, and should much wish, if it were possible, to insert the sketch of his life in the volume, as well as for the kindly recollections I have of his generous encouragement to persevere with my Index to Obituaries and Biographical Notices in Gentleman's Magazine to the end."

RICHARD SIMS, M.A.—It is pleasant to know that Mr. Sims, who is a Corresponding Member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, is still actively engaged in making researches in the archives and records of England for those who avail themselves of his skill and experience. The Editor of the REGISTER has a list of testimonials from the Marquis of Bath, Lord Ciermont, the Earl of Arran, Colonel Lane, Captain Spear, and others who have employed Mr. Sims. His advertisement appears with this number of the REGISTER.

We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service under the U. S. Government, the holding of other offices, graduation from college or professional schools, occupation, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence and death. NECROLOGY OF THE NEW-ENGLAND HISTORIC GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY.

Prepared by the Historiographer, Rev. GEORGE M. ADAMS, D.D., of Auburndale, Mass.

THE sketches of deceased members prepared for the REGISTER are of necessity brief, because the space that can be appropriated is quite limited. Fuller sketches are printed in the annual "Proceedings" of the Society. Materials for still more extended memoirs are preserved in the Society's archives, and will be available for use in preparing the "Memorial Biographies," of which five volumes have been issued and a sixth volume is in preparation. The income from the Towne Memorial Fund is devoted to the publication of these volumes.

FREDERIC LORD RICHARDSON, a resident member elected June 2, 1880, died at Boston, January 29, 1898. He was born in Bath, Maine, November 7, 1821, and was the son of William and Harriet (Leland) Richardson. His early education was received at Bath and Gorham Academy. He first established himself in business in New York, but upon the death of his partner, returned to Boston. When the Hill Manufacturing Company, of Lewiston, Maine, was incorporated he was chosen as treasurer, and held the same office continuously for forty-five years until his death. To this position he brought an excellent business capacity, sound judgment and an integrity which was never questioned. His management was followed by deserved success. As a citizen Mr. Richardson was always faithful to his obligations, but never sought nor held public office. His interest in New England and Boston was manifested by his membership in this, as well as in the Bostonian Society. Of his private life it is needless to speak; for here, as in all the relations of life, he was faithful, and in his home and family, with the society of intimate friends he found his happiness. An upright man, a good citizen, a kind and indulgent father, a firm friend, his loss will long be felt and his memory warmly cherished by all who enjoyed his acquaintance or friendship. Mr. Richardson was married in 1849 to Mary, only child of Homer Bartlett of Lowell and Boston, and left as surviving issue three sons.

BOOK NOTICES.

[THE Editor requests persons sending books for notice to state, for the information of readers, the price of each book, with the amount to be added for postage when sent by mail.]

The Smithsonian Institution, 1846-1896. The History of its First Half Century. Edited by GEORGE BROWN GOODE. City of Washington. 1897. 8vo. pp. x+856.

This volume is a very valuable history of the first half century of the Smithsonian Institution, founded by that noble benefactor of our people, James Smithson. Many students have there received training for their future life work, have there acquired knowledge and (more than this) deep and lasting stimulus and incentive to further investigation and research, even an abiding enthusiasm for learning. A list of the writers of the different chapters of this work comprises many men eminent for their scholarship. This noble Institution stands for education, one of the pillars on which our great republic rests. We lay stress (and rightly) on a free ballot and a free press, but we sometimes forget that these precious privileges are almost valueless without education; this is the great basis on which liberty rests. As long as the people are educated, as long as they are taught to think and act for themselves (above all to seek truth) so long will our government remain well grounded and secure. A great institution of learning should offer many elective courses of study (like Harvard University, for instance,) should encourage speculation, individual study and research, not always along a beaten path, but according to the bent of each student who there seeks knowledge. But the student should ever be faithful and reverent, should ever keep truth for his guide, should ever make that the loadstar, the goal of all his striving. To the thoughtful student, life (with all its deep problems) presents continuous and countless opportunities for education. And all education should tend towards the ideal, for that is the true end and aim of life. And all so called practical achievements (whether in the material or intellectual domain) are of value only as we idealize them and make them contribute to the higher life. Life is more than meat and raiment, more even than the acquirement of knowledge, it is (in so far as we earnestly strive to live it rightly) progress, unending progress, in things moral, in things spiritual, in things eternal.

By Daniel Rollins, Esq., of Boston.

A History of the Plantation of Menunkatuck and of the Original Town of Guilford, Connecticut, comprising the present towns of Guilford and Madison. Written largely from the manuscripts of the Hon. RALPH DUNNING SMYTH, by BERNARD CHRISTIAN STEINER. Published by the Author. Baltimore. 1897. 8vo. pp. 538. Price $4.

This work was announced by us in April of last year. It furnishes a thorough history of the ancient town of Guilford. Dr. Steiner gives a list of the previous histories of that town, the first of which was a sketch of its history by Thomas Ruggles, Jr., printed over a century ago. In 1827 Dr. David Dudley Field prepared a sketch of the history of Guilford and Madison for the Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences, using Mr. Ruggles's work as a basis. In 1832, he revised it. "About 1840, this sketch was revised and enlarged by R. D. Smyth. After Mr. Smyth's death [in 1874, see REGISTER, vol. 29, p. 326] this manuscript was found among his papers by his son-in-law, Hon. Lewis H. Steiner, edited by him and published by Munsell in 1877."

The origin of the book before us is thus given in the preface by Dr. Steiner: "Among my grandfather's papers were considerable collections of materials he had intended to use for a history of Guilford. Among these was a fragment of a complete history of the town written by Mr. Smyth shortly before his death. This forms with some changes the first four chapters of the present work and a part of the fifth. It is probable that I should have written part of it somewhat differently, but it seemed best to permit this record of his ripened knowledge of Guilford history to remain without essential change. The rest of the book was prepared from Mr. Smyth's manuscript collections, the town records and other available sources. Owing to the extensive materials at hand, it is believed the work is to a considerable degree exhaustive and complete." The compiler has acted wisely in printing Judge Smyth's history without essential change.

Dr. Steiner deserves much praise for the thorough manner in which he has done his work on this book, and the inhabitants and natives of Guilford owe him a debt of gratitude.

Early American Poetry. The Poems of Roger Wolcott, Esq. 1725. Boston: The Club of Odd Volumes. 1898. Sm. 4to. pp. 14+78+1. 100 numbered copies and 10 unnumbered printed on hand-made paper, and one copy marked A.

This is the latest publication of "The Club of Odd Volumes." The Club was organized in 1887, and has reproduced for members the following books and engravings: 1, Portrait of Francis Bernard, governor of Massachusetts. 2, Works of George Cruikshank in Oil, Original Drawings, etc. 3, The Women of the Court of Louis XV. 4, The Last Years of Louis XV. Numbers 3 and 4 were translated from the French of Imbert de Saint-Amand. The illustrations of these works are faithfully reproduced.

In 1894, a series of reprints of Early American Poetry was begun. The first issued was New England's Crisis, by Benjamin Tompson. The second, in 1895, was New England or a brief enarration of the Ayre, Earth, Water, Fish and Fowles of the Country. The third in 1896, was A Poem and Elegy by Cotton Mather. The fourth in 1896, Elegies and Epitaphs, 1677-1717.

The volume before us is the fifth of the series of Early American Poetry. It is the first book of poetry printed in Connecticut. It is entitled: "Poetical Meditations being the Improvement of Vacant Hours. By Roger Wolcott, Esq. With a Preface By the Reverend Mr. Bulkley of Colchester. New London, Printed and Sold by T. Green, 1725."

The author of this book, Roger Wolcott, was a governor of Connecticut as were his son and grandson. He was a grandson of Henry Walcott, who came to New England in 1630, and became the ancestor of a distinguished family. He was great grandfather of Hon. Roger Wolcott, the present governor of Massachusetts.

The poems are reproduced page for page and line for line, and the title page is a photographic facsimile. The Club is doing good service to the lovers of ancient books by these reproductions.

Original Documents relating to the Life and Administration of William Burnet, Governor of New York and New Jersey, 1720-1728, and of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, 1728-1729. Compiled by WILLIAM NELSON. Paterson, N. J.: The Press Printing and Publishing Co., 269 Main St. 1897. 8vo.

Mr. Nelson has done a good service in collecting and printing the documents in this volume. In his preface, the compiler says: "The personal characteristics of Governor William Burnet were so prominent that the student of his public career is led to desire to know more of his private life. His dual administration of New York and New Jersey, and later of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, was an interesting experiment in Provincial and Colonial government."

The volume contains Funeral Sermons on Governor Burnet's wife and himself from contemporary MS. copies in the library of the New Jersey Historical Society; the will and inventory of Governor Burnet; two poems on Governor Burnet's arrival at Boston in 1728, one by Rev. Mather Byles, and the other anonymous; and other writings showing his personal and political character. The book makes a handsome volume.

New Englands Prospect. A true, lively, and experimentall description of that part of America, commonly called New England; discovering the state of that Countrey, both as it stands to our new-come English Planters; and to the old Native Inhabitants. Laying downe that which may enrich the knowledge of the mind-travelling Reader, or benefit the future Voyager. By WILLIAM WOOD. Printed at London by Tho. Cotes, for Iohn Bellamie, and are to be sold at his shop, at the three Golden Lyons in Corne-hill, neare the Royall Exchange. 1634.

This is an exact reprint of what the late Charles Deane, LL.D., calls in his preface to the Prince Society's edition, "the earliest topographical account, worthy to be so entitled, of the Massachusetts Colony. It was first printed in 1634, and other editions were printed in 1635 and 1639. A century and a quarter later, an edition was printed at Boston, Massachusetts, by Thomas and John Fleet, with an introductory essay and footnotes. A century later, in 1865, the Prince Society issued an edition as one of their publications. It has a Preface by the late Dr. Charles Deane, and a reprint of the essay prefixed to the 1764 edition.

The present edition has been issued by Hon. Eben Moody Boynton, of West Newbury, Mass. He has conferred a benefit on New England people, as the Prince Society's edition has for some years been out of print. The work is now made accessible to the general public. Mr. Boynton has prefixed an interesting Introduction. The price of this reprint is $2.

We continue in this number our quarterly notices of genealogical works recently published.

The first book on the list, the Adams Genealogy, is a bulky volume of over twelve hundred pages. It is the first attempt to give a full genealogy of all the descendants of Henry Adams of Braintree. Partial genealogies are printed in the Thayer Memorial, Morse's Sherborn, Prof. Herbert Baxter Adams's History of the Adams and Hastings families, and in other works. The Ap Adam pedigree which was printed in the REGISTER for Jan., 1853, from a copy furnished by the late William Downing Bruce, F.S.A. (whose necrology may be found in the REGISTER, vol. 36, page 418), is briefly printed, but not endorsed. Mr. Bruce evidently gave too much credit to an old pedigree with modern additions. The descendants of John Adams of Cambridge, Mass., who has been supposed by some to be a son of Henry Adams of Braintree, are appended. "The book," says the author, "has been prepared at a great outlay of both time and money, the material having been drawn from many widely scattered sources difficult of access." Mr. Adams deserves the thanks of the family for his persevering labor on the book, and is to be congratulated on the results of his labor. The book is well printed and indexed, and is illustrated with twenty-two engravings, chiefly portraits.

The next book, The Cheney Family, by Rev. Mr. Pope, is highly creditable to the author. He has gathered his material with great industry, has compiled it with much care and has through the liberality of wealthy members of the family been able to issue the work in a handsome volume, a fine specimen of the typographic art. The wide circle of connections of the generous givers, whose example is worthy of imitation, are indebted to them for the elegant style in which their family record is preserved. The author has visited England, and has gathered the records of many prominent families in the mother country which he prints in his introduction. The American family is well traced. The volume is divided into two parts; the first gives the descendants of William Cheney, who settled at Roxbury as early as 1640, and the second gives descendants of John Cheney who came to New England in 1635, and after a short stay in Roxbury removed to Newbury. Tabular pedigrees of each of the two lines are given. The book is well indexed.

The Leffingwell Record is a handsome volume printed on thick laid paper and illustrated with numerous fine portraits. The book is devoted to the descendants of Lieut. Thomas Leffingwell of Norwich, Ct., who came to this country as early as 1637. A very satisfactory record of the emigrant ancestor has been compiled. An account of the English Leffingwells is prefixed. The au thors tell us that "the Leffingwell Record has a somewhat eventful history. Nearly thirty years since the late Rev. E. B. Huntington began the collection of memoranda regarding the posterity of our common ancestor, Thomas Leffingwell. The work seems to have made but slow progress, yet it would undoubtedly have been published many years since, had not the author been struck down by apoplexy. For many years the manuscript was apparently lost." Luckily it came into the hands of the present compilers, who have completed the work, and now it appears in print. It has a good index.

The next work, the Batchelder Genealogy, is a book similar in size, style and arrangement to the Whitney and Fiske genealogies recently published by Col. Pierce, and reviewed in the REGISTER, vols. 50, pp. 148-9, and 51, pp. 93, 96. This volume is as fully illustrated and as well indexed as his former works. Besides a very full account of the American families, the author has dwelt at length upon the life and character of Rev. Stephen Bachiler, the origin of the surname, the heraldry of the family and the military services and academic achievements of American Batchelders.

The Fitts or Fitz Genealogy, which comes next on our list, is another book whose typographical appearance deserves commendation. A chapter is given on the origin of the name and some records of the family in England. The American families to which this volume is devoted are arranged together in a table or tabulated form, after which fuller biographical details are printed. We find no evidence of a connection with Robert Fitts or Fitz, one of the original settlers of Salisbury, Mass., 1638, a genealogy of whose descendants by Rev. James Hill Fitts was published in 1869. The present volume is embellished with fine portraits and is well indexed.

The Hord Family is an elegant volume. Part 1, pp. 18 to 60, is devoted to the Hord Family in England; part 2, pp. 61 to 179, contains the Hord Family in America. The American genealogy is "enlarged from the manuscript of Robert Hord of 'Shady Grove,' near Port Royal, Caroline County, Virginia, Anno Domini 1838." The emigrant ancestor was John Hord, an English gentleman, born in Ewell, England, Dec. 29, 1664, came to Virginia in 1685, purchased a large tract of land on the Rappahannock river, which he named Shady Grove, and where he died. The record of the family is well compiled, the details being full and precise. It is illustrated by many fine portraits and views. It is well indexed.

The Doremus Genealogy is by William Nelson, A.M., corresponding secretary of the New Jersey Historical Society and the editor of some of the most valuable publications of that society. His wife, Mrs. Sarah Williams Doremus Nelson, was of that family, and he dedicates this volume to her as a record of her ancestry and kinsfolk. Cornelis Doremus, the emigrant ancestor, was "from Breskens and Middelburg, in Holland, who embarked to America about 1685-6 and settled Acquakunonk (now Paterson), New Jersey." The book, like all of Mr. Nelson's works, shows evidence of great care and thoroughness in its preparation. It is embellished with a portrait of the compiler, and other engravings, portraits, views of buildings, autographs, and a "map of Welcherin and vicinity in Holland, showing whence came Cornelis Doremus and Jannetje Joris van Elseland his wife." The book has a good index.

The next genealogy, "The Goodwin Families of America," by Judge Goodwin, is published as a Supplement to William and Mary College Quarterly, edited by President Lyon G. Tyler, LL.D., of that ancient college. The principal article is devoted to the "York County, Virginia, Goodwins, which family is well traced, besides which a number of appendixes are given, each devoted to a different family in various parts of the country. The editor, Pres. Tyler, adds valuable genealogical and historical notes on the York County Goodwins. Acknowledgment is made to Mr. James J. Goodwin of Hartford, Conn., without whose pecuniary assistance this publication would probably not have been made. The liberality of Mr. Goodwin has been shown in his contributions to enable Mr. Waters to continue his English Gleanings which have been printed in the REGISTER. The work before us contains a valuable mass of genealogical matter. It is well compiled, well indexed and well printed.

The Memorial of the Whitney Family, or a Watertown Farm in Eight Generations, is a facsimile reproduction of the author's manuscript, made by the blue-print process. Nine copies were made for libraries, of which the library of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society is one. Besides this, the author distributed to individuals twenty-five pamphlets being abridged copies of this book. The book consists of ten chapters, with a title page, contents and index. The author is William H. Whitney, whose address is 15 Court Street, Boston.

The next volume, the Roulhac Family, is a well-compiled genealogy of a North Carolina family of French origin, which settled in this country in the last century. Miss Prescott, the compiler, in her Introduction, says: "The greater part of this book is copied from the manuscript memoirs of Francis L. G. Roulhac, to which I have added bits of information gleaned from old letters, Bible records, etc., that were collected years ago by my grandmother, Mrs. T. B. Slade of Columbus. She was a granddaughter of Psalmet Roulhac, who was the first of the name to come to America." The book is well compiled and well printed.

The Avery book makes a handsome volume. It is printed in clear type, on fine paper and neatly bound. It is well indexed. Capt. Avery, Mr. Sellers thinks, was "of English origin, but when or where he was born is unknown. The details of his life and the record of his family are carefully preserved.

The Bailey genealogy is a type-written volume prepared for this Society, and presented by Hollis R. Bailey of Boston, secretary of the Bailey-Bayley Family Association. It is well compiled, and has a good index.

The work on the Schell family contains the descendants of Christian and John Schell, whose father was living at the beginning of the 18th century at Baden Baden on the Rhine in the Dutchy of Baden, Germany. The brothers came to America, and the work before us is the result of Mr. Denissen's researches concerning their descendants. The book is well compiled and handsomely printed, and is embellished with portraits.

The pamphlet on a branch of the Allen family is compiled with great care. It is well printed and is embellished with a number of fine portraits.

The next pamphlet, on President McKinley's Scotch ancestors, contains much interesting information on the subject, and will interest many of our readers.

The two pamphlets on Henry Andrews of Taunton, Mass., by Judge Drummond of Portland, Me., and Mr. Hodges of Boston, are reprints from the REGISTER, the former of which was published in October, 1897, and the latter in our January number. Our readers know the value of the work of these two able genealogists.

The pamphlet on the Bigelows in the Revolution contains interesting matter and has been printed for private circulation.

The Rogers pamphlet is a reprint from "Miscellaneous Notes and Queries," Manchester, N. H., November-December, 1897. It was contributed by Hon. Josiah H. Drummond, who thus writes us of its preparation: "After my John Rogers pamphlet [see REGISTER, vol. 51, pp. 380 and 383] was issued, I had letters from the Rogers tribes from all around: among others from descendants of New Hampshire families. At the same time a suggestion was made that a careful examination of the records ought to throw light on the history of the Georgetown family. As I was specially interested in that, I commenced an investigation that gave me material about two New Hampshire families." This he prepared for the press and had it printed in the above periodical. He read the proof of the article in galleys and made corrections, but unluckily the printer did not send him a revise and the consequence was some of his important corrections were not made. Mr Drummond by his three pamphlets has added much to our knowledge of the Rogerses in New England.

The pamphlet on the Cutler family gives a good account of the branch to which it is devoted. A folding tabular pedigree adds to its value.

The pamphlet on the Sturgis and Colman families, the author states, has for its main object "to connect, if possible, the ancestry of these families in the Plymouth colony with their descendants in the state of Maine. Indebtedness is acknowledged to Mr. Frank W. Sprague of Boston for assistance.

The Barker pamphlet gives the names and descendants of several of Mr. Parshall's ancestors "who settled in the United States previous to the Declaration of Independence, A.D. 1776." It is a useful work.

The pamphlet on the Reunion of John White's Descendants gives an account of that gathering last September. John White, whose descendants held the reunion, came to New England in 1638 and settled in that part of Salem which is now Wenham, and thence removed to Lancaster, Mass. He was the father of Mrs. Mary Rowlandson, whose captivity is so well known and of whom an interesting historical sketch is here printed.

Another annual number of the Historical Journal of the More family, of which periodical notices were printed by us in our number for September, 1895, and July, 1896, has made its appearance. It is filled with matter that will be useful in preparing a regular genealogy.

The Kimball Family News, of which periodical three numbers are before us, is a useful work for gathering and preserving genealogical information. We understand that Stephen P. Sharples of Boston, whose work on the Kimball family is well known, is to be the genealogical editor of the future numbers. We wish the work success.

The Avery Notes and Queries, like the Kimball Family News, is intended to preserve genealogical matter relating to the name till it is wanted for a genealogy of the Averys.

The broadsides on the Marston, Wagenseller and Welles families contain valuable genealogical matter about these families.

The Pickering Genealogy, being an account of the First Three Generations of the Pickering Family of Salem, Mass., and of the Descendants of John and Sarah (Burrill) Pickering of the Third Generation. By HARRISON ELLERY and CHARLES PICKERING BOWDITCH. Privately Printed. 1897. 3 vols. 4to, pp. 1284 in the 3 vols. with an appendix of Statistical Tables. Edition 100 copies. Price for the entire work, including the portfolio of broadsides issued in 1887, and a few since added, Forty Dollars. Address, William A. Morse, 28 State street, Boston.

In 1887, Mr. Pickering issued under the title of "The Pickering Genealogy," a series of seventy broadside tabular pedigrees, 25 by 17 inches in size, in a portfolio. They are devoted to descendants of John Pickering of Salem, and embrace many prominent families of other names. This work was fully described by us in the REGISTER for July 1888.

The present work is intended as a companion to the series issued in 1887, and gives biographical sketches of the individuals there recorded, with statistical information as to the size of families, length of life, etc., in the different generations, and further to trace the ancestry of the men and women who have married descendants of John Pickering.

The biographical sketches are carefully compiled and have been gleaned with patient industry from many sources. They are illustrated with portraits, views of houses occupied by various members of the family, facsimiles of documents, and other engravings illustrating the history of the family or of individuals.

Mr. Bowditch says in his preface: "In the collection of material for this work, in preparing it for the press, and in the tabulation of the Ancestry Tables, Mr. Harrison Ellery has devoted nearly ten years of his life. He has travelled over most of the New England States; has examined state, county, town and church archives; has transcribed many inscriptions from gravestones; has consulted very many town histories, works on family genealogies, and files of newspapers; has visited many families and has conducted a wide correspondence. To him therefore belongs, to a very large extent, the credit as well as the responsibility of the work. And it is a very great sorrow to me that, owing to an acute attack of a disease of his eyes, Mr. Ellery was unable to finish his work."

The illustrations are of a high order of merit, and Mr. Bowditch has spared no expense in making the work, typographically and artistically, a model for such publications. His own labor and that of Mr. Ellery are deserving of the highest praise. The undertaking was a formidable one. We know of no one who has attempted a similar work. The wonder is that it has been so successfully carried out in all its details. No obstacle has been allowed to prevent the plan from being perfected, and it stands a noble monument to a distinguished family.

DEATHS.

JAMES HAMMOND TRUMBULL, LL.D., was born in Stonington, Conn., December 20, 1821, and died in Hartford, Conn., August 5, 1897. He was the son of Gurdon Trumbull and Sarah Ann Swan. He entered Yale College in 1838 and, although forced by ill health to leave before the completion of his college course, was enrolled as a member of the Class of 1842, and given the degree of A.M. After leaving college, he assisted the Rev. Joel H. Linsley in the preparation of catalogues of mammalia, reptiles, fishes and shells of Connecticut, printed in Silliman's Journal from 1843 to 1845. In 1847, he left Stonington for Hartford, and was for the next five years Assistant Secretary of State. In 1854, he was appointed State Librarian and Registrar and a member of the committee to compile the Statute Laws. Again appointed Assistant Secretary of State in 1858, he held the office until in 1861 he was elected Secretary of State, which office he held during the trying days of the civil war.

Active in the foundation of the Watkinson Library of Reference in Hartford, he was made librarian in 1863 and remained so until January, 1891, when he resigned on account of failing health, and was made honorary librarian, a position occupied until his death.

The Watkinson Library has been often spoken of as a monument to Dr. Trumbull's memory, witnessing, as it does, to his knowledge of and discrimination in the choice of books; he made the original catalogue, and for years selected and purchased the volumes which make up a library widely acknowledged to be the most admirable of its kind.

His catalogue of the library of his friend, Mr. George Brinley, which collection was sold in five parts (1879-1883), is another memorial of his conscientious research and his wide and accurate knowledge of books.

Dr. Trumbull was president of the Connecticut Historical Society for twenty-five years, from 1863 to 1888. In 1885, he was made a member of the American Antiquarian Society and in 1874 its foreign corresponding secretary, and it was to this society that, by his request, his MS. Dictionary and Vocabulary of the Massachusetts Languages was sent at his death. He was one of the original members of the American Philological Association, of which he was president in 1874-5; a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the Oriental Society, Ethnological Society, the Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences, and a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Science; also a member of many historical societies, including those of Massachusetts, New York, Maine, Wisconsin, etc.

Yale gave him the degree of LL.D. in 1871, Harvard in 1887, and Columbia that of L.H.D. in 1887.

His chief claim to distinction will, perhaps, rest upon his study of the North American languages, upon which he was acknowledged to be the highest authority; but his contributions to, and knowledge of, New England history were of equal value, though shared by more workers in the same field. Nor were the scientific pursuits to which he turned in early life neglected, as is demonstrated by work done in consultation with Professor Asa Gray and Professor Spencer F. Baird.

No bibliography can give an idea of the extent of Dr. Trumbull's wide learning and his wonderful perseverance and industry—though these were attested daily for many years, in his connection with the libraries, in his patient answers to hundred of inquiries on subjects relevant and irrelevant, from wise and unwise, and in a large and varied correspondence.

The following is a tolerably complete list of books and pamphlets, but by no means of his many contributions to the press:

Lucius R. Paige.

NEW-ENGLAND HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL REGISTER.

JULY, 1898.

REV. LUCIUS ROBINSON PAIGE, A.M., D.D.

By Rev. ALPHONSO EVERETT WHITE, A.M., Superintendent of Schools, Methuen, Mass.

LUCIUS ROBINSON PAIGE was the son of Timothy and Mary (Robinson) Paige of Hardwick, Mass., where he was born, March 3, 1802, being the youngest of nine children. The history of his ancestors is closely interwoven with that of the town. When the territory was purchased of the Indians in 1686, one quarter part of it became their property. To quote from a report of the address given by Dr. Paige in Hardwick, Oct. 16, 1888:

There were eight purchasers and original proprietors, one of whom was Nathaniel Paige his great-grandfather, and ancestor of all who are entitled, by birth, to that name in Hardwick, and another was Samuel Ruggles, great-grandfather of Dr. Paige's mother and ancestor of the numerous race of Ruggles, including the Mandells and most of the Robinsons of this town. Each of these persons owned one-eighth, and, together, one quarter of the whole territory; and when it was settled, half a century later, both of these families contributed their full share both in the management of public affairs, and in the raising up of large families. For many years they furnished a larger number of voters than any other two families in the town; and he thought such was the fact at the present day.

Among his ancestors of the paternal line are numbered Elder William Brewster and Governor Thomas Prentice of the Plymouth Colony; and, on the maternal side, Governor Thomas Dudley of the Massachusetts Colony. The family connection includes many honorable names, among them Brig-Gen. Timothy Ruggles and Maj.-Gen. Jonathan Warner.

Mr. Paige's grandfather, Col. Timothy Paige, did good service in the War of the Revolution, being a member of the Committee of Correspondence and an officer in the militia. He went with his command to Bennington in 1777, and to West Point in 1780. He was loyal in his support of the new government, aiding in the suppression of Shays's Rebellion. After the adoption of the Constitution he received a commission as colonel in the militia, continuing in this office until his death.

In April, 1775, Mr. Paige's father, then a youth of eighteen years, joined the Minute Men who hastened to Cambridge at the first call to arms. Later in life he was honored by election to various positions of influence and responsibility. He was for seventeen successive years representative to the General Court, and in 1820 he was a delegate to the convention for revising the State Constitution. At his death the newspapers of that date testified to his "undeviating patriotism, his intelligence and unbending integrity."

Mr. Paige received his education in the public schools of Hardwick and at Hopkins Academy in Hadley, Mass. He tells us that he was "a frail and puny boy, equally destitute of robust bodily vigor and of physical courage"; and so, while his schoolmates were engaged in athletic sports, he stole away at recess and spent his time in carefully studying the ancient inscriptions on the tombstones of the old cemetery, thus early laying the foundation of his taste for genealogical research. Having determined to enter the Universalist ministry, he became a student under Rev. Hosea Ballou of whom Rev. Dr. Alonzo A. Miner was also a pupil. He preached his first sermon in Charlestown, June 1, 1823. On the twelfth of the same month he was received into the Southern Association of Universalists, and was ordained June 2, 1825. His first pastorate was at Springfield, Mass, where he remained until 1829. Mr. Paige came of a race remarkable in many instances for its longevity, yet, at this time, he was exceedingly frail and delicate in appearance, and indeed, throughout his life, was never in robust health. Nevertheless in these days he was constantly active, both with voice and pen, in preaching the doctrine which he so profoundly believed and dearly loved, and many in that and neighboring towns were won to the same faith. Mr. Paige was not an impassioned orator. "As a speaker," we are told, "his vocalization was clear, his utterance slow, his sincerity transparent, his bearing dignified and impressive."

An aged friend of the writer who heard him then expounding what seemed strange to the neighborhood—a new faith—says, "Mr. Paige in that early day took a decided stand for his convictions and pressed them so strongly upon his hearers that a most earnest interest was awakened in him and his message. 'He has told a good story, has powerfully stated his position, and in argument we find him unanswerable,' said his opponents; 'but it will be better for him to be on the safe side with us.' 'Mr. Paige cannot live a great while,' said they. 'Let him cease to preach this new doctrine; with us he will be safe.'" But it was just here that Mr. Paige placed his confidence. The salvation he saw in that day was the divine plan of the Fatherhood of God, and so clear was the call for that message, so vigorous was his intellectual activity, so courageous his readiness to maintain his principles, that wonder was expressed that "one so young, so frail in health, could accomplish so much." The ministry in that day was more of an itinerancy than it is to-day. The truth of a doctrine grew from a single individual conviction, and a long journey into what was almost a wilderness was often necessary to call forth another individual conviction, and thus the truth expanded till a constituency for a declaration of faith was established. This work was his many years ago, before most of us were born; and that same message which was divinely given him then never lost any of its lustre, its fire or its solemnity, but shone with new beauty and power in a long life of singular loveliness and peace. In 1829 Mr. Paige accepted a call to that part of Gloucester which is now Rockport. Here he labored with marked success until 1832, when he assumed charge of the church in Cambridgeport. He became much attached to this place and people, but in 1839 his health failed so completely that death seemed near, and he was compelled to resign. This was his last pastorate, although for thirty years following he continued to preach occasionally.

During the years of his ministry, Mr. Paige wrote frequently for religious publications. A paper entitled "Universalism Defended," which first appeared in the Religious Enquirer of Hartford, Conn., was reprinted in 1830. In 1833 he published his "Selections from Eminent Commentators." The sale of this book was not confined to the author's own denomination, and several editions were issued to meet the demand. He was for a time assistant editor of the Trumpet, and in 1835 began in that paper a series of "Notes on the Scriptures," which was extended through some years. He also wrote "Questions on Select Portions of the Gospels Designed for the Use of Sabbath Schools and Bible Classes."

Mr. Paige was town clerk of Cambridge from March, 1839, to January, 1840, and from March, 1843, until May, 1846. Upon its incorporation as a city, he became city clerk, and continued in office from May, 1846, to October, 1855. He was also one of the assessors of taxes from 1842 to 1847. He was among the petitioners for an act of incorporation for the Cambridgeport Savings Bank, March 28, 1853. He was its treasurer from 1855 to 1871. At his death he was its vice-president, and one of its trustees, which latter office he had held for nearly a quarter of a century. He was also, for about seven years, cashier of the Cambridgeport Bank, which is now a National Bank, three years its president, and one of its directors from 1857 to the end of his life—nearly forty years. At the time of his decease high tribute was paid to his ability and faithfulness while occupying these positions. We quote from the resolutions unanimously adopted by the directors of the Cambridgeport Savings Bank:

Whereas, in all his connections with this bank he has shown marked fidelity in the performance of his duties; he has evinced a sincere and steadfast devotion to truth and uprightness, and he has won the love and respect of all those who have been associated with him ; therefore be it

Resolved, that the trustees of the Cambridgeport Savings Bank are deeply sensible of the great loss which this institution has sustained in the death of Dr. Paige. They recognize that his name and his work have honored this bank during his life, and they rest content in the conviction that the influence of his name and memory can never be effaced from the minds of those who have so long been associated with him.

While thus faithfully fulfilling these secular obligations, Mr. Paige employed his evenings and hours of leisure in preparing his "Commentary on the New Testament." This work comprised six volumes, their publication covering a period of twenty-six years—1844–1870. His writings have been of almost inestimable value to his denomination. Endowed with a good education for his time, his persistent studies, his indefatigable researches, his calm philosophic reason, all built on foundations of truth and common sense, made his knowledge deeper and broader, a knowledge that put on the dignity of wisdom. In recognition of his scholarly labors and attainments, Harvard College conferred upon him in 1850 the degree of Master of Arts.

Mr. Paige was the author of two valuable histories: The "History of Cambridge," published in 1877, materials for which he gathered while clerk of the city ; and the "History of Hardwick," for which he began preparations previous to 1838, although it was not published until 1883—the author then being eighty-one years of age. To each of these volumes is added a full genealogy of the early settlers of the respective places. These are compiled with painstaking care and accuracy, while the histories themselves are both graphic and reliable. These histories are considered authorities and models of their kind by those best qualified to judge of their merit. In an address to the school children of Cambridge, President Eliot of Harvard University said :

I trust that all of you study faithfully Dr. Paige's History of Cambridge. Nobody deserves the privilege of growing up in this city who does not make himself familiar with that book. It is an epitome of the history, not only of this town, but of a good many other Puritan towns. It fills this place with memories of by-gone scenes and deeds which were precious to the people of those times, and are precious still to us, their descendants or successors.

Rev. Alexander McKenzie, D.D., pastor of Shepard Memorial Church and preacher at Harvard, says of Dr. Paige, in a recent letter to the writer :

He was a good minister, a useful citizen, a trustworthy historian and an upright man. He lived in dignity and quietness, winning and holding the confidence of all who knew him. His History of Cambridge is a work of great value. With industry and painstaking he gathered the facts which he arranged in an intelligent method, and he made his book a treasure house of information for all time. No one knew the town and city so well, and whatever he had learned was at the service of any one who had need of it. We readily obtained from him what had cost him much. If I were to name the traits which marked his life, they would be integrity, accuracy, generosity—other fine qualities he possessed, but these made his days honorable. I have met him oftenest of late at the meetings of the Massachusetts Historical Society, where he was regarded with the highest respect, not more for his many years than for the virtues which had ruled his life.

Dr. Elmer H. Capen, president of Tufts College, also writes us of him :

I cannot in a few words give anything like my estimate of the man. He was an agreeable and stimulating companion. Intelligent, clear-sighted and far-sighted, abounding in common sense, thoroughly informed on current questions, with a keen sense of humor, no one could pass an hour in his presence without being cheered and refreshed. He was what the French call a good raconteur. No man ever enjoyed a good story better than he, or told one with a better relish. Whoever came in contact with him felt instinctively the genuineness and force of his character. He was honest and truthful to the core. He performed whatever duty was put upon him with painstaking and conscientious fidelity. Hence he was emphatically the good citizen and the good man.

As a scholar, his one characteristic was accuracy. His patience in investigation was absolutely without bounds. He would never content himself with anything short of the naked truth. He never gave his readers anything for fact which he got by inference, or hearsay, or by a guess. For this reason his work in the historical field is of permanent value. It is reliable and will not have to be done over again. Feeble in body, never enjoying robust health, he seemed, nevertheless, to have a genius for hard work. He had also that kind of imagination which made the past live before him. The founders of Cambridge and Hardwick were to him like the living men whom he met in his daily walks. His books are valuable to us, not only because of the thoroughness of research which distinguishes them, but because they set the past before us as it really was.

The same qualities marked him as a theologian. His mind went straight to the heart of the great questions which have agitated religious men in all ages of the world. His analytical power enabled him by a sort of instinct to separate the true from the false. No dust of sophistry could obscure his vision. He knew how to condense into a single phrase the kernel of another man's thought. This was what made his work as a commentator of the New Testament so sound and trustworthy. He gave not only his own opinion, but in briefest words the opinion of all other writers on the passage under review. In this respect his commentaries are compendiums of critical knowledge.

Mr. Paige became a Free Mason in 1824 at Little Falls, N. Y., and throughout his long life was an earnest believer in the beneficent work and influence of that body. In 1826 he was made Worshipful Master of the Lodge in Hardwick, and the same year joined the Knights Templars, and was elected Eminent Commander. He was fifty years a member of Amicable Lodge in Cambridge. His connection with this Lodge began February 10, 1846. He was chosen Master the same night, and served three terms. He also rendered valuable service to the order during the anti-Masonic excitement. "His last appearance in the lodge was on the first day of November, 1894, when he acted as chaplain, and the impressiveness of that venerable man invoking the Divine blessing on his brethren and their work, produced an indellible picture upon the minds of all who witnessed it." In 1849 he was appointed to confer with the Grand Lodge upon a change of ritual, being Steward of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. He was afterwards Grand Deacon, and, for three years following, Deputy Grand Master. He became a member of the Supreme Council in 1861. Here he served as Secretary for two years, and as Secretary of State for three years. For several years he was the representative of the Supreme Council of Belgium in the Supreme Council, 33° of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States. At the time of his death he was the oldest Past Commander of Knights Templars and the oldest surviving life member of the Grand Lodge.

Mr. Paige was also a member of the fraternity of Odd Fellows and of several historical societies. He became a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society in 1844. He was the first resident member elected by the five founders of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, Jan. 21, 1845, and at his decease was its oldest living member. He was for many years active in the work of this Society, in which he always maintained a lively interest, even after he became too feeble to attend its meetings. He was admitted to membership in the Pennsylvania Historical Society in 1854; in the Phi Beta Kappa Society in 1877, and in the American Antiquarian Society in 1878. He was also made an honorary member of the Worcester Society of Antiquity in 1876, and corresponding member of the Historical Society of Wisconsin in 1877.

Mr. Paige was one of the earliest contributors to the fund for the establishment of Tufts College, and in 1852 had a voice in the choice of the original Board of Trustees, and assisted in arranging the courses of instruction. He became a member of the Board in 1859, was its Secretary for fourteen years and its oldest member at the time of his death, both in years and term of service. The welfare of the college was always very near his heart. During his life he bestowed upon it gifts amounting to $5,000, and left by bequest the sum of $2,000 for the founding of a permanent scholarship. In 1861 he received from this college the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. The dormitory of its Divinity School is named in his honor, "Paige Hall."

Dr. Paige was representative from Cambridge to the General Court in 1878 and 1879.

He was four times married, and had five children all of whom he survived. Clarinda, daughter of Ezekiel Richardson of Brookfield, was his first wife, who died in 1833. His second wife, Abby R., daughter of Joseph Whittemore of Charlestown, died in 1843. Lucy, his third wife, was a daughter of Barnabas Comins of Charlton, and widow of Solomon Richardson of Brookfield. She died in 1864. His fourth wife, who survives him in her ninety-third year, was the widow of the Hon. David T. Brigham of Keokuk, Ia., a daughter of Robert M. Peck and granddaughter of Hon. Joseph Allen of Worcester. She is also grandniece of Samuel Adams of Revolutionary fame.

On the occasion of Dr. Paige's eightieth birthday, March 8, 1882, about three hundred of his friends gathered in the vestry of the Cambridgeport Universalist Church to do him honor. This was the same church to which he had been called as pastor fifty years before. There were present many clergymen of his own and other denominations, the mayor of the city, representatives of the city government, of Tufts College, the Masonic order, and others who came to offer words of grateful appreciation to one whose long and useful life had made its influence felt in so many ways. The poet Longfellow, then suffering from the illness of which he died a few weeks later, sent the following letter:—

My dear Sir:—I am much obliged to you for your cordial invitation to the supper in honor of Dr. Paige, on the eightieth anniversary of his birthday, and regret that illness prevents me from accepting it. I am sorry to lose this opportunity of showing my personal regard for him and my appreciation of his historical labors. The importance of local or town histories can hardly be overestimated; they are the foundation on which all general history rests. For what Dr. Paige has done for Cambridge, we all owe him our thanks. I beg you to give him mine with my sincere congratulations on this occasion. Yours very truly,

HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

The above letter was presented to Dr. Paige with a richly bound and beautifully illustrated copy of Longfellow's Poems.

We cannot forbear to quote from Dr. Paige's own remarks on that evening, so well do they express his character and views of life:—

The Psalmist says,—“The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow; for it is soon cut off and we fly away.” It is commonly admitted, however, that there are exceptions to general rules; and I regard my individual case as one of the exceptions to this rule. I am very sensible of many infirmities incident to old age, both bodily and mental; yet the burden has been so light and the compensations so large that scarcely any equal period of time, during my long life, has on the whole been more enjoyable than the last ten years. Moreover, the approaching termination of earthly life, which the Psalmist indicates as one source of sorrow in old age, does not greatly disturb my peace of mind. As I have grown older, the ties which bind me to the earth have become fewer and weaker, and the attractions to heaven stronger and more numerous; so that I feel less and less reluctance to "fly away." An undoubting belief that God is the absolute Ruler of the Universe, and that He will not permit the occurrence of any event which He cannot overrule for good, sustained me in the various trials which befel me before I attained the age of threescore years and ten; and since that period, it has enabled me to possess my soul in patience; I pray that it may continue firm and unshaken, so that I may quietly wait all the days of my appointed time, till my change comes.

Not only have the last ten years been satisfactory, but I cannot select any period of eighty years, since the days of the Apostles, which I would be willing to take in exchange for that which is now closing. To say nothing of the marvellous improvements affecting the physical welfare of mankind, the changes wrought in the religious world are sufficient to satisfy my cravings, especially those which concern us most nearly. Eighty years ago Universalists were accounted infidels, and shunned as moral lepers, unfit for decent society. But now, they are acknowledged to be Christians, and are treated with such respect as their conduct may deserve. It seems scarcely possible that the next eighty years can produce equal changes in the form of doctrine held by our brethren in other churches, and in their opinion concerning us. At all events I am sure of the past. I have lived in the age of the giants. I bore a humble part with them in the church militant, and rejoiced with them in its triumphs. I would not willingly surrender my memory of those noble men and valiant deeds in exchange for a longer lease of life on the earth.

The eightieth year of my life nearly coincides with the fiftieth year of my residence here It is one of the choicest gems in my present crown of rejoicing, that from the beginning I have generally lived in peace with my fellow-citizens. I am not aware that I have a personal enemy in the city; and I have no occasion to cherish hostility against a single individual.

My life cannot be regarded as eventful, in the ordinary sense of the phrase; yet I have experienced the usual vicissitudes of human life,—many of them grievous for the present, but attended by alleviating compensations. Thieves broke through and stole a large part of the fruits of my life-long labor and self-denial; but the general outburst of sympathy convinced me that I possessed a richer treasure than gold and silver. I have endured painful and tedious sickness; but by the blessing of God on skilful medical treatment and careful nursing, I still live. Like others who live long, I have witnessed the departure of my early friends, one by one, until few remain; yet I rejoice in the belief that they have not perished, and that a happy meeting awaits us hereafter. And even here, younger friends have partially supplied their place. Among the few who remain I do not hesitate to make public acknowledgment of special gratitude to God, that one who was my schoolmate and associate in my youth has been spared to be my help-meet and comforter in my old age.

Some men, young as well as old, suffer acutely because they imagine they are not fully appreciated. Far different has been my fate. I have received all the honor I have deserved and more

After I ceased to be a parish minister, my fellow-citizens bestowed on me several municipal offices; and I was subsequently treasurer of a savings bank for the space of sixteen years. I endeavored to perform my various duties faithfully; and during this whole period, as formerly in my ministry, I never took a vacation at the expense of my employers. In return I was permitted to retain every one of those offices until I resigned voluntarily or declined a re-election: — which I regarded as a satisfactory appreciation of my services.

I beg you to believe, however, that I mention these things, not in the spirit of boasting and vain glory, but rather in humble and grateful acknowledgment that my literary labors, as well as my secular duties, have been fully appreciated and abundantly rewarded.

Dr. Paige always cherished the liveliest affection for his native town. At its centennial celebration in 1838, as orator of the day, he delivered a very long and deeply interesting historical address. Fifty years later, at its 150th anniversary, he was again invited to be the principal speaker, but declined. He was present, however, and spoke at some length. He then said that 'it was sixty-two years since he removed from Hardwick, but to this day no other place seemed so much like home; nor was there any spot in the wide world so dear to his recollection as the hill where he was born, overlooking on the one side this pleasant village, with "Poverty Hill," or rather "Mount Pleasant," in the background, and on the other the Ware River Valley from Palmer to Wachusett. Not only was this natural scenery dear to him, but the marks of attention which he had received since his removal, which have kept alive and augmented his attachment to Hardwick.' It was on this occasion that Dr. Paige made known his intention to bequeath to the town of Hardwick, under certain conditions, his library of more than 2,000 volumes, and his maps, with the sum of $10,000 "to be safely invested as a permanent fund, and the income thereof to be appropriated for the care, maintenance and increase of the library." The conditions having been fulfilled, the library is now in the hands of its appointed custodians at Hardwick.

Dr. Paige was never a wealthy man. At one time he lost, through the robbery of a Cambridge bank, the sum of $15,000 — the accumulation of years. His gifts came not from the superabundance of his worldly goods, but from the overflowing generosity of his heart. Debarred by failing health from the pursuit of his chosen profession, while yet comparatively a young man, he remained true to his scholarly tastes, and out of seeming defeat brought abundant success. Modest and unassuming, the honors that came to him were never the object of his endeavor, but gratefully received as the spontaneous tribute of those whom he had served.

Simple in his tastes, dignified and refined in his manners, broad and kindly in his sympathies, for sixty years Dr. Paige lived in the house which he had built in Cambridge, whose gracious hospitality is remembered to-day by many a grateful guest.

His friend, Col. Albert H. Hoyt, truly said:

To those who were honored with his intimate friendship in his own home, when the doors were shut, and the curtains drawn, he disclosed his abound.

ing humor, the warmth and generosity of his heart, the sweetness, purity and elevation of his nature.*

The last few years of his life were spent in comparative seclusion. Yet he was not forgotten. On his birthday anniversaries the day was filled with a succession of affectionate greetings and kind wishes, and his home was fragrant with flowers brought by loving hands or breathing sweet messages from absent friends. In 1892 the sixtieth anniversary of his first sermon, preached in the Cambridgeport church, was observed as "Paige Sunday," with services appropriate to the occasion. The following stanzas, composed by a friend of the writer, were sung, and are given here as expressing the spirit of the hour :

To-day, the silver crown of years
Rests lightly on the brow of one,
Who oft has brought to darkened souls
The brightness of the morning sun.

No strange, dread mystery of words
From him the Father's love concealed ;
Clear-eyed, he read God's Holy Word,
And saw his character revealed.

With busy pen and living voice,
For well nigh three score years and ten,
He has proclaimed to human hearts
The boundless love of God to men.

And so, for him, Time's silver crown
With heavenly glory seems to shine ;
His past well-stored with fruitful years,
His future safe in love Divine.

His was an ideal old age. Surrounded by a multitude who loved him, ministered to with a wealth of tenderness and a devotion unceasing by a most loyal and sympathetic wife, he yet lived with full interest in the present, though he solemnly thought of that eternity towards which he knew himself to be hastening. "I have been gradually wearing away for the last ten years," he said to a friend, but no one could say there was any diminution of mental strength or power. In those last days, when he lay calmly and patiently awaiting the end, he requested a brother clergyman, who had called, to report his condition at the next meeting of ministers, and from him "exhort them to be faithful in their good work, and bid them a hearty farewell and God speed." A few days later, Sept. 2, 1896, in the ninety-fifth year of his age, he passed from his earthly to his heavenly home with the same serene faith in the love and wisdom of God which had been his support through life.

Once more, on Saturday, September 5, the old church opened its doors to receive those who came to offer the last tribute of respect and affection to the long and beautiful life now passed into a precious memory. It was a notable gathering which filled the large auditorium. Few, indeed, remained of the old congregation to whom he once ministered, although the places of some of these were occupied by children or grandchildren. There were representatives from the city, the banks, Harvard and Tufts Colleges, the Universalist Publishing House, the Masons, the Odd Fellows, the various historical societies and other organizations. A large number of clergymen of the Universalist denomination were present and many of widely differing faith. Among the Masons were members from the old lodge which Dr. Paige joined at Hardwick in 1826, now entering upon its ninety-seventh year. On every hand were the gray heads and thoughtful faces of men who had achieved success in many walks of life—scholars, thinkers, men of letters, and others whose lives had been passed in daily contact with the busy world. All these came together, drawn by reverent and grateful memory of the man whose quiet, modest, useful life had been a blessing and inspiration to all within the sphere of his influence. At the sound of a dirge from the organ, the whole assembly rose and remained standing while the casket was borne to its place in the church. Portions of the ninetieth and ninety-first Psalms were read by Rev. E. H. Capen, D.D., President of Tufts College, after which a discourse was delivered by the writer of this sketch, from the text: "With long life will I satisfy him, and show him my salvation."—Ps. xci. 16. At the close of the church service, the remains were conveyed, under Masonic escort, to Mt. Auburn cemetery, where the last rites were performed by the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts; Rev. Charles A. Skinner, a former pastor of the church, as Grand Chaplain, conducting the service.

Such were the scenes at the close of a life remarkable, not for the brilliancy of sudden achievement, but for the harmonious beauty of a soul at peace with itself, and yielding unfaltering obedience to its heavenly visions of truth and duty.

PHILIP GEREARDY OF NEW AMSTERDAM,
LANDLORD OF THE CITY TAVERN, AND HIS RHODE ISLAND DESCENDANTS.

By CHARLES KNOWLES BOLTON, A.B., Librarian of the Boston Athenæum.

IN early colonial times settlers along the coast of Rhode Island carried on a considerable trade with the Dutch at the mouth of the Hudson. At New Amsterdam there were many well-known English and New England merchants. But on the shore of Narragansett bay few Dutchmen became permanent residents, although occasional marriages occurred. Through one of these marriages many New Englanders may claim descent from an interesting figure in old New York.

Philip Gereardy and his son Jan were perhaps not of the stuff from which some men would choose ancestors, but they were picturesque in a manner which was in harmony with their environment.

1. PHILIP¹ GEREARDY was an early inhabitant of Manhattan, where he contracted with Juriaen of Osnaburgh for a house. It seems that Juriaen did not build the house in the time agreed upon, for in the spring of 1641 two witnesses swore to the agreement and Philip obtained a judgment in his favor on the 13th of June. In a year or two he received a grant of a house lot on the north side of the first road from the fort to the ferry, on the present Stone street between Whitehall and Broad streets. This was known first as "the road," later a part of it as the Brouwer straat; it was the first street paved with stone, and the place of residence of the wealthy people of the town, such as Frederick Philipse of Philipse manor. Here Philip, his wife Marie Pollet, and their son Jan lived. May 24, 1644, Philip received by patent a double lot on the common highway, "on the east side of Broadway between Beaver Street and Exchange Place, 110 feet front by 230 feet deep."

In 1642 a stone tavern for the accommodation of travellers was erected, fronting on the East river. It was south of the road to the ferry "in the present north-west corner of Pearl street and Coenties alley," wrote Valentine in 1853. As landlord of this tavern Gereardy became a conspicuous man in New Amsterdam. Prize money was often left in his hands for safe keeping. In January, 1642, he was in trouble for selling beer at a higher rate than that allowed by the ordinance, but was permitted to escape punishment. Not so three months later when he was again in trouble, this time for being absent from guard duty without leave. There is a fine irony in the sentence which couples his two vocations: "To ride the wooden horse during parade, with a pitcher in one hand and a drawn sword in the other." Philip had been released from this undesirable position scarcely a twelve-month when he was seriously wounded while conducting Jan Jansen Damen home one night—probably after an evening spent at the tavern. Damen, a wealthy man and part owner of the privateer La Garce, defended Stuyvesant in Holland in 1649–50, and died upon his return in 1651.

Meanwhile Philip did not always pay his debts, and Augustyn Herrmans in October, 1644, complained of Philip's lack of attention to bills for wine. Little by little, however, he prospered; and when the city authorities, March 13, 1653, drew up a "list of the persons who shall provisionally contribute the following sums for the purpose of putting this city in a state of defence," he was slated for the moderate tax of fifty guilders. In 1653 the tavern was turned over to the magistracy for a city hall or "stadt huys"; and October 15, 1653, Peter Wolfertsen van Couwenhoven sold to Philip the lot "situate where the sign of the White Horse hangs out, right opposite the Winckel street, New Amsterdam." Van Couwenhoven and his older brother Jacob were leading brewers. Peter himself was Schepen for six years, and lieutenant of the militia company, a near neighbor of the Gereardy family, and a witness at the christening of Philip's grandchildren. This property was no doubt acquired by Philip in order to continue his business. Philip and his wife were often witnesses at church christenings, and Philip was in 1646 appointed custodian of an estate and of orphan children.

There is no direct statement that Jan Gereardy was his son, but the evidence seems to be strong. The Rhode Island records to be mentioned later show that Jan was in the habit of going to New Amsterdam to trade with his father and mother. In all the Dutch records I find no person of his surname except Philip and Marie, who might therefore be the parents referred to. Philip and Marie, moreover, were witnesses at the christening of Jan's children; and finally Philip, according to Valentine's History of New York, left his property to Jan. Very possibly Jan had sisters or aunts in New Amsterdam. Philip Gereardy died between October 11, 1654, and January, 1656; and on November 5, 1656, at the Reformed Dutch church, "Mattheus de Vos, widower of Anna Peters, and Maria Pollet, widow of Philip Gerar," were married.

Matheus de Vos was keeper of the city hall (which as a tavern Philip had managed), a notary public and an active attorney about the courts. In former years he had been a soldier in the service of the company, and as late as 1653 was a cadet in company 4 of the Burgher corps. After his marriage he seems to have lived in the widow's house, where he continued his legal duties until his death in 1663.

Philip and Marie (or Marritje) had:

2. i. JAN², born probably in the Netherlands.
2. JAN² GEREARDY (*Philip*¹) was a trader, and perhaps when the hour was favorable, a privateer. He seems to have been shrewd and energetic. Previous to June 5, 1648, he became an inhabitant of Warwick, R. I., where he had been drawn through trade; and it may be was induced to settle there from an interest in Mrs. Ezekiel Holliman's daughter. Holliman, who was a man of prominence from Tring in Hertfordshire, and one of the founders of the Baptist church in America, acquired a certain distinction in history by baptizing Roger Williams. His wife Mary, widow of Isaac Sweet, had a daughter Mirabeh whose name Holliman changed to Renewed before she married Jan. How Jan the sailor found favor with such a religious family as the Hollimans must be left to the imagination. If Jan and Renewed were married before 1651 they would seem to have lived but a short time in Rhode Island for Jan signed his name to a petition July 16, 1651, then residing "on the Island of Ahrumime in the Schuylkil in the South River in New Netherland." He had made voyages to the South River (the Delaware) before this time; toward the end of December, 1647, while near the Swedish colony, Governor John Printz did "with force and violence, seize me, Jan Geraet, with my boat called the Siraen, visited the yacht, and handled the goods in a unchristianlike manner and to the great loss and damage of me Jan Gereat, turned them upside down; took out my munitions of war, which consisted of about 60 lbs. of powder and six guns, but on my promising to use them only when obliged, returned me some powder, about 47 lbs. and three guns; the remainder he kept for himself."

In 1649 Michiel Jansen commissioned Jan to collect a debt from Reynier Dominicus at the South River. But in 1652 he was back in Warwick, where he unwittingly opened a volcano under the family hearth-stone. The case illustrates a curious side of puritan character—a relentlessness that equalled that of the oppressor in England. Arnold, in his History of Rhode Island, relates the story:

"The crew of a small Dutch vessel which had arrived there in January [1652], on a trading voyage, boarded for some two months with John Warner, who was this year the Assistant, or second magistrate of the town, and had stored their goods in his house for sale. One of these men, named Geraerd, was a brother-in-law of Warner, both having married into the family of Ezekiel Holliman. Upon settling their accounts a dispute arose which it was vainly attempted to adjust by arbitration, and the Dutchman appealed to the court. At their request a special session was held. Warner refused to answer to the case, and judgment was entered against him by default, and execution granted for the damages assessed by a jury."

Warner was tried before the General Court of Trials, degraded from office and disfranchised. His house and lands were attached "upon suspicion of insufferable treachery against the town," but were released some time later. In March, 1652, Jan sold to Stukely Westcott certain lands of John Warner taken by execution by Harmanus Harforth of New Amsterdam.

Some months later Gereardy brought down the wrath of the Narragansett sachems upon the settlers, and "four score armed men" marched to Warwick to demand satisfaction. In his crew were three infamous men who had robbed the grave of a sister of the sachem Pessicus. "We fear," wrote Roger Williams, "John Garriard was drawn in by them, at least to consent to share with them in such a booty."

"So," says Williams, "it pleased the Lord to pacify all with our attaching of the Dutchman's goods and debts, until he have made satisfaction to the sachem's charge against him."

Jan, whether at this time a citizen of the Dutch or the English town, carried on a thriving trade with both nations. That the nature of this commerce aroused suspicions is certain. In 1654 Giles Glover, testifying "vpon oath in the assemblie sayth, that he hath been twice at the Dutch, and that for the last time he was theare John Garioud did trade something there, and fordere sayth that he saw an order vnder the hand of Mr. Holiman and John Greene, Junior, for their goinge thither, and sayth we brought howes, gunnes and powder, but traded with [them]. He tarred but ten dayes, and [said] that he traded with some that weare not his Father and Mother, and that we brought eighteen ankers of liquers the first voyage, and six the last. Robert Westkote went about to buy bever and liquers; but doth not know that he bought any [thing] but one hundred howes upon John Gariard accounte, and that John Gariard brought some deare skinnes but some he had from his mother."

In the midst of trading and speculation Jan found time for the christening of his two daughters October 11, 1654, at New Amsterdam. They were called Philippe and Marritie, no doubt from his father and mother. The witnesses were "Philip Geerardts, Pieter Wolfertszen, Marritie Geerardts, Thomas Hall, Hester ter Neuf." Thomas Hall was a man of wealth with whom Jan seems to have had much to do. They were both interested in Newton, Long Island, where the directors on the 5th of November, 1653, granted to "Jean Gerardy" Newton's Point or the Green Hook, comprising twenty morgens or about forty acres. Three days before this "Philip Gerardy" had been granted twenty-five morgens at Long Island.

In 1655 Jan became a freeman of Warwick; and the same year in a deed of a house and lot at G^d [Gravesend?] to Isaac Grevenraat he signed his name "John Gerardy" (Bergen's King's County Settlers). May 5, 1664, Jan or John Gereardy and two others were allowed £3. 2s 6d. by the assembly for bringing an Indian to prison from Warwick to Newport, they having spent five days in the service. (Austin.)

Jan's next appearance in the records is so little to his credit that whatever construction is given to the words he is left in an unenviable position. Probably Rhode Island justice, as in the case of Jan's brother-in-law, John Warner, was sometimes more relentless than fair, for in New Amsterdam as well as in New England men were persecuted under the guise of justice. Fuller's Warwick gives the record: "July 2, 1666. Ordered that John Garyardy who hath confessed himselfe to be a thiefe and stands convict in a court of record for stealing, bee not for ye future admitted to have anything to doe in ye towne meetings, but is by this order expunged ye socyety of honest men, which order did pass uppon a bill presented by Edmund Calverly Town Clarke."

In 1681 Gereardy and his wife were living in Providence, for Mary Holliman, widow of Ezekiel, in her will dated July 31, 1681, provides that

"In consideration of the Great Love and affection I do bear unto my Son in Law, John Garrardy and my Daughter Renewed Garrardy his wife both formerly of Warwick but now of Providence," they are to have her right, title and interest which she then possessed in the "House lot, meadows and uplands &c. in Warwick."

Jan Gereardy had died before February 24, 1719, when Samuel Gorton testified that he, Gereardy, "did marry a daughter of Mary Holiman formerly wife to Ezekiel Holiman, named Renewed, and that the wives of Jeremiah Smith of Prudence and John Smith now of Kings Town, were reputed to be daughters of John Gereardy by Renewed, their names being Mary and Phillis." (Austin). A facsimile of Jan's autograph appears in the Rhode Island Historical Society publications, new series, vol. 4 (1896), page 109.

Jan and Renewed had:

3. i. MARY.
4. ii. PHILLIS or PHILIPPA. And probably
5. iii. JOHN.

3. MARY GEREARDY (*Jan*², *Philip*¹) was baptized in the Reformed Dutch church in New Amsterdam, October 11, 1654, as "Marritie," when her grandfather and grandmother witnessed the ceremony. She married at Warwick, R. I., January 2, 1672, Jeremiah Smith, son of John Smith of Prudence Island. (N. E. Gen. Reg., July 1883, p. 275.) The facts relating to her husband and his brother I owe chiefly to Austin's invaluable Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island. Jeremiah Smith was a constable in 1688 and a justice of the peace in 1709. He purchased of his wife's uncle James Sweet 300 acres in "Pettaconsett" in 1710. His will, dated in 1716 and proved in 1720, makes Mary one of the executors, and leaves to her the whole income of his lands for life, with a negro woman and girl. In 1722 Mary made a deed to the children of her son Ephraim.

Jeremiah Smith and Mary had:

- i. JOHN, who received 300 acres in Kingstown by his father's will, an income of £4 per year for life, with cows and sheep, also an addition to his house to be built for not more than £25.
- ii. EPHRAIM, who shared with Ebenezer all right in Boston neck, to have the north part with house. Ephraim Smith's daughter Renewed married Daniel Carpenter in 1733, and their daughter Mary Carpenter married Joseph Knowles, who was drowned in 1810 at Prudence Island.
- iii. EBENEZER, to have the south part of Boston neck, the ferry and ferry house to be equally for the two sons; also £100 to build a house.
- iv. SARAH, born in April, 1678; died March 12, 1765. Married before 1699 Jeremiah Hazard of North Kingstown. Had: Mary, Ann, Robert, Sarah, Martha, Hannah, Susannah. To have £50 and a silver cup by her father's will.
- v. MARY, married John Congdon of North Kingstown, R. I. They had: Jeremiah, Mary, John, James. Received £50, a negro girl Maria, and a silver cup in her father's will.
- vi. DELIVERANCE, married ——— Reynolds. Received £100 and a silver cup in her father's will.

4. PHILLIS GEREARDY (*Jan*², *Philip*¹) was baptized at the Reformed Dutch church in New Amsterdam, October 11, 1654, as "Philippe," probably in recognition of her grandfather Philip. She married John Smith, brother of Jeremiah, her sister's husband. The brothers were actively engaged in the ferry at Boston neck, Kingstown, R. I.

In her husband's will, proved in 1730, she was to receive £20 yearly while his widow, a third of the income of his part of the ferry, a negro girl Judah, and some necessities mentioned therein. (Austin.)

John Smith and Phillis had:

- i. JOHN, executor of his father's will. To have farm at Boston neck and building, and then to John's sons John and William. To his five daughters a gold ring each.
 - ii. DANIEL, to have farm in Coweset. Then to his son Daniel.
 - iii. A son.
 - iv. HOPESTILL, married Joseph Northup of North Kingstown. She had Joseph and four other children. She was to receive from her father's will £150 and 200 acres at Coweset and a bible for each child.
5. JOHN GEREARDY (*Jan*², *Philip*¹) married Deliverance, widow of that John Corp who was sexton of the church at Bristol, or, as the record says, digger of graves, sweeper of the meeting house, and ringer of the bell. Corp died November 1, 1691. If Renewed Gereardy had died by this time, John who married the widow Corp might, unless future information proves the contrary, be the first Jan, son of Philip. He would however be a man of seventy or more, and as Mr. Austin says in a letter to me, this is hardly likely. As John Corp, first child of Deliverance, was born in 1680, she herself was probably not far from the age of John Gereardy if he was the son of Jan and Renewed. In 1702 John Corp, the son, prayed for permission to dispose of real estate, having leave from his mother Deliverance and stepfather John Gereardy.

John Gereardy and Deliverance had:

6. i. JOHN, born at Bristol, December 22, 1695-6. (Vital Record of R. I.)
- ii. SWEET, a daughter, born at Warwick, May 15, 1699.
6. JOHN GEREARDY (*John*³, *Jan*², *Philip*¹), born at Bristol, R. I., December 22, 1695-6. Married November 3, 1720, Mary (Sarah?) Draper. Mr. Austin gives Mary, and the Vital Record gives Sarah as the wife of John.

Children of John Gereardy and Sarah, born at Warwick:

- i. JOHN, born Feb. 12, 1721-2.
- ii. MARY, born March 6, 1723-4.
- iii. EPHRAIM, born March 6, 1726-7.
- iv. PHEBE, born March 8, 1729-30.
- v. SARAH, born August 9, 1733.
- vi. ELIZABETH, born August 24, 1737.

MATERIAL FROM THE RAYNHAM (NORFOLK, ENGLAND) RECORDS.

Communicated by CHARLES HERVEY TOWNSHEND, Esq., of "Raynham," New Haven, Conn.

I HAVE been surprised to find so many names of New England settlers during my investigation at Raynham, Norfolk, England, among the tenantry of the Townshend estates at East, West and South Raynham, East and West Rudham, Helhoughton, Coxford, Toftrees and Fakenham, all parishes of the Marquis Townshend. For instance, Rev. Samuel Whiting, Christopher Phillips, father of Rev. George Phillips, Rev. John Davenport, Thomas Buttolph, Samuel Hutchinson, John Mason, John Cooper, Edward Armitage, William King, also Rev. John Goodwin, rector of Raynham, who succeeded the Rev. Nicholas Price, as chief minister of St. Nicholas Chapel, King's Lynn, 31 July, 1629, and whose assistant was the Rev. Samuel Whiting, who had the three preceding years served as domestic chaplain to the Townshend and Bacon families at Raynham and Stifkey where there are at this day to be seen papers giving evidence of his residence there.

It is also a historical fact that between Lady Vere, mother-in-law of Sir Roger Townshend, and the Rev. John Davenport, there existed a warm friendship, evidently growing out of a similarity of religious views.

After leaving London, we are told that Mr. Davenport sought refuge with friends in the country, and as his letters to Lady Vere soon after arrival at Quinnipiack, New Haven, dated July 28, 1639, and published in the REGISTER, show an intimate acquaintance, it may be conjectured that on one of his visits to the country he may have been a guest at Raynham Hall with his former parishioners of St. Stephen's, Coleman Street, Mr. Melbone and Mr. Baldwin, who came to New Haven with him, as the entry of their diet on the steward's book shows their presence there.

Copied from a List of Valuations of lands and tenements held in West Raynham, Co. of Norfolk, England, A.D. 1622.

This list of acreage and values gives forty-eight names, among which Sir Edward Coke, Kt.; Sir Roger Townshend, Barronett; Mr. Goodwin, Mrs. Baldwin and Xpofer Phillips appear.

On the back of this list are many memoranda, the face of the sheet being badly eaten by worms. However, one entry is plainly legible:

Xpofer Phillips 2 acres and 1 rod.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY OF THE FAMILIES OF BATT AND BYLEY OF SALISBURY, MASS.

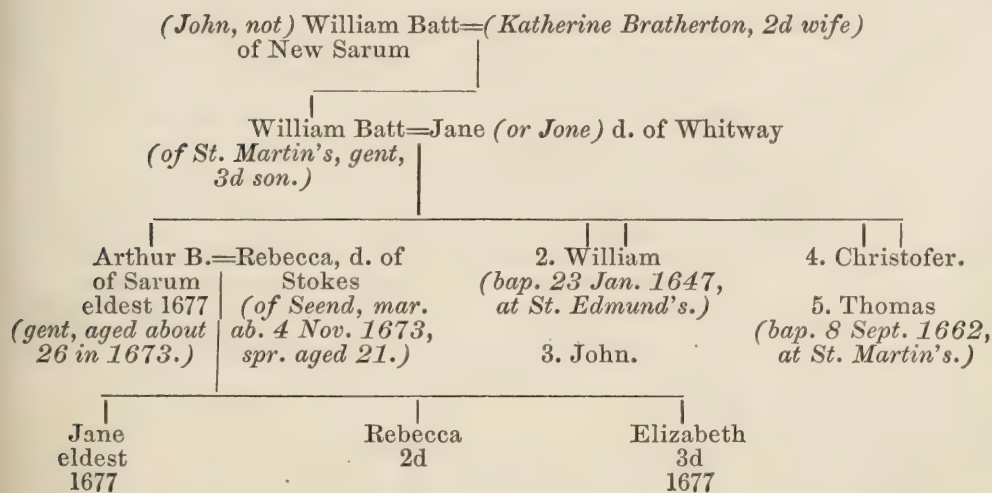

By J. HENRY LEA, Esq.

SINCE the previous portion of my monograph on this subject went to press,* I have been favored, through the kindness of my esteemed friend and correspondent, Mr. Samuel P. May of Newton, Mass., with some additional evidences from his notes regarding the Batt family which, by his permission, are here appended as a valuable supplement to what has already been printed.

The most important of these is the transcript from the Visitation of Wilts in 1677 which follows in extenso, with additions and corrections (printed in italics and brackets) from the evidences already given. The name of William which heads the pedigree is an evident error for John; but, eliminating this, it agrees perfectly with, and considerably extends our knowledge of, the family of William Batt of St. Martins, the third and youngest son of John Batt of St. Martins, Alderman of Sarum, who died in 1643.

The other notes deal with the history of the earlier generations of the family in America, and their application will be apparent.

i. Arthur⁶ of Sarum, born about 1646; marriage allegation 4 Nov. 1673, then aged "about 26," with Rebecca Stoakes of Seend, spinster, aged 21. Children: Jane, Rebecca and Elizabeth, all born before 1677.

i. Elizabeth⁶ living in 1634 and named in will of her great-grandfather Henry Byley.

*Could this "old Mr. Batt" have been Thomas Batt of Stratford-under-the-Castle, clothier, brother of Christopher the emigrant? We hear of him last in England, in 1652, in the baptism of his son Nathaniel at St. Edmunds.

†This entry seems to fully confirm the statement in Bond's Watertown that Thomas Batt married Lydia Benjamin, and not, as stated by Savage (i., 166), Lydia, daughter of John Stubbs of Watertown. But might she not have been widow of a Stubbs and so caused the error? "The child" was daughter Elizabeth, who died at Watertown in 1692.

‡From my own notes.

§Sarah, daughter of Paul Batt, married Micajah Terry of Weymouth.

THE DESCENDANTS OF LIEUTENANT WILLIAM SEWARD, OF GUILFORD, CONN.

Compiled by Hon. RALPH DUNNING SMYTH, and communicated by his grandson,
Dr. BERNARD C. STEINER.

WILLIAM SEWARD was born in England in 1627. He came from Bristol to New England, and is said to have been in Taunton, Mass., in 1643. He settled in New Haven shortly after arriving in America, and while residing there married Miss Grace Norton, of Guilford. He removed to Guilford shortly afterwards and took the oath of fidelity there, May 4, 1654. He appears to have been a tanner, a man of considerable property and eminence in the town, and was for a long time commander of the Train-Band. He frequently represented the town in the General Assembly. He died March 29, 1689. His will was dated the day of his death, and was proven June 7, 1689. He left his wife the use of one-half of the dwelling house for her life, and an annuity of forty shillings per annum from each of the six sons. Half of the movable estate, except the stock for the tan house, was left to her absolutely. His son Stephen seems not to have been capable of caring for himself and a life estate in the dwelling, and thirty acres were given him, under the trusteeship of John, who was to inherit the property absolutely after Stephen's death. Samuel, Caleb and Ebenezer, the other sons, were given tracts of land, and John, Joseph and Caleb are confirmed in the possession of lands already given to them. Each of the children of his daughter Mary were given a cow, and the other half of the movable estate was given to his daughter Hannah. The tan yard and meadow land were directed to be equally divided among the sons.

1. LIEUT. WILLIAM¹ SEWARD married April 2, 1651, Grace Norton, daughter of Thomas, of Guilford. Their children were:

ST. MARY'S, 21 May, 1770.

Sir,

So hurried as you know me to be at present, I flatter myself you will not even now expect more of me than the Outlines of a Plan of Travelling; the filling it up may be the work of further Leisure, & maturer Consideration. And, as I have nothing to lay before you, but mere conjecture & opinions, unsupported by any Experience of my own, let me again have Leave to remind you not to pay any greater Deference to These, or to any Opinions, than They are found fairly to deserve. It is a Project of sufficient Importance to warrant y^r collect^s y^e Opinions of all who may be suppos'd to have ever attended to, or tho't of the matter.

Travelling, you are well aware, is still & long has been much in Vogue in our Mother Country; yet has it so frequently been attempted & executed in so absurd & preposterous a manner, that it is now become a Question whether it be really useful or not. And as warm an advocate as I profess myself for this method of complet^s an Educaⁿ, I yet readily own that it is only some Persons to whom Travelling can possibly be useful, & that there are perhaps equally many to whom it w^d certainly be pernicious. The light, giddy, fantastical, frothy & frivolous characters amongst us, w^d only be made worse, & rendered incurable; but let sedentary men talk as much as they please of y^e Loss of Time, y^e Expence, & y^e unsettled & roving Habits acquired by Travel, to me it is beyond a Dispute, that an observant mind, & to a Person endowed wth Judgment to draw profitable knowledge f^m y^e various objects w^h various Countries are perpetually present^s, there is not ano^r so eligible a System to be taken to form & polish y^e manners of a liberal Youth, & to fit Him for y^e Business &

Conversaⁿ of y^e world. And if you will be pleased to apply this Remark to some living Instances to be met with even here, I am mistaken if it will not account for that Objecⁿ so often started by the Opposers of this Plan,—that such, & such an one have travelled without being any better for it. Depend upon it, they were either originally unfit for the Experiment, or it has been conducted on wrong Principles. Let this be s^d with^t any suspicion of my aim^s to reflect on any Individuals; the Reflection is not confined to Virginia. But there is a certⁿ captiousness in some of y^r Countrymen, w^h I cannot but lament, tho I very freely pardon as being but y^e Ebullitions of Zeal for th^r Country, w^h will hardly allow a Foreigner (& such I must be called, in spite of my sincere attachm^t to Virg^a & Virginians) to find Fault with any Thing belonging either to Them or to their Country. But, as I am well convinced this is not y^e Case wth you, I return to my subject.

It being then agreed, at least by you and me, that generally speaking, travelling is useful & necessary, to young Persons in all Countries, let us, as more immediately interesting us, now more particularly enquire, if it be not particularly so to a Virginian and to Mr. Custis. The peculiar advantages w^h result to youth from Travel, are s^d to be first, an easy address, y^e wearing off of national Prejudices, & y^e find^s noth^g ridiculous in national Peculiarities; & above all, that supreme accomplishment w^h we call a Knowledge of y^e World, a science so useful as to supersede or disgrace all y^e Rest: for I understand not y^e Phrase in y^e Sense in w^h Fops or Rakes use it, but mean by it that easy, that elegant, that useful knowledge, w^h results f^m an enlarged observⁿ of Men and Things, f^m an acquaintance wth y^e customs & Usages of various & distant Countries, f^m some Insight into their Policies, Governm^t, Religion & Manners; in a word, f^m y^e study & Contemplaⁿ of men, as They present Themselves on y^e gr^t stage of y^e World, in various Forms, & under diff^t Appearances. This is that Master Science which every G—man sh^d know, & w^h yet no School nor College can teach Him. To apply this to y^e Country we live in, where will you point out to me another so circumscrib'd in its Intercourse wth mankind at large, as Virg^a? Saving here and there a needy Emigrant from G^t Britain, an illiterate Captⁿ of a ship, or a subaltern Merch^t, to whom can a Virg^a Youth apply for a specimen of y^e manners, &c., of any other People? Thus limited in y^e Opp^{ty} for Observⁿ must not his Ideas necessarily resemble those of a Caribbee Indian, mentioned by Lafitau, who, offended at being called a Savage, exclaimed, I know no savages but the Europeans, who adopt none of our Customs; or those of y^e Inhabitants of the Marian Islands, who, being persuaded that theirs was y^e only language in y^e Universe, concluded from thence that all other men knew not how to speak? He finds his Lot cast in a Country amazingly fertile, & thence learns to conclude that even y^e rich Plains watered by y^e Nile, the Grecian Temple, the Roman Campania, the Spanish Andalusia, are all mean and contemptible wⁿ compared wth his low Grounds; & pursuing this Train of Reasoning, soon supposes also like the Baron of Thonderton Tronck, that both his country and countrymen, are the finest of all possible Countries & People. Now, if it were only for y^e sake of Truth & Decency, if it were but to avoid y^e Ridicule to w^h these palpable Absurdities expose them, one cannot but wish our Youth c^d be taught to open th^r Eyes, & extend them beyond their own foggy air & dirty acres. But, This is not all: there is not a country in y^e World, where a Man of capacity c^d be more eminently useful by promot^s & encouraging y^e Arts, than in Virg^a. Till very lately you cou'd hardly anywhere see a piece of Land tolerably plough'd, or a person who c^d be persuaded that plowing made any difference; & even yet it is more than probable, even Those who have made the greatest Improvements in this most natural, most useful, & most amusing Art, fall infinitely short of some other countries. In a political View then, Travelling appears to be exceedingly necessary; since a Man may thus learn to double the Value of his Estate.

I mention'd too y^e Improvement^t of Manners; by w^h I mean an Ability for ingenious, manly & useful Conversaⁿ. For a Traveller who makes a proper Use of his opportunities, will be all of a piece, & return as polished in mind & understanding, as in his Person. To this it is frequently objected y^t w^h is gained in Civility & Politeness, is lost in real Goodness & Virtue, by y^e various tempt^g scenes of vice to w^h a youth must be exposed in y^e Course of his Travels. In Ans^r to This, let me observe that there are some Tempers who c^d not possibly be preserved f^m y^e Taint of Vice, even wth y^e benefit of a private Educaⁿ. Or grant it were practicable to retain y^e Purity of their Morals by such narrow Regula^{ns}; do not you think that if, by this Means, They sh^d chance to have fewer vices, They w^d also have fewer Excellencies? And it sh^d be remembered that solitary virtue, however pure and immaculate, is but imperfect virtue: We are formed for society, & y^e Business of y^e World is a Duty we owe to society: & it is therefore our Duty to qualify ourselves for y^e performance of these Duties in y^e best man^r, w^h is by prudent & well-conducted Travel.

Let us now, if you please, as a contrast to This, for a moment figure to ourselves future History of our pupil, sh^d this Expedient not be approved of. The chief failings of his character are that He is constitutionally somewhat too warm—indolent & voluptuous. As yet these Propensities are but in embryo: ere long, however, they will discover Themselves, & if not duly and carefully regulated, it is easy to see to what They will lead. At best, He will soon lose all Relish for mental Excellence. He will unwillingly apply to any Improvem^{ts} either in Arts or Sciences. Sunk in unmanly sloth, his Estate will [be] left to y^e managem^t of some worthless Overseer; & himself soon be entangled in some matrimonial adventure, in w^h as Passion will have much to say, it is not very likely Reason will be much listened to. I appeal to you, sir, if this acc^t be exaggerated; & if it be not sadly verified by many living Instances y^t have fallen under y^r own Observaⁿ.

The Contrast is so striking to me, at least, it seems so, that I cannot think it possible for any one to hesitate a moment in determin^g. Let me then hasten just to repeat w^h. I yesterday mentioned to you of y^e manner in w^h. I cou'd wish my scheme to be executed. In the first Place then, I wou'd have Him make the Tour of N. America, at least y^e Northern Colonies, w^h. might very well be done in six months. And this chiefly to avoid y^e absurdity of going so far to get acquainted wth other Countries, ere He knew any Thing of his own. After this, He sh^d go to Engl^d., & there immediately be enter'd in one of y^e Universities, not so much f^m. any Prospect of advantages to be gain'd by study in y^e little Time He c^d. stay there; as that it would be by much the safest Place for Him. After a winter or so spent there, He shou'd be conducted thro' y^e principal counties & Towns of the three kingdoms, which wou'd possibly take up nearly a year. After this, He might conveniently spend six months in the metropolis, & from thence set out on his Tour thro' some of y^e principal countries on y^e continent, w^h. He sh^d. travel tho' not as a virtuoso to collect Rarities, or as a connoisseur, to gaze at excellent pictures or magnificent Buildings, but rather like a Really sensible & sentimental Traveller, such as Horace intimates Ulysses was, who travell'd thro' many cities to see y^e manners of many men.—These are the Outlines of my Plan, which however I no otherwise recommend to you, than as my first thoughts, w^h. I shall be proud to see improv'd by y^rself or others. The Expence of the undertaking yet remains to be spoken of, in estimating of which, I am even more at a Loss than in what I have heretofore mentioned. However, as I had much rather have my Judgm^t. called in Questⁿ. than my Inclinaⁿ to comply with every Request of yours, I hesitate not to give you my Opinion such as it is. I cannot then believe that it can possibly be executed in any such manner as you w^d. wish, or as it ought, for less than £1000 sterl^g. p^r. ann: if so little; which I calculate in this manner. It cannot be tho't unreasonable that my appointm^t, if finally I sh^d. be pitch'd upon to accompany Him, sh^d at least be equal to w^t I relinquish here; as I take not into acc^t y^e Injury I may thus eventually do to my future Prospects in Life, since This I think, ought to be charged to y^e Pleasure I propose to myself f^m y^e scheme. This then I set down at £250; my Expences & those of a serv^t & a p^r of Horses, at as much more: His own, & serv^t &c. at £250—the remaining £250 I allot to cloath^g Him, & sundry other unforeseen Expences, such as Purchasⁿg Curiosities, visit^g public Places, &c., &c. For aught I know, this may be too much—tho' I hardly think it is: shou'd it be so, as I know his circumstances, it sh^d be my study to proporⁿ his Expenses, as far as they possibly could, to his Income. And whoever be his Preceptor, sh^d have it strictly in Charge punctually to render you a faithful acc^t of every Disbursem^t, that so you might have it in y^r Power to subject Him to whatever new Regula^{ns} you might judge expedient.

I am much ashamed to lay before you so confused & ill-digested a Letter, w^h I beg you to impute to my Hurry, & my being constantly interrupted by company: If, however, you can only collect from it y^e substance of my Plan, & if that only appears tolerably plausible to you, I am not very anxious for y^e rest, relying so entirely as I do, on y^r Candor to excuse any Inaccuracies you may meet with in w^h I have wrote. This only I have to request of you, that wⁿ you consult any of y^r Friends on this matter, you will be so good as not to produce this Letter, which tho' I am not afraid to trust you, I am yet unwilling sh^d be perused by strangers.

As to M^r. Custis's living wth me in Annapolis, shou'd I resolve to remove thither, as I suppose I shall, I have not anything to add to w^h I yesterday told you. I purpose calling on M^{rs}. Washington in my way to Maryland, & shall then request Her immediately to write to you her sentiments, so that I shall hope to be obliged wth your final Resolution before I leave Annap^s, which will hardly be before the middle of next month. I am &c.*

ANNAPOLIS, 18 August, 1770.

Sir,

Jack comes a Day or two sooner than I intended, in Consequence of an Invitation from M^r. Galloway, & M^r. Magowan to go to West River, which he does this day. He brings you some samples, which I hardly expect will please. M^r. Anth^o. Stewart has a Cargo just arriv'd, not yet opened, in which, He says, are Assortm^{ts} of Coating: shou'd you rather incline to wait for a choice out of These, if you will be so good as to give me y^r Directions, I will endeavour to attend to them.—Their common Rate of selling, for ready money, is at 100 p^r cent, which I think is cheaper than with you. A Vessel will clear out from hence for London, in ab^t a week or ten Days. I will be careful of any Letters you may want to put on Board.

They are still going on wth th^r subscriptⁿ for clear^s y^e Potomac, &, as I am told, wth spirit. Four hundred pounds are subscribed in this City; nor have They yet got all They expect. Messrs. Jacques & Johnson set off for Frederick tomorrow, & talk of fixing a Day for a general meeting, before they return. Will it be convenient and agreeable to you to attend about a month hence, if you have notice in Time—at the spot, i: e: at, or near Semple's?

Dr. Ross yesterday shew'd me a Letter He had just receiv'd from Croghan at Pittsburg, which informs Him that a new Government is certainly determin'd upon in that western world—& that either Coll: Mercer* or one Mr. Wharton are to be appointed Governor. He speaks of its Boundaries &c. wth Certainty, as a Matter of Fact. Have you heard of it—& the Particulars? It will be an immense acquisition, if not immediately to the Wealth, certainly to the Strength of these Governments—& a fine Field for a project^s spirit to adventure in. I am &c.

Boucher to Washington.

ANNAPOLIS, 1 October, 1770.

Dear Sir,

I much wish'd to have accompany'd Jack, but cannot: & what is worse, we part on an Uncertainty, which may be disagreeable. I have some Thoughts for setting off for St. Mary's this week; & if I do get away, I can hardly expect to return again till I remove finally, which cannot well be sooner than the latter end of next month, so that, if I do not come by Mount Vernon, Jack needs not come hither, till you or He hear from me again.—A quondam schoolfellow of Jack's wrote to me last week to apply to Dr. Stephenson of Baltimore, to take Him to be inoculated. I have done so; & at y^e same Time mentioned Custis to Him. He seem'd particularly desirous of having an opportunity of testifying his Esteem for you by shewing civilities to any person connected with you. And, cou'd you by any means resolve on this measure, I cannot but think the present a favourable Time, as there are now, or soon will be, many of his acquaintances there on the same Errand.

Probably, ere long, you will find out that He has lost his watch; & He deserves to be severely reprimanded for his carelessness. I have the watch, but do not care soon to put him out of Pain.

I heartily wish you an agreeable Tour thro' yonder Tramountain Regions, & am, very truly &c.†

Sir,

I thank you much for your Intimations respecting Master Custis. Were all those who have the Care & Direction of children as attentive to their real Interests, we should not have so many Complaints of children spoil'd by parental Indulgence.

It is not without much Concern I own to you, that your sentim^{ts} of this young Gentleman have, for some Time, been my own. I have observ'd his growing Passions taking this unpleasing Cast, without the Power of preventing it. To a youth, brought up in the calm, easy, & rational manner that He has, the ordinary means of violent Restraint or Controll, wou'd, I believe, rather defeat, than promote a Reformation. The system we set out with, that of tender persuasion, must still be pursued: and tho' it may not, perhaps, work a speedy cure, it certainly will in the End. I consider his rising Passions as some little streamlet, swelling by successive Showers, into something like a Torrent: you will in vain oppose its Course by Dams, Banks, or mounds: & the only certain means to prevent its becoming mischievous, is to lead it quietly along by a variety of canals, lessening its Force, by dividing it. There are but two cases in which I can foresee much real Danger to this young gentleman; & if He can be preserved from These I shall not be greatly apprehensive as to others. I mean his Love of Ease, & Love of Pleasure. Pleasure of a kind exceedingly uncommon at his years. I must confess to you I never did in my Life know a Youth so exceedingly indolent, or so surprisingly voluptuous: one w^d suppose nature had intended him for some Asiatic Prince. Against these two insinuating & most dangerous Foes to all that is truly valuable in a character, I have exerted all my opposition: and I trust not altogether without success. For, in a contest of this sort, not to suffer a total Defeat is in some measure to gain a victory. There is a Period in Life when these Passions will wage a war with Reason; and, if you can but keep them [at] a stand, perhaps a reasonable man will be contented. It could not be, but that at one Time or other Mr. Custis must have been introduc'd into Life, as 'tis call'd: and is it not almost too much to expect from one brought up in so very guarded a manner as He has, that He should pass the fiery Trial unhurt? He knows even now extremely little of the various Enjoyments of social Life; & yet he is peculiarly susceptible of them. Is it not better then, think you, that He sh'd be suffer'd occasionally to mix in Company, unreserved, while He can have the advantage of a monitor at Hand, even tho' He shou'd, as indeed is too often the Case, go farther than one wou'd wish? It is, possibly, a misfortune to Him, that everywhere much notice is taken of Him. Whether this may be owing to his Family, his Fortune, His Manners, or his connexions, or all together, I will not now enquire: But this is certain, that tho' I am often pleas'd with it, yet is it the source of infinite Disquietude to me. It is here, as with you: He has many invitations to Visits, Balls, & other Scenes of Pleasure, to which neither you nor I can refuse his going—more especially, if we go ourselves. Indeed, I do not know that it would be right to refuse, even if good manners wou'd allow it. Yet so it is, He seldom or never goes abroad without learning something I could have wish'd Him not to have learn'd. There are not, that I know of, more idle or pleasurable People in Annap^s, than there are in any other Town containing an equal number of Inhabitants: yet some how or other He has contriv'd to learn a great Deal of Idleness & Dissipation amongst them. One inspires Him with a Passion for Dress—Another for Racing, Fox hunting &c.—even the grave Coll. Sharpe, you see, led him to talk of Guns & Rifles, with much more satisfaction than I can persuade Him to talk of Books, or literary subjects. In Truth, it is one of the worst symptoms that I know of in Him, that He does not much like Books: & yet I have been endeavouring to allure Him to it, by every artifice I could think of. I hop'd that cargo of Books wou'd have done it. Let me, however, do Him the Justice to own, that He has labour'd under some Disadvantages in this Place: my late unsettled manner of Living has been unfavourable to Him. He dislik'd the House we lodg'd at, & wth some Reason. I cou'd not always be with Him, nor He always at his Book; & at such Times, there was nobody in the House, with whom he could spend a leisure Hour but tolerably agreeably. Unluckily too there lodged a youth with us, of a character exactly calculated to spoil such a Lad as Custis. He is sensible, wild, volatile, idle & good-natur'd. You will know that I allude to a son of M^r. Sam: Galloway's.* I by no means aim to reproach the young Gentleman, whom really I like exceedingly myself, yet can I not help giving it as my Opinion that He has done your Ward more Harm than He or his Family can easily make amends for. You cannot conceive wth w^t Delight Custis w^d listen to his droll Tales, & acc^{ts} of his Pranks at school in England.—There is another Particular too which perhaps Discretion wou'd bid me suppress, but which I think I cannot honestly conceal from you. Sam. Galloway has also a Daughter, young & pretty. Out of Respect to you, as I suppos'd, He frequently invited Custis to his House: it was disagreeable to me to be oblig'd to refuse Him, because it gave offence; but I believe He never was with her but twice—once when I was, & once when I was not. It was about the Time of the Players being here. Miss Galloway came to Town. Jack has a Propensity to the sex, which I am at a Loss how to judge of, much more how to describe. I observ'd somewhat of a particular attention, exceeding bare civility to this young Lady. I took such steps as I judg'd most likely to wean Him in Time—and it was done, I believe, effectually. I am asham'd to add, because it is but a mere conjecture of my own, & imparted to you in great confidence, that I cou'd not help thinking this gave some Disgust to the Family. I wou'd not willingly suspect People without Cause: but, however absurd & foolish such a Project must have been, were I to give you a Detail of all my Reasons, I am inclined to believe you wou'd think as I do. I am mistaken, if you or M^{rs}. Washington have not also had an opportunity given you of penetrating thro' such a Design. There are here, besides me, who think them capable of it; tho' I do not know that there are any, besides myself, who have suspected them in this Instance. But be my suspicions well or ill-founded, I have very peremptorily refused an importunate application, repeatedly made to me since my last Return, to admit this s^d son of His into my Family.—Let me have leave to request, that these surmises of mine, which perhaps I have view'd in too serious a Light, may never transpire. I can hardly need to say to you, that were it known, I shou'd have the whole Family on my Back.

This is no pleasing Picture of his Conduct here: nor will it I fear, make you much in Love with his situation. I have so often said how unwillingly I shou'd part with the Boy, that I am afraid of being suspected of selfishness, if after this, I still advise you to continue Him. Yet I do advise you, & if I know my own Heart aright, with the most cordial & disinterested sincerity. As I have already observ'd, he is now arriving fast to that Time of Life, when he must mix with mankind: This He can nowhere do with-

* "I congratulate you on your success on the Falmouth turf. Our old acquaintance Sam^l. out Danger; & I think He will be in less here, than almost any where else, and for a Reason which, did I not well know your Candor, I wou'd hardly venture to assign. Because, I believe, there is not (nor is it likely that now there ever will be), another Person, who has such Influence over him as I have. I hope I am not deceiv'd in the persuasion, that he has a very affectionate Regard for me: & I am sure I can have no motives that shou'd lead me to wish to deceive you, in assuring you, that not the least of his actions escapes my notice. I watch his every motion, & tho' he is perpetually doing something or other displeasing to me, yet, upon the whole, I still hope & believe, he will turn out, if not a very clever, what is much better, a good man. That he may, I shall not cease to use my best Endeavours, as well as my fervent Prayers.

I am aware of the Expensiveness of his living here: to lessen it in some measure, I have resolved to return his Horses back to you. He agrees they shou'd not be sent to Him till Easter: nor then, indeed, unless you hear more from us. Let us try what this winter's close application will do: We are now well fitted for it, & I think have a prospect of spending it as we ought. Let Joe bring back all his vols: of Cicero, Livy, & as many others as his Portmanteau will hold: as well as a small Parcel of mine, which he brought up from M^r. Brook's, when we last came from St. Mary's. I am &c.*

CAPT. HOPESTILL FOSTER OF DORCHESTER, MASS., AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

By WILLIAM H. WHITMORE, A.M., of Boston, Mass.

PATIENCE⁸ FOSTER'S DESCENDANTS.

PATIENCE⁸ FOSTER, second child and oldest daughter of Capt. Hopestill² Foster, married Maj. Thomas² Brown of Sudbury. This fact is fully made evident by the deeds already published. Major Brown was a prominent man at Sudbury, and was the son of William¹ Brown, an original settler of Sudbury, who married 15 Nov., 1641, Mary, daughter of Thomas Besbeeck or Bisby, by whom he had seven children. As one was named Edmund, it is presumed that William was the brother of Rev. Edmund, the first minister of Sudbury. It is curious that William B. had a son Hopestill,³ that his son Major William married the daughter of Hopestill Foster; and that another son, Edmund B., married the widow of Hopestill F., Jr.

William¹ Brown of Sudbury was a deacon, captain and representative. (See Hudson's History of Sudbury, page 35.)

His son, Major Thomas Brown, was born 22 May, 1645; a representative, captain in the Indian war, etc. (Hudson, page 36.) His first wife, Patience Foster, died 15 Aug. 1703, not 1706, as wrongly printed by

* Some letters from Washington to Boucher, written in January and February, 1771, will be found in my Writings of Washington, II., 318-319.

Hudson, page 570. His second wife, married 1 March, 1703-4, was Mary, daughter of Dep. Gov. Thomas Danforth, and widow of Solomon Phipps of Cambridge. Presumably, he had no issue by his second wife.

Major Brown's will (Middlesex Wills) is dated March 1, 1709. In it he mentions wife Mary and seven daughters, viz:

Mary,⁴ m. 27 June, 1693; wife of [Jonathan] Willard. He d. 1706.

Thankful,⁴ wife of Joseph Hubbard.

also grandson Jonathan Willard; to son-in-law John Clapp, 20 shillings. He mentions land in New England and also his property in Hedcorn and Fretenden in co. Kent, Eng. (not Hedcom and Tenterden, as Barry spells them). These two parishes are about four miles apart, due north from Cranbrook. Lydd is some twenty miles E. S. E. from Cranbrook.

Sewall ii., 255, writes: "Monday, May 9, 1709, Major Thomas Brown, esqr., of Sudbury, was buried in the Old Burying place. Bearers, Cook, Sewall, Eliakim Hutchinson, Townsend, Jeremiah Dummer, Paul Dudley. Scarves and gloves."

By reference to Sewall ii., 286, it is certain that he meant the present Granary yard.

FOSTER, BROWN, STONE BRANCH.

Of these children, Patience⁴ Brown is called wife of Nathaniel Rice, but her father expressly states that she is to have money enough to make up £105, but that one half of the rest of her portion is to go to the surviving children which she had by her first husband, Daniel Stone.

Temple's History of Framingham gives these particulars: Gregory¹ Stone of Cambridge, deacon and representative, by wife Lydia (widow Cooper) had six children born in England (Paige). Of these:

Daniel² Stone married Mary, daughter of John Moore of Sudbury (widow of Richard Ward), and was a physician. He died between 6 Dec. 1686, and 6 July, 1687. (Paige. Hist. of Cambridge.)

Daniel³ Stone, born 22 Nov. 1668, married as above noted, Patience Brown, and died 22 Dec. 1702. He had one son and four daughters, of whom the youngest, Lois,⁵ born 21 Nov. 1701, married 18 March, 1723-4, Moses Maynard of Sudbury.

FOSTER, BROWN, STONE, MAYNARD BRANCH.

MOSES⁸ MAYNARD, who married Lois Stone, was grandson of John¹ M. of Sudbury, who was an early settler, and whose descendants are recorded in the histories of Sudbury and Framingham. He is said to have married Mary Axtell 14 June, 1646, and his son Zachary² Maynard was born 7 June, 1647. The father died 10 Dec. 1672.

Zachary² Maynard of Sudbury, married in 1678 Hannah, daughter of John Goodrich of Wethersfield, Conn., by whom he had several children, the youngest son being Moses,³ above-named as marrying Lois Stone 18 March, 1723-4.

MOSES³ MAYNARD of Sudbury, by wife Lois Stone, had (as by town records):

- i. HEPZIBAH,⁴ b. 21 Dec. 1724; m. Samuel Sherman.
- ii. SAMUEL,⁴ b. 20 Dec. 1726; m. Sarah Noyes.
- iii. MOSES,⁴ b. 1729; of Rutland.
- iv. ABIGAIL,⁴ b. 18 Jan. 1731; m. Benjamin Fisk.
- v. LOIS,⁴ b. 10 May, 1733; m. Edward Howe.
- vi. MICAH.⁴
- vii. JOSIAH,⁴ b. 31 Oct. 1737; m. Mary Noyes, Dec. 1758.
- viii. DANIEL,⁴ b. 23 Jan. 1741-2.
- ix. NATHANIEL,⁴ b. 7 May, 1744; m. Martha Smith.

The will of this Moses³ Maynard (Worcester Wills) is dated 11 April, 1782. He mentions wife Lois; heirs of son Samuel of Shrewsbury, deceased; Moses M. of Rutland; heirs of son Micah, deceased; heirs of Josiah; Abigail, wife of Benjamin Fiske; daughter Lois, wife of Edward How of Westmoreland; heirs of son Nathaniel; to my beloved son Daniel Maynard he gives his homestead and makes him sole executor.

This homestead was in Sudbury.

SAMUEL⁴ MAYNARD removed to Shrewsbury, where he married 22 Feb. 1749-50, Sarah, daughter of Daniel and Sarah Noyes. She was born in Sudbury 8 Jan. 1730-1. They had:

- i. DANIEL,⁵ b. 25 Oct. 1750.
- ii. SAMUEL,⁵ b. 8 March, 1752.
- iii. SARAH,⁵ b. 29 April, 1754; d. 12 Oct. 1756.

He died 29 May, 1755, aged 28 years. His widow married Enoch Kingsley of Windsor, Conn., in 1760. By an agreement in Worcester Deeds, dated 10 March, 1762, it seems that there was a division made of land left by Samuel Maynard lying in common and undivided with Daniel Noyes, presumably his brother-in-law. It contained 106 acres and a plan is recorded setting off 44 acres to Noyes. Then 62 acres, valued at £360, was set off to Maynard's heirs, with a house, barn, etc., and also 30 other acres of land. The widow Sarah Kingsley had her thirds or dower set off for life.

This Shrewsbury homestead descended to his only surviving son, and the house is still standing, though not owned by a Maynard.

Samuel⁴ Maynard had a son Samuel⁵ who was in the Continental army, and died of small-pox at Ticonderoga, prior to May 5, 1776, as Samuel, son of "Samuel, deceased, and his relict Sarah," was baptized at Sudbury on that day. Sudbury records have the marriage of Samuel Maynard of Shrewsbury to Sarah Noyes, 4 March, 1775. I find no further record of this posthumous child.

DANIEL⁵ MAYNARD of Shrewsbury, married (says Ward, History of Shrewsbury) Hannah, daughter of Samuel Harrington, in 1776, and perhaps lived there a few years. He had ten children, and died in the homestead 7 Feb. 1834; his widow died 1 April, 1838, aged 81. As his record is given by Ward, I note only his third son.

DANIEL⁶ MAYNARD of Shrewsbury, who married 27 Nov. 1810, Zelinda, daughter of Samuel Allen. The pedigree is fully set forth in the Allen Genealogy by Allen H. Bent, published in 1896. Their children were:

- i. LEWIS A.,⁷ b. 24 Dec. 1810; d. unm.
- ii. HARRIET N.,⁷ b. 27 Dec. 1814: m. Chester V. Newton and has a son Walter.

Edward F.⁷ and Frances Maria Maynard had one child, Fanny Therese Walling⁸ Maynard, who married in Boston, William H. Whitmore, 11 June, 1884, and they have one son, Charles Edward⁹ Whitmore, born 26 Sept. 1887.

APPENDIX.

SCITUATE LINE OF FOSTERS.

(1) EDWARD¹ FOSTER of Scituate is duly recorded by Savage. Married Lettice Hanford, and died in 1643. His will mentions uncle Hatherly, father-in-law (i.e. step-father), Richard Seales, wife, son and child unborn. The son was Timothy²; the other, Elizabeth.

(2) TIMOTHY² FOSTER went to Dorchester and married Ruth, daughter of Thomas Tileston. She joined church 1664 at Dorchester. They had Ruth,³ born 4 Aug. 1664; Elizabeth,³ born 8 Sept. 1667; Naomi,³ born 11 Feb. 1668-9; Hatherly,³ born 22 Aug. 1671; and Rebecca,³ born 12 Sept. 1675. His wife died 5 Dec. 1677, and he married Relief, probably widow of John Dowse of Charlestown, says Savage, by whom he had Timothy,³ born 8 Jan. 1681-2; Edward,³ born 22 Jan. 1682-3; Prudence,³ born 3 Dec. 1684; Thomas,³ born 3 Nov. 1686; and Elizabeth,³ born 13 Oct. 1688. He died 16 Dec. 1688; his widow married 9 Mar. 1691-2, Henry Leadbetter, and died 7 July, 1743.

Of the sons of Timothy,² Hatherly³ Foster went to Scituate and left issue. Timothy,³ jr., does not appear on Dorchester records, if he survived.

(3) Capt. EDWARD³ FOSTER of Dorchester, by wife Jemima had Edward,⁴ born April, 1706, died 3 Aug. 1710; Timothy,⁴ born 12 April, 1709; Mary,⁴ born 13 Aug. 1711; Jemima,⁴ born 8 Aug. 1713; and Ruth,⁴ born 4 Feb. 1715-16. His wife died 29 Feb. 1715-16. Edward Foster and Alice Prince of Newport married at Newport 10 April 1718, and had Relief,⁴ born 31 Aug. 1722. His wife died 28 Sept. 1755, in 75th year; and he died 20 Jan. 1761, in 79th year.

Edward, by wife Abiel, had Abigail,⁵ born 30 Jan. 1743-4; Jemima,⁵ born 21 Jan. 1745; Elizabeth,⁵ born 1 Mar. 1747-8; Edward,⁵ born 22 Mar. 1732; Sarah,⁵ born 1 Mar. 1754; Timothy,⁵ born 12 Nov. 1755, died 24 May, 1761; Relief,⁵ born 26 Jan. 1758; Mary,⁵ born 12 Dec. 1759; Timothy,⁵ born 21 Aug. 1763. The father died 28 Aug. 1775, in his 67th year.

Nov. 1786; James,⁶ born 30 Mar. 1790; Relief,⁶ born 23 Mar. 1792; Joanna,⁶ born 23 Sept. 1794; Flavel,⁶ born Oct. 1796, died Nov. 1798; Flavel,⁶ again, born Aug. 1799.

NOTE.—I find that in Dorchester John Foster had Robert, born 26 Nov. 1707, and Robert, again, born 20 Aug. 1709.

Again, Thomas Foster of Braintree had a son Hopestill, born 26 Mar. 1648, possibly the one who married in 1670 at Woburn, widow Elizabeth Whittemore.

[When the first instalment of this article was printed in the April REGISTER, pages 194 to 203, the author, Mr. Whitmore, had been unable to ascertain the christian name of the father of Capt. Hopestill Foster. Soon after the issue of that number he received through the editor from Albert C. Bates, Esq., librarian of the Connecticut Historical Society, evidence proving that the husband of Patience Foster and father of Hopestill was Richard Foster of Biddenden, and that administration on his estate was granted to John Bigge, May 3, 1630. See note by Mr. Bates in the department of the Notes and Queries in this number.—EDITOR.]

AN ACCOUNT OF DOCTOR WILLIAM SNELLING, WHO CAME TO NEW ENGLAND IN 1647; ALSO OF HIS NEPHEW JOHN SNELLING, WHO PROBABLY ACCOMPANIED HIM; WITH A BRIEF NOTICE OF SOME OF THE LATTER'S DESCENDANTS.

By REV. SAMUEL SNELLING, of Whitmarsh, Pa.

THE pedigree of the family of Snelling, of Chaddlewood, Plympton St. Mary, goes back to 1529, the date of the first heraldic visitation; and their arms are thus recorded: "Argent, three griffins' heads erased gules and a chief ermine."* In the Book of the Visitation of Devonshire in 1620, the name of the fourth son of Thomas Snelling, Esq., of Chaddlewood, Plympton St. Mary, in the County of Devon; and Johan (daughter and heiress of Thomas Elford, Esq., of Bridge House) is given as William.

This William Snelling was a fine classical scholar, and a physician of the best education possible at that time. He came to America early in 1647, and settled in Newbury, Mass. Our first notice of him is the record of his marriage, which reads as follows: "5 July, 1648, was maryed at Boston William ye fourth son of Thomas Snelling, Esquire, & Johan his wife dwelling at Chaddlewood in Plympton Mary in Devon; & Margaret, eldest daughter of Gyles Stagge, gent., & Anne, his wife, dwelling at Southwarke in Barnaby Street at the sign of the Christopher." (Newbury Town Records. Book I.) As the name of Stagge does not appear in any list of early settlers, it is quite possible that this Margaret was the daughter of Capt. Stagge, who commanded a London ship of 24 guns, which came to Boston to announce the overthrow of the royal government, and proclaim the Parliament. Shortly after his arrival in Newbury, Dr. Snelling purchased an estate which he afterwards sold to Tristram Coffin. In September, 1651, we find the following court record: "This is to certify that we the subscribers being called to testify against William Snelling for words by him uttered, affirm that being in way of merry discourse, a health being drank to all friends, he answered:—

"I'll pledge my friends, and for my foes;

A plague upon their heels, and a poxe for their toes."

Since when he hath affirmed that he only intended the proverb used in the West Country, nor do we believe that he intended otherwise.

WILLIAM THOMAS,
THOMAS MILWARD."

"Mar. 12, 1651. All which I acknowledge, and am sorry I did not express my intent, or that I was so weak as to use so foolish a proverb. Guilielmus Snelling." Nevertheless it is recorded that "William Snelling on his presentment for Cursing is fined 10 shillings & the fees of Court."†

In spite of this offence in the eyes of strait-laced Puritanism, Dr. Snelling was held in high esteem by his fellow-townsmen. Of this we have evidence in a letter from the Rev. John Wilson to John Winthrop, Jr., written on the 2^d. of the 12th mo. 1653:—"Honoured Sir,—Having some hint that Master William Snelling, late of Newbury, now sojourning in Boston & practising in our parts, with very good reputation, is desired by some judicious ones in your parts, that desire to promote the common good there; I could do no lesse, then, out of my owne good experience of him in that kind, & my love to that end of the country than to encourage the motion thus far,—that I believe that he is an able & experienced physition, well studied or versed both in the theory and practise, and that he may be very useful where there is need, both in preventing & curing of diseases of all sorts, the Lord vouchsafeing to go along with his blessing; & if his advise & help were added to your owne in cases of difficulty, it would be a singular priviledge to the country." (Winthrop Papers, Series 4. Vol. vii. Mass. Hist. Coll.) On the invitation of Mr. Winthrop, Dr. Snelling removed to Boston in 1654. The writer has in his possession a very old copy of a deed, which bore the seal with the family arms, wherein "William Snelling, gent." sells to Tristram Coffin of Salisbury "a house & land situate & being in Newburie in the County of Essex in New England: with a free-hould thereunto belonging." This deed was signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of two witnesses before Deputy Gov. Richard Bellingham, who attached his signature to the document with these words: "William Snelling & Margaret his wife did acknowledge this deed before me, and the said Margaret did voluntarily & freely give her consent to the sale of the premises in this deed mentioned—being examined by me this 22 10th mo. 1655. Ri. Bellingham, Dep. Gov^{or}."

On his removal to Boston, Dr. Snelling purchased an estate on the north corner of Winter street, consisting of a house and gardens with an orchard. Not long afterwards he sold this estate and bought another in Charter street,—two houses which he made one large building, by connecting them by a sort of Gothic cloister. This structure, which stood in the midst of extensive grounds, was torn down in 1750, or thereabouts. Dr. Snelling was employed as the town physician, and frequent reference to him is made in the early records of Boston. For example: "April 25, 1660. It is ordered that the Treasurer shall pay Mr. Snelling fifty four shillings for physick administered to Robert Higgins." His name also appears as a witness to several wills. Among his chief friends were Nathaniel Wales and Edward Rawson. The latter, who was Secretary of the Colony for 36 years, the Doctor made his executor, and mentioned in his will as "my faithful & loving kinsman, Mr. Edward Rawson." Dr. Snelling's wife Margaret, who was greatly beloved and respected, died on the 18th of June, 1667. And among the earliest inscriptions in Whitmore's Copp's Hill Epitaphs is one that reads as follows:—"Margaret, ye wife of William Snelling, aged 46 yeares, deceased the 18 day of June 1667." Two children survived her; William, born 24 June, 1649, and Anne, born 7 May, 1654. William adopted his father's profession, and became a physician. He married Margaret, widow of William Rogers, by whom he had one child, a daughter. He died, together with his wife and child, in the terrible visitation of small pox in the winter of 1677–78. Anne was married to Francis Davenport, whom she survived twenty years, dying in 1697.

On the 7th of May, 1674, Dr. Snelling made his will, which bears his seal with the family arms. This will is valuable not only as affording clear evidence of his descent from an old Devonshire family, but as an expression of his deep religious feeling. "Boston in New England this 7th of May,

1674," it begins. "In the name of God. Amen. I, William Snelling, ye youngest sonn of the late Thomas Snelling of Chaddlewood in Plimpton Mary in the County of Devon, now of Boston in the County of Suffolk in New England gentleman: being in my ordinary health, blessed of God, but under the sense of the many infirmities of age & strickon in yeares, yet of good memorie & sound understanding, attending to God's Command & my duty, & desiring to sett my house in order, do therefore in the first place commit, commend, & leave my pretious soule into the hands of my Creator, God, that gave it; & my body to the grave, to be interred by my Executor & executrix of this my last will & testamant, as near to my late beloved wife as may be, in hope of a joyful resurrection at the Last Day, amongst the Saints in Glory, through the merits of the Lord Jesus Christ, my Saviour & mighty Redeemer: & after my funeral expenses & such debts as I shall owe—if any—be paid; I give & bequeath & dispose of that estate the Lord hath given me, & betruſted me with, in manner following: Imprimis, I give & bequeath unto my only son, William Snelling, all my Physick books & Books of Chirurgerie in Latin & English, excepting three or four English books treatises on Physicke, & Recipes, which my daughter, Anne, may desire & choose to enjoy. . . ." After leaving one of his houses to his son, William, together with a clear half of the orchard extending back to the street, Dr. Snelling also bequeaths to him "my silver Seale, as being most proper for him." To his daughter, Anne, he leaves the other house with various house-hold goods, and the remaining half of the orchard extending back to the street. He also commends her most affectionately to the care of his faithful friends, Mr. Edward Rawson and Rachel his wife (Dr. Snelling's cousin), begging that she will not marry without their consent and approbation. Dr. Snelling died early in November, 1674. A few days after his decease we find it recorded that "Mr. Edward Rawson & John Maverick appeared before Jno. Leverett esq^r. Gov^{or} & Edward Tyng esq^r. Assist., this 12th of N^{br} 1674: & made oath that they Being present subscribed their names as witnesses to this Instrum^t. which Doc^t. William Snelling signed, sealed & published to bee his last will & testam^t. and that when hee soe Did hee was of a sound Disposing minde to the best of their knowledge. This was done as Attest. ffree Grace Bendall, Recor^r."

The eldest brother of Dr. William was John Snelling, Esq., of Chaddlewood. In Foster's Alumni Oxonienses, we find this notice of him:—"Snellinge, John, of Devon, gent. Exeter Coll., matric. 3 March 1597-8. Aged 17." In 1604, he married Frances, daughter of Walter Hele, Esq., of Gnaton, in the Parish of Newton Ferrers. (See Polwhele's History of Devonshire, Vol. II., p. 328.)* The Register of the Parish of Plympton St. Mary tells us that the youngest son of this John Snelling of Chaddlewood and Frances Hele his wife, was named John, and was baptized 17 January, 1624-25. This is also stated in Lt. Col. Vivian's Amplification of the Visitations of the County of Devon, p. 694. John Snelling of Chaddlewood died Dec. 27, and was buried Dec. 28, 1639, at Plympton St. Mary. (Inq. p. m. 16 Chas. I., pt. I, No. 31.) His youngest son, John, probably came with Dr. William Snelling to America.

The first record of this John Snelling is at Saco, Maine, where his name appears in the list of freemen in 1653. He is also mentioned in Folsom's History of Saco, page 183. He removed to Boston in 1657, and there married Sarah Sedgwick, by whom he had five children; in 1671, some law case carried him to Ipswich, where the following record is preserved: "John Snelling, aged 43 years or thereabouts, sworn Sept. 21, 1671 before Edward Tyng, Assistant." (No. 5, Ipswich Papers on file.) He died in Boston Nov. 1672, just two years before his uncle, Dr. William Snelling. An old family paper, dating back to the early part of the last century, expressly states that he was the latter's nephew. Letters of administration on his estate were granted to his widow, Sarah, 13 Nov. 1672. She was alive in 1677.

JOHN and SARAH SNELLING had children:

- i. SARAH, b. 4 Oct. 1657.
- ii. JOHN, b. 17 March, 1664.
- iii. JOSEPH, born in 1667.
- iv. WILLIAM, b. 9 April, 1671.
- v. BENJAMIN, b. 18 Aug. 167-.

Joseph, John and Benjamin were tax-payers in Boston, 1695. Joseph perpetuated the family.

JOSEPH SNELLING, son of the above John and Sarah, developed early in life a fondness for the sea. When a young man he went to England and learned ship-building in the King's Yard, at Deptford, where the Tzar Peter the Great was then studying naval architecture. He was in Boston, however, at the time of the seizure of Sir Edmond Andros, and took a prominent part in the popular uprising on that occasion. Later, he sailed as a captain in the employ of Mr. Nathaniel Henchman, merchant. In November, 1707, he purchased a large house at the foot of Charter street, near his father's, and opposite his great-uncle Dr. William Snelling's. He was married by the Rev. Samuel Willard, July 19, 1694, to Rebeckah, one of the daughters of Mr. Jonathan Adams. Joseph Snelling died Aug. 15, 1726, and was buried at Copp's Hill, where four years later his widow, Rebeckah, was laid to rest beside him. Their tombstones, which were highly ornamented, are in a good state of preservation, and bear these inscriptions:—

"Here lyes Buried ye Body of Mr. Joseph Snelling; who Dec^d August ye 15th 1726. Aged about 59 years."

"Here Lyes Buried ye Body of Mrs. Rebeckah Snelling, wife to Mr. Joseph Snelling; who died Nov^{mbr} 7th 1730. Aged 56 years 7 mo. & 20 D."

- ii. JOHN, b. 22 July, 1701.
- iii. ROBERT, b. 10 January, 1703.

- v. JAMES, b. 19 January, 1710.
- vi. NATHANIEL, b. 25 Dec. 1712.
- vii. MARY, b. 11 Nov. 1715.

Captain JONATHAN SNELLING, eldest son of Joseph and Rebeckah Snelling, received a good education, and, like his father, adopted a sea-faring life. He first went to sea as mate, and afterwards as captain of a ship; and it was not long before he became known as "one of the finest ship-masters that sailed out of Boston." He first went up the Mediterranean, but afterwards sailed between London and Boston. It is related of Capt. Snelling, that when mate of a vessel laden with wine, on the passage home from the Mediterranean, the ship was taken by corsairs or Turks, who imprisoned the crew below the hatches, and ordered the captain and mate to remain on deck, and steer for the Moorish coast. The corsairs, finding the cargo was wine, went below, and were soon carousing in the cabin. Seeing the opportunity the situation offered, Mr. Snelling desired the captain to go down and give the pirates as much wine as they would take, detaining them as long as possible. To this the captain assented; and the corsairs were soon deep in drink. Then Mr. Snelling, rapidly loosening the fore-hatches where the American crew were confined, with their aid very quickly overpowered the pirates, and put them all in irons. On the arrival of the ship at London, where they carried the prisoners, Mr. Snelling was greatly applauded for this exploit; and being presented to the king, had the honor of kissing his majesty's hand.

On one of his return voyages from London, Capt. Snelling's vessel was evidently long overdue, and occasioned great anxiety; for we find this reference to the fact in the diary of the Hon. Paul Dudley:—"Oct. 23 1740. Capt. Snelling safely arrived from London at last."* Captain Snelling spent much time in London, and while there attended the ministry of the celebrated Dr. Watts. He was also a great friend to Mr. Whitefield, whom he entertained as his guest, when the great orator was in Boston and preached at the new North church (which was directly opposite Capt. Snelling's house). The chime of bells for the North church, which were associated with stirring events at a later period, was brought from London by Capt. Snelling. His name appears as that of one of the original subscribers for these bells. On the 16th of March, 1744, Governor Shirley appointed Captain Snelling to the command of the frigate Molineux, at the setting out of the expedition against Cape Breton. The original commission, signed by the Governor, is now on exhibition in the Old South Museum Collection. It begins in this manner:—"William Shirley, Esq^r. Captain General & Governour in chief in & over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England. To Jonathan Snelling, Gentleman, Greeting." The royal Commission from King George II. is also on exhibition in the same Collection. Later on, Capt. Snelling was appointed to the command of the Cæsar, a frigate of 20 guns, which sailed with Commodore Warren's fleet. In a record of prizes taken by this fleet, appears the following item:—"May 2 by Capt. Snelling, a ship loaden with provisions from Brest to Cape Breton, 14 guns, 27 men." (New-Eng. Hist. and Geneal. Reg., Vol. 27, p. 160.) The Cæsar was in action at Louisburg, and did good service at that memorable siege. (See Narrative and Crit. Hist. of America, Ed. by Justin Winsor. Vol. V., p. 438.)

Capt. Snelling, Nov. 22, 1723, married Mary Sears, by whom he had four children. He died in 1755, and was buried at Copp's Hill.

Children of Capt. Jonathan Snelling and Mary Sears, his wife:—

- ii. JONATHAN, b. 28 July, 1734.
- iii. JOHN, b. 3 Feb. 1739.

Of Jonathan Snelling, the eldest son, who commanded the Governor's Guard, and went as an exile to Halifax, the writer hopes to give a more extended notice.

SAMUEL SKELTON, M.A., FIRST MINISTER OF THE FIRST CHURCH AT SALEM, MASS.

Communicated by E. C. FREYER, Esq., of Boston, Pa., being the result of investigations made for him in England.

THERE can be no kind of doubt that for the origin of families bearing the name Skelton, we must look to the North of England. They took it from one or other of the places so called, of which there are several in that part of the kingdom, to which, in the main, they appear to be confined.

As instances, the following may be mentioned, whilst for the persons who are specified, who lived in the thirteenth century, the authority is the Patent Roll of the year. In Cumberland is the parish of Skelton near Penrith, and in 2 Edward I., Christiana de Skelton was defendant in an action respecting land in that parish, and in another. In Yorkshire are these: East Riding, the township of Skelton in the parish of Howden; North Riding, the parish of Skelton-in-Cleveland; West Riding, the hamlet of Skelton in the parish of Leeds, and the township of Skelton in the parish of Ripon. Without further indication, save that all the places were in Yorkshire, we find in 4 Edward I., William, son of Robert de Skelton, contesting with William, son of William de Skelton, the possession of land in Skelton, and in the same year, a suit was depending against Master John de Skelton in respect of land in Skelton. At a later period, in 1417, Richard de Skelton the younger, of Cumberland, and in 1418, Richard Skelton of Carlisle, are named in the French Rolls, as in the retinue of the Duke of Gloucester, and taking part in the subjection of the northern provinces of France. Possibly both entries refer to the same person. This list is not put forward as exhaustive, but it will at least justify what has been said, which is confirmed by other evidence. In the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, prior to the year 1500, there are just two Skelton wills, whilst of administrations there is not one. On the other hand, in the corresponding Court of the Northern Province, within the same period, there are from the county of York alone, the records of no fewer than seventeen Skeltons, testate or intestate, more than half of whom were domiciled in the city of York. In order to comprehend the full force of these statistics, it must be borne in mind that the Province of York then comprised only the five northern counties and the county of Nottingham, whilst the Southern Province embraced all the rest of the kingdom.

One or two of what are believed to be the earliest Skelton wills on record may be briefly referred to, by reason of the connection between person and place which they also serve to establish. The first is that of Adam de Skeltone, which is dated at Skeltone on the Feast of St. Luke the Evangelist (18 October) A.D. 1330. As the testator possessed real estate in London, so much of the will as relates to that real estate was enrolled in the Court of Husting of the City, which is all we know of the document. Whether the Skelton of the testator was in Cumberland or Yorkshire does not appear. Next comes the will of Nicholas de Skelton of York, which bears date 1339, and was proved at York, May 29, 1402, and after that the will of Dame Constance de Skelton, of Skelton in the county of York, which is dated in 1402, and was proved also at York, June 8 in the same year. As she desired to be buried in the adjoining parish of Gisburn, her Skelton was that in the parish of Ripon, in which a Ralph Skeldon was living as late as 1639.

The derivation of the name, Dr. Barber is good enough to say, is from Skeel, a Danish personal name, and tun, the old Norse for a fortified town or settlement. In Domesday Book it is found as Scheltun, which was probably pronounced Skaletun, as we find it so written in one of the Patent Rolls already cited. The variations in the orthography are so commonplace that it is needless to particularize them.

It is precisely in the North of England, namely in Yorkshire, that tradition, or what passes for it, makes the emigrant to have been born, adding that he was beneficed in Lincolnshire. Tradition, whilst it can never be regarded as authority, is yet always to be treated with the respect which is due to whatever is suggestive. Taking the hint, and with the knowledge that the name is still common in that great county, it was to Yorkshire that attention was given in the first instance.

Preliminary investigations pointed so unmistakeably to a district of which the town of Pickering, in the North Riding, may be taken as the centre that local researches were there entered upon. Special mention must be made of Sinnington, a retired village a few miles west of that town. The parish register shows many Skeltons of a suitable period, and also that Samuel was a favorite Christian name during a long series of years. Indeed in the churchyard is a gravestone of a Samuel Skelton who died as recently as 1827. A gap of twenty years in the register, occurring at a critical period, was felt to be unfortunate, but upon the whole this beginning by no means promised badly. Fortified by it, investigations were undertaken in the Probate Registry at York where, as was anticipated, Skelton wills proved to be very numerous, but not one seemed to have any bearing upon the family to which the emigrant belonged. The archiepiscopal records furnished a like negative result but, quite unexpectedly, new and important facts were brought to light* respecting another interesting early emigrant, which in brief are these: Francis Higginson was ordained deacon at Cawood Castle, September 25, 1614, by Toby Mathew, Archbishop of York, his title being the curacy of Screddingham or, as now written, Scrayingham, and to priest's orders he was admitted at Bishopthorpe by the same archbishop, December 8, 1614. Moreover, the archbishop conferred on him the rectory of Barton-in-Fabis, Nottinghamshire, and although he was instituted April 20, 1615, it appears certain he was never inducted and therefore never received any of the fruits of the benefice nor, we may take it, discharged any of the duties. His successor was instituted, on his resignation, just a year afterwards, April 4, 1616. There is evidence that for at least a century kindly relations had subsisted between the Higginsons and the Warwickshire Mathews, and this may have led to an introduction to the Archbishop, who was of a Bristolian family.

From Yorkshire to Lincolnshire is not a long step. Taking first those records which are authorities for the admission to benefices, whilst various Skeltons are shown to have held livings in the county in the seventeenth century, not one was found who bore the name Samuel. This afforded scanty support to tradition, but the reason of it was rendered manifest by later developments. In the latter part of the thirteenth century, a William de Skelton, of Cumberland, was Treasurer of the Cathedral Church of Lincoln, and therefore an ecclesiastic. To the Cumberland line also belonged, it is said, John Skelton, who was likewise an ecclesiastic, and was moreover the famous poet-laureate of Henry VIII., and, on the excellent authority of the late Mr. Dyce, is to be regarded as one of the fathers of the English drama.

The wills at Lincoln range themselves under two principal heads, and first those which are scattered through the Episcopal Registers during upwards of two centuries, beginning with 1320. Abstracts of all have been printed, but the only Skelton named in them, who is at all likely to have been a Lincolnshire man, is William Skelton who is mentioned in the will of a merchant of Lincoln in 1417. Under the second head come the wills in the Probate Registry, the records of which begin with probates granted in 1506, and a few other wills which remain in another repository. All these received the attention they deserve, and the same may be said of the wills of other persons which, for one reason or other, it seemed desirable to examine.

It would be tedious and is unnecessary to detail at length all the steps which followed, and will be more to the purpose to come to the point at which the first tangible result was obtained. This was in Lincolnshire, and we will endeavor to convey an idea of the locality.

The towns of Bourn, which is in the south of the county, near the confines of Rutland, and Sleaford, which is eighteen miles to the north, are connected by a branch line of the Great Northern Railway. Midway between the two is the station of Billingborough, little more than a mile to the southwest of which a church is a conspicuous object. It stands on elevated ground, overlooking a vast fen district, alone, remote from dwellings, and approached only by tracks across the fields. This is Sempringham Church—the church of a parish of extensive area, comprising the chapelries of Pointon and Birthorpe, but the houses which formed the village whence it took its name, and which clustered round the church and the priory, long ago vanished. When the priory was laid waste, its materials were used in the erection of the Manor House, a seat of the Earls of Lincoln, and it too has been destroyed, though its site may be readily distinguished on the ground.

In the parish register of Sempringham are the following entries:

1621. Baptized. Sarah the daughter of M^r Samuel Skelton baptized August xijth
— Buryed. Sarah the daughter of M^r Samuel Skelton bur. August 27th

Hitherto neither the surname nor the Christian name of the emigrant's wife had been ascertained, and the daughter Sarah is an addition to the list of his children. As M.A. the emigrant had a right to be, and it was in accordance with usage that he should be, styled M^r. Moreover it was required that, in order to authenticate them, the parish register transcripts, which were to be sent in yearly, should be signed by the incumbent, and the churchwardens. Now the Sempringham transcript for 1620 is signed by Samuel Skelton as incumbent, and by Robert Obre and Thomas Seagrave as churchwardens. That for 1621 is similarly signed, the only change being that Thomas Wright had become churchwarden in the room of Thomas Seagrave. It follows that, as respects the baptism and the burial of little Sarah, besides the register, which certainly was not kept by Skelton himself, we have the transcript certified by her father's hand. Of Samuel Skelton's signature to the earlier transcript, a fac-simile of the exact size of the original was taken by permission, and is here copied from the autotype reproduction.

To recapitulate, we have a Samuel Skelton who was M.A., who was in orders, and who was beneficed in Lincolnshire—points all of which agree with what was known or reasonably alleged of the emigrant who, none can doubt, is the individual whom these records bring before us.

This then is the sum and substance of what can be found at Sempringham and in its transcripts—not great in bulk, but weighty and of the first moment.

After the husband comes the wife, and the next point which claimed investigation was the parentage of the emigrant's wife. As to this, there was no clue, traditional or otherwise, and therefore nothing remained but to examine whatever documents might be deemed likely to serve the purpose, and notably the registers of neighboring parishes. In the course of the tour, a visit was paid to Horbling, a village two miles north of Sempringham Church, but it was only to find that the register does not begin until 1653. However, Lincolnshire is famous for its transcripts, and they have been rescued from chaos, sorted and arranged by the liberality of the present Bishop of Lincoln, Dr. Edward King. Here then, in the Horbling transcripts, was found all that could be desired, as the following baptismal entry will show:

Susan daughter of Willm Travis the 11. Sept. 97.

Susan Travis had a brother William who was baptized June 14, 1590, and a sister Mary, February 10, 1605-6.

The will of William Travis, of Horbling, father of Skelton's wife, was found. It bears date April 22, 1635, when both his daughter Susan and her husband had passed away, far from him and from their native land. It names his son William, his daughter Mary, who was then the wife of one Muston, some grandchildren, and the poor of the parish, but contains no mention of any Skelton. The testator describes himself as a yeoman, and he had evidently been engaged in farming pursuits, but had retired from business, and was probably living with his daughter Mary, to whom, on her marriage, he had given all his household stuff and, with trifling exceptions, his farming stock also. The will was proved June 17, 1635, and is on record at Lincoln. Travis wills are more numerous in Leicestershire than in Lincolnshire.

The ecclesiastical history of Sempringham has so important a bearing upon Samuel Skelton, and is besides so interesting that, whilst much might be said respecting it, some little may not be omitted. Its Chronicle or Annals in the Vatican go back, it is asserted, to the year 400.* But not until some centuries later do we meet with the man who is head and shoulders taller than all others who were ever connected with the place, who, canonized a few years after his death, is known as S. Gilbert of Sempringham, and who was the founder of the only English monastic order, called from him the Gilbertine. Born in the immediate neighborhood a few years after the Conquest, he was of gentle blood and, having perfected his education at Paris, took up his abode at the place with which his name is associated in so lasting a manner. Here he founded a monastery, the small beginnings of which are visible about 1140, endowing it with large landed estates and, what is of more immediate concern, assigning to it the parish church, whereupon the monks, with the license of the King and the Pope, became perpetual incumbents. The lore of appropriations, as they are called, and the evils which sprang from them, have been set forth with much learning by Dr. Samuel Pegge, a famous antiquary of the last century, in Appendix No. VII. to The Life of Robert Grosseteste, Bishop of Lincoln,† to which those who may desire enlightenment will do well to refer. In the diocese of Lincoln, at any rate, a remedy was not long in coming, for Bishop Hugh de Wells (1209-1235) established vicarages in nearly three hundred rectories which had been appropriated to monastic houses. This was done, of course, with the assent, in each case, of the house to which the rectory had been appropriated, and which naturally became thereupon patron of the vicarage. By the ordination of Sempringham, to be seen in the Bishop's Register, an endowment was provided such as, in its equivalent for the time being, any incumbent would be well content to receive, and so matters continued until the great upheaval of the sixteenth century.

What the Reformation did for Sempringham can only be described as spoliation the most utter and unsparing, not alone of the Priory and its possessions, but even of the endowment of the Vicarage. That which the saintly founder had dedicated for all time to God and His Church was first seized by the sovereign and soon afterwards transferred to other lay hands. Moreover the benefice, losing its ancient status, was treated as a donative, which the proprietor could fill of his own absolute will, independently of the Bishop, and of any ecclesiastical ceremony whatsoever—in fact, just as he would admit a tenant to a vacant farm or house. This explains how it comes about that for a long period subsequent to the Reformation, and until the ancient order was restored, after Skelton's day, the records usually available in such cases are silent respecting Sempringham.

Passing over the intervening period, on February 3, 1612-13, the King granted in fee simple to Francis Morice, esquire, and Francis Phelipps, gentleman, as the nominees of various other persons, estates of such magnitude in different parts of England that the enumeration of them occupies some yards in length of the Patent Roll (10 James I., part 22 (1964) No. 3). In Lincolnshire, are what are described as the Rectories and Churches of Sempringham and Stow Green, with all buildings, glebe lands, tithes, and other appurtenances to them belonging, which it is stated were part of the possessions King Edward VI. received on exchange with Lord Clinton, thus bearing witness that certain chopping and changing had taken place since the confiscation of the Priory and its possessions.

The mention, now made for the first time of Stow Green, calls for a word or two of explanation. In August, 1268, the Prior and Convent of Sempringham, taking advantage of the King's presence at Lincoln, obtained from him there the grant of a fair to be held yearly on June 23, 24 and 25, in their Manor of Stow. (Charter Roll, 52 Hen. III., (No. 62) m. 5.) The spot chosen for the fair was Stow Green, which is in the parish of Threckingham, two miles north-west of Sempringham church, and there it is still held, but the date appears to have been changed to one more suitable for an agricultural community. It was not only a great convenience to the monks, but by its tolls added to their revenues, and the church of the Patent Roll was simply a chapel, which was erected, doubtless by them, for the benefit of the crowds who flocked to their fair. The church of Threckingham was not an appropriation of theirs, whilst that of Sempringham was, and hence we may infer they procured that its vicar should be charged with the celebration of the divine offices in the chapel. The connection ceased at the Reformation, and the chapel has long been destroyed, but its site, adjoining a recognized Roman road, is identified.

The grant shows incidentally that at some time before its date £20 per annum had been charged upon the Rectory as the stipend or salary of the Vicar, and this the grantees bound themselves by their covenant to discharge. This sum, equal to about £80 at the present day was, therefore, the measure of Skelton's vicarial income. By the grant, the right of patronage was reserved to the Crown, and hence, so far as can be seen, it was to the Crown that Skelton owed his preferment.

The church of Sempringham is one of the oldest and most interesting in the diocese of Lincoln. The original Norman building was cruciform, with a tower at the intersection, but the transepts have been removed, and the present tower, which is of good perpendicular work, dating about 1425, occupies the site of the Norman tower. The most important feature, which is of early Norman date, is, however, that brought before us in the glowing words, penned nearly fifty years ago, of a local architect. "Through that magnificent doorway, which is yet in the south side, almost as perfect as when it left the workman's hand, many a time has passed the good S. Gilbert at the head of his Chapter; and those fine old fir doors, so splendidly ornamented with iron scrolls, have closed upon them while they worshipped God, or deliberated upon the business of their Order."* It need hardly be said that features such as these, which carry us back to a time five centuries before Skelton's day, still attract the ecclesiologist, the antiquary, and the architect to the spot where he once ministered. The view, here given, of the south side, is from a photograph.†

In further prosecution of the work, recourse was had to the wills at Lincoln of a later date than those which had been looked up for the ancestry of the emigrant. Attention was attracted by one of a Samuel Skelton who describes himself as of Tattershall in the county of Lincoln, innholder. What is to be said on this head can be said more conveniently hereafter, but the immediate step which followed on this discovery was a search of the register of the parish in which the testator had resided.

† Since this was written, it has been announced that Her Majesty the Queen, who is a large landowner in the parish, has promised £100 towards a porch which it is proposed to erect in order the better to protect this noble doorway from the weather.

day it was a coveted privilege to be in the household of a noble family, and persons who, after the fashion of the time, are called "servants," were often relatives of the lord or lady. Skelton is found first at one seat of the Earl of Lincoln, and immediately afterwards at another, and it is by no means improbable that he was the domestic chaplain. If we suppose that Susan Travis was likewise attached to the Earl's household, the choice which was made of Sempringham for the celebration of the marriage is explained, notwithstanding that her father and other near relations were living hard by, in a neighboring parish. Simon Bradstreet the younger, who became so important a figure in New England history, was, it is said, as a youth, in the household of the Earl.

The will of the innholder of Tattershall is dated 15 February, 16 Charles II. (A.D. 1663-4). He names his wife Margaret, his eldest son Samuel, and three other sons, Zerubbabel, Israel and Nathaniel. He makes specific mention of a silver bowl which, after his wife's death, was to pass to his eldest son, and no doubt, though it is not so stated, was to be regarded as a heirloom. His means were modest, and he was troubled with debts which his wife was to pay off by yearly instalments out of the proceeds of the business. His wife and his cousin John Skelton were supervisors and overseers. The executors were the sons Israel and Nathaniel, but being under age, they could not act, and March 1, 1663-4, the Court granted administration, during their minority, to their mother.

The point of interest is, of course, who was the testator? Was he the only son of the emigrant? Touching that son, the records of Salem supply sundry particulars to which it is necessary to refer. The first document is a deed dated 21, 12 mo. (February), 1643 (Essex Deeds, Book I. leaf 1), when he had just attained his majority, showing that the moment he was in a position to sell, he disposed of four acres of the paternal allotment in Salem, after which he returned to the old country, and nothing more is heard of him in New England.

Another deed, dated 30th March, 15 Charles II. (A.D. 1663), is recorded in Book II. leaf 71, of Essex Deeds, and was acknowledged before Endicott, the Governor, in the August following—14: 6: 63 is how it stands—by a person who had seen it signed, but whose name does not appear as a witness. The substance of it is that about 1649 Skelton had sold other land in Salem, which also had been his father's, to one Porter for £40, to be paid by instalments. In 1659, Porter had given bond for what then remained due which, whatever may have been its amount, was cleared off in 1663, and this deed, in the nature of a final release, was executed. It will be observed that in dating it, the colonial formula is discarded, and gives place to that which was customary in England, whilst Endicott in his memorandum of the time of acknowledgement, reverts to that which was in use around him. The deed shows on its face that Skelton was not then in America, for the money was sent to him by the hand of an intermediary, one "John Brackenbury of Charlestowne Mare-nour." It may be simply an accidental coincidence, but yet is worth mentioning that a few years later, in 1671, a John Brackenbury was married at Scrivelsby, six miles from Tattershall.

To finish with the Salem deeds, we may here interpolate what they make known respecting the emigrant's youngest child, whose name was Elizabeth. She had married Robert Sanford of Boston in the Bay Colony, and of her and her husband the same Porter purchased her portion of the land which had belonged to her father, and it was made over to him by a deed which, though given in 1652 was not recorded until 1661. (Essex Deeds, Book II., leaf 25.) She, like her brother, no doubt sold directly she came of age, thus giving 1651 as the date of her birth, which was after the emigration.

The natural place in which to look for the younger Skelton, after his return to England, is that which had been the home of his family before their departure, and this is exactly what we find, for the will of the imholder of Tattershall renders it impossible to doubt that in him we have the emigrant's only son. The names which he gave to the sons whom he mentions prove how fondly he cherished the memory of his Salem days. Zerubbabel was the name of a son of Governor Endicott, and Nathaniel of the testator's brother-in-law, the emigrant ancestor of the Feltons of the United States, a leading man at Salem who, born a few years before the testator, was destined to outlive him by more than forty years.

Turning again to the parish register of Tattershall, after 1627, with the exception of the marriage of a William Skelton in 1637, there is no Skelton entry until 1644, when there is the burial, June 4, of Margaret, daughter of Samuel Skelton, which is the first trace we have of him in the record after his baptism. The baptism of the daughter is not found, so she may have been born at Salem, and there is also, in 1652, the burial of another daughter Margaret, whose baptism in like manner does not occur, but it is evident the register was not carefully kept. From 1644, for half a century to come are entries relating to the children of the younger Skelton, and also to his children's children. Of the first-mentioned, we have the four sons who are named in his will; Samuel baptized in 1645; Zerubbabel in 1647; Israel in 1650, and Nathaniel born in 1656, when the registration of birth for a brief period supplanted that of baptism. There was also a son John, who like the daughter or daughters Margaret, died before the father made his will. The only son whose descendants the register enables us to trace is Nathaniel, and his children were Margaret, 1680; Elizabeth, 1683; Samuel, 1684-5; Nathaniel, 1687. Their father was buried May 12, 1695, and a sister Margaret, March 14, 1695-6. Thus the line of the emigrant, with the family Christian names affectionately preserved, is continued to the close of the seventeenth century.

The Court Rolls of the Manor of Tattershall furnish some details respecting Samuel Skelton, son of the emigrant, which deserve to be noted. The Rolls begin with the proceedings at a Court held April 20, 1654, when the jurors start with the following presentments:

Thomas Lawe gent for brewing & selling Ale & beere contrary to y ^e statute	}	00. 06. 04
Bridgett Cullyer for the like
Richard Parr for the like		00. 00. 06
Samuell Skelton for the like		00. 00. 06 and seven others who are named. At several subsequent Courts Samuel Skelton was amerced for a similar offence, which is sometimes expressed as breaking the assize of ale and beer, that is, selling those commodities at a higher rate than for the time being had been fixed by law. In 1658 he was chosen one of the two Dyke Reeves, an important office in the fen district, the duties of which consisted in seeing that the drains dividing the fields were kept clear and offered no impediment to the free passage of water. In the same year he was amerced sixpence for selling ale out-of-doors at two pence a quart, and a shilling for the sewer in his field being defective, which was rather unlucky for one holding his office. Twice he had to pay for winnowing corn in the market-place, the second occasion being October 6, 1663, which was the last Court held before his death. He was then fined a shilling for not trimming his hedge in the Back Lane. An amusing feature is that being himself sometimes a juror—and on one occasion his name heads the list—he sat in judgment upon himself. That the delinquencies complained of were not considered of any great moment is shown by the fact that, however often the same individual transgressed, nothing was done in the way of increasing the penalty. The impartiality of this small and purely local tribunal is demonstrated by the fact, that the fine inflicted upon one who was in the position of a gentleman was more than twelve times that which was deemed adequate for minor folk. And again, in 1656, when it did not spare so important a neighbor as William Skelton, rector of Coningsby, who found himself called upon to pay a shilling “for suffering his mare to go in the meadows, he having no common there.”

When Samuel of Tattershall made his will, he was, he tells us, weak and sick in body. He might with truth have used language more emphatic, for his signature gives proof that his weakness was extreme, and on the fourth day after it was made he was laid to rest in the churchyard. John Skelton, his cousin, besides being a supervisor, was also the writer of the will and a witness to its execution. He therefore was not far to seek, and he is undoubtedly the individual of the name who then lived in the adjoining village of Coningsby, the church of which is barely a mile from Tattershall Church. Who he was, the register of Coningsby reveals in the following entry:

George Skelton, rector of Coningsby, in his important will in 1636, in addition to his son William, names also Isabel his son William's wife, so that John Skelton, cousin of the younger Samuel, was George Skelton's grandson.

The family connection being thus established, we may look backward and cite the will of John Skelton, of Barton-upon-Humber, bearing date October 20, 1546. In it, he names, amongst others, the following persons: a son Roger; a son whom he styles Sir William, to whom we shall revert; a daughter Isabel Leedall and, without stating what the relationship was, Richard Leedall and Alice Leedall, and another William Skelton, who was the son of Roger, and therefore grandson of the testator. In 1602–3, when George Skelton compounded for the First Fruits of Coningsby, one of his bondsmen was George Leedall of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, chandler. In 1619, George Skelton married at Coningsby, for his second wife, Ann Leedall, and when he made his will, next to his children and grandchildren, Bridget Leedall was the object of his care. This was in 1636, so that we have evidence of a Skelton-Leedall connection extending over exactly ninety years. No further light is to be gained from the Leedall wills, which are somewhat numerous, and four of the makers were inhabitants of Coningsby.

In view of these facts, it is suggested as probable that John Skelton, of Barton, was the common ancestor alike of the emigrant and of George Skelton. John's birth may be carried back to the latter part of the fifteenth century, for in all likelihood his son William was born not later than 1508, and John's name figures in the Lay Subsidy Roll for Barton in 14 and 15 Henry VIII. (1522–1523), where he is charged two shillings on goods assessed at four pounds.

The parish register of Coningsby dates from 1561, and between 1571, when the first occurs, and 1660, beyond which the search did not extend, the Skelton entries number close upon sixty. One which deserves special attention is as follows:

Baptized 1592. Samuell Skellton bapt. the xxvjth of februarie.

Negative evidence is not without its weight in this case and therefore it may be said that no further trace of this Samuel is found in the register, and that only one other Samuel is named in it. This latter was baptized in 1608, shortly before which time the father's name begins to be recorded, and he was the son of George Skelton, the rector. The date, to be presently stated, of the emigrant's matriculation at the University, leads directly to the inference that he was born closely about 1592, the date of the baptismal entry which has just been printed. Again, whilst giving his own name to his only son, he did not give his wife's name to his eldest daughter, but preferred to call her Sarah, therein showing a particular affection for that name. In looking through the materials which have been collected, it is impossible not to recognize that with those whom we may term our Skeltons, what William was as a Christian name for males, Sarah was for females. Taking only the Skelton entries in the register of Coningsby, the name Sarah first appears in 1587, in a baptism. In the short period 1601-1615, it occurs four times; 1601, a baptism; 1602, a burial; 1615, marriage of Thomas Shackelton and Sarah Skelton, and the next day of Vinson (i. e. Vincent) Randall and another Sarah Skelton. These, be it remembered, are from one source only, and leave aside the many instances which are found in other documents. And John Skelton, as late as 1671, kept up the tradition when a daughter of his was baptized at Stixwold by the name Sarah.

BRIEF MEMOIRS OF PRINCE'S SUBSCRIBERS.

Contributed by JOHN RUSSELL KEMBLE, Esq., of New York.

ON the list of Prince's Subscribers is "Captain Giles Russell, merchant, of Marblehead." He came from Weymouth, England; where his wife Elizabeth died 12th February, 1733; and he died 23d July, 1753, aged 77, at Marblehead, where he had married, 24th December, 1733, "Madame Elizabeth," widow of Benjamin Trevete, and daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Elbridge) Russell. Madame Elizabeth was born at Marblehead, 5th December, 1691, and died there 4th February, 1771. She was grandmother of Samuel Russell Trevete, captain of artillery at Bunker Hill. Her sister Rebecca Greenleaf was born 6th November, 1692, and died 3d

December, 1737; she was grandmother of Elbridge Gerry. Their mother was born 19th June, 1653, and died 19th September, 1721, and was daughter of Thomas Elbridge, grantee of Pemaquid, Maine,* who on the maternal side was related to the family of Aldworth. He "held court" as "lord proprietor" of Pemaquid, for several years, receiving dues for fishing privileges &c., but in 1657 he sold his rights there and we have no farther record of him. His wife Rebecca died at Newbury, Mass., 15th October, 1657. Their daughter Elizabeth, in 1669, at the age of sixteen, with her younger brothers, John and Thomas, crossed the ocean to Bristol, in quest of a large fortune left by their uncle, which they obtained.

The brothers remained there; John, while Collector in 1732, gave to St. Michael's church, Marblehead, his portrait and the chandelier which now hangs from its ceiling.

He rests, with his uncle Robert Aldworth, near the altar of St. Peter's church in Bristol; under a noble monument which records the "splendor of his beneficent activity." Elizabeth Elbridge, "after romantic adventures," reached America, and married Captain Samuel Russell at Marblehead, 9th November, 1682.

She sleeps on "Old Burial Hill" under a mass of weeds and brambles, by the side of her "negro woman servant" Agnes; whose small, sunken headstone alone survives, of the twelve of that family that stood there till twenty years ago. Almost at her feet, fifty-five years afterward, they laid her kinsman, Mugford, under muffled drums, with the spear wound through his breast. Across the street still stands the well from which a fairer Agnes drew the water with which she herself scrubbed the stairs and floor of the Fountain Inn, till her grace and devotion raised her to the baronetage of Great Britain as Lady Frankland. Toward the harbor was the swamp where "the screeching woman" (another saintly Elizabeth Russell, whose words were truth itself, solemnly assured me that she had often heard it, nearly ninety years before) bewailed her bleeding body, bereft of christian burial.

Very near is the hut of old Diamond the conjurer; who, on stormy mid-nights, would "beat about" among the graves, to soothe the perturbed spirits of the lost seamen, who then revisited that resting place of their female kindred. There are very few males buried there.

* Thomas Elbridge named in the text, who came to New England, and held court at Pemaquid as "lord proprietor," was a son of Giles Elbridge, one of the patentees (see note on the Elbridge family in REGISTER, vol. 46, p. 443).

The Pemaquid Patent was granted by the President and Council of New England to Robert Aldworth and Giles Elbridge, merchants of the city of Bristol, England, Feb. 29, 1631, that is 1631-2 (see Mr. Thornton's note). This patent is printed in full in the Report of the Massachusetts Commissioners on the Land Titles of Lincoln County, Maine, 1811, pages 33-39, and also in Ancient Pemaquid by J. Wingate Thornton, 1867, pp. 75-82; in the Maine Historical Society's Collections, vol. 5, 1867, pp. 207-214; and in the History of Bristol and Bremen, by Prof. John Johnston, 1875, pp. 70-74. The copy in the Land Titles of Lincoln County was transcribed from York County Records, Lib. 18, folios 112 to 114. Mr. Thornton, before printing the patent in Ancient Pemaquid and the Maine Historical Collections, verified it by the notarial copy in the library of the American Antiquarian Society at Worcester, Mass. Prof. Johnston copied from Mr. Thornton. Giles Elbridge had four sons, Robert, John, Thomas, Aldworth, and two daughters Martha and Elizabeth.

Thomas Elbridge, above named, was the third son of Giles Elbridge, who inherited from his kinsman and co-patentee, Robert Aldworth, his share of the Pemaquid grant. At the death of Giles Elbridge, the patent became the property of his son John, who was also a merchant of Bristol; he died in 1646. John Elbridge's will dated Sept. 11, 1646, is printed among the Waters Gleanings in the REGISTER, vol. 46, pp. 444-445. In it the patent is named, and bequeathed to his brother Thomas. The will of Robert Aldworth, dated Aug. 30, 1631, proved Jan. 12, 1634-5, is printed in the REGISTER, vol. 47, pp. 389-90, and that of Giles Elbridge in vol. 46, p. 443. See also other Aldworth and Elbridge wills in Waters's Gleanings, REG. vol. 46, pp. 440-445, and vol. 47, pp. 389-390.—EDITOR.

4. JOSEPH² ALDEN (*John*¹). Born in Plymouth, 1627, after May 22d—the Division of Cattle. In this list his father and mother are mentioned, his sister Elizabeth æ. 3, and his brother John, æ. 1.* His name appears on the list of those able to bear arms August, 1643. This list contains the names of those between sixteen and sixty. He was freeman in Duxbury, 1657. He served repeatedly on the "Grand Inquest" till 1685. He was one of the surveyors of highways. Among his descendants I find the marriage date of 1657 to Mary Simmons, daughter of Moses Simmons (who came in the Fortune) and Sarah his wife, but a manuscript Simmons genealogy says they were married about 1664. I think the first date the correct one. He died Feb. 8, 1697. He had his father's share of land in Bridgewater. He is third on the list in the grants of land on the north side of the town, in 1683.† These lots ran from Taunton line eastward seven miles, consequently he lived very near Taunton. We do not know when his wife was born. Her father was unmarried at the Division of Cattle, and his daughter Rebecca—wife of John Soule—was spoken of as his "eldest daughter." If Moses Simmons married in 1628, Mary could not have been born before 1631. She survived her husband. No one seems to know where Joseph Alden and his wife were buried. In his will he speaks only of his wife and three sons, but this does not prove he had no daughters. Nicholas Snow, who had several daughters, married and alive when he died, never refers to them. I find the marriage of a Sarah Alden to Joseph Crossman in 1685 in Taunton, and in the same place in 1688, Mercy Alden to John Burrill of Weymouth. Because Joseph Alden lived so near Taunton I have given these two daughters to him, also Elizabeth Alden who married Benjamin² Snow (*William*¹) in Bridgewater in 1691. I have assumed that he gave them their portion when they married as was customary. I have always supposed that Mary—who married Samuel² Allen (*Samuel*¹) in 1700—was his daughter, but if so, as she was not married when her father died, why does he not provide for her? All these Alden girls may belong to David and Zachariah. I will place them here for the present. There is a tradition that Deborah—wife of George² Soule (*George*¹) was daughter of Joseph—but it is so very vague I do not feel justified in placing her in the list. In Plymouth Registry of Deeds, vol. 3, page 194, we find this: "I, John Alden of Duxborough * * for, and in consideration of natural love and affection * * * to Joseph Alden, my beloved and natural son, * * * land * * * lying in the township of Bridgewater." This was signed April 5, 1679, witnessed by William Pabodie and Jonathan Alden, acknowledged before Gov. Josias Winslow April 14, 1679. Recorded April 10, 1700. In Plymouth Probate Records, vol. 1, pages 256–7, we find the will of Joseph Alden:

"These are to publish and declare to all whom it may concern that I, Joseph Alden, gentleman of ye town of Bridgewater, in ye county of Plymouth in New England, being of sound judgement and memory; Do ordain and make my last

I am indebted to Standish and Sampson genealogies and to Mr. Joel A. Delano, author of Delano genealogy, for many of the facts stated above.

6. JONATHAN² ALDEN (John¹). Born in Duxbury, 1632-3. Died in Duxbury February 14, 1697. He and his wife are buried in the cemetery in South Duxbury, half a mile from the railroad station. His stone was broken away from its place, and Miss Lucia Alden Bradford—a descendant—took it to her home and kept it framed in her parlor. Before her death, a few years since, she sent me a copy of the stone. It has since been reset near the grave of his wife. It reads: "Here lyes y^e body of Jonathan Alden. Died February y^e 14. 1697. in y^e 65 year of his age." He married Dec. 10, 1672, Abigail Hallett, daughter of Andrew and Ann (Bessee) Hallett of Barnstable. She died "Aug. 17, 1722 in her 81st year," says the stone. Jonathan Alden was quite an old bachelor, when he married, if this was his first marriage. He was buried under arms on the 17th of February, and "Rev. Ichabod Wiswall delivered an address;" copious extracts can be found in Rev. Timothy Alden's Epitaphs, vol. 3, art. 622. He appears on the colony records as Ensign till 1681, then as Lieut., and in 1689 he is chosen captain of the militia. He was a selectman many years, and "much employed on public business." In Plymouth Probate Records, Book 1, page 255, Book 2, page 28, Abigail and son John administer on the estate of Jonathan Alden, and later the heirs and mother agree that John the oldest son should have a double portion. Book 16, page 197, Record of Deeds, there is a quit claim deed to John Alden, oldest son. It reads " * * * Jonathan Alden, Andrew Alden, Edmond Chandler and Elizabeth his wife and Thomas Southworth and Sarah his wife all of the town of Duxborough in Co. of Plymouth, * * * having received of our Brother John Alden of Duxborough full satisfaction as to our parts and claims to any part of the lands that was our father Jonathan Alden's in Duxborough and release &c. dated 2d July 1711, recorded May 20, 1723. Signed. Jonathan Alden, Andrew Alden, Edmond and Elizabeth Chandler, Thomas and Sarah Southworth." In Book 4, page 65, Registry of Deeds, we find this: "I John Alden, sen. &c. * * * to Jonathan and David Alden, for natural love and affection, lands in Duxborough, to be holden according to ye manner of East Greenwich in ye Co. of Kent in England," &c., &c. Dated 19 Aug. 1687. Recorded 12 Sept. 1701.

Later, David Alden sells his half to Isaac Barker, and the 28 Sept. 1717, the share given to Jonathan is sold by his heirs to Isaac Barker of Pembroke; the deed is signed: John Alden's right 3-14 pt. Andrew Alden

1-14 pt. Jonathan Alden 1-14 pt. Thos. and Sarah Southworth 1-14 pt. Elizabeth Chandler (her husband was dead). We see by this that Jonathan Alden's half was divided into sevenths, and John Alden had his own double share, and had either purchased his third sister's share, or stood for her. I think she was dead and he had purchased her share. I am inclined to think she married Isaac Simmons, son of John and Mercy (Pabodie) Simmons, and died leaving children: Isaac, Deborah and Sarah. Elizabeth (Alden) Chandler makes her will in 1732, and after giving to her children declares "if there is any left, to be given to the children of Isaac Simmons, Isaac Simmons Jr., Deborah and Sarah." This is surmise, however. A descendant of Thomas and Sarah Southworth claims in the Supplement to Alden Memorial that Sarah was daughter of David, and so I supposed till I found this deed.

Children, born in Duxbury:

23. i. ELIZABETH³ ALDEN.
24. ii. SARAH ALDEN.
- iii. Unknown daughter, perhaps married a Simmons.
25. iv. JOHN ALDEN, born 1800.
26. v. JONATHAN ALDEN.
27. vi. ANDREW ALDEN.

WILL OF SAMUEL MATHER.

LATELY in a search among the Irish wills in Dublin I gleaned incidentally many interesting items which fill important gaps in our early New England genealogy. I hope to communicate some of these later on to the REGISTER, but first all think the will of Richard Mather's famous eldest son is worthy of being printed in full.*

 Beneath this stone entombed it lies
 Till God himself shall bid it rise
 On earth he grew in wealth and Power
 Until the grand decisive hour
 When wealth nor Pow'r could shield his hart
 From the force of Death's alconquering Dart
 But at Gods call he must depart
 Then Reader know yt earth's a Toy

PRICE RECORDS.—The following records have been furnished for the Register by Charles K. Bolton, A. R., Librarian of the Boston Athenaeum. In sending it, he writes: "I found the enclosed records in a book which I bought at Little's. If they have never been printed, they may be of value."

The records are in the handwriting of the late D. WILLIAMS PATTERSON, of Newark Valley, N. Y., who died Nov. 18, 1892 (see his necrology, note vol. 47, pp. 228-231, written by his friend, Harry K. Stiles, M.D.).

"The following records were copied from a Bible in possession of Reuben Allen, near Flemington, N. Y., in June, 1885. The record seems to have been all written at one time, and 'St R. L.' follows the name of some places, which may be in other states.

THE HON. JOHN ISRAEL BAKER.—The last paragraph of the memoir of the Hon. John Israel Baker, published in the Proceedings of the Society, January, 1898 (page 75), and in the REGISTER for January, 1898 (page 150), should read as follows :

He married, for his first wife, Betsey Lamson. She died in 1852, leaving no children. In 1855, he married Ellen Masury, daughter of Captain Stephen and Mary (Cressy) Masury. His wife and two children survive him, namely, Bessie Allen Baker and John Stephens Baker. Mr. Baker died February 17, 1897.

QUERIES.

COLSON FAMILY OF WEYMOUTH.—Thomas Colson I find first in Hingham, where he married (1) Susannah, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Lewis) Lincoln, May 29, 1706. She was born Sept. 19, 1688. Two children were born to them in Hingham. He moved to South Parish, Weymouth, about 1713, where he and first wife had born to them four sons and seven daughters. He was admitted to the South Parish Church in April, 1742. His first wife died in 1732. He then married (2) Deborah Sprague, Jan. 30, 1733, "both of Weymouth"; and three children were born to them. He died July 4, 1752. The Bridgewater records say that Akerman Pettingell married Deborah Colson in 1742. I do not see any other Deborah but the widow of John Colson.

Col. Thomas Vinson of Weymouth, a distinguished officer in the Revolutionary War, was grandson of John Colson, born June 8, 1756, died June 12, 1841. Col. Vinson wrote a paper now extant, in which he says that his grandfather Colson was born in the island of Bermuda.

MISCELLANEOUS QUERIES:—

1. Eunice Deming, 1763-1852; married Samuel Stillman, 1765-1824. Elizabeth was the wife of Nathaniel Foote and migrated with him from England to Wethersfield, 1635. Her brother was John Deming. Wanted, the name of the father of Elizabeth and John Deming and the line of descent of Eunice. Samuel Stillman, by the way, was a descendant of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Deming Foote.

2. John Stillman Robins, 1717-1782, married Rachel Robins, and their son Josiah Stillman married Comfort Robins. Wanted, the relationship and descent of Rachel and Comfort Robins.

3. John Smith of Seltmate, R. I., born about 1720, was first cousin of Stephen Hopkins, the signer of the Declaration of Independence. Wanted, the manner of relationship and, if possible, the descent of John Smith.

4. Laurana Kimberley Murrehouse, 1755-1832, married as second husband, William Norton. Wanted, her descent and date of first marriage, also name and descent of her first husband.

A. L. BENEDICT, M.D.

174 Franklin Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

WOODBURY.—Wanted, the ancestry of Jeremiah Woodbury, born in Brookfield 4 October, 1727, died in Leverett 15 July, 1820; also the maiden name of his wife, Jerusha ———, and date of their marriage. She was born 14 April, 1728, died in Leverett 24 March, 1801; also the date and place of birth, and date of marriage of their daughter, Sibyl Woodbury, who married about 1788 Joel Smith of Leverett, and died in South Deerfield 6 June, 1840, aged 77.

There was a John Woodbury who served as a soldier in the war of the Revolution, and was counted on the quota of Amherst. Was this the John Woodbury, son of the above mentioned Jeremiah Woodbury, who was born 30 June, 1752, and died in Leverett 18 March, 1827?

He had a sister Ann who married George Ray, of Port Ann, N. Y., and moved to Woodstock, Vt.; a sister Mary who married Daniel Whipple. What was Stephen Burgess's father's name? Where was Stephen born, and had he other sisters or any brothers?

CLARKE.—Wanted, the ancestry of both Zephaniah Clarke and his wife Zulima Cooley, who died and are buried at Poestenkill, near Troy, New York; and also the ancestry of Elizabeth Brown, who married Isaac Clarke and lived in or near Troy, and who after the death of Mr. Clarke, married a Mr. Sherman.

WEST GRANVILLE (MASS.) CHURCH RECORDS.—Wanted, to know what became of the records belonging to the old Beech Hill Methodist Church, West Granville, Mass.

They were taken in charge by some one attending the celebration of its 75th anniversary in September, 1873.

Any clue toward their discovery will be gratefully received by many descendants of the old members.

HISTORICAL INTELLIGENCE.

REV. LUCIUS ROBINSON PAIGE, D.D.—We print as the leading article in this number a memoir by Rev. A. E. White, of the Rev. Dr. Lucius R. Paige, who, when he died, was the oldest living member of this Society, and also the oldest member of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

A friend has furnished us with the following references to works containing additional biographical material relative to the life of Dr. Paige:

1. "Fifty Notable Years," by Rev. John G. Adams, D.D., p. 255.
2. "To Day," June, 1895, p. 288, contains an excellent sketch of Dr. Paige's life by Rev. Anson Titus of Somerville. The periodical in which this sketch appeared was published in Philadelphia, but its publication has now been suspended.

3. "Christian Leader," a newspaper published at Boston, March 9 and 16, 1882, contains the proceedings at the celebration of the 80th anniversary of his birth, with a sketch of his life by Dr. Paige himself. The Cambridge local newspapers were also generous in their words of remembrance and appreciation, not only on the occasion of his 80th birthday, but also at his decease.

MR. TODD'S LIBERAL GIFTS TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—William Cleaves Todd, A.M., of Andover, N. H., presented last May to the above society his check for five hundred dollars, to be added to a like sum previously given, making a permanent fund of one thousand dollars. The income is to be expended for the purchase of town histories and works on genealogy, for which there is now a great demand. We trust that others interested in the history of the Granite State will add to the endowments of the Society, now three quarters of a century old.

SYSTEMATIC HISTORY.—The publication of the Worcester Records, now completed, is one of the most notable undertakings of its kind which have been successfully carried through. These records have appeared in the series issued by The Worcester Society of Antiquity. The editor, Mr. Franklin P. Rice, was a pioneer in this line, the inception of the enterprise being as far back as 1873, and it preceded the great mass of similar work in this State, to which it was a practical example. These records are comprised in nine volumes, one containing the Proprietors' Records, from 1607 to 1788, with plans; six the Records of the whole period of the Town's existence, from 1722 to 1848; one the Births, Marriages and Deaths; and one the Records of the Court of Sessions, from 1731 to 1737. The entire cost of production was $10,880, of which Mr. Rice has borne more than one half, the city appropriating $2,900. During the last twenty years, Mr. Rice has been active in the work of preserving and publishing public records, and has reduced the matter to a science. He originated and applied the term "Systematic History" to the accumulated results of all efforts in this direction. A large mass of original and valuable material in his possession is being prepared for the press.

DODGE GENEALOGY.—Hon. Joseph T. Dodge of Madison, Wis., author of the work on this family, has since then been engaged on a second volume of the work, as was announced in the REGISTER for July, 1897. It is now in press, and will be ready for delivery early in July. Price $2 in cloth, and $3 in half morocco.

GENEALOGIES IN PREPARATION.—Persons of the several names are advised to furnish the compilers of these genealogies with records of their own families and other information which they think may be useful. We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service under the U. S. Government, the holding of other offices, graduation from college or professional schools, occupation, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence and death. When there are more than one christian name they should all be given in full if possible. No initials should be used when the full names are known.

Bassett.—Frank G. Bassett (Secretary of the Bassett Family Association) has a large collection of data for a genealogy of this family.

Butler.—W. P. Butler, of Minneapolis, Minn. (712 East 15th St.), is collecting the records of the descendants of Deacon Richard Butler, of Hartford, Conn. The coöperation of the members of this family is earnestly desired.

Dewing.—Benjamin F. Dewing, 11 Milford St., Boston, is compiling a genealogy of the descendants of Andrew Dewing.

Hurlbut, of Chicago, who died April 21, 1890 (see obituary, REGISTER, vol. 44, p. 339). The work is entitled "The Descendants of William Hulbert." Those descended from William Hurlbut, of Dorchester, Mass., are advised to write to Miss Hurlbut and send records. Her father published in 1888 a volume containing the descendants of Thomas Hurlbut, of Wethersfield, Conn.

Penniman.—Rev. G. W. Penniman, of Southbridge, Mass., is gathering data for a history of this family.

Purmort.—By Rev. C. H. Purmort, Waterloo, Iowa. This work was announced by us in the April number. The compiler writes us under date of June 1: "This notice has opened up to me several sources of valuable information. I am still at work preparing a book which I shall call The Purmorts in America. I now have almost the perfect records of ten generations. I have a cloudy record of only two links, viz.: I am not sure whether Joseph Purmort, of Newport and Portsmouth and New Castle, was the son of Lazarus or Elias Purmort. Then again, I am not certain that this Joseph was the father of John Purmort, of New Castle. This John was a very prominent man, and so was Joseph. Both possessed great wealth and flourished from 1750 to 1800." Can any of our readers assist him?

Sanborn Genealogy.—By V. C. Sanborn, of LaGrange, Ill. This book is now in press and will be issued in the latter part of July. It will contain 500

Carriage will be paid on all orders with which the cash is enclosed, others will be sent C.O.D. The book will be accompanied by a map of that part of England from which the Sanborns came. It will make a very desirable volume.

NECROLOGY OF THE NEW-ENGLAND HISTORIC GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY.

Prepared by the Historiographer, Rev. GEORGE M. ADAMS, D.D., of Auburndale, Mass.

THESE sketches are abstracts of the Necrologies prepared by the Historiographer or under his direction and printed annually in the Proceedings of the Society. The Necrologies themselves are of necessity brief, because the space that can be appropriated is limited. Materials for still more extended memoirs are preserved in the Society's archives, and will be available for use in preparing the "Memorial Biographies," of which five volumes have been issued and a sixth volume is in preparation. The income from the Towne Memorial Fund is devoted to the publication of these volumes.

Mr. LEWIS BROOKS BAILEY, who became a member of the Historic Genealogical Society 6 March, 1867, died 18 Nov., 1888, at nearly fifty-eight years of age. Although born in Brooklyn, New York, and whose father was a Worcester County man, he may be considered as having been a Boston boy and man. His parents were Lewis Bailey, born in Northboro' Jan. 2, 1792, and Mary (Hall) Bailey of Boston, born Sept. 18, 1798. Mr. Bailey was descended remotely from Thomas Bailey, the emigrant settler at Weymouth, by his son John, and grandson John of Scituate, and Benjamin, son of the latter, who settled in Marlboro', Worcester County, and there by Col. Silas, Sen., Major Silas, Jr., to Lewis Bailey of Northboro'.

Mary Hall of Boston was the daughter of Joshua and Elizabeth (Seccomb) Hall. Joshua Hall was the son of Joseph and Abigail (Brooks) Hall; Elizabeth Seccomb was the daughter of Joseph and Ruth (Brooks) Hall. These sisters, Abigail and Ruth, daughters of Caleb Brooks of Medford, were thus the paternal and maternal grandmothers of Mary (Hall) Bailey.

Lewis Bailey and Mary Hall were married May 19, 1825, and soon were residing in Philadelphia, where Mr. Bailey's business was that of a commission merchant in company with Mr. Henry Willis of Boston. After leaving Philadelphia, and during a short residence of the family in Brooklyn, N. Y., Mr. Lewis Brooks Bailey was born there Feb. 6, 1831. Within a short time after this, the family were living in Boston, where Lewis Bailey, the father, died Jan. 5, 1834, leaving four young children to the care of the mother.

Mr. Joshua Hall, who died in 1812, willed his property to his wife Elizabeth (Seccomb) for her use during her natural life, and upon her death to be divided equally between his daughters Elizabeth and Mary. It was under the care of their mother and grandmother Elizabeth, that these children passed their school days. Living on Bowdoin Street, Lewis B. attended the Mayhew School then in Chardon Street. Afterwards he attended the Chauncy Hall private school, and the English High School of the city. The latter place he left to go into the counting room of Messrs. (Henry) Wainwright & (Sewall) Tappan, shipping merchants on Central Wharf. Leaving this place at his majority, he spent the next nine years as a clerk for Mr. James S. Amory, and at the same time and place for Mr. Thomas C. Linzie, who were treasurers, respectively, of the Nashua & Jackson and of the Lancaster and other mills. Upon the death of Mr. Linzie, he left this place to take care of his mother's property. His grandmother, who had married Mr. John Baxter in her widowhood, again a widow, died in 1847, willing all her first husband's property, as he desired, to his daughter Mary H. Bailey, Elizabeth the other daughter having deceased.

Mary H. Bailey, the mother, died Oct. 15, 1882.

Of the children, Miss Elizabeth H. Bailey is the only one now living. Joshua, a brother, was for years an invalid. A sister, the youngest of the four children, died Aug. 15, 1883.

Mr. Lewis B. Bailey married, April 14, 1884, Miss Anna Lawrence Hamilton of St. Louis. He died in 1888, and was buried at Copp's Hill old ground cemetery, as were his parents before him, and others of the family, by rights of the Halls acquired, probably, last century. This is mentioned because of the very infrequent burials now within the city limits.

The Halls had been for two generations, or more, associated with the Brattle Street Church. Mr. Joseph Hall, the grandfather, in his will speaks of his pew in Mr. Thacher's church.—Brattle Street, and in the inventory of the property of our Joshua Hall, the father, is enumerated a pew in the Brattle Street Church.

It was in this church that Mr. Silas Bailey and Mary Hall were married May 19, 1825, by Rev. John G. Palfrey, then pastor.

*By Franklin Ladd Bailey, Esq., of Boston.

JOHN LOWELL, A.M., LL.D., a resident member, elected Dec. 2, 1891, was born in Boston, October 18, 1824, and died in Brookline, May 14, 1897. He was one of the most distinguished jurists in New England, and came from a family that has been eminent in the law and in the defence of human rights ever since the second John Lowell, when a delegate to the convention that framed the constitution of Massachusetts, insisted upon the incorporation therein of the clause—"all men are born free and equal." The subject of this notice was the son of John Amory Lowell, a Boston merchant, and the grandson of John Lowell Jr., who founded and endowed the Lowell Institute in Boston.

Judge Lowell was educated at Harvard College, from which he graduated in the class of 1843. He studied law in the Harvard Law School and in the office of Charles G., F. C. & C. W. Loring, and in 1846 was admitted to the Suffolk bar. In 1865, he was made judge of the District Court of the United States by President Lincoln; and thirteen years later (Dec. 16, 1878) he was appointed by President Hayes justice of the Circuit Court for the first circuit.

In May, 1884, he resigned, and returned to general practice, with offices in Boston. At a meeting of the trustees of the Peabody Fund, in New York, Sept. 25, 1895, he was elected a member of the Board, to take the place of Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, who died Nov. 16, 1894.

Judge Lowell married, May 10, 1853, Miss Lucy B. Emerson, daughter of George B. Emerson, LL.D., and Olivia (Buckminster) Emerson. They had two sons and two daughters: John Lowell Jr., now a member of the Suffolk Bar; James Arnold, graduate of Harvard College, 1894; Lucy Buckminster, and Susan, now Mrs. William H. Aspinwall. G. M. A.

Note.—In the memoir of Judge Lowell in the Annual Proceedings of the Society, page 94, both the place to which he was elected and the date are wrong. Lines 19 and 20 should read: Sept. 25, 1895, Judge Lowell was elected a member of the Board of Trustees of the Peabody Fund, to take the place of Hon. Robert C. Winthrop.

FREDERICK DAWSON STONE, Litt.D., was born in Philadelphia, April 8, 1841, and died in Germantown, August 12, 1897. His grandfather, Charles Stones, came from England to Pennsylvania in 1795. John Stone, son of Charles, was a successful merchant in Philadelphia, and was the father of Frederick Dawson. Young Stone received his education at the Union Academy, and then entered the counting house of his older brothers.

During the War of the Rebellion he enlisted in D Company, Gray Reserves (now the famous First Regiment), and was present at the fight at Carlisle and several minor skirmishes, in all of which he distinguished himself by marked bravery. At the close of the war he returned to mercantile life, in which he continued until shortly before his election to the librarianship of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, in 1876. This latter position he continued to occupy until his death. He received the degree of doctor of letters from the University of Pennsylvania in 1895. He was a corresponding member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society since 1877, and was connected with many other kindred societies. Among his literary works may be mentioned: "Pennsylvania and the Federal Constitution" (edited by John Bach McMaster and Frederick D. Stone), Philadelphia, 1888; "The Founding of Pennsylvania," in Justin Winsor's "Narrative and Critical History of America," Boston, 1884; "The Struggle for Delaware," ibid.; "First Congress of the Scotch-Irish," 1890; "Philadelphia One Hundred Years Ago," 1879; "Penn's Treaty with the Indians;" "How the Landing of Tea was opposed," 1892; "The Battle of Brandywine;" "A Plea for the Study of Genealogy," 1897.

Dr. Stone married, November 9, 1865, Annie E. Wilmer of Paradise, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. One son, Wilmer Stone, survives him.

By Thomas Allen Glenn.

EDWARD WALFORD, M.A., was born in Hatfield Peverel, Essex, England, February 3, 1823, and died at Ventnor in the Isle of Wight, November 20, 1897. He was son of William Walford, M.A., rector of St. Runwald's, Colchester, and grandson of Rev. William Walford, B.A., rector of Boreham near Chelmsford. On the maternal side he was descended from Sir William Pepperrell and Hon. Isaac Royall.

Mr. Walford was educated at Oxford, as were also his father and grandfather. He was ordained but resigned, and devoted his time to teaching and writing. As writer or editor he produced a large number of text-books and historical works. THOMAS LARKIN TURNER was born in Charlestown, Massachusetts, Aug. 17, 1812. He was the son of Captain Larkin and Sally (Gould) Turner of Lexington, Massachusetts. Captain Larkin⁸ was the son of Joshua⁷ and Lydia (Drury) Turner, the line of Turner ancestry being through Joseph⁶, three Japheths, ^{5,4,3}, and a John², to Humphrey¹, who came to Plymouth, Massachusetts, from England about 1630. Thomas Larkin Turner entered Harvard College at the age of sixteen, but left to complete his studies with the well-known Dr. Hurd of Charlestown. At twenty he sailed to the East Indies in one of "Billy" Gray's famous East India merchantmen, under his father's command. During the following years he visited many foreign countries. Returning home, he studied surveying under Felton, one of the best surveyors of that day. In 1839, he established himself as a druggist in Boston, and continued in the business for about forty years.

His first marriage was with Elizabeth Deffner Whiton, daughter of Royal Whiton of Hingham, April 3, 1843. She died in December, 1879, and in 1881 he married Sara A. Loomis (daughter of Daniel Loomis of Braintree, Vt.), who died April 13, 1896.

From 1843 to 1891 his home was in Boston. In 1891 he removed to North Weymouth, where until his death, April 10, 1897, he spent his time in quiet retirement with his books, and in the loved companionship of his niece, Miss Mary A. Flint, who for eight years filled the place of a daughter in the home.

Dr. Turner was warmly interested in New England history and genealogy, and was for many years an active and honored member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society. He had a peculiar fondness for anything relating to the family history of the Turners, and his library contained a valuable collection of publications by those of that name, both here and abroad.

JOHN FLETCHER WILLIAMS, S.B., of St. Paul, Minn., a corresponding member of this Society, elected October 2, 1872, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, September 25, 1834, and died in Rochester, Minnesota, April 28, 1895. He was of Welsh descent, being the last in the family of eight children of Samuel Williams, who removed from Pennsylvania to Ohio in 1807. He graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University in 1852, and in 1855 made his home in St. Paul, Minnesota, where he was a newspaper reporter for fourteen years.

Having acquired much reputation for his sketches of the history of Minnesota, and for biographic notices of early pioneers, Mr. Williams was elected by the Minnesota Historical Society in January, 1867, as its secretary and librarian, in which position he continued until September, 1893.

In 1873 he was appointed by President Grant United States Commissioner from Minnesota for the Philadelphia Exposition. He was corresponding secretary of the Minnesota Old Settlers' Association, a member of the American Historical Association, and was elected a corresponding or honorary member of thirteen historical and genealogical societies in the United States.

The annual report of the American Historical Association for 1892 contains a bibliographic list of Mr. Williams's principal published writings. This list contains thirty titles. The most important volume is his "History of the City of Saint Paul and of the County of Ramsey, Minnesota," comprising 475 pages, which was published by the Minnesota Historical Society in 1876 as the fourth volume of its Collections.

In July, 1865, Mr. Williams married Miss Catherine Roberts, who, with three children, survives him.

His immigrant ancestor was Thomas Dudley, who succeeded John Winthrop as Governor of Massachusetts Bay Colony. James Frederick was a graduate of Bowdoin College in the class of 1865, and began his active career in life as principal of an academy in his native town. In 1875 he accepted the position of special agent of the Aetna Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. At the expiration of ten years, he left the service of the Aetna to become assistant manager of the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company. JOHN RUGGLES, A.M., son of John and Betsey (Wadsworth) Ruggles of Milton, Mass., was born May 28, 1816, and died in Brookline, April 29, 1897. He graduated from Harvard College at the age of twenty, and taught continuously in the Academy at Marblehead, and in the High Schools of Taunton and Brighton, until 1860, when he resigned his position for the purpose of entering the service of the National City Bank of Boston, where he remained until he was 70 years of age. He was a member of the Examining Committee of his alma mater, and also of the Harvard Phi Beta Kappa Society. He served on the school boards of Milton, Brighton and Brookline, and held important connections with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. For some years he was President of the Brighton Savings Bank. In every position of responsibility, as in the less obtrusive walks of private life, he was an example of fidelity, of integrity and honor. An esteemed member of the First Parish of Brighton, he manifested a deep interest in church work, and in all things pertaining to a personally religious life. Mr. Ruggles became a member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, Feb. 15, 1860.

SAMUEL RUSSELL PAYSON, of Boston, admitted a resident member, April 7, 1869, became a life member, 1871, died in Belmont, Mass., July 12, 1897. He was born in Foxborough, Mass., February 2, 1813, where his father was a successful manufacturer. He was a descendant in the sixth generation of Edward Payson, first of Roxbury, through James⁵, Swift⁴, Rev. Phillips³, Samuel², Edward¹, and was descended from a long line of ministerial ancestry, as the direct line indicates. He became a member in early life of the firm of J. C. Howe & Co., woollen commission merchants of Boston, a large and prosperous house, which went out of business in the fall of 1873. He was a director of the National City Bank of Boston, in 1864, and its president from 1883 to 1886. He was also one of the trustees of the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank. In 1874, when the Manchester, N. H., Mills were sold, Mr. Payson bought them, organizing a new company in which the old stockholders were received on advantageous terms, and of which he was made president. Under his administration the corporation had a most prosperous career.

Out of distressing complications, which grew from a tragic source in 1886, his fortune was seriously impaired, and an assignment followed. At great personal sacrifice he paid off all his obligations dollar for dollar. He was a man of the strictest business integrity, quiet and unostentatious in his habits of life, and had a large circle of devoted friends. He married Hannah Gilbert Cushing, by whom he had children: Adelaide Eliza and Gilbert Russell, H. U. 1862, died in 1891, in Watertown. The daughter is the wife of John C. Palfrey of Belmont.

LORENZO SAYLES FAIRBANKS, A.M., elected a member of this Society in 1896, was born in Pepperell, Massachusetts, March 16, 1825, and died in Boston May 22, 1897. He was the son of Joel and Abigail (Tufts) Fairbanks, and a descendant in the eighth generation from Jonathan Fairebanke, who came from Sowerby in the West Riding of Yorkshire, England, to Boston in 1633, and in 1636 settled in Dedham, and built there the noted "Old Fairbanks House," which is still standing. The line of descent is Jonathan¹, John², Deacon Joseph³, Joseph⁴, John⁵, Abner⁶ a soldier in the Revolutionary War, Joel⁷, Lorenzo Sayles⁸.

Lorenzo Sayles graduated from Dartmouth College in 1852, having paid all expenses of his education by his own exertions. He studied law in New York City, and after practising his profession a few years, took charge of a commercial school in Philadelphia in which he had marked success. In 1874 he came to Boston, and resumed the practice of law which he continued to the time of his decease. While at Philadelphia, he published an elaborate treatise on book-keeping, an octavo volume of 444 pages. In 1877, he published a small book on "The Marriage and Divorce Laws of Massachusetts," which had a large local sale, and a revised edition was issued in 1882. For the last five years of his life he was engaged in compiling the "Genealogy of the Fairbanks Family in America," an octavo volume of nearly one thousand pages, issued since his death. It will be a lasting monument to his memory.

He married in New York city, May 15, 1856, Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel S. and Rebecca (Pearl) Heath of Bradford, Mass. His wife died in 1894. He leaves two daughters, Miss Clara Fairbanks and Mrs. Willard Dow of Braintree.

BYRON ANASTASIUS BALDWIN was born in Erie, Pennsylvania, Sept. 16, 1853, and died in Chicago, Illinois, Nov. 8, 1897. He was the son of Lodrick Ives Baldwin, and a descendant in the eighth generation from Nathaniel Baldwin, who came to this country from Cholberg, Buckingham, England, with the New Haven company, and settled in Milford, Connecticut, in 1639. The line of descent was Nathaniel¹, Samuel², Nathaniel³, Samuel⁴, Enos-Stanley⁵, Remus⁶, Lodrick Ives⁷, Byron Anastasius⁸.

Mr. Baldwin was educated in the common schools of Erie, and learned the printer's trade under the late Judge Joseph M. Sterrett. He did not follow this occupation long, but entered the drug business, which he carried on with his father in Erie from 1857 to 1861. In the latter year he married Henrietta Sterrett, and removed to Milwaukee. In 1866 he went to Chicago, which was his home for the rest of his life, with the exception of three years at St. Louis, 1871 to 1874. He was connected for many years with the Masury Paint and Oil Co. as manager of their western branch. The last ten years of his life were devoted to the real estate business.

In 1872 he became a life member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society in the objects of which he took a deep and unflinching interest. He was a frequent contributor to the columns of the Register, furnishing among other articles one published in 1871, concerning his immigrant ancestor, Nathaniel Baldwin, and one line of his descendants. At the time of his death he was engaged upon an account of the early Baldwins of England. By his will Mr. Baldwin provided that in case of the death of his two children without issue ten thousand dollars should pass to this society, the income to be devoted to the publication of portraits of deceased members or other illustrations in the Memorial Volumes of the society. Mr. Baldwin's wife died in 1890, leaving two children: Walter Sterrett Baldwin of Chicago, and Katherine Stewart Baldwin, who married in 1892, Charles Finley Elker of Chicago. In 1892 Mr. Baldwin was married to Caroline Ross, daughter of James Ross of Fleton, Ontario, who with the son and daughter survives him. The esteem in which Mr. Baldwin was held by his associates was warmly expressed in resolutions adopted by the Menoken Club, the Chicago Real Estate Board and other organizations.

AARON HEYWOOD BEAN, son of Aaron and Sarah (Gooch) Bean, was born in Boston, August 22, 1814, and died there September 3, 1897. His paternal grandfather was Joshua Bean, born in Brentwood, N. H., in 1713, and he was probably the grandson of the immigrant, John Bean, who came from Scotland as early as 1660, and settled at Exeter in the same state. Aaron Heywood received his education in Boston schools, graduating from the old Franklin school as a medal scholar in 1828. The next year he entered the service of Thomas Dixon, a Dutch merchant doing business on India wharf. In 1836, he became a clerk in the National Insurance Company, of which institution he was elected secretary a year and a half later, and president in 1861,—a position held by him till October, 1871, when he resigned. He was elected president of the Faneuil Hall Insurance Company, in January, 1872, continuing in that office two years. He was connected with the Hamilton National Bank successively as director, vice-president and president, from 1866 to the time of his death.

Mr. Bean married in 1837, Mary, daughter of Jabez Pollard of Boston, by whom he had nine children. Four of these, two sons and two daughters, survive him. His wife died in 1892. He was an active and exemplary member and officer of the South Congregational Church, for a long time presided over by the Rev. Edward E. Hale, D.D. He was elected a member of this society November 26, 1870, and was a generous contributor to the fund raised for the purchase and improvement of the property on Somerset street, where it has been housed for the past quarter of a century.

BENJAMIN SHREVE, life member of this society since 1871, was the son of Isaac and Hannah (Very) Shreve (a relative of the literary genius Jones Very), and was born in Salem, Massachusetts, February 17, 1813. At the age of fifteen he attended the Academy at Saco, Maine, and after learning the trade of watch-maker and jeweler was in business there and at Salem till about 1849, when he became a member of the wholesale firm of Kingsley & Shreve, New York City. In 1853 he joined the firm of Jones, Ball & Co. of Boston, remaining a member till the formation of the present corporation, "Shreve, Crump & Low Co.," of which he was president at the time of his death. He was many years a director, and several years president of "Merchants Bank," Salem. From the founding of Grace Church, Salem, he was its senior warden till his death, thirty-five years later. He was a very busy man, "never omitting a day," but the hour that called him to the station Monday morning was no more imperative to him than the hours of church services on Sunday. He was refined in thought and expression, a man of sterling integrity, respected by all who knew him. After a long and useful life he died in Salem, August 23, 1896.

Benjamin Shreve married first, Elizabeth Perkins Shannon of Saco, who died at Salem, December, 1874, leaving one son, Octavius B. Shreve, M.D., of Salem. He married second, February, 1877, Mary Levis Gardner of Bristol, Rhode Island, who survives him with one son, Henry M. Shreve.

HON. GEORGE SILSBEE HALE, A.M., member of this society since 1866, was the son of Hon. Salma and Sarah Kellogg (King) Hale, and eighth in descent from Thomas and Thomasine Hale who settled at Newbury, Massachusetts, in 1635. Born at Keene, New Hampshire, September 24, 1825, he graduated from Harvard College in 1844, and after one year in the Cambridge Law School, and several years of teaching and foreign travel, was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1850. Life and Correspondence of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, 1737-1832. By KATE MASON ROWLAND. New York and London. G. P. Putnam's Sons. 1898. 8vo. 2 vols. pp. xx.+400; 487.

Although many biographical sketches, more or less extended, have from time to time been published, it is believed that, until now, no thoroughly prepared and authentic biography of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the last of the signers, has ever been written. In the year 1825, the "Life of Richard Henry Lee" was dedicated by its author to Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Charles Carroll, the surviving signers of the Declaration of Independence. Although there is no lack of information concerning the lives of the first two of this immortal trio, the famous Marylander has been conspicuous chiefly by his unique signature, by his popularity with autograph dealers and collectors, and by the sturdy and brilliant memory which has been his despite the lack of detailed information concerning his career. The historian has given much attention to the Puritan era in England and its influence upon the settlement of our country; he has paid but scant attention to the not dissimilar hegira to Maryland of representatives of the Roman Catholic element in England, which is directly traceable to a cause similar to that which prompted the settlements throughout New England. In her opening chapters this author has supplied this omission in our history, while she also traces the pedigree of her subject far back through Celtic lines fourteen generations to the early kings of England. One finds in this tracing of descent, and in the narrative of the early days of Carroll, a sentiment widely different from that usually found in the lives of Americans. His life and early training in the English schools, from the age of eleven to that of twenty-seven, must, it would seem, have given to his mind a trend far different from that of the vast majority of young men in his native land, in the early days of our nation. And yet it is interesting to observe how instantly and how thoroughly this young man adapted himself to the political conditions in which he found himself upon his return to his native country. As his biographer remarks, he "came back to his provincial home across the sea to find the whole land tingling and throbbing with the first ardent pulsations of the approaching Revolution." The part which he played in the struggle is told in these volumes, illustrated and enforced by extracts from his correspondence, much of which has been jealously preserved by his descendants and by the Maryland Historical Society. This correspondence was very voluminous and much is of great historical interest. The second volume traces his career after the close of the Revolution, an important element in the upbuilding of his State and a prominent figure in the senate of the United States. Copious extracts from his letters trace the course of the second war with England. When, near the close of her work, the author, who has traced a remarkable career in a masterly manner, records that the descendants of Carroll, in 1861, took up arms in defense of "the principles expounded in the immortal Declaration of Independence which their ancestor had signed," she goes far out of her way to express a sentiment with which history has always failed and will ever fail, to sympathize. The work has an excellent index.

In Memoriam. Caleb Davis Bradlee, D.D., Ph.D. 1831-1897. By ALFRED MANCHESTER. Privately printed for distribution. Boston. Geo. H. Ellis, 141 Franklin Street. 1897. 8vo. pp. 265.

This is a singularly appreciative and yet critical memorial of the life and work of a remarkable man. Rev. Alfred Manchester has here given the life-story of a gentle and unassuming nature and yet that of a strong and faithful preacher of the gospel. Although Dr. Bradlee was a busy and efficient pastor he found time to publish three series of poems and two volumes of sermons (a notice of one volume of which, entitled "Sermons for the Church," appeared in the July number of the REGISTER for 1894), and he had also prepared the manuscript for another volume not long before he passed away. He also published several sermons preached on special occasions. His poems bear the stamp of deep religious earnestness, and the sermons contained in this volume (selected from the unpublished volume of sermons of the Longwood pastorate) fully sustain Dr. Bradlee's rather widely extended reputation as a preacher for beauty of expression and faithful presentation of truth. Dr. Bradlee was a member of a large number of historical societies, and was greatly interested in their splendid work. He also corresponded with the librarians of many libraries in our country and in Europe and he gave large numbers of books to libraries, a custom which it would be well for those to follow who have books to bestow, for in public libraries they are likely to be better preserved and to minister to the needs of a larger number of people than when gathered in private collections. The following glowing tribute from Dr. Bradlee's "New Year's Sermon" shows what enthusiasm he had for the study of history: "I conceive that the study of history is vastly useful to man; for such a study invigorates the mind, encourages philosophical thought, ripens, enriches, and glorifies judgment, uplifts imagination, and leads one to detect the beautiful unity of the races, and shows how the nations are really all bound to each other and all connected with Almighty God."

Memoirs and Letters of James Kent, LL.D.; Late Chancellor of the State of New York; Author of "Commentaries on American Law." By his great-grandson, WILLIAM KENT, of the New York Bar. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. 1898. 8vo. pp. viii.+341.

Mr. Kent, in telling the story of the life of that remarkable man, the author of Kent's Commentaries, has done a real service to American biographic letters. Until now the Encyclopædias alone have told this story of a remarkable career, and told it very inadequately. The public is now given access to a mass of material which has, for more than fifty years, lain unused among the papers of the Kent family of New York. This material consists of a large number of letters, some written by, and others addressed to, the chancellor, and covering a large portion of his long life. For many years Judge Kent maintained an active correspondence with his brother Moss Kent, with whom he discussed personal and family matters and public and political affairs with entire freedom. This correspondence gives an excellent insight into the character of Judge Kent; and a background of fact and incident is supplied by memorabilia, written by the Judge's own hand, and discovered among his papers after his death. From this material an excellent study of the life of Chancellor Kent is drawn. The reader learns of his early life; of his education, supposed to have been completed at Yale College, but supplemented and broadened by long continued, systematic home study; of his admission to the bar when but 21 years of age, and his marriage almost immediately thereafter. The story of his subsequent career reads much like a romance, with its early struggles, his perseverance, his success and his final rise to eminence. And yet it is a story of toil, and of a success the reward of toil. Deeply interesting passages in the book are those which tell of Judge Kent's contact with men who have made American history—with Hamilton and Burr, with Jay, with the two Presidents Adams, with Jefferson, with Irving, Prescott and Marryatt, with Judge Story, with Daniel Webster and Charles Sumner. He even records a visit at Philadelphia, with a story of a levee given by President Washington, and a description of the personal appearance, dress and manners of the first President. From Washington to Sumner! What a sweep of American history to be compassed within the life and intimate experience of a single man! The extracts from Judge Kent's correspondence, which are employed freely to illustrate the story of his life, are chosen with taste and discrimination. Mr. Kent, in his preface, acknowledges his indebtedness to Mr. Edmund J. Carpenter of Boston (a member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society), for assistance in preparing the book for the press. There is an index. * * *

Bradford's History "of Plymouth Plantation." From the Original Manuscript. With a Report of the Proceedings incident to the Return of the Manuscript to Massachusetts. Boston: Wright & Potter Printing Co., State Printers, 1898. Super royal, 8 vo. pp. 555.

This edition of Bradford's History was "printed under the direction of the Secretary of the Commonwealth by Order of the General Court." The history of the manuscript of this book, which for three quarters of a century was supposed by American writers to be lost, and its fortunate discovery in the Library of the Bishop of London, are well known to our readers.

The present edition of the history has been printed from the edition of the Massachusetts Historical Society, 1856, corrected by the photographic fac-simile of the manuscript issued in 1896. "The value of this comparison is evident in that sixteen lines of the original omitted in the original first copy have been supplied in this edition." The book is well printed on fine paper and in a large clear type.

Prefixed to the history of Plymouth Plantation is an account of the transfer of the manuscript to this country and the proceedings of the Massachusetts Legislature in relation to the matter. It is embellished with portraits of Hon. Roger Wolcott, LL.D., Governor of Massachusetts, the Most Reverend Frederick Temple, D.D., archbishop of Canterbury, the Rt. Rev. Mandell Creighton, D.D., D.C.L., LL.D., bishop of London, the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, LL.D., ambassador to the Court of Great Britain, and the Hon. George F. Hoar, LL.D., United States Senator, who took a prominent part in the transfer. The manuscript is now in the State Library of Massachusetts.

The committee in charge of the printing of this volume, Senator Alfred S. Roe, and Representatives Francis C. Lowell and Walter L. Bouvé, deserve great praise for the handsome and satisfactory manner in which they have brought out the book.

Year-Book of the Society of Colonial Wars in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for 1898. Boston: Printed for the Society. 8vo. pp. 370.

This is the fourth publication of the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Wars, and is notable, not only for the records of proceedings at the various meetings of the preceding year and for the interesting data concerning many propositi of the members, but for a new feature in the shape of somewhat extended sketches of the lives of ancestors by members descended from the same. This is a feature to be commended; the mere naming of a list of ancestors of a member carries little of information, nor do the brief recapitulation of services in the early wars convey little of value to the student. These larger sketches of a biographical nature are a valuable addition to genealogical literature, which must assist many in the work of research. The 1898 book contains a number of historical articles, chief in importance of which is "The Expedition of 1690 to Canada," by the genealogist of the society, Mr. Walter Kendall Watkins. While not claimed to be complete, this article in its one hundred and twenty-one pages is, perhaps, the nearest approach to a complete collection yet made of the names of participants in Sir William Phips's disastrous campaign. A full account of the expedition from contemporary writings is given, with rosters of the officers and biographical notes of the same; lists of vessels with their commanders; lists of Massachusetts towns in 1690, with their dates of incorporation; names of the men in the various companies and ships, with their towns and other data concerning them; the wounded and dead in the campaign, and a full history of the "Canada townships." Many interesting gleanings from town and State archives are given, and by their gathering together become of great value to the student.

The whole is indexed carefully and fully, and forms a decided addition to the reference works on early Massachusetts history, presenting much material of great difficulty to gather, and now for the first time compiled and brought together. Other articles comprise Mr. Samuel Arthur Bent's address before the society at Sudbury, 17 June, 1897, on "The Wayside Inn, Its History and Literature"; Mr. Edward Webster McGlennen's address on the same occasion on "The Sudbury Fight," 1676; Mr. Edwin Dexter Wadsworth's "Sketch of Captain Wadsworth"; and Charles Wellington Stone's paper: "Some Stories of the Stone Family." The book brings the record of ancestors of members and their services to date.

Historical Register, April, 1898. Published by the Medford Historical Society, Medford, Massachusetts. Vol. I. No. 2. 8vo. 34 pages. Price 25 cts.

The second number of the Medford Historical Register is before us. It contains a history of the Middlesex Canal, a paper read before the society by Lorin L. Dame, D.S., illustrated with a map of the canal in Medford; a memoir of Sarah Bradlee Fulton, a revolutionary patriot, by Miss Helen T. Wild; a memoir, with portrait of William C. Wait, president of the society, and other matters. An instalment of the Medford records of births, etc., from 1682 to 1711, is given.

City of Beverly. Address of the Mayor at the Organization of the City Government, January 1, 1898, Members of the City Government, 1898, and the Annual Reports of the Departments, for the Year 1897. Beverly, Mass.: Walter Bros., Printers. 1898. 8vo. pp. 445.

This volume contains the Inaugural Address of Hon. Perry Collier, Mayor of Beverly, and the annual reports of the several departments. It makes a handsome volume.

We would call particular attention to a new departure which we cannot too highly commend. To the City Book for 1895, three years ago, was appended an instalment of the early records of Beverly. After printing the special statutes of the colony, province and state relating to Beverly, and the charter and ordinances of the city, the committee on printing began the publication of the early records of the town. The instalment that year began with the entry on "the first of the first month 1665," the earliest record extant, and ends, Nov. 5, 1675, filling thirty-one pages. The City Book for 1896 had a similar appendix of early records, this instalment beginning with 1676 and ending in 1685, making ninety-three pages. The volume before us, continues the same praiseworthy practice, the records being from 1685 to 1691, and filling seventy-five pages.

If other cities and towns would utilize their year books in the same way they would preserve a vast amount of materials for their history. Some do this.

Poems of Robert Dinsmoor, "the Rustic Bard." Compiled and Edited by LEONARD ALLISON MORRISON, M.A. Second Edition. Damrell & Upham, "Old Corner Book Store." Boston, Mass. 16mo. pp. 325.

The poetry of Robert Dinsmoor, "The Rustic Bard," who wrote in the Scottish dialect, was quite popular three-quarters of a century ago. The first edition of his poems was published in 1828. In bringing out a new edition, Mr. Morrison has added some interesting notes, chiefly biographical. The preface and introduction contain much matter about the author and his kindred. An Appendix contains some biographical and genealogical matter relating to the families of Dinsmoor and McKeen, and biographies of John Sullivan and Gen. John Stark.

History of the Town of Goshen, Connecticut, With Genealogies and Biographies. Based upon the Records of Deacon Lewis Mills Norton. By Rev. A. G. HIBBARD, A.M. Hartford, Conn.: Press of the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company. 1897. 8vo. pp. 602. Price $4, or by registered mail $4.30. Address Rev. Augustine G. Hibbard, Woodstock, Conn.

Rev. Mr. Hibbard's History of Goshen seems to be prepared with great labor and care. He acknowledges his indebtedness to Dea. Lewis M. Norton, who died in 1860, aged 76, who commenced in 1842 to collect materials illustrating the history of the town, and at his death left two manuscript volumes of about six hundred pages each, entitled: Goshen Statistics and Family History. A memoir of Dea. Norton is prefixed to the work.

Mr. Hibbard's goodly volume contains the annals of the town for a century and a half. Its industries, its schools and churches, the part which it took in the Indian and the Revolutionary wars, and in the late civil war, with many other matters that make up the life of a community, are well treated in these pages. Biographies of prominent citizens—ministers, lawyers, physicians and others—are given. More than one hundred and fifty pages are devoted to genealogy which must have caused much research. A record of marriages beginning in 1740 is appended. The book has a good index. The author adds: "It is proper to state that the Hon. John M. Wadham, recently deceased, made a bequest towards the payment of the expense of this publication."

The Journal of Jacob Fowler, Narrating an Adventure from Arkansas through the Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico to the Sources of Rio Grande del Norte, 1821-22. Edited with Notes by ELLIOTT CONES. New York: Francis P. Harper. 1898. 8vo. pp. 183.

Jacob Fowler, the author of the Journal here printed is, as the editor says, "an unknown author whose work has never before been paraded beyond the private circle of friends, relatives and descendants." The manuscript has been preserved by Col. Reuben T. Durrett, LL.D., of Louisville, Ky., "the Nestor of Kentucky Historians," to whom the volume is dedicated.

"Major Fowler," we are told, "died in Covington in the year 1850. His life as a surveyor and explorer in the West subjected him to many hardships, but a constitution naturally vigorous was preserved with care until he reached his eighty-sixth year."

Col. Durrett obtained the manuscript some years ago from Mrs. Ida (Symmes) Coates, a great granddaughter on the maternal side of the author. The manuscript came down to Mrs. Coates in a direct line, and is unquestionably the work of Major Fowler. Col. Durrett in a letter to Dr. Cones gives a sketch of the life of the author, and a history of his manuscript.

The volume forms No. I. of the American Explorers' Series. It is a valuable addition to the works on Western exploration, which Mr. Harper is issuing under the editorship of Dr. Cones. The territory through which Fowler passed is described in the title page, and the adventures he met with in his travels are interesting and instructive, particularly to those who wish to know the condition of our frontier settlements three-quarters of a century ago.

Historical Collections of the Topsfield Historical Society. Vol. III. 1897. Topsfield, Mass.: Published by the Society, 1897. 8vo. pp. 172.

The third volume of the Collections of the Topsfield Historical Society, which is before us, contains a variety of interesting matter illustrating the history of that town. A portrait of Rev. Anson McLand, whose memoir is here given, forms the frontispiece, and views of the Methodist Church in 1840 and 1897 illustrate a history of the Methodist Episcopal Church in that town.

We are glad to see that the society in this volume of the Collections continues to print its town records. Nearly fifty pages are devoted to the early town records, from 1654 to 1699. About the same number of pages of Deaths are printed from 1658 to 1800. There is no way of preserving the records of a town like printing them.

Martin Gay. Three Letters written by an American Loyalist and his Wife, 1775-1788. With Notes. By EDWARD WHEELWRIGHT. Cambridge: John Wilson and Son. 1898. Royal 8vo. pp. 28.

Mr. Gay, the writer of these letters, was a son of Rev. Ebenezer Gay, of Hingham, where he was born, Dec. 29, 1726. He came to Boston and learned the trade of a brass founder, which business he carried in Union Street. In 1761 he was admitted a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and was chosen captain in 1772. He was a deacon in the West Church, Boston. Mr. Wheelwright gives a very interesting account of his life. The pamphlet is reprinted from the Proceedings of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts. It is illustrated by a portrait of Deacon Gay, two plans of the estate in Union Street, and a view of the premises as they appeared in 1840, when occupied by the Revere Copper Company.

Haliburton, A Centenary Chaplet. With a Bibliography by John Parker Anderson. British Museum, London, Eng. Published for the Haliburton Club, King's College, Winsor, N. S. William Briggs, Toronto. 1897. 8vo. pp. 116.

"This book, as its name implies," says the president of the Haliburton Club, A. B. De Mille, in his preface, "is intended for a tribute to the memory of Judge Haliburton. It was first proposed to publish the volume within a month of the centenary of his birth on December 17, 1896, but circumstances rendered this impossible. The original title, however, has been allowed to stand as expressing the raison d'être of the publication."

The volume contains contributions by Messrs. R. G. Haliburton, H. P. Scott and F. Blake Crofton, and is illustrated with a portrait of Judge Thomas C. Haliburton, and with other fine engravings. Mr. Anderson's Bibliography fills eight pages. It makes a handsome book.

War Papers. Read before the Commandery of the State of Maine Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. Volume I. Portland: The Thurston Print. 1898. 8vo. pp. 352.

Here are nineteen papers, read before the Loyal Legion of Maine, between March 7, 1888, and May 4, 1896. They record events in the late civil war, and are written by members who took part in those events. The papers are printed in the order they were read, and each author is represented by only a single paper, though he may have read two or more papers. The titles show a variety of topics. They are important additions to the history of the war, and show the prominent part taken by the soldiers of the Pine Tree State.

Suffolk Deeds, Liber IX. Boston: Rockwell & Churchill, City Printers. 1897.

This extremely valuable and important series is too widely known to require any notice in detail. This ninth volume is similar to those preceding it, and contains the deeds recorded in Suffolk County from July 31, 1674, to January 27, 1676-7, with an index which fills 229 pages. The verbatim copies of the original deeds were made under the direction of Charles A. Drew, Esq., and the index was in charge of John T. Hassam, Esq., both gentlemen of special qualifications for such work, and with reputations which guarantee its quality.

Mortuary Record from the Grave-stones of the Old Burial Ground in Brewster, Mass. With Biographical and Genealogical Notes. Compiled and edited by CHARLES E. MAYO. Yarmouth, Mass.: Register Publishing Company. 1898. 8vo. pp. 83. Paper. Price 75 cents. Address: Register Publishing Company, Yarmouthport, Mass.

Mr. Mayo of St. Paul, Minn., in a preface, signed by him, tells us that "On Saturday, June 15, 1895, at the annual meeting of the Brewster Pilgrim Club, an antiquarian society in Brewster, Mass., the subscriber, then on a visit to his native place, suggested the propriety of copying the inscriptions in the old burial ground. Thereupon several ladies, members of the Club, volunteered their assistance, and the work was accomplished on Monday, June 17th."

This pamphlet gives a literal transcript of the inscriptions in the old burial ground of the First Parish in Harwich, now Brewster. The value of the inscriptions is much increased by the interesting biographical and genealogical notes.

An engraving giving a view of the old meeting house, which stood from 1724 to 1834, illustrates the work.

Nantucket Historical Association. Vol. I. Nantucket, Mass.: Published by the Association. Bulletin No. 1, 1896. 8vo. pp. 38. Price 50 cts. No. 2, 1898. pp. 95. Price $1.00.

Two Bulletins have been issued by the Nantucket Historical Association, and are before us. They contain much matter of interest to the people of Nantucket. The first number contains an essay on Quakerism on Nantucket since 1800, by Henry Barton Worth, and the second contains the Timothy White Papers, 1725-1755, edited by Rev. Myron Samuel Dudley. Mr. White was an early pastor of the Congregational Church at Nantucket.

For sale by G. E. Littlefield, 67 Cornhill, Boston, and Miss Susan E. Brock, Nantucket, Mass.

The Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury, Massachusetts. With some Related Families of Newbury, Haverhill and Hampton. By DAVID W. HOYT. Part Two. Providence, R. I. 1898. 8vo. 80 pages. Price $1.00 a part.

The first part of this serial was published in December last. The part now under notice was issued in June. It contains the surnames between Buswell and Fletcher. The work gives the genealogical records of the first three or four generations of settlers bearing those surnames. It contains not only all births, marriages and deaths to be found on the town records, but all Salisbury and Amesbury names from all accessible sources down to 1700, arranged in alphabetical order. Salisbury and Amesbury are among the early settled towns of Massachusetts, and many of the inhabitants of other towns trace their ancestry to these towns. We hope that the numerous persons interested in the genealogy of these two towns will see that Mr. Hoyt receives encouragement sufficient to enable him to print his book without unnecessary delay.

Annual Report of the American Historical Association for the Year 1896. Washington: Government Printing Office. 1897. 2 vols. 8vo. pp. 1313; 442.

The student of American history, or of history in general, will be reluctant to leave unread any of the twenty-five papers constituting these volumes. The longest of them, of more than six hundred pages, is the "Report of the Historical Manuscripts Commission of the American Historical Association"; the most elaborate is the prize essay of Herman V. Ames, Ph.D., on "The Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of the United States during the first century of its history," which exclusively occupies the second volume. The two articles on Leopold von Ranke,—the latter a bibliography,—by E. G. Bourne and William Price, respectively, as also those on "Political Science and History," by J. W. Burgess; "The Teaching of History," by Herbert B. Adams, secretary of the Association; and "The Teaching of European History in the College," by James Harvey Robinson, relate, as their titles imply, to history in its universal aspect; all the others treat of distinctively American topics. The Report of the Proceedings of the Twelfth Annual Meeting, 1896; Report of the Treasurer; List of Committees, Necrology; and Inaugural Address of the President, Dr. Richard S. Storrs, complete the contents of the volumes. The discussion of Prof. Burgess's address, following its delivery, illustrates, in a striking manner, the impartially scientific spirit that pervades all the documents of this collection.

Services in Commemoration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the First Election of Wardens and Vestrymen of the Parish of Rye, New York, held in the Parish Church, Thursday, February 28, 1895. Published by order of the Vestry. New York: The Evening Post Job Printing House, 156 Fulton Street. 1895. 8vo. pp. 89.

The beautiful and, as one may say, devotional aspect of the Gothic letters of the title of the programme of the above services, emphasizes a feature characterizing the whole of this very tasteful volume. It comprises, besides the programme, copies of the invitation issued, a report of the services,—including the historical address of the Clerk of the Vestry, Mr. Thomas T. Sherman,—and an appendix containing a list of the Rectors, Wardens, Vestrymen, Trustees and Clerks of the Parish since its foundation. This list, embracing a period of nearly two hundred years, was very carefully prepared by Mr. Sherman from the original records of the Vestry, and will be of service to the genealogist, as in it are found the names of many old settlers. The illustrations exhibit the exterior and interior of the Church.

Peabody Educational Fund. A Brief Sketch of George Peabody and a History of the Peabody Education Fund through Thirty Years. By J. L. M. CURRY. Cambridge: University Press; John Wilson & Son. 1898. 8vo. pp. x. + 161.

This book, dedicated to the Trustees of the Peabody Educational Fund, is a narrative, in a comprehensively brief form, of the benefactions of that most illustrious of modern charities, whose detailed history is recorded in the four published volumes of the Board and in the later annual reports. It opens with a biography of the munificent founder of the Fund, occupying fifty-six pages.

In these days of the conception of that grandest ideal of the waning century, the Anglo-American alliance, and when fraternization in arms has abolished the last trace of sundering mistrust between the North and the South, it is peculiarly stimulating to revive the memory of that American whose statue, erected in London during his lifetime, was unveiled by the Prince of Wales; while it is equally appropriate to the hour to review the labors of an agency which has been most signally successful in promoting the re-unification of the dis-severed sections of our country, its efforts being styled by Mr. Curry the "first olive-branch of peace and love held out to the South after the surrender at Appomattox."

An index, presenting in the compass of ten pages the substance of the entire book, is an especially gratifying portion of the work.

A portrait of Mr. Peabody, an engraving of noteworthy excellence, furnishes the frontispiece.

Tenth Report on the Custody and Condition of the Public Records of Parishes, Towns and Counties. By ROBERT T. SWAN, Commissioner. Boston: Wright & Potter Printing Co., State Printers. 1898. 8vo. pp. 189.

The tenth annual report of the commissioner on the custody and condition of the public records of parishes, towns and counties is before us. The work done by Mr. Swan, the commissioner, shows the need of such an office as his. Mainly through his efforts new laws have been made to ensure the safety of the public records. We would recommend our readers to study Mr. Swan's report, pp. v. to xxii.

Industrial Experiments in the British Colonies of North America. By ELEANOR LOUISA LORD. Bryn Mawr College, 1896. Baltimore. The Johns Hopkins Press. 1898. 8v. pp. vii.+154.

In this, the 17th extra volume of the "Johns Hopkins University Studies in Historical and Political Science," Miss Lord, ably manipulating such sterling material as the "Board of Trade Papers" in London, and the contemporary treatises on the colonial policy, has narrated the efforts of the government of England to introduce in America an industry intended to promote the benefit of both countries, viz., the production of stores for the royal navy. The contents of the book, instructively dealing with such subjects as emigrant labor, the bounty system, the New England lumber trade and the rise of manufacturers in the colonies, are supplemented by a bibliography of great value.

On every page of this intelligently written history is visible that irrepressibly defiant spirit which the world to-day congratulates itself was so constantly irritated by the mother country that revolt and independence could but be the result.

Historical Address delivered by Rev. Edward A. Chase at the Centennial Celebration of the Congregational Church, Hampden, Mass., Nov. 18, 1885. Hartford, Conn.: Press of the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company. 1898. 8vo. pp. 69.

This centenary address was delivered twelve years ago, but has just been printed. It gives an interesting history of the town and the church for one hundred years. The appendix contains some historical documents and notes, with brief genealogies of the Warren, Bliss, Burt, Chaffee, King, Langdon, Morris, Russell, Sessions, Stacy, Stebbins, West, Williams and Wales families. It is a valuable addition to our local and family history.

John Chamberlain, the Indian Fighter at Pigwacket. Prepared by GEORGE W. CHAMBERLAIN, B.S. Weymouth, Mass.: Weymouth and Braintree Publishing Company. 1898. 8vo. pp. 14.

This pamphlet, a reprint from the Proceedings of the Maine Historical Society for January, 1898, gives much genealogical matter about the Chamberlain family, with special reference to John Chamberlain, a soldier in Lovewell's fight, May 8, 1725, O. S., who is claimed by his descendants as having killed Paugus, the Indian chief, in that fight. We have not seen sufficient evidence to decide who did kill Paugus. Much interesting matter is found here.

The Genealogical Advertiser. A Quarterly Magazine of Family History. Published by LUCY HALL GREENLAW, Gordon Place, Cambridgeport, Mass. 8vo. Four numbers a year of 24 pages each. Price 25 cents a number, or $1.00 a year.

This new genealogical magazine was commenced last March, and promises to fill a needed want. It is intended to be issued in March, June, September and December. The issues for March and June are before us. Mrs. Greenlaw of Cambridge, the editor, has had much experience in genealogical work and knows the wants of genealogists. A large portion of each number is devoted to printing the town and county records. In these two numbers instalments of the Plymouth county marriages, abstracts of the Plymouth county probate records, the Pembroke, Mass., births, marriages and deaths, and the Bristol, Me., marriages are preserved. The magazine contains other matter of interest to searchers in family history. We hope the work will receive the patronage it deserves.

Andover, Massachusetts. Proceedings at the Celebration of the Two Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the Incorporation of the Town, May 20, 1896. Andover, Mass.: The Andover Press. 1897. 8vo. pp. 172.

The historical and genealogical importance of such reports as this, if not enhanced, is surely not rendered less conspicuous by typographical attractions such as are embodied in this volume. Its principal literary features, the Oration by Albert Poor, Esq., and the Poem by Mrs. Anne Sawyer Downs, occupy nearly one half of the book, and are significative of the intellectual and moral atmosphere of the "Three Great Schools of Andover."

It is expected that a commemoration like this should be frankly eulogistic; but, in the present instance, it is not too much to say that the subject of the eulogy justifies all the enthusiasm whose expression, whether in speech, song, tableau, procession, or game, finds its memorial in this book.

The illustrations offer us the portraits of the very efficient committee of arrangements, as also of the poetess and orator.

The "Old Northwest" Genealogical Quarterly. Vol. I., No. 1, January, 1898, and No. 2, April, 1898. Issued Quarterly. Columbus, Ohio: Published by the "Old Northwest" Genealogical Society. 1898. 8vo. Each number contains about 50 pages. Price $2 a year. Single numbers 50 cts.

Constitution and By-Laws of the "Old Northwest" Genealogical Society. With a List of Members at Date. Incorporated May 24, 1897. January, 1898. 8vo. pp. 7.

The "Old Northwest" Genealogical Society, which has been incorporated but a little over a year, commenced last January the publication of a quarterly magazine devoted to genealogy, under the editorship of Lucius Carroll Herrick, M.D., the author of the Herrick Genealogy, published in 1885, and noticed in our pages. The Quarterly contains matter relating to families in the "Old Northwest" similar to that we have given our readers in the Register for the last half century. Each number contains a memoir with a portrait. That in the first number is of Micajah T. Williams, and that in the second, of Israel H. Harris. The work is well edited, and has many able contributors. We wish the new magazine abundant patronage, and a long life.

The constitution of the society is printed uniform with the Quarterly.

The East Anglian and Notes and Queries on Subjects connected with the Counties of Suffolk, Cambridge, Essex and Norfolk. Issued monthly. Edited by C. H. EVELYN WHITE, F.S.A., &c. May, 1898. Norwich: Agas H. Goose. London. Elliot Stock. Price 5 shillings per annum.

The Third Series of this useful periodical was commenced January, 1897, and a prospectus then issued gives a history of the work. "This old established and valued medium of intercommunication for antiquaries, genealogists and others interested in the general study of local archaeology, legendary lore, etc.," says this prospectus, "was originally founded in the year 1858, under the auspices of the Suffolk Institute of Archaeology, and editorship of its then honorary secretary, the late Mr. Samuel Tymms, F.S.A. After the issue of a few numbers, Mr. Tymms took the entire control and responsibility of the publication, which he carried on uninterruptedly for some years. For the first three years the East Anglian was issued quarterly, but during its fourth year it appeared every alternate month. In 1863 the monthly issue commenced, and the close of the year was marked by a completion of the first volume, which has long been a very scarce book. The monthly issue was carried on with fair regularity until nearly the close of the fourth volume, when, owing to Mr. Tymms's death, the serial was discontinued. During his residence in Ipswich, and while holding the office of honorary secretary, etc., of the Suffolk Institute of Archaeology, the present proprietor and editor of the East Anglian, entirely upon his own responsibility and at his own cost and charges, decided upon making an effort to re-establish the serial, and to conduct it upon precisely similar lines to those that marked the previous issue. In January, 1885, the first monthly part of the New Series was issued, and very warm congratulations and offers of assistance have ever since continued to reach the editor from numerous influential friends, both old and new."

The publication was regularly maintained to the latter part of 1896, completing close upon six volumes, containing on an average some 420 pages. The third series has now been issued for seventeen months.

Rev. Mr. White, the editor, is rector of Rampton, Cambridgeshire, where communications for the East Anglian should be addressed. He has done a good work, in reviving Mr. Tymms's periodical and carrying it on in so able a manner till the present time. We commend the work to all interested in antiquarian and genealogical matter and particularly to those whose ancestors came from East Anglia.

Publications of the Rhode Island Historical Society. New Series. Vol. VI., Nos. 1 and 2, April and July, 1898. Providence, R. I. Published by the Society. 1898. 8vo. Issued quarterly on the first of April, July, October and January, at one dollar a year. Single numbers 56 cents each. A few sets (five volumes, uniformly bound) can be had at the cabinet at $1.40 a volume.

Two numbers of the sixth volume of the Publications of this society are now before us. Amos Perry, LL.D., is the editor, and the publishing committee are Prof. J. Franklin Jameson, Amasa M. Eaton and the Editor. Besides the proceedings of the society, the able address of the president, Hon. John H. Stiness, the reports of the several standing committees, the necrology of its members, and other matter particularly relating to the society, we find here many historical papers and documents illustrating the history of the state. We commend the work to our readers.

We continue in this number our quarterly notices of works recently published relating to genealogy.

The Spalding Memorial, by the late Rev. Samuel J. Spalding, D.D., was published in 1872, and made a thick volume of over six hundred pages, well arranged and thoroughly indexed. Soon after Rev. Dr. Spalding's death in 1892, Mr. Spalding of Chicago, Ill., the compiler of this book, undertook the task of revision, and for the past three years the work was actively carried on, and this noble volume is the result. It contains over 15,000 names, with many steel engravings, of which fifteen are portraits of prominent members of the family. There are some English views, namely, the Spalding Church, Crowland Abbey, and the Triangular Bridge, a facsimile of a deed of Ralph Spalding, A.D. 1318, coats of arms, and a map of the town of Spalding in 1722. The book is a beautiful specimen of bookmaking. It shows indefatigable research, is well arranged and has an excellent index.

The next book is the Kent Genealogies by Lloyd Vernon Briggs. The compiler many years ago began collecting materials for the purpose of eventually compiling a genealogy of his ancestors by the name of Kent. "In my work," says Mr. Briggs, "among the court, town, county, church and military records I copied every item containing the name of Kent." In this way a mass of gen ealogical matter was accumulated, which has been arranged under different families as far as possible. "I have," says the compiler, "published all of my accumulated material, that others may have the benefit of my work in directions other than that of my own family." The book does credit to Mr. Briggs. It is well printed and is embellished with portraits and views. He gives several coats of arms as a frontispiece, but candidly says: "I have not attempted to identify them as belonging to any particular branch."

The next book, Mr. Shotwell's "Annals of Our Colonial Ancestors and their Descendants, or Our Quaker Forefathers and their Posterity," is intended to answer the question, "Who, where, when and what have they been, and what have they done or undergone that might be of interest to their relatives in time to come." This is done in a very satisfactory manner. The book is illustrated by numerous portraits and other engravings.

The two works that follow, "Excerpts from Annals of Our Colonial Ancestors" and "Benjamin Lundy," are by Mr. Shotwell, and are both reprints from his larger volume.

The next book, on the Maxwell family, is printed on thick white paper, on one side of the sheet, and with a clear bold type. It has an Appendix containing a Sketch of the Maxwell Family and Biographical Sketches.

The book on the Kelley Family is devoted to a record of the descendants of Joseph Kelley, an early settler of Norwich, Conn. The book is well compiled and well printed, and is illustrated with numerous portraits, views and other engravings. It has a good index and blank paper for additions and corrections.

The Fuller book is principally devoted to the descendants of Joseph Fuller of Middleton, Mass., born August 7, 1705, and died Jan. 5, 1769. His ancestor, Thomas Fuller (of whom a good account was contributed to the REGISTER for October, 1859, by the Rev. Arthur B. Fuller), came to New England in 1638, and was the ancestor of a highly intellectual posterity. Miss Abercrombie's book is well compiled and handsomely printed.

Dr. Bulloch's book on Baillie of Dunain contains, besides the Baillie Family, short sketches of the McIntosh, Bullock and other families. The compiler has devoted much research to its preparation and has made a handsome volume of it.

The next book is devoted to the Bonney family, descended from Thomas Bonney, who came to New England in the Hercules and settled at Duxbury, Mass. This is the second edition, the first having been published in 1878. The book is handsomely printed on fine white paper, with large type and broad margins. It contains much valuable matter. It is embellished with views of the houses of John Alden and Capt. Miles Standish, at Duxbury, and a map.

The book on the Lineage and Family Record of Alfred Wyman Hoar and his wife is a well printed book. Its object is, the preface states, "to preserve the family records of our lines, and we have recorded in a condensed form many of the events in the lives of our ancestors." There are records here of Hoar from 1769, Hunt from 1727, Wyman from 1769, and Jordan from the 17th century. The book contains much genealogical information.

The book on the Ancestry of Lydia Foster gives a record of the ancestors of Lydia, daughter of Ebenezer and Hannah (Parlin) Foster, b. Feb. 3, 1776, m. in 1779 Stephen Lincoln of Oakham, with some account of kindred families. The book is well compiled and well printed. Mr. Morris, the compiler of this work, is the author of "Stephen Lincoln, his Ancestry and Descendants," published in 1895.

The Official Report of the Second Reunion of the American Family of Tyler is a handsomely printed pamphlet, with a portrait of Prof. Moses Coit Tyler as a frontispiece. The occasion was a very interesting one.

The Report of the first Reunion of the Bassett Family Association shows that active measures are being taken to gather materials for preparing a genealogy of the Bassetts. The occasion was a very agreeable one, and much historical and genealogical matter is preserved in this pamphlet.

The pamphlet on the Coleman Family is by Silas Bunker Coleman, an officer in the U. S. Navy in the late civil war. It is devoted to the descendants of Thomas Coleman of Nantucket, Mass. It is well compiled and well printed and has a good index.

The next pamphlet, on Silas Sweet and his Descendants, is well prepared and printed. Silas Sweet was born in 1745, was a resident of New Bedford from 1770 to 1800, when he removed to Bradford, Vt.

The account of the Fifth Annual Gathering of the Balley-Bajley Family Association, held in North Scituate, Mass., last September, is quite interesting. The principal address was by Miss Lucy Donnison Balley of Marietta, Ohio. It was read by Mr. William H. Head. The other literary exercises were of a high character.

The pamphlet on the Coleman Family is by Dr. Edmund Carleton of New York city, and is a reprint from the "History of Littleton." It gives the English ancestry of Edward Carleton, born in England in 1605, who came to New England and settled in Rosley, Mass. About three pages are devoted to the descendants of the immigrant.

The Stites and James Genealogy, by Prof. James of the University of Chicago, is a reprint from the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record for April, 1898. It includes, among others, mention of the family names of Alward, Casod, Coon, Cox, Duling, Griesbach, Lange, Martin, Schaefer and Tingley.

The Waldo pamphlet is a reprint from the Register for April last. Mr. Lincoln, the compiler, has prefixed engravings of the gravestones of Cornelius Waldo at Chelmsford, 1701, and of Hannah Waldo at Charlestown, 1704. He has added a good index.

The pamphlet on Col. John Gorham's "Wash Book," by Mr. Sprague, is also reprinted from the April Register.

The pamphlet by Mr. Whitmore on the Descendants of Hepesilli Foster is another reprint from the Register. The article appeared in the April and July numbers.

The pamphlet on the Mowry Family Monument is also from the April Register. The article as it appeared in the Register was illustrated by a full length view of the monument. The pamphlet has besides this engraving four views of the base of the monument and portraits of Hon. Arion Mowry, who erected the monument, and Dr. William A. Mowry, who wrote the article.

The pamphlet on the Pillsbury Family is printed as a prospectus of a larger work on that family, now in press by the Massachusetts Publishing Company, Everett Square, Everett, Mass. It contains fifteen pages of the work and an advertisement.

The Gereardy pamphlet is by Mr. Bolton, librarian of the Boston Athenaeum, and is reprinted from the present number of the Register.

Mr. Bolton is also the author of the next work, the tabular pedigree, giving the ancestry of Margaret Wyatt. To quote his words: "The researches of Mr. Henry F. Waters and Francis O. Allen, Esq., have established much concerning the immediate relatives of Matthew Alyn of Windsor, and his brother Thomas Alyn of Barnstable. From these communications in the New-England Historical and Genealogical Register, I have gathered the links which connect the Alyn's with many county families, and have traced out the ancestry of Margaret Wyatt."

DEATHS.

JUSTIN WINSOR, LL.D., Librarian of Harvard University, was born in Boston, Jan. 2, 1831, the son of Nathaniel Winsor and Ann Thomas Howland. He fitted for Harvard at the Boston Latin School and entered college with the class of 1853. In 1852 he left Cambridge, and spent two years in study at Heidelberg and Paris. Returning to Boston in 1854, Mr. Winsor married and resumed the life of study and writing which had borne its first fruit in 1849 in a history of Duxbury. His family had been for generations associated with the old pilgrim town of Duxbury, and Mr. Winsor, ever simple in his tastes and loyal by nature, associated himself with it in his first historical work. The book was a remarkable production for so young a man, and the research and care which he gave to the task trained him for those two monuments of his historical learning—the Memorial History of Boston and the Narrative and Critical History of America.

Mr. Winsor devoted some years to the production of poetry, reviews, essays, and to a study of the drama, from which grew a life of Garrick (never published). But his abilities found no adequate field until his appointment in 1866 as a trustee of the Boston Public Library. Those about him at once perceived his grasp of conditions, his sound judgment, and they felt the force of his conviction that the public library had great possibilities. The unexpected removal by death of the head of the library led, in 1868, to Mr. Winsor's entering the almost unknown profession of a librarian. He at once began a correspondence with European and American librarians, and fostered in those days a spirit such as is now awakened in some measure by state and national library organizations. He used his great bibliographical learning to interest the public in better literature, he established branches to distribute books, he did away with unnecessary barriers and at the same time perfected library administration. So that, while he was making library work a respected profession he was himself coming to be the chief in that profession, loved and honored by all who served under him.

In 1876 the American Library Association was founded and Dr. Winsor became its first president. He again held the presidency in 1897, when the leading librarians were entertained in the larger cities of England, during the international library conference.

His work at Harvard began in 1877, and was made attractive by the opportunity to bring the library close to the daily life of the young men; by the privilege of working under President Eliot, a warm friend; and by the welcome moments of leisure which a perfected organization soon brought to him. His administration helped to make the new education a success, rendering the broader scholarship of the elective system and of original research in the unrivalled collections under his command. His aim—the use rather than the storage of books—had made first the Boston Public Library and then the Harvard College Library more widely known, and through all his later life Dr. Winsor was constantly consulted by librarians and trustees. He was ever kindly and considerate, with a frankness born of his simple sincere nature.

His work in bibliography and cartography made his name familiar to all scholars in these fields. His retentive and well-equipped mind fitted him for the collection, arrangement and evaluation of the vast storehouses of geographical material, before unclassified. In 1879 he published "The Reader's Handbook of the American Revolution"; in 1880-'81 (as editor), the "Memorial History of Boston"; and during the next few years works on cartography and kindred subjects, leading, in 1885, to the publication, under his editorship, of the "Narrative and Critical History of America," finished in 1889. His "Christopher Columbus" (1891) aroused criticism by its fearless analysis of the character and motives of the discoverer. Other works followed: "Cartier to Frontenac" (1894), "The Mississippi Basin" (1895), and the last of the series, "The Westward Movement," published after Dr. Winsor's death. He was President of the American Historical Association, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Historical Society, member of the American Philosophical Society, the American Antiquarian Society, Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, honorary member of the Royal Society, Canada, honorary member of the Literary and Historical Society of Quebec, honorary corresponding member of the Royal Geographical Society, and a member of many other organizations. His connection with the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, as resident member, began October 4, 1848, and closed January 7, 1852, although he constantly showed his interest in the work of the Society.

In 1868 he received the Bachelor of Arts degree at Harvard as of the class of 1853. The University of Michigan and Williams College both gave him the degree of LL.D.

Dr. Winsor died at Cambridge, October 22, 1897. He had a dignified presence, and his comments on men and books had a charm that lingers in the memory. "Optimism and humour," his friend Mr. W. E. A. Axon, of England, writes, "are perhaps the most striking characteristics of the American, and Dr. Winsor had both." At the impressive services in Appleton Chapel, attended by the highest officials of the state and university, Professor Peabody said: "Mr. Winsor had what may almost be called a genius for friendship—a human, gentle, considerate, hospitable intimacy which comprehended many lives in many lands for many years."*

He married Caroline Tufts, daughter of Ebenezer and Sally (Fuller) Barker; their daughter Constance, the wife of James Atkins Noyes, died 1 Jan., 1895, leaving a daughter Penelope Barker, the only grandchild of Dr. Winsor.—By Charles Knowles Bolton, A.B., Librarian of the Boston Athenæum.

Mrs. HARRIETTE MARIE FORSYTH, widow of the late Capt. Frederic Forsyth, of the Forsyth de Fronsac family, died Friday, May 20, at 3 P.M., at her late residence, 52 State Street, Portland, Me., aged sixty-five. She was born in Scarborough, Me., and was the second and last surviving daughter of the late Maj.-Gen. Joseph Scott Jewett, who commanded at the Military Review of Maine in 1839. He was a member of the Senate of Massachusetts before 1820, when Maine was separated from that State.

She possessed a charming and agreeable manner and a mind trained in the higher schools. On exhibition day, at Mrs. Field's English Academy, she was selected for her attainments in music. Of greater value to her family was her loving and gentle heart, whose inspirations prompted a noble and self-sacrificing life. Always looking forward hopefully, she encouraged her children by thought and example. †

REV. LUTHER FARNHAM, A.M.

By JOHN WARD DEAN, A.M.

LUTHER FARNHAM was the son of Ephraim Farnham of Concord, N. H., by his wife Sarah Brown. He was born at Concord, February 5, 1816, the youngest of nine children. His early education was received at the public schools. He was fitted for college at Kimball Union Academy in Meredith, N. H. After which he entered Dartmouth College and was graduated there in the Class of 1837. After graduation, he taught school as principal of the academy at Limerick, Maine, for one year, for a short time was assistant teacher at the academy at Pembroke, N. H. He then entered the Theological Seminary at Andover, Mass., where he studied divinity and was graduated in 1841.

He was licensed to preach August 9, 1842, at Concord, N. H., by the Hopkinton Association. After two years, he was ordained and called to the Congregational church at Northfield, Mass., November 20, 1844, and held the pastorate till April 9, 1845. In that year he removed to Boston, Mass. For some years he supplied, for brief periods, the pulpits of churches in the vicinity of that city.

From 1847 to 1849, he was acting pastor of Marshfield, Mass., where Hon. Daniel Webster was a parishioner. He was also acting pastor of churches in the following places, namely: Tiverton, R. I., from 1860 to 1861; Lynnfield, Mass.; First Church of West Newbury, Mass.; East Marshfield, Mass., from 1865 to 1866; Concord, Mass., 1866; Burlington, Mass., from 1866 to 1867; and the First Church in New Bedford in 1869.

He was assistant editor of the Christian Alliance from 1845 to 1847, and, for a time, of the Massachusetts Ploughman. He was secretary of the Southern Aid Society, Boston, for the assistance of feeble churches among the poor whites and blacks of the South, from 1854 to 1860. For twelve years previous to 1861, he was the Boston correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce.

He was a frequent contributor to the newspapers and other periodicals, among which were Hunt's Merchants Magazine, the New York Observer, the Boston Post, the Massachusetts Ploughman and the Puritan Recorder.

By his suggestion was established the Dartmouth College Alumni Association of Boston, the earliest of the kind in this country; also the Kimball Union Academy Association, of which he was one of the vice-presidents. In the winter of 1888-89, he assisted in the organization of the Boston Association in aid of the Texas Home for Disabled Soldiers, and was elected a vice-president. His life was a busy one, and besides his local cares, he was obliged to travel extensively to fulfil his professional duties.*

He was elected a resident member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, November 3, 1853, and was made a life member December 3, 1879. He was chosen librarian in August, 1854, and did effective service in that position. He also contributed much to the usefulness of the Society by his work on committees. He held the office of librarian till his resignation in July, 1856.

He published in 1855, "A Glance at Private Libraries," an octavo volume of 79 pages. This was an article prepared at the request of Prof. Bela B. Edwards, D.D., editor of the Bibliotheca Sacra, for that magazine; but as the material collected was found to be more than he could use for that purpose, he was led to make it a separate work. Selections were read before the New-England Historic Genealogical Society in October, 1855. It was published in accordance with a vote of the Society. It describes, from personal examination, the character and contents of some of the principal private libraries of Boston and vicinity. This was a new and interesting field of research. Other writers since then, in different parts of the country, have prepared and published works of the same character on libraries in their localities, some of which are quite elaborate. He also published a Sermon before the First Battalion of Massachusetts V. M., delivered in 1852 in the First Congregational Church in West Newbury, and printed that year. He prepared for Gleason's Pictorial, an illustrated newspaper published in Boston, a series of historical and biographical sketches of the leading churches of Boston, with biographies of their pastors, which articles were highly commended.

Rev. Mr. Farnham will best be remembered for his work in building up the General Theological Library. The corporation owes its existence to an able article which appeared in the spring of 1859 in the Boston Courier. The article bore the signature of "Philobiblus," but is known to have been written by Rev. Charles Burroughs, D.D., of Portsmouth, N. H. Through the influence of this communication a meeting was held in Mercantile Hall, Boston, on the 9th of April, 1860, for the purpose of organizing such a library. This was the first meeting in behalf of the society, of which records are preserved, though there had been one or two meetings earlier. At this meeting about twenty persons were present. Rev. Dr. Burroughs presided. Mr. Farnham was one of those who attended. Dr. Burroughs presented a written report of a form of a constitution prepared by him in behalf of a committee previously appointed. At the next meeting, April 20, the library was legally organized and Rev. Dr. Burroughs was chosen president. Mr. Farnham was one of the seven members named in the instrument incorporating the institution.

The first report of the directors was written by Mr. Farnham and was presented at the annual meeting, April 20, 1863. From that report I make the following extract: "A person whose name is among the seven employed to legally incorporate the General Theological Library [Mr. Farnham himself] about six years ago suggested to a friend [the writer of this] the need of an extensive theological library to be established in Boston. He presented to him the leading features of such an institution, which were similar to those embraced by this library; and his mind was led to those considerations by the dearth of theological literature in the public libraries of Boston, and by his own need of such a collection of books as a student and writer."

Mr. Farnham was chosen secretary of this association and held the office of secretary and librarian till his death. Rev. Edmund F. Slafter, D.D., wrote to Rev. Charles C. Carpenter concerning Mr. Farnham's work in behalf of the library:

The death of the late Rev. Mr. Farnham will be a great loss to the General Theological Library. His life for many years was identified with its struggles and its success. Feeble in its beginning, slow in its growth, it has finally become an important and, indeed, a necessary institution. Mr. Farnham's hand may be seen in every stage of its progress. He was emphatically the father of the corporation. He had the sagacity to plan, the wisdom to organize, and the energy and zeal to carry forward the work in the presence of obstacles which, to most men, would have been insuperable. He saw far beyond the obstacles that lay in his path. He knew that they were temporary and would soon pass away, as the portentous clouds that gather on a summer's day. He seemed to see in the distant future a great library, rich in its manifold departments of learning, the ingathering of sacred literature of all time and in all languages, offering to the scholar the best thought and the achievements of the profoundest study in the whole circle of theological science. For this object Mr. Farnham labored on, year after year, dignified, courteous, self-poised, turning neither to the right hand nor to the left, removing the obstacles in his immediate presence, and always making a clear and well defined progress in his undertaking. Thus he laid the foundation and reared the superstructure of our Theological Library as it exists to-day in Boston. When the ideal of a great library, as he saw it, shall be realized, as it doubtless will be, the credit and the honor of laying its foundation will be justly given to the Rev. Luther Farnham.*

Mr. Farnham married at Northfield, Mass., June 25, 1845, Mrs. Eugenia Frink Alexander, widow of Francis Alexander of Northfield, and daughter of Deacon Levi and Mrs. Lucretia (Scott) Fay. She was born October 19, 1815, and died at Boston, May 22, 1892. They had one son, Francis Edward Farnham, born June 14, 1846, who died April 22, 1854, in his eighth year. Rev. Luther Farnham's death occurred in Boston, March 15, 1897. He was buried in Mt. Auburn cemetery.

JOHN WHITE OF WATERTOWN AND BROOKLINE, AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

By HON. THOMAS J. LUTHEROP, of Brookline.

JOHN¹ WHITE was living in Watertown when the first inventory of estates was taken. This appears to have been as early as 1632. He then owned "An Homestall of seven acres more or less bounded the south and east with the highway, the north with the swamp and the west with William Paine, bought from Ephraim Child."^{*}

He remained in Watertown until 1650, when he moved to Muddy River (now Brookline), and bought from Thomas Oliver of Boston "50 acres upland 18 acres of marsh and six acres of fresh marsh in Muddy River for & in consideration of the full & just summe of one hundred & thirty pounds sterl. to be paid in good & merchantable corne & fatt cattle at prices current or as they shall be prized by two men indifferently chosen."

The deed conveying the property is dated "thirteenth day of the twelfth month one thousand six hundredeth & fiftie."[†]

He was probably too liberal in his views to satisfy many of the 'stricter sort' of his parish. He was of a feeble constitution, and hence frequently was unable to attend to the duties of his office. Just as negotiations for his withdrawal from the ministry were completed, and a successor had been chosen, or on the 18th of January, 1761, he left the troubles of earth for the peaceful realms of the spirit world." SOUTH HAMPTON (N. H.) CHURCH RECORDS.

Commenced by Wm. A. GORDON, A.M., of Somerville, Mass.

SOUTH HAMPTON, N. H., was incorporated in 1742, and comprised the most of the territory cut off from Salisbury and Amesbury, Mass., by the establishment of the province line of 1741. At a meeting of the inhabitants the same year, a fast day was appointed agreeable to the following resolution, viz.:

"Where as we the Inhabitants of this Town being In Present want of a Pious learned orthodox minister of Good Conversation to Discharge the word and administer the ordinances of our lord Jesus among us and it being our Duty to look to Heaven for Divine assistance to Guide us In all our Affairs therefore voted that Thursday y^e 2 Day of December next is appointed a Day of Fasting and Prayer in order for the Calling and Settling a Gospel minister among us."

At a town meeting, 27 December, 1742, it was voted

"That we Will Give the Rev^d Mr William Parsons a Call to Settle In the work of the Gospel ministry among us."

Rev. Mr. Parsons accepted the call, was ordained in 1743 and dismissed in 1762. In 1763, he became a proprietor at Gilmanton, N. H., and straightway commenced preaching there and also instructing youth, which he continued till 1774. It was his singular fortune to be the first settled minister in two of the New Hampshire provincial towns.

William Parsons was born, in Boston, 21 April, 1716, son of Rev. William and Elizabeth (Thompson) Parsons. His ancestry had long been settled at Northampton. He was graduated at Harvard College with the class of 1733, as his father had been with the class of 1697. He married in 1743 Sarah Bornham, of the Durham, N. H., family. They were the parents of four sons and two daughters. Mr. Parsons died at Gilmanton, in January, 1796. His wife died in February, 1797, at the age of seventy-five. Both were buried on their farm, and near where they first settled in Gilmanton.

The Southampton Church had but two ministers. The people no longer adhered to the views of duty with which the town appointed the fast of 1742. So liberal became the inhabitants that the town voted to open the meeting house to the advocates of the various views then prevalent, in proportion to their relative assessments, if such a desire was expressed by friends of any system of doctrine. The church records, kept by the two faithful pastors, fell into private hands; and the sacred vessels used in their rites became scattered. The second and last minister was Nathaniel Noyes, a son of deacon Parker Noyes, of Newbury, Mass., where he was born in 1735, who was graduated at the College of New Jersey, then at Princeton, with the class of 1759. He took a full course of theology under the guidance of learned Presbyterian divines; but accepted ordination in 1763 at the hands of the Congregationalists, and succeeded Mr. Parsons as minister of Southampton. He labored here for thirty-eight years, retiring in 1801. He was early widowed; his wife, Sarah, dying in 1771, in her 26th year. He continued preaching till his death in his native town in 1810. Rev. Dr. Spring, who preached the sermon at Mr. Noyes's funeral, said of him that he had preached, every Sunday, for fifty years, without being confined by sickness during the period.

7. RUTH² ALDEN (*John*¹). Born about 1634-6. Died in Braintree, the 8 m. 12 d. 1674. (Braintree Records.) On the "12 mo. 3 d. 1657, John Bass & Ruth Aulden were married by Mr. John Aulden of Duxbury." (Braintree Records.) John Bass was born about 1632, son of Samuel and Ann Bass. He married second, Hannah Sturtephant of Plymouth. 21. 7. 1675. She was also called Ann. He died "12 Sept. 1716, in ye 84 year of his age." I am told there is no stone at the grave of Ruth. He made his will 5 June, 1716. He gives to his three sons, John, Samuel and Joseph, and to two living daughters, Mary Copeland and to Sarah Thayer and to "all my granddaughters that are the children of my two deceased daughters, Ruth and Hannah—ten shillings apiece to be paid to each one of them by my Executor in convenient time after my decease to such as are of age.*"

*I am puzzled to account for the fact that he ignores the sons of these two daughters.

His will was witnessed by Susannah Webb, Jonathan Webb, Benjamin Webb. Proved 22 Oct. 1716. John Bass, his son, executor. He makes no mention of second wife.

Children by first wife, and all born in Braintree:

- i. JOHN³ BASS, born 26. 9. 1658, died 30 Sept. 1724. He married first, Abigail, daughter of Joseph and Abigail (Baxter) Adams. She was born 27. 12. 1658. He married second, 17. 3. 1698, Rebecca Savill. He had by first wife:
 1. John⁴ Bass, b. 8 of June, 1688; m. 18 Feb. 1713, Lydia Saville, who d. 4 Feb. 1715; m. 2d, Hannah Neale, 21 June, 1716. She was b. 15 March, 1692, and d. 15 May, 1761.
 2. Samuel Bass, b. 17 June, 1691. He m. 1st, Sarah Savil, 15 Aug. 1723. She d. 28 Jan. 1725. He m. 2d, Hannah Gould.

By second wife:

 3. Ebenezer Bass, bapt. 11. 8. 1702. Married July 3, 1733, Sarah Maudsley or Mosely of Dorchester, and had Ebenezer, b. Dec 11, 1741.
 - ii. SAMUEL BASS, born 25. 1. 1660, married Mary, daughter of Joseph and Abigail (Baxter) Adams. She was born 25. 12. 1667; died 9 March, 1706. Samuel Bass afterwards married a second wife. Children, all probably born in Braintree:
 1. Jonathan Bass⁴, bapt. 3. 8. 1697; m. Susannah ———, and had 2 children.
 2. Abigail Bass, bapt. 3. 8. 1697.
 3. Mary Bass, bapt. 14. 6. 1698; m. 2 April, 1720, William Bowditch.
 4. Samuel Bass, b. 26 July, 1700; m. Hannah White, 4 Dec. 1722. She died 6 June, 1743, and he married, 2d, Jerusha Webb, 10 Jan. 1744, and he died 3 April, 1768.
 5. Bethiah Bass, b. 2 Feb. 1704.
 - iii. RUTH BASS, born 28. 11. 1662; married Peter Webb, son of Christopher and Hannah (Scott) Webb. The date of the death of Ruth is torn off, but she probably died about 1700. "Ruth ye wife of Peter Webb died June" ———. I think it was her husband who died in Salem, Mass., 12 Feb. 1717–18. We find no will; administration was granted to his two sons. Ruth received a small legacy in 1697 from her "cousin" Sarah (Mullines) (Gannett) (Saville) Faxson, widow of Thomas Faxson, and daughter of William² Mullines, Jr. (*William*¹). From the Braintree Records we find the marriage of David Walsbee and Ruth Bass, the 24. 7. 1656. This Ruth Bass was sister of John who married Ruth Alden, and not daughter as has been supposed, and the Hannah Walsbee mentioned in Samuel Bass Senior's will was his granddaughter and the daughter of David and Ruth Walsbee.
- Children, born in Braintree:
1. Ruth⁶ Webb, b. 7 May, 1684; probably married Thomas Faxson, May 22, 1716.
 2. Peter Webb, b. Dec. 25, 1685; probably the one who married Amee and had Amee, Richard, Samuel, Jonathan and Sarah, all on Braintree Records.
 3. David Webb, b. 27. 9. 1687.
 4. Christopher Webb, b. 30 Dec. 1689; either he or his cousin Christopher, born 1690, son of Mary (Bass) Webb, married Ann and had a family. (Braintree Records.)
 5. Hannah Webb, b. 14 March, 1692; d. 17 May, 1693.
 6. John Webb, b. 10 March, 1693; m. Mary Alden, daughter of Isaac³ Alden (Joseph², John¹) and Mehitabel (Allen) Alden. He died Oct. 14, 1749. She died 1782.
 7. "The second Hannah Webb," b. 8 Sept. 1694.
 8. Joseph Webb, b. 17 June, 1696.
 9. Priscilla Webb, b. Sept. 1, 1697.
 10. Mary Webb, b. 5 Oct. 1698.
- iv. JOSEPH³ BASS, born 5. 10. 1665. Married Mary, daughter of Moses and Mary (Nash) Belcher, 5 June, 1688. She died 2 Nov. 1707.

He married 2d, Lois Rogers, 23 Feb. 1708. He died in Boston, 1734. There are two wills in Suffolk Records, vol. 18, 447, and 22, 59, which show that Joseph, who died in 1714, was son of Samuel¹ Bass, and left no children; and that Joseph², son of John³ and Ruth (Alden) Bass, was a wharfinger in Boston and died in 1734. His will, vol. 32, 59, proved 11 Feb. 1734, gives "to his wife, to eldest son Joseph, to sons Moses, Benjamin and Alden, to daughter Miller, to seven children."

Children, probably born in Braintree:

 8. Alden Bass, b. 28 Oct. 1705; m. Mary Bass, b. 1704, d. 1784. They lived in Boston.
- v. HANNAH BASS, born 22. 4. 1667; died Oct. 24, 1705; married as his second wife Joseph Adams. He was son of Joseph and Abigail (Baxter) Adams, born 24. 10. 1654. He married 1st, Mary Chapin, and had Mary, 1683; Abigail, 1684; and she died 14 Jan. 1687. He married 2d, Elizabeth who died Oct. 14, 1702. Joseph and Hannah (Bass) Adams had children, probably all born in Braintree—

 2. John Adams, b. 8 Feb. 1691; m. Nov. 23, 1724, Susannah Boylston, daughter of Peter Boylston of Brookline. These were the parents of John Adams, the second President of the United States.

 8. Capt. Ebenezer Adams, b. Dec. 30, 1704; m. March 21, 1728-9, Anne, dau. of Peter Boylston of Brookline.
 9. Zabdiel Adams, m. Elizabeth Stearns. (Authority, Bond's Watertown.)
- vi. MARY BASS, born Feb. 11, 1669-70; married May 24, 1686, Christopher Webb, Junior, son of Christopher and Hannah Webb. He died March, 1690, of the small-pox. She married 2d, April 13, 1694, William Copeland, son of Lawrence and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland.

- vii. SARAH BASS, born March 29, 1672. Married Jan. 7, 1691-2, Ephraim Thayer, son of Shadrach Thayer and Deliverance (Priest) Thayer, born Jan. 17, 1669-70. Sarah died Aug. 19, 1751, aged 79 years and 5 months, and in 1754 he married, 2d, widow Mary Kingman. He died June 15, 1757.

Children, born in Braintree:

14. Abigail Thayer, b. Nov. 15, 1713; m. Nov. 21, 1734, Dr. Benjamin Richards of Weymouth. He died June 25, 1755. She died March 10, 1766.

I have relied on Vinton and Thayer mostly for my facts about the descendants of Ruth Bass, except where contradicted by probate and town records.

10. ZACHARIAH² ALDEN (*John*¹). Born perhaps about 1641 or 2. We have less knowledge of Zachariah Alden than of any of the sons. He undoubtedly married a wife Mary, who in the settlement of John Alden's estate signed with the rest of the heirs, for her husband—he being absent or dead. I think he was absent, for the marriage notice of his daughter Anna to Josiah Snell reads: "Josiah Snell of Bridgewater to Anna Alden, daughter of Zachariah Alden of Duxbury." Josiah and Anna (Alden) Snell were ancestors of the poet Bryant. Among their descendants I find two traditions: one that Zachariah was a minister or teacher; the other that he was a mariner. I think the latter is more probable, for I do not find him on the Duxbury lists. The name Zachariah appears in his brother John's family. We have also a tradition that Anna (Alden) Snell had a brother Zachariah, and I think it probable that the Mary Alden who married Samuel Allen in 1700 was his daughter, who was in Bridgewater visiting her sister.

On the list of Freemen, May 29, 1670, in Duxbury, is a John Alden, Junior. At that time Capt. John⁴ Alden (John³) was in Boston, and it looks to me as if there were a son of Zachariah who might be old enough to serve. At any rate, I place this John in Zachariah's family. I know nothing further of him.

There is no will or settlement of the estate, and altogether this family is very unsatisfactory. We know John Alden had eleven children. We have found ten—and the strong family tradition in the post Bryant's family—the name Zachariah in Capt. John's family—the Mary, wife of some son, who signs the receipt of heirs—all lead us to place Zachariah as the missing child.

Children:

28. ANNA⁴ ———.

ZACHARIAH

JOHN⁵. And the Mary in Joseph's family married Samuel Allen.

11. MARY⁴ ALDEN (John³). Born in Duxbury, about 1643; married 1667, Thomas Delano, son of Philip Delano and Hester (Downsary) Delano. One authority says he was born March 21, 1612. Mary, his wife, died after her father's death, and before Oct. 24, 1699, when he married "widow Hannah Bartlett." I think she was the widow of William Bartlett, who left her with one child, Mary, who married John Turner. William Bartlett was the son of Benjamin and Ruth (Pabodie) Bartlett. Thomas Delano died April 15, 1723. He makes no mention of his second wife, so she was probably dead. This will is to be found in Plymouth Probate Records, Vol. 4, p. 388. In this will and elsewhere he is called Doctor. It is dated Oct. 5, 1722. Inventory taken by John Alden and Samuel Weston, April 29, and proved May 6, 1723. He gives "to eldest son Benson, 5 shillings. To Thomas, jr., $\frac{1}{2}$ of lot of land in Middleboro, to Jonathan a beesh lot (swamp), to David 5 shillings, to daughter Mary best bed and furniture, to Sarah Drew 5 shillings, Ruth Drew next best bed. Granddaughter Deborah Weston executrix, and Joseph Delano, son, executor. Witnesses, Hannah Alden, Samuel Weston and Joshua Delano.

Children, all born in Duxbury, probably, and all by first wife:

1. BENSON⁵ DELANO, born Oct. 20, 1687, and died in Duxbury, April 5, 1728. When and when he married is unknown. She did not survive him, for we find no mention of her in the division of his estate, Sept. 12, 1728, amongst his eldest son Bethiah, second son Lemuel, representatives of Hannah Harlow, deceased, and Rebecca Turner. (Plymouth Colony Probate Records. Book 7, p. 27.) He had:

1. Hannah⁶ Delano, b. 1697; m. Eleazer Harlow, Oct. 5, 1715.
2. Bethiah Delano, b. May, 1698; m. Naomi Merrill, Aug. 12, 1734.
3. Rebecca Delano, b. 1702; m. Amasa Turner, March 7, 1725.
4. Lemuel Delano, b. 1712; m. Lydia Bartlett, 1741.

- II. THOMAS DELANO, JR., born, probably, 1669; died after 1712 and before 1748. Name of wife unknown. He had:

1. Thomas Delano, Jr., m. Sarah ——— before 1727.
2. Deborah Delano, b. 1696; m. John Weston.
3. Eleaziah Delano, m. Mary Saunders, 1725.

- III. JONATHAN DELANO, born 1673, married Jan. 12, 1699, Mary Doten, born in Duxbury, 1673, and died there 1764. They had:

1. John⁶ Delano, b. Oct. 11, 1699; m. in Duxbury, July 7, 1718, to Sarah Cole.
2. Jonathan Delano, b. Nov. 3, 1701.

3. Nathan Delano, b. Oct. 26, 1703; m. in Duxbury, 1726, to Bathsheba Holmes.
4. Amaziah Delano, b. Nov. 15, 1705; d. May 14, 1706.
5. Ruth Delano, b. May 25, 1707.
6. Amaziah Delano, b. Aug. 9, 1709; m. in Duxbury, Jan. 8, 1730, to Ruth Sampson.
7. Hannah Delano, b. Dec. 28, 1711.
8. Dorothy Delano, b. April 3, 1714; d. Dec. 10, 1714.
9. Dorothy Delano, b. Oct. 14, 1715; m. Nov. 26, 1734, Sylvanus Curtis of Plymouth.
10. Ebenezer Delano, b. March 29, 1717 (styled "Old King Eben"); m. in Duxbury, 1st, Lydia Wormall, May 16, 1745; 2d, Dec. 29, 1757, Deborah Delano.
11. David Delano, b. June 3, 1720; m. in Duxbury, 1st, May 28, 1740, to Abigail Chandler; 2d, to Thankful.
- iv. DAVID DELANO, born in Duxbury about 1678; married in Middleboro' Jan. 9, 1705, Elizabeth Eddy, daughter of Obadiah and ——— (Ben-nett) Eddy, born in Middleboro', Mass., about 1682.
They had :
 1. David⁴ Delano, Jr., m. in Middleboro', March 17, 1745, Deborah Holmes, dau. of John and Mary (Ford) Holmes.
 2. Probably Abner Delano, m. in Middleboro', Mass., Aug. 30, 1764, Mary Alden.
- v. MARY DELANO. I do not think she married her cousin Jabez Delano, for his wife died in 1716, and she was alive in 1722, when her father made his will.
- vi. SARAH DELANO, married John Drew, son of John and Hannah (Churchill) Drew, born in Plymouth, and removed to Middleboro'. (I have no record of any family.)
- vii. RUTH DELANO, married as his second wife, Samuel Drew, son of John Drew. The late Mr. Thomas Bradford Drew corrected my copy of Winsor's Duxbury in regard to the Drews, as follows : "John Drew, son of William Drew, grandson of Sir Edward Drew (knighted 1569), born 1642, came to Plymouth, married Hannah Churchill and had Elizabeth, born 5 Feb. 1672; John, Samuel, Nicholas, Thomas and Lemuel." Mr. Delano says Samuel Drew was son of John and Lydia Drew, but as Mr. Drew made no mention of a second wife, I think Mr. Delano is mistaken. Samuel Drew married 1st, Lydia ———; 2d, Ruth Delano, and Mr. Delano says Ruth had :
 1. Abijah⁴ Drew.
 2. Nahum Drew.
 3. Ruth Drew.
 Mr. Drew says Samuel had Samuel and sons older—Cornelius, Perez, Ebenezer, etc., evidently children of first wife Lydia. Samuel Drew died in Kingston.
- vii. JOSEPH DELANO, born in Duxbury, Sept. 1, 1685, and died May 22, 1770. He married Hannah ———, born 1690, and died Jan. 16, 1763.
They had :

AN EARLY GOVERNOR OF NEW SOMERSETSHIRE.

By FREDERICK W. TODD, Esq., of Boston.

IN the preparation of a work upon "Humphrey Hooke of Bristol, and his family and descendants in England and America during the Seventeenth Century," I have come upon some questions which have required minute study and investigation. This has resulted in the development of certain facts not hitherto generally known, or much considered by investigators, which throw some light upon an obscure period in the early history of Maine. One of these questions is in regard to the governorship of the province of New Somersetshire from say March, 1638, to June, 1640, inclusive.

Humphrey Hooke was a wealthy and influential merchant of Bristol, when that city was the largest in England next to London, and the chief commercial port in Britain. He held the office of alderman (which was a life position under the city charter), was twice mayor, and an M. P. for Bristol in the short and long parliaments. His second son, William Hooke, who came here in 1633, was his co-patentee in the Agamenticus patent, and was here representing not only his own interest therein, but the interest of his father Humphrey, his brother Thomas, and his brother-in-law Giles Elbridge. These men and a few others (notably Robert Thomson of London) were supporting the efforts of Sir Ferdinando Gorges in colonization, and furnishing a large part of the capital, of which he was then much in need. However unfortunate Sir Ferdinando may have been in his colonial enterprises — and he admits that most of them had miscarried, and that his estate had been greatly impaired thereby — there need be no doubt that he had finally associated himself with people of ample means to second his efforts, and that he had great hopes of success through his Agamenticus venture.

In regard to the financial standing of his associates, it may be stated that Alderman Hooke was lord of seven manors in Gloucestershire and Somerset, one of which had a park of over five hundred acres, and a site unsurpassed in England. None of his manorial estates had come to him by inheritance. He obtained them all by purchase, and they represented a portion of his large fortune acquired in commercial enterprises. Giles Elbridge was also a wealthy man. He had inherited the entire estate of his partner (and uncle by marriage), Robert Aldworth, one of the most enterprising and successful of Bristol merchants. Robert Thomson, brother of Sir William Thomson afterwards governor of the East India Company, was a merchant of London of ample means. He was here for a short time in 1639 on a visit of inspection, and purchased the old church edifice and ground on which it stood on State street, for £160 — site of Brazier Building, 27 State street. Mr. Savage calls him "a man of distinction in London," and says: "He was a powerful friend of Mass., and for services our Ct. made a grant to him of 500 acres." He and his brother Sir William were trustees under the will of Sir Thomas Hooke, baronet, grandson of Alderman Hooke.

But Alderman Hooke and his son-in-law Giles Elbridge were the ones upon whom Sir Ferdinando placed his chief reliance for support and assistance. The alderman was his neighbor, just across the street in Bristol, and had been more or less concerned in colonial ventures since 1610, having been at that time a member, with Lord Bacon and others, of the New Foundland Company. Edward Godfrey, in his letter to Gov. Winthrop, dated February 10, 1639, says that Alderman Hooke is "the Cheefe patentee heere [Agamenticus], and to my Knowledge resolveth to settle it, as now he hath fayrly begun" (see Felt's Ecclesiastical History of New England, 1, 445-6). In view of all this it would not be surprising if we should find that Sir Ferdinando Gorges had appointed William Hooke governor of his province of New Somersetshire. Evidence to this effect from three distinct sources would seem to place this question beyond a reasonable doubt.

Every investigator admits that this particular period (1638 to 1640) in the early history of Maine is very obscure. But even the cause of this obscurity I think can be made plain. Our most important clue to "Governor Hooke" is furnished by Edward Godfrey. In the letter above referred to he states that William Hooke is now governor, and that he "is determined to leave vs, and I thinke for Nubury [it happened to be Salisbury], I presume vnkowne to you." Here again he was mistaken. He adds: "But yf our governour in the time of his government should [leave] vs distracted, and before his going home to see his parents, whose presence they [very] much desyre, it may eclipse all this light, and this place may fayll to factions. Both myne and others humble request is, you would be pleased to wright those at Nubury to forbear their soelisatations, and that you would be pleased to wright our governour priuately, not rashly, and soe suddenly to leave vs, a people whose hartes ar soe set in reall affections one him, and to stay out his time of government."

Next we come to a deed of land from William Hooke to Henry Simson, dated March 13, 1638, and recorded in York Deeds, vi., 74, which begins: "This writing witnesseth that I, William Hooke, now Governour, of Accomenticus in New England." Finally we have in York Deeds, vi., 150, the following:

"I Richard Vines Steward Gen^l unto S^r fferdinando Gorges K^t L^d propriet^r of the Province of Mayn doe give and Grant unto Henry Simpson his heires and assignes for ever ten Acres of marsh land upon y^e south side of the river Accomenticus opposite against y^e ffarm of W^m Hook Gover:

Here we seem to have not only the statement of Richard Vines (who had been deputy governor during the unexpired term and absence of William Gorges) calling himself Steward General, and calling William Hooke Governor, but also the assent to that statement of Thomas Gorges, Esq. (not Deputy Governor), who had just arrived, and not yet qualified. Mr. Vines evidently wrote the 1640 deed. The use of the double "f," as in Sir "fferdinando" in the deed, and "ffire brand" in his Winthrop letter, is peculiar to him. William Hooke appears to have lingered at Agamenticus, awaiting the arrival of his successor (Thomas Gorges), although his house at Salisbury had then been completed, and his family had removed thither. He was there himself two weeks later, and writing thence to Gov. Winthrop, Gorges in the meantime having been installed.

It would seem that the chief executive officer of New Somersetshire was called "governor," and that this title should be given both to William Gorges and William Hooke. Later, however, when Sir Ferdinando was appointed governor by the royal commission, which provided that thereafter New Somersetshire should be called the "Province or Countie of Maine," the resident governor, so long as Sir Ferdinando remained in England, was to be a "deputy governor." This was the title borne by Thomas Gorges. Sir Ferdinando states that he contemplated coming here himself. Doubtless he was detained by the civil commotion in England in which, even at his advanced age, he took for a time an active part on the royalist side. After his death in 1647, the resident governors received that title in full as at first.

The obscurity that has prevailed in relation to the governorship (1638-40) is due largely to the fact that our chief sources of information have been Governor Winthrop's journal and papers, and Sir Ferdinando's account, published by his grandson, neither of which has made any mention of "Governor Hooke," or of any other governor of New Somersetshire during that period. From this statement an exception must of course be made of the Godfrey letter, which I presume was obtained by the Rev. Mr. Felt from Mr. Winthrop or Mr. Savage prior to the publication of the Winthrop papers. In regard to Governor Winthrop it may be asked: As he was in correspondence with Governor Hooke, why did he not refer to him in his official capacity, and why did he endorse the only letter we find from him during the period under discussion (the letter of January 28, 1639) "Mr. Hooke of Accomenticus," instead of "Governor Hooke," etc.? But Governor Winthrop, to be consistent, could not admit that Mr. Hooke was governor, for that office was a creation of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, whose authority he disputed. Governor Winthrop and the Massachusetts people, in 1637, after the Cleeves trouble, it will be remembered, declined the invitation of Sir Ferdinando to administer affairs in New Somersetshire in his behalf, "professing to be ignorant of his right to the government of the Province"* (Folsom, p. 52). They speak of Mr. Vines, and Mr. Hooke, and of Mr. Gorges (Thomas) and "his affairs," but to admit that they were governors, or had any valid right to that title, would be admitting that their contention in regard to Gorges was at fault. This was a vital matter with them for they claimed the territory themselves, although at that time, and before the execution of Charles I., they were necessarily somewhat guarded in their expressions upon the subject. The Massachusetts governors were the only true governors, according to their theory, and in due time they demonstrated it (?), and Mr. Godfrey had to step down and out. It is a mistake to suppose they saw a new light in 1652, and then entered upon a course of action they had not previously contemplated as wise and proper—perhaps necessary to their future peace and security. They were Puritans. New Somersetshire was an Episcopal colony, promoted by Episcopalians and royalists in sympathy with the hierarchy from which the Puritans had fled.

Gov. Winthrop makes no mention of William Gorges in his journal, and although he speaks of Thomas Gorges, who came to Boston to advise with him before going to Agamenticus, in no instance, either therein or elsewhere, does he give him his official prefix. It is always "Mr. Gorge." He says, however, that Sir Ferdinando sent him "with commission for government of his province of Somersetshire." But that (with Maine substituted for Somersetshire) was a mere statement of fact, which he did not dispute, and had no occasion or desire to conceal. It bound him in no way to assent to it as conveying any legal authority. It may be claimed that the omission of the official title, in the references to William Hooke and Thomas Gorges, was due to accident or oversight, and was not considered of much moment, notwithstanding, as I am inclined to think, the custom of the time was somewhat exacting in this respect. But whether these omissions are significant or not (and perhaps it may be doubted) the fact remains, and may be said to account in part for the "obscurity" attending the Gov. Hooke period.

* "For that it did not appear to us what authority he had to grant such a commission."—Winthrop, i., 231.

Again, it may be asked: Why does Sir Ferdinando Gorges fail to mention "Gov. Hooke" if he appointed him to so important an office? But Sir Ferdinando's account is peculiar, in that it is not the detailed account we should have anticipated. Strange to say, the names of but very few people are mentioned. In the part relating to Maine, the name of Col. Norton (his old associate in the "Low-countries") is given once. A single reference, in each case, is made to William Gorges, Winthrop, Humphrey, Dudley and Vines. Other than these there are practically no names given, except those of the Plymouth Council to whom the 1635 division was made. Thomas Gorges gets no more mention than William Hooke—in short is not referred to. The offices that were instituted in 1639-40 are specified, but the names of the commissioners are not given—Hooke, therefore, gets no mention even there. Sir Ferdinando's editor calls the account in one edition "A Brief Narration," which it certainly was. Probably Sir Ferdinando would have made his account longer, and somewhat more complete, if his life had been spared. Young Ferdinando, his editor (only fifteen months old at the date of the Agamenticus grant), in his preface to the Narration, says: "This relation of my Grand-Father was left unfinished, * * * myself supplied this defect by adding out of the choicest authors." Further on he gives Godfrey (our principal authority for "Gov. Hooke") credit for much of the information by which he pieces out Sir Ferdinando's account.

It has been suggested that perhaps William Hooke was governor of Agamenticus—a local governor simply. But there is no precedent in English procedure for that title applied to the chief functionary of a small town or village. Young Ferdinando's account (of the situation after 1642) says: "The chief town of this Province [Maine, formerly New Somersetshire] is Gorgiana [formerly Agamenticus] which is governed by a Mayor; the rest are only inconsiderable villages, or scattered houses." This statement, if correct, explains why Agamenticus, which dominated all the other towns, was selected by the lord proprietor as the seat of the provincial governor. The existence contemporaneously of both a local and provincial governor at Agamenticus is highly improbable. If this view is admitted, and we still doubt that William Hooke was the provincial governor (1638-40), and conclude that Agamenticus, unlike the other towns, had a local governor at that particular time, and so far as known at no other time, then we are forced to the conclusion either that the province was then without a governor, or that the governor's seat during that period was in one of the "inconsiderable villages" in question, both of which conclusions are equally improbable. Moreover, in the latter contingency the "inconsiderable village" in question, and the provincial governor, are equally mysterious. Their names cannot be produced in court, and they are utterly without witnesses, while "Gov. Hooke" has several of the best standing, whose testimony will not only bear the interpretation I have given it, but in my judgment is not open to any other construction, and is therefore conclusive.

THE EARLY BUSHNELLS.

By WILLIAM T. R. MARVIN, A.M., of Boston, Mass.

THE accounts of the early Bushnells are not easily to be reconciled; we find them in Savage, Drake (Founders of New England), Hinman, and in Dr. Chesebrough's recent Address at the 250th Anniversary of the First Church at Saybrook, Ct. Savage mentions first, a Francis Bushnell, who was at Guilford in 1639 and died in 1646; he had a son Francis, born in England in 1600, who was at Guilford, Ct., and later at Saybrook, and died 4 Dec., 1681 (Savage and gravestone). and was known as "Deacon Francis." He mentions third, a carpenter, Francis, who, as appears by the Custom House Record, came in the Planter in 1635, aged 26, with wife Marie and daughter Martha; the wife's age was the same as her husband's, and the child was a year old. This third Francis, Savage supposes, was at Salem in 1639, "but if he were, he removed soon to parts unknown, unless he be found at Norwalk, Ct., in 1672." But his age, if correctly given on the Custom House Record, shows he cannot be the one at Norwalk in 1672, for he married Hannah Seymour, who was twenty years or more younger than the child above named; his age shows also that he cannot be the "Deacon Francis" of Saybrook who, as was shown above, was born in 1600. Dea. Francis was also a carpenter, and while some authorities make him, as does Savage, the son of Francis of Guilford, others make him a nephew of that Francis, and the son of John, and the brother of John of Saybrook; but I think he is clearly too old to be a son of John. Concerning the latter John, Savage says he was the son of a John whose residence is unknown; but Hinman states that the Saybrook records show the Saybrook John was the son of John of Boston.

Hinman has a Francis of Guilford, born in 1609, which agrees with the age of the carpenter Francis (as given by Savage and Drake), who came in the Planter. Clearly this cannot be the "Dea. Francis," born in 1600, and Hinman does not agree with himself in other accounts of this family, for he says (p. 444) that Samuel Bushnell, son of Francis, married Ruth Sanford in 1684, with which Savage (who calls Samuel a son of a Francis who may or may not be the second Francis he names, to whom he gives a son Samuel), agrees, and gives the date of marriage as 17 April, 1684; Ruth was born in 1659; but on p. 446 Hinman says Ruth married William Bushnell. I think, therefore, we may disregard Hinman.

Chesebrough says, John of Saybrook was son of John, whether following Hinman or not I do not know; and states that he had five or more brothers, but Francis, William and Richard are all the brothers of John he names, so far as I can discover. Of these Francis seems to have been the second son, and Richard the youngest. Richard went to Saybrook with William, who was born about 1623 and married Rebecca Chapman, of Saybrook Point, where his first child was born 6 May, 1644. He also was a carpenter, and built the first meeting-house in Saybrook. Richard married Mary, daughter of Matthew Marvin, and died about 1657.

Savage thinks William probably the brother of John of Salem and Boston, and that this John was the glazier who came in the Hopewell in 1635 (see Drake, p. 19); but neither the Saybrook John nor his father can be the glazier of Boston, for that John had children whose births are recorded in Boston, from 1652 onward, and among them a John, born 19 Jan. 1660 (Savage, Errata in Vol. III., p. 608).

Considering the age of the second Francis above, who died in 1681, and the date of marriage of Samuel, 1684, three years after his father's (?) death at so great an age, we are led to suspect that Samuel, even if the youngest child, is a generation too late to be the son of "Dea. Francis," though it appears the latter had a son of that name. Nor can he be the son of Francis, son of William, for that Francis was born in 1650, married Hannah Seymour, grand-daughter of Matthew Marvin, and had no sons. Could he have been the son of William's brother Francis? William himself had a son Samuel, but he married Patience Rudd, in 1675, by whom he had eight children named by Savage.

We seem, therefore, to find (1) Francis of Guilford, who as he had a son born in 1600, must have been born in 1578, or earlier, and died in 1646. (2) Francis, son of the preceding, born in 1600, died 1681, who was of Guilford and Saybrook. (3) Francis, who came in the Planter, born in 1609, of whom we only know he had a wife Mary and daughter Martha. (4) Hinman's Francis, who seems to be confused by him with the preceding, if Savage's account is right. (5) Francis of Saybrook, called son of John by Chesebrough, said to be the second son,—if so, born perhaps about 1621; and (6) Francis, who married Hannah Seymour, and who we know was son of William and b. in 1650.

As to (5) we fix the date of his birth approximately by the fact that Richard, the youngest, was married in 1648; he must have been born as early as 1626; William, another brother whose first recorded son was born in 1644, must have been born as early as 1623; while still another brother, John, is said to have married Sarah Scranton of Guilford in 1665, and we have no particulars of the other sons to help us. It will be noticed that this last date is about twenty years later than the marriages of the other "brothers." If the other statements are correct, we should have expected an earlier marriage for John,³ the brother of William and Richard, for he must have been their elder; I therefore believe that Sarah Scranton's husband was a son of John³ and nephew of Richard, etc., and this does not conflict with Chesebrough.

After considerable study, I am led to conjecture that the first John "of Boston" was an older son of the first Francis of Guilford, that Dea. Francis was his brother, and that Samuel who married Ruth Sanford was the grandson of John and great-grandson of the first Francis, by John's son Francis. And I have reached this conclusion, as it seems to be the only one which harmonizes the conflicting accounts. I shall be very glad to receive any information which will confirm or disprove this theory.

If my theory be true, the line would stand thus:

- I. FRANCIS¹ BUSHNELL, b. 1576? in England: at Guilford, Ct., in 1639, and died in 1646. His children were:
- II. (1) JOHN,² of Salem and Boston, b. in England about 1598? Did he go to Saybrook later?
- (2) FRANCIS² (Deacon), b. in 1600; was of Guilford and later of Saybrook. He had a son Samuel³ and five daus. (Savage.)
- III. Children of John²:
- (1) JOHN,³ b. about 1620; went to Saybrook and had? John⁴ who mar. Sarah Scranton.
- (2) FRANCIS,³ b. 1621; had issue, of whom Samuel⁴ mar. Ruth Sanford.
- (3) WILLIAM,³ b. 1623?; mar. Rebecca Chapman, and had issue, of whom Francis⁴ mar. Hannah Seymour, and Samuel⁴ mar. Patience Rudd.
- (4) RICHARD,³ b. 1626?; mar. Mary, dau. of Matthew Marvin, had issue and d. 1657, and she mar. 2d, as his second wife, Thomas Adgate.
- (5 and 6) Two others, according to Chesebrough, names unknown.

I shall be glad to have the errors in this pointed out, but it seems to harmonize the different accounts, though the order of births is conjectural.

FENNO FAMILY.

By ALLEN H. BENT, member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society.

RABECCA FFENNER, aged 25, is in a list of passengers in the Truelove, from old England to New England, in 1635. It was perhaps the same Rebecca Fenno who in 1660 was granted by the town of Dorchester (Mass.), sixty-eight acres of land in Unquity, which was two years later incorporated as the town of Milton, where the name of Fenno is still to be found. Aug. 12, 1683, Rebecca Fenno, Senior, was admitted to the church in Milton, and in Milton she died June 12, 1690.

Capt. Arthur, John, William and Thomas Fenner, of Providence, R. I., 1646, or thereabouts, and afterwards of Connecticut, do not seem to be related to the Milton Fennos.

1. JOHN¹ FENNO, who was granted twenty acres of land in Unquity (Milton), in 1660, was probably a son of Rebecca Fenno preceding, though the proof positive is lacking. He evidently built upon his land immediately, for in the Dorchester records, in 1661, is this entry: "We have layd out and staked the way two rodd and halfe broad from the meeting house at unquetie from John Gills land and Robert Redmans land to John Fennos house leading to the way to the Blue Hills."* A farmer and soldier in King Philip's war in 1675, he died in Milton, April 7, 1708, aged 79, which would make the date of his birth about 1629. The name of his wife has not been ascertained. In his will, dated August, 1702, he refers to his property in "Lancashire in y^e Realme of England," and the hope was harbored that in that county was his old world home, but a search of the Lancashire wills has failed to reveal the name of Fenno or Fenner.

Children of John, all born in Milton :

- i. REBECCA² b. Sept. 23, 1662; m. April 27, 1688, Dependance French (1648-1732) of Braintree, where she d. in July, 1741.
2. ii. JOHN, b. Aug. 29, 1665.
- iii. ELIZABETH, d. Sept. 21, 1669.
- iv. JOSEPH, b. Sept. 1, 1670; probably killed in one of the early French and Indian wars, as his father writes in his will "my son Joseph formerly went to Canada in an Expedition agt the then Common Enemy since which Time I have never heard from him."
3. v. BENJAMIN, b. Feb. 4, 1673.
- vi. MARY, b. July 31, 1677; m. Feb. 18, 1701, James Badcock (1677-1740), of Milton, and moved to Windham, Conn., and later to Coventry, Conn.
- vii. ELIZABETH, b. March 31, 1680; m. Oct. 3, 1706, John Waldo, of Windham, Conn., but seems to have lived in Boston, where she probably d. in 1746.
4. viii. EPHRAIM, b. June 30, 1682.
2. JOHN² FENNO (*John*¹) was born in Milton, Aug. 29, 1665, was a farmer and lived in the part of Stoughton now Canton, Mass., where he died April 23, 1741, aged 75. The house that he built in 1704 is still standing, a big chimneyed red house with numerous out buildings on Farm Street, on the south side of Ponkipog Pond. LETTERS OF JONATHAN BOUCHER TO GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Contributed by WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY FORD, Esq., Washington, D. C.

Boucher to Washington.

ANNAPOLIS, 11 April, 1771.

Dear Sir,

I do very cordially sympathize with Mrs Washington in the uneasiness I can easily suppose she must necessarily be under during this State of suspense. Her son was, last Monday Ev'ning, inoculated in Baltimore: and tho' there really be in his Favour Every Thing that could be wish'd for, yet, I know she will be anxious & impatient till it be over. All I can do to ensure Success she may depend on: & I can with Truth declare, that, at present, there is but a bare Possibility of his having it unfavourable. In Truth, They make so very light of it in Baltimore, that one is almost asham'd even to mention a Suspicion of a Possibility of Failure.—We went up on the Monday; & for Fear of his possibly catching it in the natural way, I had Him inoculated immediately; more especially as He was very eager for it, & in high Spirits. The Pill He took that night, made him a little sick; & Joe complain'd that His [] him very unmercifully. I left Him yesterday at the Doctor's, where every Thing seem'd agreeable to Him; & purpose being with Him again on Monday, as his Fever will likely be a coming on, on the Tuesday or Wednesday, & Eruption on Thursday: all which Time I will be there. The Doctor promis'd to write to you as you requested. And should any Occasion arise, you may depend on hearing from me, ev'n by Express: So that, if you do not hear from me to the Contrary, Mrs. Washington may rest assur'd all is well—as I give you my Word and Honour, that, if there be ever so distant an appearance of any thing unfavorable, I will not fail to communicate it to you immediately. There is a young Gentleman there (and but one, tho' more are daily expected) from Northampton County, of the name of Savage; a modest, well-behav'd man, & I believe the Clerk of a County there. He promised to be a Companion to Jack, and I dare say will be an acceptable one.

If any Thing should be the matter with Him, They are to send Express to me; and if they do, I shall have an Opp^{ty} of letting you know of it by the Post—if I do not, conclude all is well.—Shou'd I not write next week from Baltimore, which yet I intend to do, be not uneasy.—This will be brought to you by Mr. Templeman, & being written in a Hurry in a crowded Store, must, I fear, be confused. All I aim & wish is to make you & Mrs. Washington easy; & I hope you will be so, in Confidence that if there really were any Appearance of Danger, I wou'd not, from a mistaken Tenderness, conceal it from you.

I beg my aff^t Compl^{ts} (as Jack also did) to his Mamma, Sister, y^rself & Mr. Washington, & am &c.

NOTE.—Washington's reply is wrongly printed in our Writings of Washington, II., 276, as having been written 20 April, 1770, instead of on the same date 1771. The copy sent to me by the courtesy of Miss Gutch, Norton House, gave 1770 as the year.

Boucher to Washington.

Dear Sir,

I feel much Heartfelt Satisfaction in having it in my Power to inform you that Mr. Custis is now out of all Danger of the Small Pox, in Dr. Stephenson's own Phrase. He cannot die if He would. I have been with Him all this week, & shou'd not yet have left Him, but that I knew you wou'd wish & expect an acc^t.—& I cou'd only give one, by coming down hither, to catch the Post that sets out this Ev'ning. Yesterday when He left Baltimore, no Pocks had appeared; & I was unwilling to write till I could have something more certain to say. This morning, I found three; & about five Hours ago, when we parted, I could but count Eight, which I believe will be his whole Number. His Fevers began on Monday, & were sometimes pretty high; yet never so much so as to confine Him above now and then an Hour or so to his Bed. In short, I think I have now seen better Authority than ever to say, that the Small Pox, in this artificial manner, is really nothing: its virulence is so abated & subdued, that I now no longer wonder to find men think so little about it as they do in Baltimore. And to me, the whole secret seems to lie in keeping them cool; Custis, I believe, has not been within five yards of a Fire, since he went to Baltimore. I sh'd wrong him not to add, that he has been exceedingly manageable, & always in spirits; much more so than his Countryman, Savage. The Doctor bestows many encomiums on Him: I believe He wou'd hardly have had one Pustule. had not the Doctor, at my Request, (for I thought, tho' in Point of real Usefulness, it seems it was a Matter of no kind of Consequence, his Mamma wou'd chuse He shou'd have some) given Him something warm to provoke Them out. Joe, I fancy, will hardly have one; unless the same means try'd this morning may bring Them out: it is however, quite sufficient that the Arm is inflam'd, and that He has had the Fevers. Jack's, as I remember, are one on his neck, another by his Ear, one on his Breast, two on one Arm, and one on another, and two on one Leg; not one on his Face. Ere I left Him, his Fever was quite gone, and I never in my Life saw Him better: so that I cannot but congratulate you & Mrs. Washington on this dreaded affair's being so easily & happily over.

He is not to be down till the Monday Semnight, which, I guess, will be about the Time of your setting out on your Trip downwards.

Dr. Stephenson desir'd me to apologize for his not writing to you, as being very busy, and not having any Thing very particular to communicate. His general Price is two Pistoles, & 25/ a Week for Board. I shall have occasion, next Week, to write more fully on this & other matters: at present, being a good deal fatigued & a little unwell, I beg leave only to add that, I am &c.

P.S. Wheat, in yonder busy Town I have just left, I think is 6/. Some days ago 'twas 6/3; & Flour, 16/. You know they have 112 lbs. to the Cw^t.

Boucher to Washington.

ANNAPOLIS, 3 May, 1771.

Dear Sir,

I have seldom found myself worse disposed to write, than I now am; being exceedingly displeased with M^r Custis, that, according to my express Desire to Him, He is not here Himself, to write & put both yourself and his Mother out of all further Anxiety on his Account. On Saturday last, He sent me word, he would come down on the Monday; but the Doctor being of Opinion that possibly he might give some Alarm to the People here, advis'd me to let Him remain a few Days longer. I did so; & it having happened that a M^r Gough, a Gentleman of Rank & Fortune, of his Acquaintance in Baltimore, was to be married either Yesterday or to Day, I take it for granted He has been prevail'd upon to stay on that Account. For I have seen a Gentleman of Baltimore, who tells me He was quite well on Wednesday. So that there wants nothing but Himself to say so, to put every Thing out of Doubt. And This being the Case, I guess you will continue to think it right still to forbear mentioning it to Mrs. Washington, till the next Week, when (shou'd He not have wrote you from Baltimore, as I hardly dare to hope He has), we will assuredly both write. In the mean Time, I thought it wou'd be more acceptable to you to have ev'n this imperfect Acc^t, than none at all. I am &c.

Boucher to Washington.

ANNAPOLIS, 9 May, 1771.

Dear Sir,

The Season of Suspence, I thank God, is now over: Mrs. Washington, without the Fears that would have been unavoidable during a State of uncertainty, will have the Pleasure of learning from undoubted Authority, that her Son is happily & easily releas'd from a formidable Disorder, without hardly one Mark to tell that He ever had it. He is as well as ever He was in his Life: indeed has such strong Symptoms of Health, as we almost find it inconvenient at this scarce Season of the Year, & dear Markets.

A Mrs. Buckner of the Parish I left in Virginia gave me a Power of Attorney to settle a Law-Suit she had won. I have agreed to take 50£ this Currency for her Claim, which Money is to be paid to my Order this Week in Baltimore, and out of it, I have ordered my Friend there to pay

Dr. Stephenson's Acct^t, as well as some other little Claims Mr. Custis has left there. His Acct^t, I fear, will run high, as I see They have charg'd him at the Rate of 10/ a Week for the Pasturage of his Horses, & this in the Country; which I have refus'd to pay. He has also, very idly I think, exchange'd his Gray Horse, for a large clumsy black one, and is to give £4 Boot.—Having receiv'd Nothing from my Parish here, nor indeed being likely soon to receive any Thing; & as You may easily conceive that I have been put to pretty much expence, I begin to find it difficult to find Cash to support my Family. I have therefore thought of desiring the favor of you to pay this £50 Mary^d Curr^y, in your Way up from W^{ms}burg, on my account, either to Coll: J^{no} Thornton, or, if you shou'd not chance to see Him, to Mr. James Maury, a Merch^t in Fredericksb^g. I hope this will not be inconvenient to you; &, after paying off all Custis's Acct^s, there will not be very much left for me, which however I'll be careful to acc^t for when we settle. Exchange here, I am told, is at 66 $\frac{2}{3}$, which will regulate your Paym^t of this Money.

Sundry Papers have been put into my Hands by a Mr. Harrison, from some Person in England, attempting, in Consequence of an Advertisem^t of yours in the English Papers, to prove his being true and lineal Heir to ——— Colville, to whom I think you were left Executor. I have promised to speak with you on the Subject; but as the Papers are bulky, shall for bear to send them, till your Return to Mount Vernon. In the mean Time, I hope They will not be excluded from their Claim, for want of asserting it in due Time.*

Mr. Johnson has also left with me another large Cargo of Physic for Miss Custis; of the Efficacy of which in working a total Cure, He seems unusually confidant. This too I shall not send till you return.

A Letter for you, brought by a vessel to this Place, I take the Liberty of directing to you in Williamsburg.

You will not wonder that I request to know, as soon as it may be in your Power, what your final Determination is with Respect to this young Gentleman's going Home. On his Account, it were better to have it certainly known: & on my own, it is highly necessary. However eager my Inclinations might be for the Scheme, should it still, after mature Deliberation, appear to yourself & your Friends, prudent to be at such an Expense, I am not now sure it would be in my Power to embrace the offer. I am not indeed sure that I could resist; tho' it wou'd certainly be highly indiscreet in me to turn myself once more adrift into the wide world, without first securing to myself a comfortable Retreat. And I have not, at present, such fair Prospects as I thought I had, but a Week ago. There is a Parish vacant, not twenty Miles from Mount Vernon, where I shall hardly need to say, I wou'd rather be than any where else in Maryland. And I thought I had been sure of it: indeed I hope I still am, tho' the Governor says He expects from England a Schoolfellow & a Relation of his own to fill it up. If this Gentleman does not come in, which I fear may not be known for some months to come, I think I shall be appointed to it. And if I am, I flatter myself I shall, without much Difficulty, be able so as to settle Matters as to put it in my Power to pursue this favourite Plan: of which, however, it is but Justice to myself to own that, with Respect to myself, I am not nearly so anxious as I have been. Life wastes apace, &, unmindful of

* It was the estate of Thomas Colville. Dr. G. Alder Blumer, of Utica, N. Y., has reprinted from Archæologia Æliana some curious letters on Washington's connection with this Colville estate, and has also printed the Wills of the Colvilles in full.

y^e silent Lapse of Time, I have already trifled away but too great a Part of it: it is not therefore to be wondered at if, in my cooler moments of Recollection, I wish for a Settlement.

I beg your Pardon for all this Egotism, uninteresting to you: this week or two I have not been very well; & if in this, & my former letters, I have been disagreeably troublesome, I trust you will be so obliging as to impute it to that Cause.

If it be at all inconvenient to you to pay this Money, on your Way upwards; or, if you may probably stay longer than June, I beg you to inform me; as I can then fall upon some other Expedient. I will also put your English Letter into the Post Office here, & hope they will forward it from Alexandria, without any fresh Corn.

I beg my respectful Comp^{ts} to M^{rs} Washington & Miss Custis; & am, Dear Sir, &c.

Posey, I hear, is in prison bounds.*

Boucher to Washington.

ANNAPOLIS, 4 July, 1771.

Dear Sir,

I am sorry to have thrown any additional Difficulties in your Way, respecting the affair of M^r Custis's Tour. At the Time I wrote, Difficulties seem'd to be starting up before me, which I fear'd could not otherwise be remov'd, than by dropping all Thoughts of leaving Maryland. I wish'd from many Motives, to accompany Mr. Custis: it was, however, as you will readily allow me to declare, but the second wish of my Heart,—my first was, that I might be independent. After what I had already experienced, it wou'd have been terrible to have again thrown myself into the wide world, without having first secur'd a comfortable Retreat to return to. And, I fear'd, it was too much to ask both a competent Living, & such extraordinary Leave of absence. I have now, however, the very high Pleasure to inform you, that, with respect to myself, Things are much altered; and, if you [will] make it suitable in other Respects, I am willing & ready to accompany M^r Custis, on the proposed Tour,—I am at Liberty to add, on this Condition only, that we set out some time in the next Year. Contrary to the sentim^{ts} of my friends, who thought it better that I should first get my Induction into the Living I mentioned to you in my Last, ere I promis'd to make this other Request to the Gov^r, I resolv'd openly & candidly to lay before Him my real Views; with which he was so well pleased, as to promise me the Parish so soon as ever it was in his Power, & also Leave of Absence,—for one Year only at a Time, but renewable: an Expedient He is obliged to use, thro' a fear of giving Cause of offence to the People here so unreasonably jealous of any Extension of Prerogative.—I have had much Talk with Him on the subject. He had often taken a particular notice of Mr. Custis, & on this Occasion, professes a strong Desire to oblige

* John Posey, who a few days later wrote to Washington: "I could have been able to satisfied all my old arrears, some months agoe, by marrying old widow woman in this County. She has large some cash by her, and Prittey good Est^t.—She is as thick, as she is high, and gits drunk at Least three or foure a weak—which is Disagreeable to me—has viliant Sperrit when Drunk—its been Great Dispute in my mind what to doe—I beleave I shu'd run all Resks—if my last Wife, had been even temper'd women, but her Sperrit has given me such Shock—that I am afraid to Run the Resk again, when I see the Object before my eys is Disagreeable."—Queenstown, 25 May, 1771.

A Letter from Washington to Boucher, dated New Kent, 19 May, 1771, is printed in my Writings of Washington, II., 319 n. Another of 5 June, 1771, is in the same volume, p. 320.

Him, and you: and, it may be, that I owe, in some measure, the exceeding obligeness He shew'd to me in this matter, to his Desire of being instrumental to the promoting a scheme He so highly approves of. It will be in his Power to give Mr Custis Letters, which may be very useful to Him; & this He will do with much Pleasure. In short, both He, and Mr Dan Dulany, with whom also, at your Request, I have convers'd on the subject, highly approve of the Project—in Case, Mr. Custis's Estate will afford it. I said, I believ'd it might be now worth £1000 or 1200 sterl^s p^r ann:, which Mr Dulany, judging from his own Experience wth his own son, thinks abundantly sufficient. Yet, he says, Experiences in Travel are so exceedingly vague, uncertain, & variable, that there is no ascertaining, exactly, what may be the proper Allowance. His son has cost Him from £100 to £1000. In Paris, I think, He says, He spent £500 in three months, besides the salary to his Tutor. Upon the whole, however, He is of opinion, that one year with another, Mr. Custis can hardly need to exceed the Income of his Estate.

In debating this part of the argum^t, it deserves no little Attention to enquire, how much of his annual Income He would probably expend, if He should continue these three years in Virginia. Living with you, or under your immediate Influence, He probably wou'd be restrain'd within proper Bounds; especially as I do not think He naturally is of an expensive Turn. But, I am mistaken, if, with the most rigid Economy, adapted to his Circumstances, He fell much short of what it will cost Him at Home, exclusive, I mean, of the Expence of his Tutor. And shou'd he unluckily fall into the Habit of dealing in Horses, or, but in a very moderate Degree, sporting as it is called, neither of which He could well avoid, from the general Prevalence of Example, I need only direct your Eyes to many young Gentleman, of fair Hopes, so circumstanced, to convince you, that it is not likely to be much more costly to Him to spend these three perilous years abroad, than at Home.—But, what a Difference, my dear sir, in the manner of spending them, & in the Consequences! To me, it is so very striking, that I own I shall sorely lament if, with your very proper & right sentiments on the matter, any untoward Circumstances shou'd yet arise from any other Quarter to prevent it.

I have, in many of my former Letters, already said so much on the subj^t of Travelling, that I am fearful of falling into Repetitions. I will only add now, what I do not recollect ever before to have mentioned, that it is more peculiarly necessary to Him, than most Youths I have known. He has that Placid Indolence of nature, Flexibility of Temper, in his mind & manners, which require some better knowledge of y^e world, than He is likely here to acquire, to guard him against y^e Consequences of too much Complaisance & Confidence in the Generality of mankind.

There is, to a delicate mind, much force in some specious objections which you suppose may be urged, from the Consideration of your being but his Guardian. But, they vanish at the approach of fair Reasoning, as it were at the Touch of Ithuriel's spear. You are in Duty bound to promote Mr. Custis's Interest by every means in your power, & I am sure it is not more your Duty, than it is your Inclination. If, therefore, both yourself, and every other cool, dispassionate, & well-informed Friend be fully persuaded that thus alone you will most effectually promote his true and lasting Interest, ought you to be deterr'd by the vain Fears & mistaken Apprehensions of others? At this Rate, nothing good or great must ever be done in Life, & you have already far exceeded your Commission, ev'n with Regard only to this young Gentleman. I reason upon this, as upon y^e other Occurrences of Life. I wou'd gladly do what, upon mature Deliberation & fullest Enquiry, appear'd to be my Duty; and if, after this, malicious or ignorant People wou'd still put an ill-natured or unfair Construction on my well-meant aims, I must be contented to bear it, as I do the other Ills of Life, as something that might vex me, but shou'd not make me very uneasy, nor unhappy.

Upon the whole, I do very earnestly wish, and, if I might have Leave, I would request, that this matter may, as soon as possible, be determined either the one way or the other. The next spring, if I recollect aright, is the Æra I always fix'd on for setting out; and there are many Reasons why it should not, and not one that I can recollect why it should, be postponed beyond that Period. And, to me, as you will easily believe, it must be desirable, as well indeed, as essentially necessary, to know what is resolv'd on, as soon as may be. My little affairs will require some Time to put them into such a Posture, as I shall wish to leave them in; and, I suppose, it might be convenient to you too, to know certainly, ere you sent home this year's Invoice. If Mrs. Washington, & yourself, & his nearest Friends approve of it, there is little Likelihood, that the General Court will disapprove: would it not be a strange Exertion of Power if they should? Yet, it is right, they should be consulted, & their Consent obtained. Gov^r Eden strongly urges the Expediency of a six months' Tour thro' America ere he cross'd the Atlantic: it is certainly right, if for no other Reason, only that a man might not seem totally unacquainted with his own Country. Is it quite romantic in me to expect, that, possibly, you might find Leisure to spend a few months in our Party? April or May wou'd be about the Time for setting out.

I am much concern'd at your apprehensions of M^r Custis's slender Improvements. And, to shew you how thankfully I receive such notices, I will not deny, that, possibly, there may be some Foundation^s for y^e fears, & that, moreover, some part of y^e Blame, possibly, belongs to me. I will go farther, & say that both He & I, as the K. of Prussia said, hereafter will do better. [] this, let me now have Leave to add that his Improvements, tho' not equal to what they might have been, are, I believe, not inferior to those of any other young gentleman so circumstanced. Nay, I will venture to say, He is a better scholar than most of his years & standing. He is not, indeed, as you observe, much farther advanced, than under M^r Magowan. I cou'd here say a good deal: let this suffice, that I hope He now knows, by just principles, what heretofore, he had acquir'd by Rote only. He has apply'd more closely of late, & has begun Arithmetic over again; & on his Return, is to enter upon French. There is a Deal of Difference to be observed in y^e Educatⁿ a Gentleman, & a mere scholar.

You will receive Physic from M^r Johnson, & enclos'd, his Directions, as well as Dr. Stevenson's rec^d & mine. And the papers, respect^s y^e Claim to Colville's Est^a, of w^h I beg y^r Care, as well as that you will, when in y^r power, direct me what ans^r to return to y^e man, who put them into my Hands for you. I am &c.

In the Hurry of writing, I had well nigh forgot a Commission a Friend gave me to you. M^r Lloyd Dulany of this city is going to the springs this season. He understands you have a House there—if unoccupy'd & unengag'd, He w^d be much oblig'd to you for Leave to make use of it.

I saw Coll. Cressap yesterday. He seems quite confident the new Grant will take Place, & is taking his Measures accordingly. Gov^r Eden hears, that many of y^e Regulators have pass'd thro' this Province, & is surpriz'd Gov^r Tryon has not sent Expresses to the sundry Gov^{rs}, on y^e supposiⁿ that they would.*

NOTE.—The foregoing is an exact transcription from the original Bible record; and is published for the sake of perpetuating matter which might otherwise be entirely obliterated by time or accident.

Explanatory of the above entries—which are, mainly, a record of the family of William Bond (son of Joseph Bond who married Polly Lawrence) and Sally Thompson—it may be sufficient to say, that all of the names which are not starred (*) were born Bond: Under “Births,” Polly Bond (who was the wife of Joseph Bond) was Polly (Mary) Lawrence.

Referring to the REGISTER, vol. li., Jan. 1897, p. 71—family of Rowlandson and Priscilla (Williams) Bond—the fourth son, Joseph, is identical with the Joseph in the above record who married Polly Lawrence in 1783; the title of “Capt.” applying to this Joseph, under the heading “Deaths,” having been acquired as commanding officer of the “East Militia,” at Woburn, Mass., 1799–1801. Capt. Joseph was the founder of the baking business first established in Woburn about 1793, afterwards moved to Wilmington, Mass. A view of Woburn, by Buckman, shows the location of Joseph’s bakehouse as it was first established.

ABRAHAM CRUTTENDEN OF GUILFORD, CONN., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

Compiled by Hon. RALPH D. SMYTH and communicated by his grandson,
Dr. BERNARD C. STEINER.

1. ABRAHAM¹ CRUTTENDEN was one of the first settlers of Guilford and was one of the twenty-five signers of the Plantation Covenant in 1639. It is said that he came from the county of Kent in England and had been a neighbor of William Chittenden, whose widow he afterwards married. He was probably married in England about 1630, and was probably about twenty-eight or nine years old at the time of the settlement of Guilford. He died in January, 1683, aged about seventy-three years. None of his children's births are recorded in Guilford, though some must have been born after he came to that place. On April 30, 1646, he was appointed "overseer of the mill bay dams or floodgates." On June 6, 1651, he was chosen assessor and on June 9, 1653, townsman. In addition to his home lot he owned "a parcel of upland and marsh in the valley on each side of West River," a "parcel of upland 20 acres abutting to the common woods," a "parcel of marsh land to the South 10½ acres" and a "parcel of upland over against the mill" containing 19 acres. The name is also spelled Crittenden. He married first, Mary ———, who died 1664; second, widow Joanna Chittenden, May 31, 1665. She died August 16, 1668. A PLANTATION ON PRINCE GEORGE'S CREEK, CAPE FEAR, NORTH CAROLINA.

Communicated by SAMUEL B. DODGETT, Esq., of Boston.

A LETTER of attorney from George Minot of Boston, merchant, and Elizabeth his wife, formerly Elizabeth Brown, daughter of Maurice Moor, Esq., late of Cape Fear, states that Maurice Moor in his last will, dated September 30, 1742, gave Elizabeth a tract of land on Prince George's Creek, in Cape Fear, containing about six hundred acres.

This letter, dated November 14, 1744, appoints "Mr. Thomas Clarke of Willmington, on Cape Fear river, in North Carolina, merchant," to act as attorney in the sale of this land and buildings, and the paper is witnessed by Samuel Austin and Stephen Minot, Jr., and acknowledged before Jonas Clarke, whose commission as justice of the peace is certified by Governor Shirley, December 5, 1744.

After the execution of this instrument it would seem that Mr. George Minot left Boston for Cape Fear. The following letter was written him by his brother:—

"BOSTON, January 20th, 1744-5.

DEAR BROTHER.

I wrote you a few Lines by Cap. Darby in a sloop that saild last Sunday (Mr. Monk Passenger) by whom your wife wrote you at large and Stephen inclosed it in a Letter to Cap^t. Quince to be deliver'd you. * * * the only acct we have had of you since your absence is from Mr. Walker who mett you at Milford. * * * Inclosed is a Letter you wrote me from Cape Fear which I but yesterday found among my papers & may be of Service to you relating to your affair with Mr. Quince—he will doubtless pay the Outsett & Advance wages. Stephen was out when she saild from hence & pay her hire from the time she saild from Boston, & dureing her stay at Cape Fear & till the day she was lost—for observe you charterd her at only £90 p month which (as it was without his Engagement to insure her) was much undervalued at least £20 p month on so hazardous a Voyage.

I suppose the schooner of Mr. Bowdoin's has been arriv'd sometime & doubtless loaded in due time, pray send Stephen word via Nuce, Pamplico Edington &c. when she was loaded—I could not get R. Bills draught even accepted tho it was drawn Conditionally, which makes him very uneasie—I'm sorry as he is a good sort of man & very friendly in visiting our house. I mett a few days ago wth Taskar. * * * * Brother Christopher will with much difficulty be persuaded to tarry here, when I go for Jamaica which I am fully determined upon, by the Mast Ship that sails in a month. You doubtless have heard of the great Hurricane at Jamaica which they say has done vast damage the only acct. we have is via So. Carolina. Mr. Apthorp is the only person in Town has a Letter from Mr. Tregothick so that we are at a Loss ab^t Brother & his Interest but are full of maloncholly reflections & fears about it—neither do I know how it has affected my Friend James plantation and Interest but as I have so often talk'd & wrote of going I am determined ab^t going maugre all the objections that arise from this unforeseen Event of Providence & make no doubt somehow or other to make it worth my while to see Jamaica. * * * *

Inclosed you have most of the late news papers for your Amusement. I pickd them up in a hurry. I cannot at present think of any news worth communicating & conclude with my best wishes for your health & preservation & success in all your affairs being with sincerity in great haste.

Dear Bro^r. Y^r Loving Br^o
& Assured Friend

JAMES MINOT.

Your wife begun a Letter yesterday but company & her present Indisposition prevents her finishing it now. She desird me to write to Newberry for a barrel or two of Apples for her good Friends Coll^o Blake & Mad^m. Haines which I shall do & send by Cox. Just this moment been talking of Daughter Betsey & with a deep sigh, she hoped you would be as good as your promise, in bringing her, she well knows the objections her friends will make of the difficulty of the Journey & their being loth to part with her &c. but she hopes her urgent desires & repeated wishes by word of mouth & Letters, will easily get the better of all objections may be raised against it. Pray don't forget sending by all opportunity some potatoes to y^r wife sister Minot. Mr. Bill, Bro. John, Mr^s. Clarke & Cos. Minot who have all been very kind to sister.—she desir'd I would not forget to mention it. Sister desires you would buy for her at Cape Fear, a white Calico quilted coat, a persian ditto, for the summer, they^l cost as dear again here she says she^l want 'em very much send em wth other things by water.

Sister sent by young Monk in a Letter to Betsey (in the sloop Cap Darby) a pair silver sleeve buttons wth Bristoll Stones which she inclos'd in the Letter. Mr. Bill now in the chamber (dont forget the barrel Knightsfoot of Coll. Peyton, he desires to be rememberd to you.

"Some Observations on my Plantation, which Lyes on Prince Georges Creek, on the North East Branch of Cape Fear River.

Another letter shows that Mr. Lithgow has heard of the proposed sale and gives his views of the locality:—

"CAPE FEAR May 23^d 1747.

Dear Sir,

I find you are in terms of purchassing Geo. Minot's Land that Bounds on me. You have allready offered him much more for it then I Believe he ever befor expected, or do I think it is worth so much as land goes here at presant: I am much surprised he did not take you at your word: * * * * I wou'd advise you by all means to come and see the country first: for if you shou'd mislike the country to live in, the money in a manner may lay sunk this dozen years, before you can get off your hands again. We have house Room enough either in the Town or Country to entertain you till you have Looked about to see where you would like best to be: and what you would like: for there is no fear of getting land at any time there is Enough to be sold. The Buildings he tells you off are only two small Logg houses very indifferant I think & hardly fitt for any body to live in. Indeed they might do to shalter from the Rain till better was got, but I question much if the sides would keep out the wind, add to that were they good for any thing they are abundantly too near the Creek, the people that lives there now tells me in the summer time they are devoured with muskitters therefore if any good house was to be Built it ought to be almost a quarter of a mile further Back from the Creek side. Mr. Blake don'd with me this day: I asked him about the Jamaica Gentleman he was Recommending to Buy Gen. Minot's Land, he told me he knew of none but said he did tell Mr. Minot he would buy it off him, for a Friend of his at Jamaica, but says: he intended it for himself purely for fishing in the summer and Ducking in the winter. * * * *

D: Sir

The above is copy of my last to you via Mountsarat which I wrote in a hurry purely if possible to prevent you from engaging too far wth Mr. Minot's Land till you have seen it yourself: for if you should not like to live there, you cannot Rent it for one p cent Interest. The poorest people here if they have been any time in the country, makes shift to get Land of their own either by taking up or Buying."

One other letter is dated at Cape Fear and apparently directed to Mr. George Minot at Boston:—

"Decem^r ye 19th 1747.

I am not a little concern'd for the Death of my cousin. But as these things see frequently happen wee must Submit. But this may be y^r great Comfort she Dyeing see good a Christian. EDWIN HUBBARD.

By Mrs. FANNIE WILDER BROWN, his granddaughter.

EDWIN HUBBARD, genealogist and family historian, the son of Harvey and Jennie Doane (Galpin) Hubbard, was born in Berlin, Conn., July 29, 1811, and died in Bennington, Vt., April 11, 1891. Edwin,³ Harvey,⁴ Abijah² (Revolutionary soldier), Samuel,⁴ Samuel,³ Samuel,² George,¹ of Middletown, Conn.

When a mere boy, Mr. Hubbard was astonished to hear a man say that he did not know the maiden name of his own grandmother.

He soon began to collect all the information he could find relative to his own ancestors, and to try to interest others in theirs. "One Thousand Years of Hubbard History," page 197, says of him, "Edwin Hubbard was a born genealogist and collected data from boyhood to old age about his own and numerous other families, comprising Bradford, Goodrich, Heald, Drury, Towne, Powers and others. His inventions of Ancestral Registers or printed tabular forms were most excellent models for copying data into. . . . He did a great deal of genealogical labor, being remarkably conscientious and painstaking in preparing his data." He made a specialty of Ancestral Research, and the work that he best loved was the tracing out as many ancestors as it was possible for him to find for the individual for whom he was working. His system of numbering prevented any confusion of individuals, and his clear handwriting, almost as distinct as printing will be long remembered by his numerous correspondents.

Mr. Hubbard married in Berlin, Conn., Oct. 14, 1832, Hannah Root North, who was born Sept. 26, 1816, and was the daughter of Lemuel and Rebecca (Goodrich) North. Hannah,⁸ Lemuel,⁷ David,⁶ Jedediah,⁵ Isaac,⁴ Thomas,³ Thomas,² John.¹ They had ten children, but four of whom survived their childhood, and even these died long before the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard. They lived, successively, in Berlin, Conn.; Millersport, Ohio (which was then "away out West"); Meriden, Conn.; Cape May, N. J.; Meriden again; and in 1859 went to Chicago where the greater part of his genealogical work was done. His home was later at Oak Park, his office in Chicago, where for many years he devoted himself entirely to the work of genealogy. In his early life he was in the carriage business, kept a store, was president of a bank and when he first went to Chicago kept an insurance office, but throughout his life his attention was mainly devoted to genealogical research.

In 1883 he went to Bennington, Vt., to the home of his grandson Charles Hoadley, where he died in 1891. Mrs. Hubbard died in Clinton, Conn., August, 1893. While in Chicago Mr. Hubbard was for many years deacon of the Tabernacle Church, while Mrs. Hubbard was city missionary, and both were active in all the work of the church they loved.

The four children who outlived childhood were:

WALTER NORRIS, b. June 10, 1834; d. Feb. 19, 1879; m. July 10, 1871, Jessie A. Wallace (b. July 8, 1849; d. Dec. 30, 1888).

AMELIA ORPHA, b. Sept. 8, 1836; d. Oct. 2, 1861; m. April 10, 1855, Horace Philemon Hoadley, of New Haven, Ct., and had Charles, and George who became a Congregational minister.

REBECCA CURTIS, b. Nov. 18, 1839; d. in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 4, 1874; m. Aug. 13, 1857, William Frank⁹ Wilder (b. Aug. 19, 1831,—Joshua,⁸ Samuel,⁷ Aholiab,⁶ Nathaniel,⁵ Nathaniel,⁴ Thomas,³ Thomas,² John¹), captain of a regiment of Illinois volunteers during the war; foreign agent of the Elgin Watch Company, 1875-1889; lived in Brooklyn, N. Y., London, Eng., Colorado Springs, New York and Washington, D. C. Their children were Walter L. and Frank Curtis, editors of Colorado Springs Gazette, and Fannie A. Wilder, who m. Dec. 2, 1882, John Fenner Brown, and lives in Arlington, Mass. This granddaughter has succeeded her grandfather in his genealogical work.

EDWIN LEMUEL, b. March 2, 1842; d. July 5, 1862, in the army, of camp fever, at La Grange, Tenn., and was buried there.

CAPTAIN JOHANNES SANDERSE GLEN.

By ZOTHE S. LEEBUDG, Esq., of San Francisco, Cal.

ABOUT the year 1633, a Scotchman by the name of Alexander Lindsay Glen was at Fort Nassau on the Delaware. A man, tradition says, of noble birth, a refugee to Holland from whence he came to America in the service of the Dutch West India Company, from whom he held large grants of land. He was called by the Dutch, Sander Leenderse Glen, and is thus designated in all the records. His transactions in real estate and merchandise were very large. He owned lands in New Amsterdam ("Smits Valley") in 1646, and was then called "coopman" (merchant) of Boverswyck. He also owned lands, house and cattle at Graves End, Long Island, lands at Fort Nassau and at Fort Casimir. On June 10th, 1643, Arent Van Curler wrote to the Patrons of Reusselaerwyck, * * "I have purchased at the Mill Kill, from Jan Mickaelson, a house and a large oblong building which he bought from Sander Leenderke (Glen) for 500 gl."

In 1658 Glen built a mansion of stone on the north bank of the Mohawk River under the title and protection of the Mohawk Indians by whom he was held in high esteem.

In 1661 he with Arent Van Curler and thirteen others made application to Peter Stuyvesant, Director General, for permission to purchase from the Indians the Great Flats on the Mohawk River—negotiations which resulted finally in the Dongan patent to what is now the city of Schenectady. Glen called his farm on the north side of the river, Scotia. It comprised several hundred acres and extended from "Claas Graven's Rock" easterly to "Luysig Rock," just above Freeman's Bridge. In the division of lands under the patent, he received a house lot in the village, a pasture lot on the river, and two bouccrys on the Great Flat.

Glen's wife was Catalyn Dongan. She died Aug. 12, 1684, and he died Nov. 13, 1685. They were buried side by side under the church built by Glen in the public square and presented to the inhabitants of Schenectady. In 1818 their remains were carefully exhumed by Judge Sanders, a lineal descendant, and removed to the family cemetery at Scotia where they now rest.

CAPTAIN JOHANNES SANDERSE GLEN (John Glen, son of Alexander) was born Nov. 5, 1648, died Nov. 6, 1731. Married, first, Annatie, daughter of Jan and Marie (Du Trieux) Peek, and after her death in 1690, he married Diwar, daughter of Evert Janse Wendel. He frequently wrote his name "Johannes Sanderse," after the Dutch fashion, and was usually called Captain Sander. The French wrote the name Cendre, which became transformed into Condre, and then into Coudre.*

Captain Glen was chief magistrate of Schenectady.† He served during the French and Indian wars as ensign, lieutenant and captain under Major Peter Schuyler, and was captain of the First Foot Company at Schenectady in 1715.

On the night of February 8, 1690, Schenectady was destroyed by a war party of French and Indians from Montreal. The inhabitants, who were all Dutch, were in a state of discord and confusion. The revolution in England had produced a revolution in New York. The demagogue, Jacob Leisler, had got possession of Fort William and endeavored to master the colony. The Dutch of Schenectady for the most part favored Leisler, but Glen stood fast for the Albany convention (anti-Leisler), of which Peter Schuyler was the chief, and in consequence the villagers had threatened to kill him.‡ The village was oblong in shape and was stockaded with palisades of pine logs ten feet high. It had two gates, one towards Albany, and the other towards the Mohawks. A block house near the eastern gate was occupied by eight or nine men belonging to Captain Bull's Connecticut company, under command of Lieutenant Talmage. As they were under orders from Albany, they too, like Glen, were under the popular ban. In vain the magistrate and the officer entreated the people to stand on their guard. They turned the advice to ridicule, laughed at the idea of danger, left both their gates wide open, and placed there, it is said, two snow images as mock sentinels.

On the 17th of January, 1690, a war party was started from Montreal, with the intention of striking the English and Dutch settlements of Albany and Schenectady. It consisted of one hundred and fourteen Frenchmen and ninety-six Indians—in all two hundred and ten men, under command of D'Ailleboust de Mantet and Le Moyne de Sainte-Hélène, supported by the brothers Le Moyne d'Iberville and Le Moyne Bienville and several others of the Canadian noblesse.

It was the depth of winter when they began their march, sliding on snow shoes over the vast white field of the frozen St. Lawrence and dragging their blankets and provisions on Indian sledges. Between the St. Lawrence and the Mohawk was two hundred miles of unbroken wilderness without a single habitation, with snow in the forest from three to six feet deep.

They advanced four or five days on the march and then stopped to hold a council. The precise point of attack had been left to the leaders, and thus the men had been ignorant of their destination. The Indians demanded to know it. Mantet and Saint-Hélène replied that they were going to Albany. The Indians demurred. "How long is it," asked one of them, "since the French grew so bold?" The commanders endeavored to satisfy them but the Indians were sullen, the decision was postponed and the party moved forward again.

When after eight days they reached the Hudson and found the place where two paths diverged, the one for Albany and the other for Schenectady, they all without further words took the latter.

* See letter of M. de Monseignat, Comptroller General of the Marine in Canada, to Mme. de Mainton. Doc. Hist. N. Y. I., 297.

† The French called Schenectady Corlaer from Van Curler its founder. Corlaer was also the name given by the Indians to the governor of New York.

‡ "They would not watch, and when Capt. Sander commanded them they threatened to burn him upon ye fire if he come upon ye garde." Robt. Livingston to Sir Edmond Andros. Doc. Hist. N. Y. I., 193.

The march was one of incredible hardship and tested their pluck and endurance to the uttermost. At first there was a partial thaw and the men waded knee deep through the half-melted snow, mingled ice, mud and water of the gloomy swamps. Then the weather suddenly changed, and a cold fierce wind, accompanied by snow, swept down upon them, freezing the blood in their veins. So painful and so slow was their progress that it was eleven o'clock on the night of the eighth of February when they reached Schenectady and stood before its open gate guarded by its deaf and dumb warder, the sentinel of snow. It was their intention to make the attack later, but the intense cold forced them to enter the town at once. Iberville went with a detachment to find the Albany gate and bar it against the escape of fugitives, but missed it in the gloom and hastened back. The assailants were now formed into two bands, Sainte-Hélène leading the one and Mantet the other. They passed through the gate together in dead silence; one turned to the right and the other to the left, and they filed around the village between the palisades and the houses till the two leaders met at the further end. The signal was then given and with hideous yells they burst open the doors with their hatchets and fell to their work. The simple villagers, wrapped in peaceful slumber, were unable to make any material resistance. For some it was but a momentary nightmare, ended by the blow of the tomahawk. Others were less fortunate. Neither women nor children were spared. Sixty persons were killed outright. The massacre and pillage continued two hours; then the prisoners were secured, sentinels posted and the men told to rest and refresh themselves. In the morning a small party crossed the river to Scotia, the house of Glen, which stood on rising ground half a mile distant. It was loopholed and palisaded, and Glen had mustered his servants and tenants, closed his gates and prepared to defend himself. Iberville appeared at the gate and drawing his commission from the breast of his coat, told Glen that he was specially charged to pay a debt which the French owed him. On several occasions he had saved the lives of French prisoners in the hands of the Mahawks, and he, with his family, and above all his wife had shown them the greatest kindness. The officer urged Glen to go with them to the village, and he complied. He was now led before a crowd of wretched prisoners and told that not only were his own life and property safe but that all his kindred should be spared.* Glen stretched his privilege to the utmost, till the Indians, disgusted at his multiplied demands for clemency, complained that everybody seemed to be his relation.

Some of the houses had already been burned. Fire was now set to the rest, excepting one in which a French officer lay wounded, another belonging to Glen, and three or four more which he begged the victors to spare. At noon Schenectady was in ashes and the French and Indians withdrew laden with booty. Thirty or forty captured horses dragged their sledges and a troop of twenty-seven men and boys were driven prisoners into the forest.†

NOTES.

INSCRIPTIONS AT HINSDALE, N. H.—There is a little cemetery in the town of Hinsdale, N. H., mostly across the Connecticut river from old Fort Dummer. No care is now taken of it. It is fast growing up with brush and saplings, and will soon be forest again. Most of the headstones are in good preservation. The name Wellman abounds. I copied the following data for you:

"Capt. Moses Palmer of Little Compton d. Nov. 26, 1759, in his 39th year."

The meeting was held 1 mo. 31, 1713, but there is no further mention of the certificate, although it must have been signed about this time. They embarked for Pennsylvania, but Peter died on the voyage or shortly after the arrival. At Chester monthly meeting (now Delaware County, Pa.), 1 mo. 29, 1714, the widow Elinor Cooke produced a "certificate from ffrandly months meeting in ould England." Lieut. Nathaniel Gilbert died 19 April, 1756. Elizabeth Prout, relict of the above, died Sept. 1, 1776. Can any one tell me who Elizabeth Prout was? She does not seem to be of the New Haven family, as no Elizabeth Prout is there recorded.

HISTORICAL INTELLIGENCE.

SANBORN GENEALOGY.—The Genealogy of the Sanborn Family, compiled by V. C. Sanborn, of La Grange, Ill., is now in press, and will be issued this autumn. We have received advance sheets of the early portion of it. There are chapters on "The Family Name and Its Origin," "The Heraldry of Sanborne," "Pedigree of the English Sambornes," etc. Mr. Frank B. Sanborn, of Concord, Mass., will furnish a chapter on the mode of life and general character of New Hampshire people in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. The book will be illustrated with a map of the southern counties of England, where the name seems to have originated, and numerous portraits and other engravings. It will make a volume of over five hundred pages. Price, $10 in cloth, or $12.50 in half calf, gilt edges. Address V. C. Sanborn, La Grange, Ill.

GENEALOGIES IN PREPARATION.—Persons of the several names are advised to furnish the compilers of these genealogies with records of their own families and other information which they think may be useful. We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service under the U. S. Government, the holding of other offices, graduation from college or professional schools, occupation, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence and death. When there are more than one christian name they should all be given in full if possible. No initials should be used when the full names are known.

Barbour.—Edmund D. Barbour, 611 Sears Building, Boston, Mass., will soon publish a book on the Barbour Family, which will contain particulars of nearly 40,000 direct descendants of Captain George Barbour, the Puritan leader of Dedham and Medfield, who came to this country in 1635, was Deputy to the General Court; chief military officer of his district; and one of the founders of Medfield. It also contains particulars of about 15,000 persons who have married these descendants. More than a thousand descendants of each of the following families are given and a lesser number of over a hundred other Massachusetts families: Babcock, Battelle, Clark, Haven, Holbrook, Leland, McKinsstry, Morse, Perry, Richardson, Sanger and Smith.

Cook.—Albert Cook Myers, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., is compiling a genealogy of the Cook family, and would be glad to correspond with those interested.

Hosmer.—Alfred W. Hosmer, Esq., of Concord, Mass., is gathering for publication the records of the descendants of James Hosmer, who settled at Concord in 1661.

March.—Miss Ellen Gates March, 1414 Park Avenue, Baltimore, Md., is compiling a genealogy of the March family. Correspondence with members of the family solicited.

Noyes.—B. Lake Noyes, M.D., of Stonington, Maine, is preparing a complete genealogical and biographical history of the descendants of Nicholas and James Noyes (brothers), who came from England and settled in Newbury, Mass., in 1634-5. He will be grateful to those who will contribute everything possible bearing on this subject so that nothing will be omitted which deserves incorporation into the book.

This will also include the descendants of Peter Noyes, who settled in Sudbury, Mass., about 1638.

Temple.—Rev. Levi Daniel Temple, of Brattleboro', Vt., is compiling a genealogy of the family of Temple. The book will contain the descendants of Abraham Temple, who settled in Salem, Mass., in 1638, and other families who seem to have a different origin.

BOOK NOTICES.

[The Editor requests persons sending books for notice to state, for the information of readers, the price of each book, with the amount to be added for postage when sent by mail.]

The Voyage of the Cabot. Latest Phase of the Controversy. By SAMUEL EDWARD DAWSON, LL.D. (Laval). From the Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada for 1897. N. S., Vol. III., Sec. II. For sale by James Hoge & Co., Ottawa; The Copp-Clark Co., Toronto; Bernard Quaritch, London, England. 1897. Royal 8vo. pp. 129.

This is a very valuable contribution by that eminent scholar, Dr. S. E. Dawson, to the literature bearing upon the hotly-contested question of the first landing place of John Cabot on the shores of North America. It is, of course, impossible in this brief notice to sketch in detail Dr. Dawson's carefully prepared and exhaustive argument to prove that the landing took place on Cape Breton. He seems to have conclusively proved that the landing did not take place anywhere on the coast of Labrador, but (to the writer of this review at least) he does not seem to have so clearly proved that Cabot did not land somewhere upon the coast of Newfoundland. The weight of evidence, however, would seem to indicate that he probably landed on the coast of Cape Breton. In support of his argument Dr. Dawson relies on Pedro Reinel's map (published in 1504 or 1505), on Robert Thorne's map (1527), on a map by Jean Alloufousee (1545), and on a map by Michael Lok (published in Hakluyt's "Divers Voyages" in 1587), and on the researches of Mons. d'Avesac, Dr. Charles Deane, Elisee Reclus, Dr. Justin Winsor, Mr. J. C. Brevoort, Mr. Edward Eggleston, and other leading authorities. Four hundred years have elapsed since the first landing by Europeans on American soil. While Holland and Portugal have had a somewhat large influence in the upbuilding of North America and South America (in New York state and the republic of Brazil), it of course goes without saying that the three races which have exercised the greatest influence here in this western hemisphere are the English, French and Spanish. While in point of time Spain and France were the first to effect considerable settlements here, what do we see as the results of their various labors to-day? France (which has always seemed to represent one of the highest types of the Latin race) made a good beginning in colonization in North America, but her empire gradually dwindle-dled away, because of her repeated attacks upon the British settlements, until it finally lost its separate existence, and her American colonies became merged in the dominion of the great English-speaking race. There is much that we may admire in the French character (the sparkle and wit of their nature, their dashing gallantry), but they have never possessed the more solid and enduring qualities of the Anglo-Saxon race. They have always lacked the steady going qualities of tenacity and perseverance, the power of an indomitable will which has always belonged to the English-speaking race, the finest product of modern civilization. In our race and in that alone may be found the highest type of true manliness. The Spaniards came to this continent with no purpose but to acquire treasure, and in doing so ground down with the heel of oppression the poor natives. But Spain has fortunately long since ceased to exert any considerable influence as a nation and is rapidly going to decay. While France established her colonies with a higher object in view than that of Spain, her motives appear to have been not unmixed with a greed for gain. The Pilgrims came here for freedom to worship God. From the beginning the diametrically opposite principles of the French and English nations, namely, that of arbitrary rule and that of freedom, were and are continually at war. It would be as impossible for France to remain long a republic, as it would for our country to submit to a monarchical form of government. There can be no healthy and permanent growth under arbitrary rule. Liberty, liberty under the laws of the English-speaking race, offers the freest and fullest scope for individual effort and attainment, for national effort and attainment. As history plainly shows, when a nation loses its rightful measure of liberty, it soon sinks to the dead level of mediocrity of the despotic races of our own day and of times long gone by. The struggle between freedom and despotism, between the democratic idea and the monarchical idea, will go on unceasingly until the cause of freedom triumphs. The higher principles of political government will (slowly it may be, but surely) supersede the lower. No truer principle of statesmanship was ever uttered, no truer and more enduring basis for civil government can be found than that contained in these words (the essence of Magna Charta and the Bill of Rights) in our grand Declaration of Independence: "A government of the people, by the people, for the people." Not in the dangerous paths of national aggrandizement, but in the wiser policy of conservatism, may we find safety in our national career. As long as we remain true to the wise principles laid down by the founders of our great republic, as long as we remain true to national faith and honor (to our present sound financial system firmly settled on a gold basis), to the eternal principles of justice and fair dealing, as long as we remain loyal to the principle of civil and religious liberty, we may be sure that the hand of Divine Providence will continue in the future (as it has in the past) to shape the destiny of our nation, will continue to lead us onward and upward in the paths of true progress.

History of the Military Company of the Massachusetts, now called the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts. 1637-1888. By OLIVER AYER ROBERTS, Historian of the Company. Volume III. 1822-1865. Boston. 1898. 4to. pp. x.+437.

As the dedication of the second volume of this work was to Revolutionary officers, so is that of the third,—as suggested by the period included in it,—to those of the organization who fought for the Union in the War of the Rebellion. Its smaller size in comparison with its predecessors is due to the fact that some of the biographical sketches arrived too late for insertion.

In continuing his annals the author pursues the previously adopted course of taking from the original records, which abound in material of no public value, only such portions as are of historical interest and constitute therefore appreciable illustrations of the Company's career.

The excellent prints,—thirty-four portraits and a frontispiece. "The Farm-house of Capt. Robert Keane at Rumney Marsh,"—together with the index whose plan has in previous notices been admiringly pointed out, very positively increase the beauty and worth of a book which will surely fulfil its writer's aspiration that it may perpetuate the fame of those whose heroic loyalty has conferred honor both on the Company and the State. One hundred and fifty members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, from major-generals down through all the ranks, served in the field during the Rebellion, while others, withheld at home by various causes, were active in patriotic measures; to the memory of such the costliest volume is but an inadequate token of reverence and gratitude.

Representative Men of Massachusetts, 1890-1900. The Leaders in Official, Business and Professional Life of the Commonwealth. Everett: Massachusetts Publishing Company. 1898. Large 4to. pp. 491.

The compiler of this handsome volume says in his Preface: "No state has been more fertile in the production of brainy and enterprising men than Massachusetts; and to bring the main facts of a portion of these worthy citizens of this last decade of the nineteenth century into public view is the real object of this volume." We have here sketches of over two hundred persons who are claimed as representing the official, business and professional life of the last decade of the present century. Most of the sketches are embellished with portraits on steel of a high order of merit. Among the persons whose memoirs are here given may be named two poets, John G. Whittier and Oliver Wendell Holmes; seven governors, Roger Wolcott, George S. Boutwell, William Claflin, William Gaston, Alexander H. Rice, William E. Russell and Frederic T. Greenhalge; two United States senators, George F. Hoar and Henry Cabot Lodge; three members of the cabinet of the United States, John D. Long, Richard Olney and Cornelius N. Bliss—and the following distinguished in other walks: Robert C. Winthrop, Charles Francis Adams, Charles Eliot Norton, Francis Amasa Walker, Richard H. Dana and Henry B. Peirce. The book deserves a place in the library of every person who desires to keep himself informed of what has been done by our representative men.

The Congregational Year Book, 1898, issued under the sanction of the National Council of the Congregational Churches of the United States. Boston: Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society. 1898. 8vo. pp. 446.

The Year Book for 1898 has been promptly issued, under the editorship of the Rev. Henry Allen Hazen, D.D., who has had charge of the work for several years. It does credit to his industry, judgment and taste. It contains an alphabetical list of the Congregational ministers and of the officers and students of Congregational theological seminaries; besides other statistical matters of interest to the denomination.

The Year Book, 1897. City of Charleston, S. C. 8vo. pp. 512.

The Charleston Year Book for 1897 is, like its predecessors, a very creditable and handsome volume. It contains the annual address of the mayor, Hon. J. Adger Smyth, and much statistical matter relating to the city. The Appendix contains Mayor Smyth's Annual Review. Among the subjects treated of historically are The Siege of Charleston, 1780; St. Mary's Church, Charleston; and the Massachusetts colony at Dorchester, South Carolina.

Much of the history of the city of Charleston, and of the state of South Carolina, is preserved in the elegant volumes that for a dozen or more years have annually been issued by the city.

A History of the Class of 1854, of Dartmouth College; including Col. Haskell's Narrative of the Battle of Gettysburg. Edited by HENRY A. HAZEN and S. LEWIS B. SPEAR. Boston: Alfred Mudge & Son, Printers. 1898. 8vo. pp. 153.

The volume, prepared by the Dartmouth College Class of 1854, is carefully prepared and does honor to the editors, Rev. Dr. Haven of Andoverdale and Rev. Mr. Speare of Newton. It gives a history of the class for nearly half a century and biographies of the eighty-one persons who were at any time members of the class, of whom sixty-one were graduates. Thirty-three of these graduates, or more than half, are now living.

The book is well printed and is embellished with a portrait of the late president of the class, Horatio Nelson Twombly. We are glad to see that these college Class Books are increasing and are improving in every way.

This Journal of the last annual Encampment of the department for this State of the G. A. R. contains much valuable statistical information about the department and its members. It has the address of Department Commander Deane, Reports, General Orders, etc.; also "Unofficial Proceedings at the Banquet, Faneuil Hall, Boston, February 9, 1898."

Letters written during the Civil War, 1861-1865. Privately Printed. 1898. 8vo. pp. 222.

These Letters were written by Lieut. Charles F. Morse of the Second Massachusetts Infantry, and were written to members of his family during his term of service from May, 1861, to July, 1865. They are an interesting addition to the literature of our late civil war.

Wilmington Records of Births, Marriages and Deaths, from 1730 to 1898, Alphabetically and Chronologically Arranged by JAMES E. KELLEY. Edward M. Nichols, Town Clerk. Lowell, Mass.: Printed by Thompson & Hill: 1898. 8vo. pp. 255.

Another Massachusetts town is to be added to the roll of those whose records have been printed. The volume before us contains the records of births, marriages and deaths of the town of Wilmington, from 1730 to the present year. The records are arranged alphabetically as to surnames and chronologically as to entries. We have here the entire records of births, etc., from the incorporation of the town in 1730. The volume containing the original records, prior to 1843, was "in a very poor condition, the leaves of which were loose and much worn on the edges." Mr. Kelley's labors has preserved their contents as well as the later entries so that they are safe from the ravages of time. The book is well printed, and does credit to the town clerk, Mr. Nichols, to Mr. Kelley and to the town itself.

Descendants of Anthony Brackett, Portsmouth, N. H. By ALPHIEUS L. BRACKETT. Everett, Mass. 1897. 8vo. pp. 8.

We continue in this number our quarterly notices of works on family history.

The Hapgood Family is a book deserving of great praise. The first edition of the work was published in 1859, in the second volume of the late Rev. Abner Morse's "Genealogical Register of the Descendants of Several Ancient Puritans," and was reprinted separately with the same type. In his notice of the compiler of the present work, Rev. Mr. Morse says: "Warren Hapgood, advantageously known as a merchant and a gentleman of liberal attainments and enviable social position, is properly the father of this genealogy. It was through his liberality that the labors of compilation have been sustained." Mr. Morse's work made a pamphlet of thirty-eight pages. The present Hapgood genealogy makes a bulky volume of nearly 600 pages. The compiler has spent much time in collecting materials and in compiling the book. He has made it everything that money and time would enable him to make it. The book is handsomely printed on clear white paper, with broad margins, and illustrated with thirty-eight fine engravings. A Supplement of 178 pages contains a variety of articles written by Mr. Hapgood, "while in active business running through a period of many years upon different subjects, mostly of a sporting character, which appeared in the public journals from time to time." They will be read with interest. The book has a good index.

The Dodge Family is intended as a supplement to the author's work published four years ago, in 1894, and noticed in the REGISTER. The new volume contains nearly as much matter as the original work, and is compiled with the same care as its predecessor, is handsomely printed, and is embellished with forty-one fine engravings. A few copies of the first volume remain in the hands of the author, which will be sold at six dollars a copy or $8.50 for both volumes.

In 1886, Mr. Dean Dudley, who had in 1842 published an octavo volume of 144 pages on the Dudley family and soon after visited England to make genealogical researches, which from time to time he printed for the benefit of his kindred, issued the first number of his complete History of the Dudley Family. This history was issued in numbers of 100 pages each, illustrated, at $1 a number, and was compiled in 1894 in ten numbers, or bound in two volumes, cloth. We understand that a few sets can be supplied at $12.50 the set. The Supplement here noticed contains matter since discovered about the family in England and further details about the family here. The history and the supplement furnish a mass of information about the descendants of Gov. Thomas Dudley and the Dudley family in general.

The pamphlets on the Hills, Savage and Brackett families are valuable additions to our genealogical literature.

WILL OF THOMAS HOBSON OF CAMBRIDGE, ENG., 1630.

Communicated by HENRY F. WATERS, A.M.

ALL through the days of my boyhood "Hobson's choice, that or none" was a household saying. It would be interesting to learn when it first came into vogue in New England. It should be remembered that of the university men among the early settlers of New England the majority had been brought up at Cambridge. Some of them may have been actually acquainted with this Thomas Hobson, and all of them may have learned something about him and his ways. I have note of the will of his son Thomas who died in his father's life time and who styled himself gentleman.

Thomas Hobson of Cambridge, in the County of Cambridge, carrier, 24 December, 6th Charles (1st), with a Codicil made 27 December, 1630, another codicil added 31 December, 1630, another dated 1 January, 1630, and another of the same date, proved 1 February, 1650. To be buried in the church of St. Bennett's in Cambridge. To my grandchild Thomas Hobson, the son of Thomas Hobson deceased, my several manors or lordships in Cottenham, Cambridge. To the said Thomas the house I dwell in, situate in St. Bennett's parish, Cambridge. The four daughters of son Thomas, Elizabeth, Ann or Agnes, Mary and Margaret. My daughter Ann Knightes. My grandchild Charles Hobson, son of the said Thomas Hobson deceased. Tenements &c. in Chesterton. My grandchild William Knightes. My sister-in-law Katherine Hobson, widow, and Jonathan Hobson her son. My cousin Thomas Hobson, the son of my brother Edward. I give unto Henry Parrell the elder my barn and the close adjoining to it, situate in Cambridge over against Pembroke Hall, for life, and afterwards to my kinsman William Kymer and his heirs. I have already provided sufficiently for my daughter Dorothy the wife of Sir Simon Clarke, Knight and Baronet, and also for Elizabeth the wife of Thomas Parker, Esq., and have given them large portions. My godchild Thomas Sober the son of Richard Sober. My Malt House in Sparrow

Lane. My cousin Cornelius Archer. Provision for the maintenance of the conduit standing upon Market Hill for ever. The top of it to be made half a yard higher or more. My kinswoman Katherine Feild. I desire my worthy friend Mr. Sergeant Bing and my good friend Christopher Rose, gent^t, to be my executors.

In the codicil of 31 December he refers to Mary Hobson deceased the mother of his grandchildren Elizabeth, Ann or Agnes, Margaret and Mary Hobson. In the last codicil he makes provision for the maintenance of the House of Correction and Workhouse in Cambridge. St. John, 17.

[The above communication was received from Mr. Waters before the heroic exploit of Lieut. Hobson, or it would probably have been alluded to by him. The article was ready for the July REGISTER, but a misunderstanding caused it to be left out.—EDITOR.]

BIOGRAPHICAL HANDBOOK OF ANGLO-AMERICANS. — Joseph Foster, Hon. M.A. Oxon., whose genealogical works are acknowledged to be of a high order, has issued a circular, from which we make the following extracts:

"In view of the yet closer friendliness of the three sections of the two great English-Speaking Nations, I have undertaken to compile a Biographical Handbook of Anglo-Americans (including Colonials), price Five Dollars, comprising short notices of those leading men of our race, who have acquired their prominence, either from their own efforts or by the efforts of their fathers, this to be the forerunner of my greatest genealogical work, viz., 'Anglo-American Families.'

"Intending American subscribers to the Handbook are requested to send the particulars relating to themselves when they send their subscription of Five Dollars. Arrangements are pending for an American co-editor and an Anglo-American publisher for the Handbook, which will be duly announced.

"I have also made arrangements for supplying facsimiles of those ancient family records whose quaint crabbed characters will never fail to remind those far away, of their connection with English History, for these pedigrees and arms were written and tricked two and three hundred years ago."

We commend Mr. Foster's undertaking to the favorable attention of our readers. A recent number (354) of the Quarterly Review, in an article on "The Peerage," thus speaks of his genealogical work: "No writer, treating of our subject, can afford to pass over in silence the labors of Mr. Joseph Foster, whose merits the University of Oxford has lately recognized by the grant of an honorary degree. We know not whether to admire the more his industry or his honesty of purpose, and we trust that he may yet find time to renew the publication of his peerage (1880-1883), which was pitiless in its exposure of false pretensions and undoubtedly compelled other editors to set their house in order." The price is $5 to subscribers, or $7.50 on publication. Mr. Foster's address is 21 Boundary Road, Finchley Road, London, N. W.

HARLEIAN SOCIETY.—The fourth and final volume of the "Register Book of Marriages belonging to the Parish of St. George, Hanover Square, co. Middlesex," has just been issued by the Harleian Society to its members. The years embraced in this volume are 1824 to 1837, carrying them down to the time when the Civil Registration Act of 1836 came into force, by which all marriages are entered at Somerset House, and can be inspected there. The work has been edited by G. J. Armytage, Esq., F.S.A., the Honorary Secretary of the Society; and a carefully compiled Index completes an interesting and valuable genealogical volume.
